*Summary of historical account, acknowledgements, and apology of the Crown7 Summary of historical account, acknowledgements, and apology

- (1) Section 8 summarises the historical account in the deed of settlement, setting out the basis for the acknowledgements and apology.
- (2) Sections 9 and 10 record the text of the acknowledgements and apology given by the Crown to Ngāi Takoto in the deed of settlement.
- (3) The acknowledgements and apology are to be read together with the historical account recorded in part 2 of the deed of settlement.

8 Summary of historical account

- (1) Traditionally, the Ngāi Takoto rohe is defined by the journeys taken by spirits as they return to their spiritual homeland of Hawaiki, stretching from the southern boundary of Ahipara in the west and Rangaunu in the east, northward to Te Renga Wairua (Cape Reinga).
- (2) Prior to the arrival of Europeans, Ngāi Takoto were largely based around various pa and kainga Kapowairua, Parengarenga, Houhora, Waimanoni, Kaitaia, and Te Make. Like other Te Hiku iwi, they were highly mobile, relying on the coast and local waterways for kai and passage.
- (3) British missionaries were some of the first settlers to establish themselves within the Ngāi Takoto rohe. The local iwi initially saw advantages with the arrival of settlers, through the introduction of new technologies and access to the European world, and the benefits these might bring.
- (4) Numerous land agreements with settlers occurred throughout the 1830s, covering much of the Ngāi Takoto rohe. While some of the deeds provided for on-going use of land by local Māori, they were signed by rangatira from other iwi, and Ngāi Takoto had limited involvement in the transactions.
- (5) Ngāi Takoto signed te Tiriti o Waitangi/the Treaty of Waitangi in Kaitaia on 28 April 1840. After the signing of the Treaty, the Crown appointed land claims commissioners to investigate pre-Treaty land claims. The commissioners' final recommendation confirmed the alienation of an initial 32 000 acres of land in the Ngāi Takoto rohe: settlers received 17 000 acres and 15 000 acres went to the Crown as surplus land. Ngāi Takoto with interests in these lands received 450 acres.
- (6) Unlike the terms of the original land transactions, the new Crown grants did not allow for Ngāi Takoto to continue to use cultivation areas and kainga in Te Make, Ohotu, Awanui, and numerous other traditional areas. The loss of rights to land along the Awanui River was especially hard as it limited access to river resources and fertile land. Moreover, some of the proposed 450 acres of reserves were never established.

- (7) In 1844, NgāiTakoto lost further land rights in the forced cession of almost 2 500 acres at Ruatorara (East Beach) when the Crown demanded another iwi provide compensation to a settler over an incident involving a ship in Ahipara.
- (8) In 1858 and 1859, before the pre-Treaty transactions were finalised, the Crown purchased an additional 4 land blocks (Muriwhenua South, Wharemaru, Oinu, and Ahipara), totalling 112 613 acres, in which NgāiTakoto had mana whenua interests. As with previous transactions, NgāiTakoto had no involvement in these arrangements, nor were they able to retain any of the reserves created from these Crown purchases, including the Houhora Peninsula, which totalled 7 500 acres.
- (9) By 1859, NgāiTakoto were virtually landless. The loss of their lands severely affected their ability to access and manage traditional natural resources, destroyed their cultural foundations and undermined their tribal structures.

9 Acknowledgements

- (1) The Crown acknowledges that NgāiTakoto have well founded and legitimate grievances and that until now it has failed to address those in an appropriate manner. The Crown's provision of redress to NgāiTakoto for those historical grievances is long overdue.
- (2) The Crown acknowledges that in approving pre-Treaty land transactions totalling 32 000 acres, issuing grants to settlers for those lands, and retaining approximately 15 000 acres of "surplus land" from the Warau Matako, Kaitaia (Kerekere), Otatarau, Waiokai, Awanui, and Te Make (Okioire) transactions in the NgāiTakoto rohe, it breached te Tiriti o Waitangi/the Treaty of Waitangi and its principles by—
 - (a) failing to consider the customary rights and interests of NgāiTakoto; and
 - (b) failing to assess the impact of the alienation of those lands on NgāiTakoto.
- (3) The Crown acknowledges that it was in further breach of the Treaty and its principles when it failed to preserve occupation and use rights agreed in the pre-Treaty deeds for Awanui (Otaki), Te Make (Okioire), and Ohoto lands and by taking decades to settle title or assert its own claim to these lands. This resulted in NgāiTakoto losing vital kainga and cultivation areas.
- (4) The Crown acknowledges that—
 - (a) it pressured Māori in 1844 to cede land at Ruatorara (East Beach) to compensate a settler for the goods Māori had removed from his schooner when it grounded at Ahipara; and
 - (b) it failed to investigate the customary interests in the ceded land; and
 - (c) this process for determining reparation was prejudicial to NgāiTakoto who lost land they had interests in and this was in breach of te Tiriti o Waitangi/the Treaty of Waitangi and its principles.

- (5) The Crown acknowledges that—
- (a) it failed to carry out an adequate inquiry into the nature and extent of Ngāi Takoto customary rights in lands in the Muriwhenua South, Wharemaru, and other pre-1865 purchases; and
 - (b) its failure to protect Ngāi Takoto rights and interests to their full extent prejudiced the iwi and breached te Tiriti o Waitangi/the Treaty of Waitangi and its principles.
- (6) The Crown acknowledges that—
- (a) by 1859 Ngāi Takoto were virtually landless in their core area of occupation, having lost their interests in approximately 155 000 acres; and
 - (b) when the Houhora Peninsula was alienated in 1867 to private parties, Ngāi Takoto lost further occupation areas and sites of high cultural significance; and
 - (c) the loss of their lands severely undermined the tribal structures of Ngāi Takoto and was detrimental to their future well-being and strength as an iwi; and
 - (d) the Crown's failure to ensure that Ngāi Takoto retained sufficient land for their present and future needs was a breach of te Tiriti o Waitangi/the Treaty of Waitangi and its principles.
- (7) The Crown acknowledges—
- (a) the significance of Te Oneroa-a-Tohe to Ngāi Takoto as a taonga, which is vital to their spiritual and material well-being; and
 - (b) that it has failed to respect, provide for, and protect the special relationship with Ngāi Takoto to Te Oneroa-a-Tohe.
- (8) The Crown acknowledges that its failure to actively protect Ngāi Takoto hindered their ability to participate in economic development and marginalised the iwi. The Crown further acknowledges that the cumulative effect of its actions and omissions left generations of Ngāi Takoto a legacy of impoverishment, spiritually, psychologically, and economically. This has had an enduring and ongoing impact on the iwi.

10 Apology

- (1) The Crown apologises to Ngāi Takoto, to their ancestors, and to their descendants for failing to achieve the relationship sought by Ngāi Takoto, as Treaty partner, and for the consequences to Ngāi Takoto of that failure. The Crown acknowledges the impact of land loss, and with that the suffering and hardships that befell generations of Ngāi Takoto members. The Crown, in this regard, unreservedly apologises to Ngāi Takoto.
- (2) The Crown's failures of the past left Ngāi Takoto virtually landless by 1859. Its actions caused significant damage to the social and economic development of Ngāi Takoto and severely undermined the well-being of the iwi with consequences that continue to be felt today. The Crown again apologises to Ngāi Takoto for those events.

- (3) The Crown recognises that it has not always fulfilled its obligations to Ngāi Takoto under te Tiriti o Waitangi/the Treaty of Waitangi that was signed in Kaitaia by Ngāi Takoto rangatira and Crown representatives in 1840.
- (4) The Crown recognises that the process of healing begins with this agreement between the Crown and Ngāi Takoto. The Crown looks forward to building an enduring relationship of mutual trust and co-operation with Ngāi Takoto that is based on a mutual respect and on te Tiriti o Waitangi/the Treaty of Waitangi, and to achieving that relationship and partnership sought by Ngāi Takoto in 1840.
