Background:

World Day for Safety and Health at Work is an international annual campaign to promote safe, healthy, and decent work held on 28th April of each year. Since 2003, the ILO observes World Day stressing the prevention of accidents and illnesses at work, capitalizing on its traditional strengths of tripartism and social dialogue. It is an integral part of the SafeWork's Global Strategy, as documented in the Conclusions of the International Labour Conference in June 2003. One of the main pillars of the Global Strategy is advocacy, and World Day for Safety and Health at Work is a significant tool to raise awareness about how to make work safe and healthy and the need to raise the political profile of occupational safety and health. 28th April is also a day the world's trade union movement has long associated with commemorating victims of occupational accidents and disease. This year, as in previous years, tripartite events will be taking place world wide. The theme for this year's World Day for Safety and Health at Work is: Health and life at work: a basic human right

In support of the World Day for Safety and Health at Work in 2009, and as one in the series of activities to celebrate the 90th birthday of the ILO, the Bureau for SafeWork, Ministry of Labour, Invalids and Social Affairs in collaboration with the ILO Office in Vietnam, within the framework of the ILO/Luxembourg Project for Enhancing Capacity of OSH Training in Vietnam and Dai Yen Primary School will organize a Children Drawing Day on Occupational Safety and Health to provide a chance for 100 pupils from 6 to 11 years old from Dai Yen Primary School to express their thoughts/imagination about OSH when they think about themselves at home and at school as well as their parents at work.
