The Tanzania People's Security Survey

Interviewer Instructions:

1. You should read each question as printed, and should not read out any of the suggested coded responses, unless there are specific instructions to do so. Questions to be read out are written in bold. Words in capitals are instructions. (See separate enumerator instruction sheet for details of the method to be used in choosing the respondent.)
2. Sections I and II to be done with head of HH (or knowledgeable substitute); subsequent sections to be done with randomly selected member of HH.

I. HOUSEHOLD CHARACTERISTICS AND BACKGROUND

1.1-1.8 HOUSEHOLD SCHEDULE

INTERVIEWER INSTRUCTIONS: It is necessary to collect some information on all adults and children in the Household. A Household is defined as including all persons who usually sleep in the dwelling unit and usually eat from a common pot. To this sociological definition of a Household, the following persons are also to be included in the Household:

- a. Maids/servants if they eat and sleep in the dwelling or on its premises.
- b. Spouses, other adults or children who are temporarily away and who make a substantial contribution to meeting the Household's living expenses, or whose living expenses are met to a substantial extent by the Household.

Guests and other relatives such as married daughters who live elsewhere but temporarily visiting the household should NOT BE INCLUDED in the household list.

When several unrelated adults share a dwelling, all of them should be considered to be members of one Household – whether or not they eat or cook together.

After completing the Household Chart, the interviewer should ask the following question:

Are there any other adults or children who are temporarily away and who have helped to meet the Household's living expenses, or have helped the Household to meet its living expenses in the past 12 months?

If the answer is yes, these people/children should be added to the Household Chart (but are not to be considered as possible respondents because they are temporarily living away).

The interviewer should add as many additional pages to the Household Schedule as are required.

I. HOUSEHOLD GENERAL INFORMATION (Ask head of household or knowledgeable substitute)

1.1-1.8 HOUSEHOLD CHART

I would like to begin by asking you some questions about the people who live in this household.
