According to the 2020, Labour Force Survey report, employed population in the household sector was estimated at 629,091. Domestic workers make a valuable contribution to Zambia's Gross National Product. Despite the significant role Domestic Workers play in the general functioning of the economy and our lives, Domestic Workers continue to remain a marginalized group of workers. Domestic Workers are prone to high employment insecurity, earn low incomes, lack unionism, are vulnerable to abuse and work in isolation. Most importantly, Domestic Workers lack social security, despite legal obligations from employers to register them with relevant social security institutions.

The Ministry of Labour and Social Security (MLSS), National Pension Scheme Authority (NAPSA), Workers Compensation Fund Control Board (WCFCB), Zambia Congress of Trade Unions (ZCTU), The Unions of Domestic Workers, the Association of Employers of Domestic Workers, with support from the International Labour Organization (ILO) and Swedish International Development Cooperation Agency (SIDA), have taken lead in this agenda, and embarked on a robust campaign to sensitize the general public on the rights of Domestic Workers and the obligations of employers of Domestic Workers. This is in line with the Government's desire not to leave any one behind, and the ILO convention 189 and recommendation 201.

Every household that employs Domestic Workers must fully understand the rights of Domestic Workers, be a responsible employer and respect Domestic Worker's rights. This booklet provides information to enable the public make better informed decisions related to the employment conditions of the Domestic Workers they employ.

Hon. Brenda Mwika T Tambatamba
Ministry of Labour and Social Security (MLSS)

What is NAPSA and what does it do?
The National Pension Scheme Authority (NAPSA) is a statutory body that was established in February 2000 through an enactment of the National Pension Scheme Act No. 40 of 1996 to provide for income security when a member leaves Employment on account of age, invalidity or death.

Is membership to NAPSA voluntary?
No, membership is compulsory for all workers including Domestic Workers aged between 18 years and 65 years, and earn K15 and above in a month.

Are Domestic Workers supposed to be registered with NAPSA?
Yes, all Domestic Workers are supposed to be registered with NAPSA as per provisions in the National Pension Scheme Act No. 40 of 1996.

If you are a Domestic Worker, do you need to have a written contract to be an eligible contributing member of NAPSA?
No, the contract may even be oral or written. However, Domestic Workers and their employers are encouraged to have written contracts as a way of formalizing their employer-employee relationship.
I am a Domestic Worker, how do I register with NAPSA?

As a Domestic Worker, it is the obligation of the employer to register you through eNAPSA online platform or through completion of employer and member registration forms at any nearest NAPSA office.

When is a Domestic Worker supposed to register with NAPSA?

Within one month of starting work.

I am an employer of a Domestic Worker, how do I register with NAPSA?

You register as an employer of a Domestic Worker with NAPSA through eNAPSA online platform or by completing employer and member registration forms obtainable from any nearest NAPSA office. NAPSA will assign you with an employer account number under which the Domestic Worker will be registered.

What can a Domestic Worker do if he/she is not registered with NAPSA?

The Domestic Worker must immediately report the case of non-registration at a nearest NAPSA office, or by calling on +260 211 395677 or our toll free number 677.

How does an employer deregister a Domestic Worker who stops work?

By informing NAPSA using the provision provided on the eNAPSA platform. The eNAPSA platform allows an employer to add or remove an employee from their account as per prevailing situation.
How much should a Domestic Worker contribute to NAPSA?
10% of the Domestic workers’ gross monthly income will be shared equally between the employer and the Domestic Worker. An employer of a Domestic Worker contributes 5% and the Domestic Worker contributes 5%.

What happens to my contributions when I change employment?
Since the member is expected to use the same Social Security number even when they change jobs, their contributions from the new employer will continue accumulating in one account. However, if the Domestic Worker stops work and does not find another job, the contributions will be held in trust by NAPSA, and will continue to earn interest.

How does an employer of a Domestic Worker remit NAPSA contributions?
By signing up on eNAPSA online platform, or physically visiting a nearest NAPSA office.

What is the minimum salary for one to contribute to NAPSA?
K15.00 gross monthly income.

What happens to a Domestic Worker’s unremitted contribution arrears?
Once the case is reported, the employer will be assessed and made to pay all the contribution arrears for the Domestic Worker.

How can a Domestic Worker check their NAPSA contributions?

DOMESTIC WORKERS AND OCCUPATIONAL HEALTH AND SAFETY:
FACTS ABOUT MEMBERSHIP WITH WCFCB

What is WCFCB?
Workers Compensation Fund Control Board (WCFCB) is a statutory body constitute under Act No 10 of 1999 of the Laws of Zambia to provide compensation for employment related injuries and diseases.

What should I do if I am injured at work?
Following an accident at work, you should report the accident to your employer as soon as possible. Even if you do not think that you are injured.

Can I see my own doctor for treatment of injuries?
Yes, you can see your own doctor if you have a family doctor but it is better to ask your employer if they require you to see a particular doctor, or if you can choose your own doctor. The full cost of treatment will be covered by Workers Compensation Fund Control Board.

Will workers' compensation cover me for work-related illness?
Yes, Workers Compensation will cover you for work-related illness. Domestic Workers can develop a variety of illnesses that are related to their jobs. For example, Domestic Workers who are exposed to a lot of car exhaust on the job may suffer from carbon monoxide poisoning or breathing problems. It depends on what the particular hazards of the job are, and some people might develop illnesses as a result of them, while others do not.
What kind of benefits can I receive from Workers’ Compensation?

The type of benefits you are entitled to depends on the nature and extent of your injury. If your injury is less than 10 percent degree of disablement you will receive temporary disability benefits, which come in the form of a lumpsum payment. If your injury is more than 10 percent degree of disablement you will receive permanent disability benefits which come in the form of monthly pension payment.

If your injury results in death, your spouse and children will receive monthly pension payments which comes in the form of widows or widowers pension and child allowances for children aged below 18 years.

If you do not leave behind a spouse and children, your surviving guardian will receive guardian allowance.

Can I still receive Workers’ Compensation benefits if the accident was my fault?

Part of the purpose of the Workers Compensation system is to provide benefits to injured Domestic Workers without the need to prove who was at fault for the accident. However, there are some instances when a Domestic Worker will not receive benefits especially if the accident is due to willful misconduct or negligence.

For instance, a Domestic Worker will not receive benefits for self-inflicted injuries, those that result from fighting or horseplay, or for injuries that occur when the employee is under the influence of alcohol or illegal drugs.
FACTS ABOUT WCFCB BENEFITS

Will Workers’ Compensation Cover my medical bills?
Workers Compensation covers the cost of your medical treatment for as long as necessary.

Will Workers’ Compensation provide rehabilitation services for my injury?
Yes, Workers’ Compensation will provide vocational rehabilitation if needed to help you get back to your job or to train you for a new job.

Will I be able to go back to my old job?
If you are able to perform the same type of work after you recover from your injuries, your employer must give you the next position that becomes available. If you're able to work in some other type of job that your employer has available, they should place you in that position.
Am I required to register with Workers’ Compensation?
Your employer is required to register you with the Workers’ Compensation for cover against employment injury or disease.

How can I know if I am registered with Workers’ Compensation
