

Entrepreneurship Training Programme for the Disadvantaged Youth

The entrepreneurship training programme for the disadvantaged youth aims to promote entrepreneurship as a career option, a priority to address youth employment challenge. It makes use of Start and Improve Your Business (SIYB), the entrepreneurship training programme of International Labour Organization. Disadvantaged youth are provided with entrepreneurship training and post training services to operate microenterprises in collaboration with private and public partner organizations.

BENEFITS

- Ensure greater impact of training through post-training services
- Increase access to entrepreneurship opportunities
- Provide alternative to wage employment and youth migration
- Stimulate local economy through youth entrepreneurial activities

PROCESS

The entrepreneurship training programme begins with the assessment of youth entrepreneurship potentials and local business climate. A pool of local trainers is established to provide entrepreneurship training and post training services to youth trainees. Post training services like starter kits and mentoring are extended to trainees with feasible business plans. Youth trainees are mentored and monitored to set-up and operate microenterprises.
