How to use this guide

This directory of services to health professionals and skilled workers contains basic information about the various phases of the migration journey: pre-departure, on-site and return to the Philippines. It is intended for Filipino health professionals and other skilled workers who are considering taking up employment overseas. It seeks to empower health workers to make informed decisions. For anyone considering migration, accessing the right information at the right time is the best way to remain in control of the migration experience and a guarantee for a positive migration experience.

This guide does not provide detailed information or advice but provides direction to services and organizations, governmental and others, that can provide essential information to current and prospective migrant workers. As much as possible, the directory provides all contact information (addresses, telephone numbers, email, website and facebook pages) where more information should be sought from.

As circumstances change, information will also change. Individuals should use this material as a guide only and always ensure the continuous veracity and relevance of any information as much as possible.

This publication has been produced with the assistance of the European Union (EU). The contents of this publication can in no way be taken to reflect the views of the EU.
Introduction

The Philippines has been a historical source of labour migrants. In the early 1900s, when the Philippines was a colony of the United States, Filipino farmworkers left to work on Hawaii’s sugar plantations. Overseas temporary labour migration increased in the 1970s particularly in the oil-rich Persian Gulf countries and has continued to grow.

In 2013, the Philippine Overseas Employment Agency (POEA) recorded the deployment of 2,241,854 Filipino migrant workers or Overseas Filipino Workers (OFW). Included within this group of migrants are skilled professional workers (nurses, doctors, engineers, IT workers). A relative lack of employment opportunities within the country for skilled professionals and the demand for such skills abroad, especially in the health sector, is likely to increase their continued migration for employment purposes.

Skilled workers are not exempt from the inherent difficulties in the labour migration process aside from the psychological strain of leaving behind home and family, migrants also face the very real threat of falling prey to human traffickers and illegal recruiters, suffering exploitative working conditions. Access to information for migrant workers is key to ensure a safe, decent and ethical migration experience.

The Philippines government and its many partners, including trade unions, recruitment agencies, professional organizations and other non-governmental organizations have, over the years, developed services, information material and programmes to provide timely quality relevant information and services to migrants. These tools are designed to ease migrants’ transition into the country of destination, empower them to maximize the benefits of their overseas employment and ensure, in due course, a positive return to the country.
The protection of migrants begins before they leave and quality information builds a foundation for migrant empowerment and protection. No one programme will guarantee the safety of a would-be or current migrant worker. Self-awareness at all stages of the migration process is very crucial.

The current publication form parts of the European Union funded project Decent Work Across Borders – a project for health professionals and skilled workers (www.ilo.org/manila/whatwedo/projects/WCMS_173607/lang-en/index.htm), implemented by the International Labour organization. The project seeks to facilitate an approach to migration that benefits the migrant workers, the source and destination countries within a rights-based framework for labour migration management.

It aims is to gather under one cover, the essential information to empower individuals with the project to migrate and turn them into active actors in their migratory journey. The directory is organized logically, around the three main phases of migration pre-departure, on-site and return migration.

The International Labour Organization, and its Decent Work Across Borders project team hopes that this guide will orient many Filipinos into a positive migration experience. The ILO would like to thank Mr Ryan Reyes, intern at the ILO, for his precious support in the development of this guide.
Main steps in gaining overseas employment

Step 1: Information gathering

Gathering holistic and accurate information about the overseas employment process is crucial for a prospective Overseas Filipino Worker (OFW). A prospective OFW may evaluate the decision to apply for overseas employment by:

- Attending Pre-Employment Orientation Seminars (PEOS) held by the Philippine Overseas Employment Administration (POEA) and other non-governmental organizations
- Visiting www.poea.gov.ph to access online PEOS modules
- Asking for advice from family members and friends who have overseas employment experience.
- Consulting family members who will be immediately affected by your decision to work abroad.

Step 2: Document preparation

Throughout the overseas job application process a prospective employer, private recruitment agency, and/or applicable government agencies (POEA) will require the submissions of certain documents. The following is a non-exhaustive list of common documents that a prospective OFW may be required to produce in the course of applying for an overseas job:

- Résumé
- Passport
- NBI clearance
- Birth certificate
- High school/College diploma
- Certificates of employment
- College transcript of records
- Technical/Vocational course certificate
• Professional board certification
• Advanced education certificate
• Marriage certificate or certificate of no marriage
• Office of Muslim affairs certificate (for Muslim applicants)
• Pictures

NOTE: This is not a complete list of documents that a prospective OFW may be required to produce. The cost of producing these documents must normally be paid by the prospective OFW.

Step 3  Searching for overseas job opportunities

A prospective OFW may search for overseas job opportunities through the following:
• Visiting the POEA office or the POEA’s website at www.poea.gov.ph
• Searching jobsites such as www.jobstreet.com.ph, www.workabroad.ph, and www.ph.jobsdb.com, the website of the Department of Health of the Philippines also contains a e-jobs portal
• Searching classified ads in newspapers
• Contacting a POEA licensed recruitment agencies
• Listening for announcements from your local government units, Public Employment Service Office (PESO), Department of Labor and Employment office or licensed recruitment agencies over the radio, TV or websites.
• Sometimes, friends and relatives already abroad may also provide information on jobs available in their country of residence. Those possible jobs should also be certified by POEA.

To avoid illegal recruitment and/or human trafficking please confirm with the POEA whether the employer offering overseas employment is POEA-accredited, the recruitment agency advertising the job offer is POEA-licensed, and that the job being offered by a recruitment agency is supported by a POEA-approved job order. Independent online research on the foreign company/employer and the existence of the job is also encouraged.
Select a method for applying for overseas job

There are three distinct ways to apply for an overseas job: through POEA licensed recruitment agencies, through name hire or through the government placement. The table below provide some of the main steps for each method.

| POEA licensed recruitment agencies | 1. Register with POEA as a land-based overseas employee
2. Submit resume and other documents required by the private employment agency/employer
3. Undergo performance examinations and interviews required by private recruitment agency/employer |
|-----------------------------------|---------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------------|
| Name hire                         | 1. Submit required (original and copies) documents to name hiring unit of POEA:
• Employment contract signed by employer and worker
• Valid working visa/work permit/no objection certificate/visa assurance from employer or equivalent document
• Picture
• Valid Passport
2. Document verification by POEA name hiring unit |
| Government placement              | 1. Register for employment with POEA at Government Placement Branch
2. If employment offer is made, sign the employment offer and undergo medical examination at accredited medical clinics. |
3. If medically fit, submit the following documentary requirements for processing:
   - Duly accomplished OFW Information Sheet
   - Duly executed employment contract/employment offer
   - Passport (original & photocopy)
   - Medical certificate (original & photocopy)
   - NBI Clearance (original & photocopy)

If medically unfit, employment offer is cancelled.

4. Attend Pre-Departure Orientation Seminar (PDOS) and secure certificate of Pre-Departure Orientation Seminar (PDOS) (original & photocopy)

5. Submit visa requirements and accomplish visa application form and pay visa fee. The following documents are required:
   - Duly accomplished visa application form
   - Copy of visa authorization/visa availability
   - 3 copies of passport size pictures (colored with white background)

6. Upon release of visa, pay the following fees for the issuance of Overseas Employment Certificate (OEC) which will also serve as your POEA travel exit clearance:
   - PhilHealth contribution
   - OWWA membership contribution
   - POEA processing fee
   - Airfare

7. Attend pre-flight briefing conducted by GPB Account Officer at the Government Placement Branch, Ground Floor, POEA Building for additional information and flight details.
8. Wait for the release of your travel documents (visa, passport, original employment contract and plane ticket)

Additional documents, tests and interviews may be required by the prospective employer, private recruitment agency or government agency.

Step 5 Receive and accept a job offer

If your application for overseas employment is accepted then you will receive a job offer that you may either reject or accept. Accepting a job offer does not guarantee deployment as an overseas Filipino worker. Prospective OFWs must clear a medical examination before deployment to the overseas worksite.

Step 6 Medical examination at a Department of Health accredited establishment

A prospective OFW who accepts an offer to work abroad is required to undergo a medical examination. The medical examination can be required only after acceptance of an overseas job offer. A positive medical examination will result in the issuance of a “Fit to work certification” that is valid for 3 months.

Step 7 Contract signing

Prior to signing your OFW contract, it is your responsibility to make sure that the contract contains at least the following terms:

- Place of assignment/Specific worksite – street, city, province, country
- Length of the contract – date of leaving and date of return
- Position/Designation – with tasks specified
BE INFORMED! YOUR TICKET TO DECENT WORK AND SAFE MIGRATION

- Basic monthly salary
- Regular working hours (8 hours per day)
- Regular working days (Maximum of 6 straight working days with 7th day off)
- Overtime pay for work over 8 consecutive hours
- Free transportation to and from worksite
- Free food and accommodation while in the worksite
- Vacation leave, sick leave, medical and dental benefits
- Free annual medical and dental exams
- Compensation in case of work-related sickness/injury

Pre-departure orientation seminars (PDOS)

The PDOS is a mandatory seminar required for all departing OFWs. After the PDOS a certificate of participation will be issued. The Overseas Workers Welfare Administration (OWWA) is the government’s agency responsible for PDOS. The schedule of the PDOS seminar can be obtained by contacting the OWWA offices. PDOS seminars are free of charge.

Pay placement fee and required fees to receive Overseas Employment certificate (OEC) from POEA

Upon the payment of OWWA membership, Philhealth contributions and processing fees, POEA will issue OFWs an overseas employment certificate. The agency may handle the processing of the OEC. OFWs who find work through a POEA-licensed private recruitment agency may be required to pay a placement fee of no more than the equivalent of one month salary.
The following countries and provinces prohibit the charging of placement fees: UK, Ireland, Norway and the Canadian provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, Alberta and British Columbia. Also private employment agencies that are a part of The Association for Professionalism in Overseas Employment (ASPROE) do not charge placement fees (www.asproe.strikingly.com/)

Fly for overseas employment

An OFW should have the following documents prior to flying to the job site:
- Passport with working visa
- Copy of the signed contract
- E-Receipt or Overseas Employment Certificates (OEC)
- Airline Ticket
- Emergency telephone numbers

Arrive at destination country, register at the nearest Philippine embassy or consulate and possibly attend post-arrival orientation seminar

Although not mandatory, each new OFW will benefit from attending a PAOS if made available by the local Philippine embassy or consulate.

Report to work and fulfil employment contract

Even though in the destination country, the preparation is not over yet! First impressions count. Supervisors and colleagues will judge any new staff on how he or she acts and what she of her does from the very first day. It is much easier to start off on the right foot than it is to change their perceptions later. The below is a list of simple thing to keep in mind while reporting to work.¹

¹ Loosely adapted from http://money.usnews.com/money/blogs/outside-voices-careers/2012/06/20/10-smart-tips-to-impress-the-boss-your-first-day
Time your arrival on the first day

It is recommended to arrive at work early, but not too early, to demonstrate responsibility. Reporting fifteen minutes before the start of a shift is a generally admitted minimum time frame. It may be wise to get familiar with traffic patterns relevant to getting to the work site.

Think about your wardrobe

It may be wise to select to wear in advance. It is worth keeping in mind what other people wear. Unless otherwise provided with a uniform, it is usually better to be overdressed than under dressed in order to fit in comfortably.

Step up your company research

It is generally recommended to review the company's website to review its mission, lines of business and culture from an employee's perspective. Take a look at recent news about the company and the industry.

Practice introducing yourself

Direct eye contact and firm handshakes demonstrate assertiveness and confidence. Keep in mind few introductory lines to avoid facing blank moments.

Ask questions

Keep in mind some initial questions. This shows interests for the organization and willingness to learn more. People would usually expect new staff to have questions.

Show what you know

Look for ways to share your skills and knowledge. More often than not, sharing a thought and an idea will be appreciated from supervisors and colleagues. It may be wise to formulate any contributions in a modest way, avoiding over confidence. For example, begin an inquiry with, "Have you ever tried...?"

Communicate professionally

Make a point to enunciate your words and project your voice. It is recommended to speak with extreme clarity to demonstrate purpose and confidence.

Hone those listening skills

Even when tired or overwhelmed with new information, it is clever to pay attention when meeting new people and learn new things. Make an effort to remember supervisors and colleagues’ names. Generally, people like good listeners. Earning a reputation as someone who pays attention and gets things right the first time will bring rewards.

Take notes

Write down everything from names and positions to daily tasks and expectations. This signifies supervisors and colleagues your interest in the organization.
Pre-departure service to skilled migrants
1. Pre-departure service to skilled migrants

1.1 Making an informed choice to migrate

Although spurred on mainly by a lack of economic opportunity, the decision to migrate must be an informed choice and not one made out of desperation. Aside from gathering information on the requirements to apply for overseas employment, a prospective OFW must also engage in self-reflection as to the motives and consequences of the decision to work abroad. Prospective OFWs must reflect on the following matters that may be affected by their decision to work abroad:

- Relationship with their spouse, children, or friend
- Preparedness to leave family
- Possessing appropriate qualifications for overseas employment
- Personal readiness to work in unfamiliar environment
- Where applicable, availability of funds to spend on job application process

Awareness concerning the realities of illegal recruitment and human trafficking and knowledge concerning the experience and conditions of migration is also crucial to making an informed choice. Information as to the process of working abroad is provided by several Philippine government agencies and non-government organizations.

A) Pre-Employment Orientation Seminar (PEOS)

While it is mandatory for all OFWs to undergo a Pre-Departure Orientation Seminar (PDOS), the POEA has supplemented PDOS with the voluntary Pre-Employment Orientation Seminar (PEOS). The PEOS is a voluntary free seminar conducted in-person at the POEA office and online. The PEOS is designed to reach prospective migrants at an earlier stage of their decision-making process. PEOS participants are provided with general information and prospects for overseas employment. Topics discussed at a PEOS should include:
BE INFORMED! YOUR TICKET TO DECENT WORK AND SAFE MIGRATION

- Pros and cons of overseas employment
- Guidelines, legal procedures and documentary requirements of applying for an overseas job
- Finding overseas job opportunities and avoiding illegal recruiters
- Destination country profiles
- Government services and programmes available to overseas job applicants and hired workers.

In addition to regularly conducted in-house PEOS, the POEA and the Department of Labor and Employment (DOLE) through their regional offices, also partner with schools, the private sector and local government units to conduct PEOS in other locations. Recently the POEA has also partnered with JobStreet.Com to provide online PEOS modules both on the POEA website and on YOUTUBE.

B) Trade unions and other non-governmental organizations

Many organizations such as trade union like Public Services Labor Independent Confederation (PS Link – www.pslinkconfederation.org/), the Philippines Government Employees Association (PGEA) of more globally Public Services International (PSI - www.world-psi.org/) have produced a lot of relevant information material to help prospective migrant workers remain safe in making the decision to migrate. You can find their contact details on the internet.

C) Information Databases

Migration Advisory Information System (MAIS)

Maintained by the Commission on Filipinos Overseas (CFO), MAIS is an online database that aims to address the information needs of persons considering migration as an option. MAIS provides prospective migrants with a country profile of selected Filipino destination countries (Australia, Spain, Canada, Taiwan, Germany, US, UK, Italy, Japan, and Koreas), a profile of migrants’ support groups, Filipino organizations and welfare organizations in the selected destination, and a list of Philippine Embassies and Consulates abroad.

1.3 Registration and Documentation

There are three main methods of regular labour migration regulated by the POEA. Registration and documentation with the POEA is important to a prospective OFW as it is the first step in ensuring that an OFW has gone through the legal process of gaining employment abroad and ensures that the OFW has full protection under the laws of both the Philippines and the destination country.

The first method is overseas employment facilitated by a private employment agency. Second is through name hiring or a process where a potential OFW is directly hired by a foreign employer. Third is through government placed employment.

A) Private agencies recruitment
Private employment agencies are either: (a) Land-based agencies, licensed by the POEA to recruit workers for all overseas land-based jobs; or (b) Manning agencies licensed by the POEA to recruit seafarers to man/board vessels plying international sea lanes and other related maritime activities. Private employment agencies may choose to collect a placement fee for their services. The placement fee may not exceed the equivalent of one month of the OFWs wages. Many agencies do not charge fees to migrant workers. The agencies grouped under the Association for Professionalism in Overseas Employment (ASPROE) association do not charge migrants (www.asproe.strikingly.com/)

Registration of Land Based applicants

Qualifications
Prospective land-based OFWs who wish to find employment through a private employment must register with the POEA. A prospective OFW may choose to process their registration at the POEA themselves or processing may be provided by their recruitment agency. Registration with the POEA is free and open to all prospective OFWs as long as they have the following qualifications:

- At least 18 years old
- At least a high school graduate
- Have minimum work experience of at least two (2) years
- No medical or legal impediments that would disqualify them from overseas employment, no derogatory and criminal records barring OFW from leaving the country.

Upon registration a prospective OFW will receive a Land based Registration Card.

Documents
For registration purposes and in order to receive their Land Based Registration Card, all Land Based applicants must present the following documents as applicable:

1. Self-made bio-data /resume with detailed work experience
2. Valid Passport
3. High School/College Diploma
4. Transcript of Records
5. Valid PRC ID (for Professionals only)
6. Board Certificate (for Professionals only)
7. Board Rating (for Professionals only)
8. Valid NBI Clearance
9. Employment Certificates (showing at least 2 years’ experience in one position)
10. Training /Skills certificate
11. OMA Certificate (for Muslim Applicants)
12. 1 piece 2x2 coloured picture (6 pcs. for Ministry of Health-Kingdom of Saudi Arabia)
13. Active e-mail address

Costs
The process of applying for overseas employment will entail costs. The acquiring, certification, and authentication of documents needed for overseas employment are costs that must be paid by the prospective OFW. Private employment agencies may also choose to collect a placement fee for their services in which case, it should never exceeds one month of salary. Please note that private employment agencies that are members of the Association for Professionalism in Overseas Employment (ASPROE) do not charge placement fees (www.asproe.strikingly.com/).

However, according to POEA rules, unless otherwise provided the following must be paid by the private recruitment agency:
- Visa Fee variable
- Airfare variable
BE INFORMED! YOUR TICKET TO DECENT WORK AND SAFE MIGRATION

- POEA Processing Fee: PHP 200.00
- OWWA membership: US$ 25.00 (2 years contribution)
- Compulsory insurance coverage (at no cost to worker processing employment through private recruitment agency) with the following minimum amount of coverage:
  - Accidental death US$15,000
  - Natural death US$10,000
  - Permanent/Total Disbursement US$7,500
  - Subsistence Allowance US$100.00/month
  - Repatriation cost
  - Compassionate visits

B) Name hired recruitment

Although it is recognized as a mode of gaining overseas employment, the POEA discourages name hiring. Name hiring involves gaining overseas employment without the involvement of a third party recruitment agency or the POEA government placement branch. Here, the foreign employer prepares an employment contract in the name of the employee and submits it to nearest Philippine Embassy for authentication and verification. The employer also takes charge of processing the OFWs visa/permit in host country. The authenticated contract is then sent together with a round trip ticket to the prospective OFW for processing at POEA name hire processing unit. OFWs who gain overseas employment through name hiring must go through documentation with the POEA.

Documents

Name hired skilled and professional OFWs must present the following documents to the POEA:

1. Employment contract
2. Valid visa entry/work permit/ no objection certificate
3. Valid passport
4. Valid Medical Certificate from a DOH-accredited medical clinic
5. One (1) 2 x 2 picture
6. Pre-Departure Orientation Seminar (PDOS) certificate from POEA
7. Labor Market Opinion Confirmation (for Canada bound workers)
8. Labor Condition Application (for USA bound workers only)

After successful documentation a prospective OFW will receive an e-Receipt. The e-Receipt functions as the worker’s travel clearance.

Costs
- POEA Processing Fee: US$100.00
- OWWA membership: US$ 25.00 (2 years contribution)
- PhilHealth-Medicare coverage: PHP1,200.00 (1 year)

C) Government placed recruitment
The Government of the Philippines, through bilateral agreements with other countries may facilitate the hiring of Filipino workers through the Government Placement Branch of the POEA. Examples of Government Placement include projects with a South Korea (EPS), Japan (JPEPA), Germany (Triple Win Project), and Saudi Arabia (KSA).

Required documents
Government-placed OFWs are required to undergo documentation with the POEA. Aside from the submission of required documents, government-placed OFWS must also process their visa with the POEA. The following documents are required:

1. OFW Information Sheet
2. Employment Contract/Employment Offer
3. Passport (original & photocopy)
4. Medical Certificate (original & photocopy)
5. Certificate of Pre-Departure Orientation Seminar (PDOS)
6. National Bureau of Investigation Clearance

1.4 Preventing illegal recruitment and human trafficking

A) Illegal recruitment and identifying an illegal recruiter

Illegal recruitment may be defined broadly as any act of providing overseas employment without a license or authority from the POEA. POEA-licensed recruitment agencies may also commit illegal recruitment through charging excessive fees for the placement of overseas workers, releasing false information related to overseas employment, employing workers in jobs that may be harmful to public health and the dignity of the Philippines, among others.

A person soliciting for overseas employment who engages in the following practices may be an illegal recruiter:

- Requires immediate payment of placement fee
- Does not give an official receipt after the payment of the placement fee
- Promise quick and easy labour migration process
- Requires medical examination prior to identifying the employer
- Operates through house to house recruitment
- Does not provide concrete information on job
- Discourages people from going through the POEA process
- Advocates use of tourist or visit visa in lieu of work visa
- Cannot show Employment contract or working visa.
BE INFORMED! YOUR TICKET TO DECENT WORK AND SAFE MIGRATION

• Is not registered with POEA
• Encourages applicant to recruit other applicants for faster processing
• Does not give personal identification information

B) Human trafficking and preventing human trafficking

Human trafficking or trafficking in persons may be defined broadly as the recruitment or transfer a person with or without their consent for the purpose of exploitation (including sexual exploitation and forced labor). The most important step to avoid and help fight human trafficking is to become informed. It is the responsibility of all prospective and effective migrant to gather information to remain safe. The following is a table showing what acts, means, and exploitative purposes that may constitute human trafficking:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Acts</th>

All prospective OFWs should be wary of attractive job offers on websites especially on dating websites. Also one must investigate job offers, particularly where you are told to keep the opportunity secret, not to share information with a friend or family member. The following list of questions can help determine if trafficking elements are present in a given situation:
• Is a person free to leave the work site?
• Is the person physically, sexually or psychologically abused?
• Does the person have a valid passport or identification card and is he/she in possession of such documents?
PRE-DEPARTURE SERVICE TO SKILLED MIGRANTS

- Is the pay and conditions of employment satisfactory?
- Is the person afraid to share information about his/her living and working conditions?
- Does the person owe a huge debt?
- Does the person live at home or at/near the work site?
- How did the individual arrive to this destination if the suspected victim is a foreign national?
- Has the person or a family member of this person been threatened?
- Does the person fear that something bad will happen to him or her or to a family member, if he/she leaves the job?

C) Programmes combating illegal recruitment and human trafficking

Both Philippine non-government and government actors have employed multiple strategies to combat illegal recruitment and human trafficking. Among these strategies include: conducting educational campaigns, providing free legal assistance (more below), internet referrals, phone hotlines and mobile applications.

Mobile applications

The POEA in conjunction with www.workabroad.ph provides both apple and android mobile apps that allow prospective OFW to verify whether a private recruitment agency is licensed by the POEA to recruit and deploy Filipino workers abroad. It furthers allow to verify if a job advertised by a recruitment agency is backed by a job order. The Apps also provide additional information on preventing illegal recruitment.

Phone and Internet Helplines
The Commission on Filipinos Overseas (CFO) in conjunction with Inter Agency Council Against Trafficking (IACAT) operate both a phone hotline (actionline1343) and a website (1343 website on human trafficking) dedicated primarily to reporting incidents of human trafficking. The hotline fields crisis calls from trafficking victims who require immediate rescue and assistance, calls from informants giving tips on possible human trafficking and calls on general inquiries concerning processes related to prosecuting human trafficking, illegal recruitment and working abroad. Crisis calls are immediately referred to the appropriate police authorities. Other calls are referred to the appropriate government authority.

The Department of Foreign Affairs – Office of the Undersecretary for Migrant Workers’ Affairs (DFA-OUMWA) also offers a phone service assisting victims of illegal recruitment and human smuggling, their next of kin and other interested parties. Next of kin, government agencies, media and NGO members may write, e-mail or fax to the DFA-OUMWA their requests for assistance.

Both the CFO and IACAT maintain public assistance webpages. The CFO maintains a more specific webpage allowing for the reporting of human trafficking, illegal recruitment, sexual or labour exploitation, rescue requests and requests concerning the whereabouts of an OFW relative. The CFO webpage also allows a user to leave a call back request. IACAT maintains a more general webpage where users can send general requests for assistance.

1.5 Examination at Department of Health (DOH)-accredited hospitals

Only after receiving a job offer may a worker bound for overseas deployment be required to go through a medical exam procedure with a DOH-accredited medical facility. Persons who refer a jobseeker to a medical clinic for examination prior to receiving a job offer may likely be illegal recruiters.

Note that the job offer may be cancelled because of the medical result. After the examination a medical certificate is issued to the overseas worker declaring that they are fit to work. The “Fit for Work Certification” is valid for 3 months.
1.6 OFW Employment contract

An employment contract is important as it references rights and obligations of migrant workers and employers, serves as the basis for legal cases and provides a form of identification that may be checked upon departure or arrival at country of destination.

The POEA has set minimum provisions to ensure that the employee will not be placed in a disadvantageous position. Any contract terms and conditions that are more beneficial or advantageous to the worker are encouraged. Below are the minimum provisions of the POEA Standard Employment Contract:

- Place of assignment/specific worksite – street, city, province
- Length of the contract – date of leaving and date of return
- Position/designation – with tasks specified
- Basic monthly salary
- Regular working hours (8 hours per day)
- Regular working days (Maximum of 6 straight working days)
- Overtime pay for work over 8 hours per day
- Free transportation to and from worksite
- Free food and accommodation while in the worksite
- Vacation leave, sick leave, medical and dental benefits
- Free annual medical and dental exams
PRE-DEPARTURE SERVICE TO SKILLED MIGRANTS

1.7 Pre-Departure Orientation Seminar (PDOS)

The Pre-Departure Orientation Seminar (PDOS) is a compulsory seminar lasting between two to eight hours for all Overseas Filipino Workers (OFWs) and permanent emigrants. The goal of PDOS is to enable Filipino migrant workers to proactively access information before they need it. PDOS typically consist of modules on the following topics:

- Employment contract familiarization
- A profile of the country of destination
- Stages of the OFWs life
- Health and safety
- Airport procedures
- Government programs and services

In addition to OWWA, several accredited industry associations and NGOs conduct PDOS. Some agencies and NGOs charge fees starting from PHP 100.00 to conduct the PDOS. It is important to note that buying or subscribing to any financial product recommended during the conduct of the PDOS is not required to receive a PDOS completion certificate.

After undergoing PDOS, a certificate is issued to each OFW participant. This certificate must be presented before being issued an e-receipt. The e-receipt serves as proof of their status as an OFW and is required to exit the country for employment.

1.8 The Overseas Employment Certificate or E-Receipt

The Overseas Employment Certificate (OEC) proves that a prospective migrant’s overseas employment request has been processed at the POEA. Before receiving the OEC the migrant (if name hired or hired through government placement) or the migrant’s employment agency must pay the required POEA processing fee, OWWA membership, Philhealth and Pag-IBIG contributions and fill out a member data form (MDF). The OEC is valid for two months and also acts as a travel exit clearance exempting an OFW from paying travel tax and terminal fee.

OEC for vacationing OFW

Vacationing OFWs may process their OEC by registering online and visiting several balik-manggagawa centres. Vacationing OFWs still currently under contract may not be required to pay OWWA membership fees and Philhealth and Pag-IBIG contributions. A processing fee of PHP100 and the presentation of the OFW’s employment contract and return ticket is required.

A) Foreign language training

TESDA offers free language training (subject to slot availability) in six languages namely-- English, Japanese, Korean, Mandarin, Arabic and Spanish.

This is available for all Filipinos that are at least 18 years old and have been pre-selected or have pre-qualified to work locally or in-country foreign-owned company or overseas. However, slots are limited and registration is required. Trainees also need to submit the following:

B) Foreign language test review

TOPIK

Passing the Test of Proficiency in Korean (TOPIK) is required before a prospective OFW may get an employment permit to work in Korea. The POEA provides a comprehensive reviewer on the TOPIK including a computer-based practice test, a module on TOPIK Open Questions, as well as a TOPIK textbook, pdf, audio, and compressed files covering the listening and reading components of the test.

1.10 Financial literacy

Financial freedom is one of the key reasons for choosing the life of an OFW. Financial freedom begins with having enough funds to sustain one’s family’s basic necessities and extends further to saving a sufficient amount with greater returns in time for the overseas worker’s eventual reintegration to the country. Financial literacy programmes provide information for OFWs on savings and investing.
Financial learning materials
The Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas (BSP) through its financial learning campaigns (or FLCs) aims to promote a culture of savings among OFWs and their families and encourages the channelling of these savings into productive investments in financial instruments and business ventures. The FLCs are conducted using live lectures, multimedia presentations, and online reference materials focusing on topics such as the importance of remittances, financial planning, rewards and risks associated with various financial instruments and ways to protect remittances and savings. In addition to the financial learning activities, the BSP in coordination with the International Organization for Migration (IOM) and ATIKHA (a development-oriented Philippine NGO) have developed a downloadable financial planner for use by OFWs and their families. The planner includes tools on the budgeting process, planning for retirement, savings and entrepreneurial undertakings, cash flows monitoring, property acquisition, investment portfolios and overall financial standing.

1.11 Reintegration

Reintegration should be initiated from pre-departure, on-site and the return phase. Family relations should be nurtured while away. Keeping contact with family members left behind is essential. The NRCO offers counselling services to departing OFWs and Filipino expatriates on values formation, family support, and importance of preparing for their eventual return.

On-site services to health professionals and skilled migrants
2. On-site services to health professionals and skilled migrants

While abroad the main contact point between OFWs and the Philippine government are the various Philippine embassies and consulates. In fulfilling their mission, all officers, representatives and personnel of the Philippine government posted abroad shall, in each host country, act as one-country team mission under the leadership of the Ambassador. Any question on what services are available to OFWs while abroad may be directed to the embassies and consulates. Embassy and consulate employees may facilitate access to services of other concerned government agencies or non-government organizations to meet the needs of OFWs, either in the host country or in the Philippines. A list of the locations and contact numbers of Philippine embassies and consulates may be found on the Department of Foreign Affairs Website.

The DFA provides an assortment of services aimed to assist Philippine nationals abroad (as stated below), these include requests for whereabouts, jail visitation, maltreatment and physical abuse complaints, urgent medical attention, along with the repatriation of remains, and the claiming end of service and insurance benefits for deceased Filipinos. Please note that services offered may vary per embassy or consulate. All OFWs are advised to keep contact details of the closest embassy and consulate.

2.1 Database for savings and remittance facilities

Remittances from OFWs have increased tremendously, particularly in the past 10 years. It took 15 years to reach US$1 billion, 12 to reach US$10 billion and only 7 to surpass US$20 billion, the latest recorded peak in 2012. Remittances are estimated to contribute between 8 and 10 per cent of the country’s Gross Domestic Product, making overseas employment among the most important sources of the Philippines export earnings. On site OFWs may use the following online resources to find and compare entities that engage in remitting currency to the Philippines.

A) BSP financial services and remittance portal
As part of its efforts to improve the environment for OFW remittance flows and in order to assist OFW on their remittance concerns, the BSP created an interactive portal that will link users to information on the different banks and non-bank remittance companies that send money to the Philippines, including locations of their branches abroad, remittance center, foreign bank/correspondents, products and services and charges/fees for remittance services to any part of the Philippines.

2.2 Social Insurance/Assistance

A) Home loans and savings scheme
Pag-IBIG is a national provident fund operated by the Home Development Mutual Fund (HMDF). Membership in Pag-IBIG I is mandatory for OFWs who are defined as Filipinos employed by foreign-based employers, whether they are deployed here or abroad. Registration for Pag-IBIG may be done at Pag-IBIG offices in the Philippines (locally), online and through partner financial institutions abroad. Contributions to Pag-IBIG begin at a minimum amount of PHP 100.00. There is no maximum contribution amount.

All member contributions to Pag-IBIG are guaranteed to be paid by the Philippine government. Benefits from Pag-IBIG membership include (upon fulfilment of program conditions) access to home loans and calamity loans and to the payment of accumulated savings with dividends. Aside from regular Pag-IBIG membership, the HDMF also offers membership in Pag-IBIG II which is an additional savings facility that provides more yield than Pag-IBIG I. Pag-IBIG operates a few offices abroad as indicated in a link below where members may register and remit their payments. A directory of remittance centers is also provided.
B) Health Insurance

Health insurance coverage may be provided to OFWs by the Philippine Health Insurance Corporation (Philhealth). All active, land-based OFWs who went through the regular registration process as an OFW with the POEA Offices may become members of Philhealth. Aside from the registered OFW, the OFW’s spouse, their children and parents may be covered without additional premiums. To register for Philhealth coverage an OFW must fill out a Philhealth Membership Record Form (PMRF). Coverage begins upon the payment of the required contribution amount of PHP1,200.00 per year. Benefits of Philhealth coverage include subsidies for both out-patient and in-patient procedures both in the Philippines and oversea, as well as prescription medication for both the covered OFW abroad and his dependent(s) in the Philippines.

Registration with Philhealth may be done online. Payment of the contributions while abroad may be made through Philhealth’s financial partners.

OFWs and their dependents may be required to first pay for the medical expenses and seek reimbursement.

The OWWA membership fee is renewable every two years. OWWA membership entitles a member to individual benefits for disability, death, and burial. D) Social security

Membership in the Philippine Social Security System (SSS) for OFWs is voluntary. Registration with the SSS may be done online and is completed upon the filing of an Overseas Worker Record and submitting the required identification documents. SSS coverage begins upon the payment of the first contribution. The amount of monthly contributions is a percentage of the OFWs monthly earnings as set by SSS (www.ssscontributiontable.com/sss-contribution-table-2014-the-new-and-updated/). Monthly contributions while abroad may be made through setting up an automatic debit account and through SSS partner financial institutions such as banks and remittance companies. Benefits of SSS membership include those for sickness, retirement, death, maternity, disability and funeral. SSS also allows members to make salary, housing and business loans. In addition to regular SSS membership, OFWs are also eligible (subject to certain qualifications) for membership in the SSS Flexifund, an additional layer of social protection serving as a pension fund.

Overseas SSS locations

To reach out to overseas Filipinos and promote its programs, the SSS has established the following foreign representative offices, housed at Philippine embassies or consulates:

- Asia: Hong Kong, Taipei, Brunei, Singapore and Kuala Lumpur
- Middle East: Riyadh, Jeddah and Al-Khobar (in Saudi Arabia), Kuwait, Doha, and Abu Dhabi and Dubai (in UAE)

2.3 Access to social protections provided by host country

Access to social security for temporary migrants varies in each country. One of the ways the Philippine government has addressed a lack of access to social security within the destination country is by forging bilateral agreements which grant social security, ensuring the portability of social security rights. There are eight countries with which the Philippines has mutual cooperation in the area of social security: Austria; United Kingdom; Spain; France; Canada, the Netherlands; Switzerland and Belgium. The list of country may fluctuates with new agreements constantly being negotiated between countries.

Information on the Social Security System of other countries may be found through a guide published by The Center for Migrant Advocacy on Social Security Providers in the top ten destination countries of OFWs. The features of social security systems of other countries may also be accessed through the US Social Security System.
2.4 Filing legal claims

A number of government entities provide legal support for OFWs with legal issues both locally and abroad. Locally, two entities are empowered to hear cases involving the recruitment and employment of OFWs: the POEA and the NLRC.

A) Filing an action for recruitment and pre-employment violations in the Philippines

The POEA has power to hear cases involving all pre-employment and recruitment violations of the POEA’s rules and regulations relating to licensing, registration and fees as well as administrative disciplinary actions involving employers, principals, contracting partners and OFWs involved in recruitment. No fees are charged for the filing of a case at the POEA. In 2012, 4000 cases were filed with POEA with a disposition rate of about 50 per cent.
B) Dealing with Recruitment and Pre-employment Violations while Abroad

Filing of recruitment claims
Claims involving pre-employment and recruitment violations of POEA’s rules and regulations may be filed while abroad at the nearest Philippine Overseas Labor Office. As of 2014, there are thirty-eight (38) POLOs around the world.

Conciliation/Mediation of claims
Certain POLO Offices (such as the POLO in Riyadh) provide facilities for mediation and conciliation of worker’s claims. This consists of (a) counseling the worker on options available to him/her, (b) calling the employer to discuss the worker’s complaint, (c) writing the employer to respond to the worker’s complaint and (d) when needed, visiting the employer to discuss the worker’s complaint and to find a solution that is acceptable to both the parties.
Money claims

The National Labor Relations Commission has jurisdiction over claims arising out of an employer-employee relationship (such as payment of minimum wage, overtime or other agreed upon benefits) or by virtue of any law or contract involving Filipino workers for overseas deployment including claims for actual, moral, exemplary and other forms of damages. For OFWs recruited by private recruitment agency the liability of the principal/employer and the recruitment/placement agency on any and all claims shall be joint and several. This means that an OFW may choose to file an action for damages against either their foreign employer or their POEA-licensed recruitment agency that processed their employment.

Current trends indicate that more than 5000 cases are filed every year with NLRC and that between 70 and 80 per cent of them are resolved, with workers receiving compensation for more than 2 billion pesos.
2.5 Legal assistance

A) Within the Philippines- POEA

The POEA provides free legal assistance on both illegal recruitment (see above discussion) and administrative cases (such as the removal of a recruitment agency’s license for illegal recruitment violations). Updates to cases filed at the POEA are also available online.

Provider: Philippines Overseas Employment Administration (POEA)

Website: www.poea.gov
Facebook page: www.facebook.com/mypoea
Link to Case Updates: www.poea.gov.ph/cgi-bin/adjucases/caseinquiry.asp

B) Legal assistance while abroad

Employment related claims
In the country of employment, labour migrants may encounter contract substitution (working a job that is different from what they applied), delayed, underpayment or non-payment of wages, they may be subjected to long working hours, no days off, working for several families, or experience violence or sexual harassment.

In relation to employment related issues the local POLO may provide mediation/conciliation services in settling the problems of workers with employers amicably OWWA through select Philippine consulates and embassies allow OFWs to pursue labor/welfare case in the court of the host country.
Civil or criminal complaints against OFWS

OFWs may also be involved in criminal or civil disputes. For the provision of legal assistance abroad the first contact point remains the nearest Philippine embassy and consulate. The DFA has access to a legal assistance fund that can be used to cover the following:

- Fees for private counsel (not exceeding US$3,000 per accused)
- Bail bonds to secure the temporary release of workers under detention (not exceeding US$3,000 per accused)
- Court fees (not exceeding US$500 per accused)
- Charges and other litigation expenses (not exceeding US$3,000 per accused)
- Traveling expenses; and communication expenses.

Also, Global Legal Assistance Program (GLAAD) with the Commission of Overseas Filipinos (CFO) mobilizes the support of overseas and local Filipino lawyers and legal experts to provide legal assistance and advice to overseas Filipinos in distress.

2.12 Trade unions, professional associations and migrant’s rights NGO

OFWs may choose to join organizations such as trade unions, professional associations or migrant associations while working in the Philippines and abroad. These organizations provide information and resources to protect the rights of workers and migrants. Further these organizations may also help cope with migrants’ separation from family, preparation for an eventual return and management of money and savings.

These organizations are usually organized at a local then national level and later on, affiliates themselves at the international level. This international networking which links workers in the Philippines to those in other countries of destination are strong partners in ensuring decent work and safe migration. These organizations are a rich source of information and experiences that can easily be tapped into.

A) Local trade unions
A trade union is an organization whose membership consists of workers and union leaders, united to protect and promote their common interests. The principal purposes of a trade union are to negotiate wages and working condition terms though collective bargaining agreements, regulate relations between its members and the employer, promote health and safety at work, rules governing hiring, promoting and firing workers, take collective action to enforce the terms of collective bargaining (or contract), raise new demands on behalf of its members and help settle their grievances.

Throughout history, trade union organizations have also been key advocates in improving labour legislation and securing for workers a reduced working weeks, week end, maternity leave, retirement benefits and other social economic issues such as universal health care and education. Trade union also advocates for justice for migrant workers.

In 2013, there were 18 500 trade union organizations in the Philippines. And they represented some 1,9 million workers in the private and public sectors, including health professionals and other skilled workers. The one mentioned below are the main organizations representing health professionals and skilled workers. They are only a mere sample of the trade unions operating in the Philippines. Migrant workers may contact them to receive information about their rights and responsibilities as workers in the Philippines and abroad.

2.14 Crisis alert levels

Philippine policy on overseas employment allows the deployment of overseas Filipino workers only if the safety of OFWs can be assured. The Department of Foreign Affairs (DFA) through the POEA’s governing board may impose a ban on deployment or even require the repatriation of workers when the conditions in the host country may put the lives of OFWs are in jeopardy. To exercise this power the DFA through the POEA applies an alert level system that may be accessed at: www.poea.gov.ph/gbr/resolutions.htm. The following are the DFA-designated alert levels and the required actions each level requires:

- Alert Level 4 - Mandatory repatriation of all OFW
- Alert Level 3 - Total ban on deployment of new hires and returning OFW and voluntary repatriation of Filipinos is encouraged
- Alert Level 2 - Total ban on processing and deployment of newly-hired OFWs. Processing and deployment of returning OFW with existing employment contracts is allowed.
- Alert Level 1 - Precautionary Phase No Deployment Ban

OWWA recognizes that the reintegration process includes both the economic and psycho-social components. The psycho-social components include community organizing programs such as OFW family circles and services like social counselling, family counselling, stress debriefing and training on capacity building as well as value formation. The economic component on the other hand, includes social preparation programs for livelihood projects or community-based income generating projects, skills training and credit facilitation and lending.

Through Tulay, the OWWA expects OFWs to gain IT skills that will enhance their work, thus increasing their value in the workplace. These new IT skills can further help them become more competitive in pursuing a career in the country upon their return.
