Working from home:
From invisibility to decent work

The report seeks to improve understanding of homework as well as to offer policy guidance that can pave the way to decent work for homeworkers both old and new. With the spread of the COVID-19 pandemic in 2020, large portions of the world's workforce shifted to homeworking, joining hundreds of millions of other workers who had already been working from home for decades.

Global wage report 2020-21: Wages and minimum wages in the time of COVID-19

This ILO flagship report examines the evolution of real wages around the world, giving a unique picture of wage trends globally and by region. The 2020-21 edition analyses the relationship of minimum wages and inequality, as well as the wage impacts of the COVID-19 crisis.

Does economic growth deliver jobs?: Revisiting Okun's law

The paper revisits the relationship between economic growth and employment creation as expressed in Okun's law by using the latest updated global ILO dataset for new and more detailed estimates. The analysis confirms that there are important variations across regions of the world and income levels in both magnitude and significance of this relationship.
