International Labour Office • Geneva
This volume presents the structure and definitions of all groups in the International Standard Classification of Occupations 2008 (ISCO-08). It also includes correspondence tables showing the relationship of these groups with those in the previous version of the International Standard Classification of Occupations (ISCO-88), which it supersedes. Volume 2 provides an updated and expanded index of occupational titles and associated ISCO-08 and ISCO-88 codes.

ISCO-08 was adopted as a resolution of a tripartite Meeting of Experts on Labour Statistics on updating the International Standard Classification of Occupations (ISCO), held 3–6 December 2007. This meeting was convened by the Governing Body of the International Labour Office (ILO) in accordance with a resolution, in 2003, of the Seventeenth International Conference of Labour Statisticians (ICLS). The resolution of the Meeting of Experts was endorsed by the Governing Body in March 2008.

ISCO-08, like its predecessors, has been developed to facilitate international comparison of occupational statistics and to serve as a model for countries developing or revising their national occupational classifications. It is fully supported by the international community as an accepted standard for international labour statistics.

The development of ISCO-08 benefited from accumulated national and international experience. David Hunter, of the ILO Department of Statistics, coordinated the project in collaboration with experts from many countries and agencies.

The ILO is grateful for the invaluable advice and guidance provided by these experts, including members of the United Nations Expert Group on International Economic and Social Classifications, the tripartite Meeting of Experts on Labour Statistics and the Seventeenth ICLS. Special thanks should go to members of the Technical Expert Group for Updating ISCO and the agencies in which they are employed, for the high level of advice, support and direct assistance provided.

Thanks are also due to the many ILO staff in the Department of Statistics and elsewhere who contributed to the completion of this volume, in particular to Adriana Mata-Greenwood who initiated the project.

1. NATURE, OBJECTIVES AND DEVELOPMENT OF ISCO-08

1.1 Overview of ISCO-08

1. The International Standard Classification of Occupations 2008 (ISCO-08) provides a system for classifying and aggregating occupational information obtained by means of statistical censuses and surveys, as well as from administrative records. It is a revision of the International Standard Classification of Occupations 1988 (ISCO-88), which it supersedes.

2. ISCO-08 is a four-level hierarchically structured classification that allows all jobs in the world to be classified into 436 unit groups. These groups form the most detailed level of the classification structure and are aggregated into 130 minor groups, 43 sub-major groups and 10 major groups, based on their similarity in terms of the skill level and skill specialization required for the jobs. This allows the production of relatively detailed internationally comparable data as well as summary information for only 10 groups at the highest level of aggregation.

3. The classification was adopted by a tripartite Meeting of Experts on Labour Statistics on updating the International Standard Classification of Occupations (ISCO) held from 3 to 6 December 2007. This meeting was convened by the Governing Body of the International Labour Office in accordance with a resolution, in 2003, of the Seventeenth International Conference of Labour Statisticians (ICLS). In this resolution, endorsed by the Governing Body in March 2004, the International Labour Office (ILO) was requested to update ISCO by late 2007 and convene a tripartite Meeting of Experts to adopt the classification and make appropriate recommendations to the Governing Body (ILO, 2004; the full text of the resolution is provided in Annex 1).

4. The resolution of the Meeting of Experts was endorsed by the Governing Body in March 2008. It was also presented to both the United Nations Statistical Commission at its 39th session in February 2008, and the Eighteenth ICLS held from 24 November to 5 December 2008. ISCO-08 is thus fully supported by the international community as an accepted standard for international labour statistics.

5. Each group in the classification is designated by a title and code number and is associated with a definition that specifies the scope of the group. The definitions also summarize the main tasks and duties performed in occupations included in the group, and provide a list of the occupational groups included or, in the case of unit groups, examples of the occupations. The ISCO-08 hierarchical structure, comprising the group titles and codes, is presented in Part II. Part III presents the complete definitions of all ISCO-08 unit groups, minor groups, sub-major groups and major groups.

6. This introduction describes the ISCO-08 development process, its history, conceptual basis, structure and other methodological considerations. General advice is also provided on the application of ISCO-08 in data collection activities in national contexts, including discussion on some of the more difficult distinctions made between categories.

7. The main differences between ISCO-08 and ISCO-88, and the reasons for these differences, are summarized in Chapter 3 below. A detailed specification of the correspondence between the old and new classifications is provided in Part IV, which comprises correspondence tables in ISCO-88 code order and ISCO-08 code order.

8. Volume 2, Index of occupational titles, provides supplementary information on the occupations included in each group, linking real job titles used in the world of work with the categories in the classification structure. It may also serve as a model to assist in the development or adaptation of national indexes of occupation titles where alignment with ISCO-08 is required. Volume 2 is a replacement for the index of occupational titles presented at the back of the ISCO-88 publication and includes 4-digit ISCO-08 and ISCO-88 codes for each occupational descriptor.

9. All of the information contained in Volumes 1 and 2 is available on the ISCO website: http://www.iло.org/public/english/bureau/stat/isco/index.htm. It is planned that this information will be supplemented by an ISCO-08 Implementation guide that will provide advice and guidance on adapting ISCO-08 for national use and for the production of internationally comparable information.
1.2 Main objectives of ISCO

10. Globalization of the labour market has increased the demand for internationally comparable occupational data for both statistical and administrative purposes. ISCO-08 aims to satisfy this demand by providing:

(a) a contemporary and relevant basis for the international reporting, comparison and exchange of statistical and administrative information about occupations;

(b) a useful model for the development of national and regional classifications of occupations; and

(c) a system that can be used directly in countries that have not developed their own national classifications.

11. ISCO seeks to facilitate international communication about occupations by providing statisticians with a framework to make internationally comparable occupational data available, and by allowing international occupational data to be produced in a form that can be useful for research as well as for specific decision-making and action-oriented activities, such as those connected with international migration or job placement.

12. It should be emphasized that, while serving as a model, ISCO-08 is not intended to replace any existing national classification of occupations, as the occupation classifications of individual countries should fully reflect both the structure of the national labour market and information needs for nationally relevant purposes. However, countries whose occupational classifications are aligned to ISCO-08 in concept and structure will find it easier to develop the procedures to make their occupational statistics internationally comparable.

13. Therefore, the ideal situation is that countries develop national classifications that are tailored to meet both national and international requirements (see Chapter 5). It is recognized, however, that some countries may not have the capacity to develop national classifications in the short to medium term. In these circumstances it is advisable for countries initially to focus limited resources on the development of tools to support implementation of ISCO in the national context, for example a national index of occupational titles.

14. Classifications of occupations are used in national contexts for the collection and dissemination of statistics from sources such as population censuses, labour force surveys and other household surveys, employer surveys and other sources. They are also used by governments and companies in activities such as matching jobseekers with job vacancies, educational planning, reporting of industrial accidents, administration of workers’ compensation, and the management of employment-related migration.

15. In order to satisfy the full range of user requirements implied by the applications outlined above, many countries will wish to provide, in their national classifications, finer structural and definitional details than those contained in ISCO-08. In national classifications based on ISCO this can be achieved either by dividing some unit groups into two or more smaller unit groups, or by providing more detailed occupational groups at a fifth hierarchical level in the national classification. In certain cases, countries may also wish to include descriptive or coded information on job content, skill requirements, linkages to national competency frameworks, and detailed occupational descriptions. This type of information may be of interest for wage settlements, vocational guidance and training, development of vocational training programmes, job placement services, or analysis of occupation-specific morbidity and mortality, but is beyond the scope of ISCO-08.

16. It is important to note that, although useful in facilitating the provision of standard information for decision-making on occupational issues, ISCO-08 is not a framework for administrative regulation of occupations. The designations employed and the presentation of descriptive and definitional material in ISCO do not imply the expression of any opinion whatsoever on the part of the International Labour Office concerning the legal or regulatory status of any occupational group.
1.3 Historical background

17. The development of the International Standard Classification of Occupations goes back many decades and has always been closely connected with the work of the International Conference of Labour Statisticians, which meets under the auspices of the International Labour Organization. The need for an international standard classification of occupations was discussed as early as 1921, at the first ICLS (ILO, 1923 and 1924, Resolution 1, para. 1).

18. Work to develop ISCO was initiated in 1947 at the Sixth ICLS and the first positive step towards its establishment was the adoption of a provisional classification of nine major groups by the Seventh ICLS in 1949. In 1952 the ILO published the International Classification of Occupations for Migration and Employment Placement, with detailed descriptions of 1,727 occupations based on the national classifications of eight industrialized countries. At the Eighth ICLS (1954) a provisional list of minor groups was approved. The Ninth ICLS (1957) completed the work by endorsing the major, minor and unit groups of the first ISCO, which was published by the ILO in 1958 and hence is known as ISCO-58. It had been recognized at the Ninth ICLS that ISCO-58 would need to be revised after a certain time. The Eleventh ICLS considered and adopted a revised edition of ISCO (ISCO-68).

19. ISCO-68 was superseded by ISCO-88, adopted in 1987 by the Fourteenth ICLS. ISCO-88 represented a significant break from the two previous versions, in that it used the concepts of skill level and skill specialization as criteria to arrange similar occupations into progressively larger groups. The previous versions of ISCO, as well as many national classifications at that time, did not use the concept of skill level to distinguish between groups at the most aggregate level of the classification. Occupation classifications at the time had a stronger focus on the goods and services produced and were frequently quite similar in structure to industrial classifications of economic activities.

20. Since its adoption ISCO-88 has been widely used as the basis for development of national and multinational classifications and for the dissemination of international data classified by occupation. Early in the first decade of the 21st century, it became clear, however, that there was a need to update ISCO-88 to reflect changes in the occupational structure of the workforce, as well as to address a number of problems that had been identified during its use in statistical and other applications. There were particular concerns about the need to reflect changes resulting from the impact of developments in information and communications technology on the workforce.

21. At the 34th Session of the United Nations Statistical Commission in March 2003, the ILO was asked to develop a timetable for the updating of ISCO-88 that would allow sufficient time for the updated classification, or national adaptations of it, to be available for use in the 2010 round of national population censuses (UN, 2003). In December 2003 the Seventeenth ICLS also discussed the timing of the work to update ISCO-88, as well as the nature and scope of the work to be done, and requested (ILO, 2004) the Governing Body of the ILO to:

- ensure that the ILO, as the custodian of the International Standard Classification of Occupations (ISCO-88), will have the capacity to:

  1. undertake the research and consultations necessary to formulate the modifications and updates of ISCO-88 that are necessary to ensure that it can continue to serve as a good model for national occupational classifications to be used for statistics as well as for client-related applications;
  2. complete this work not later than the end of 2007 for the results to be taken into account in national preparations for the majority of population censuses that are to be undertaken in the 2010 round.\(^1\)

1.4 Overview of the updating process and consultations

22. In conducting the work to update ISCO, the ILO consulted as widely as possible with stakeholders and interested parties. The mandate from the ICLS to proceed with the updating of ISCO-88 was informed by a report commissioned by the ILO presenting arguments for and against different paths based on recent experiences with national occupational classifications in a number of countries (Budlender, 2003). Many of the issues raised in this report were further explored, along with others, by means of two questionnaires that were sent to all countries through their ministries of labour, national statistical institutes, employment services, vocational training institutes, and employers’ and workers’ organizations. Successive drafts of the updated classification structure were sent for comment. The ILO also consulted with a range of specialized agencies, workers’ and employers’ organizations, and stakeholders with an interest in those occupational areas where most updating was needed.

23. An important component of the work was the establishment of a Technical Expert Group for Updating ISCO (TEG/ISCO), to provide the ILO with advice on and assistance with the updating work. This group, comprising experts in occupation classification from all regions of the world and experts from a number of relevant international agencies, met six times during the development of ISCO-08. These meetings were supplemented by the use of ongoing electronic discussions.

24. The major issues that were addressed in the updating work included but were not restricted to:

- the impact of information and communications technology (ICT) on the occupational structure of the labour market;
- the need for improved coverage of health occupations;
- user requests for more detail in agricultural, forestry and fisheries occupations;
- the need to improve the groupings for managerial occupations;
- concerns that ISCO-88 was very detailed for some technical and manufacturing occupations but had much less detail, especially at intermediate levels of aggregation, for clerical and services-related occupations where a large percentage of employed persons were female;
- concerns about the existence of parallel groups at different skill levels for occupations that involved the performance of similar or identical tasks;
- the need for improved coverage of occupations that predominate in the informal sector and of occupations with low skill requirements;
- the development of thematic (or alternative) views of the classification based primarily on the goods or services produced, independently of skill level;
- the need to refresh and update definitions of all categories; and
- the need for the ISCO index of occupational titles to be improved and updated.

25. The first, exploratory questionnaire on updating ISCO-88 sought advice on a number of conceptual issues as well as on the treatment of specific occupational groups. The replies to this questionnaire were analysed by the ILO and summarized in a paper that formed the basis for discussions about ISCO at the meeting of the United Nations Expert Group on International Economic and Social Classifications held in New York in June 2005 (ILO, 2005). Following the inaugural meeting of the TEG/ISCO in November 2005, the ILO developed an updated draft classification structure. Detailed examination of this draft by both the ILO and members of the TEG/ISCO led to the identification of a number of new concerns about the ISCO-88 structure and to a series of further proposals for change. A further updated draft classification structure was developed and the ILO sought the views of countries on the draft, and on a range of outstanding issues, through a second questionnaire circulated in August 2006.

26. On the basis of the responses to the second questionnaire and of advice provided by the TEG/ISCO, the ILO prepared a “close-to-final” draft classification structure which was made available for comment on the ILO website in February 2007. Comments on this draft were sought from all countries, together with a summary of the main changes. The United Nations Expert Group on International Economic and Social Classifications reviewed the draft at its meeting in April 2007 and discussed a number of areas where significant changes to ISCO-88 were proposed. The ILO then prepared a final draft ISCO-08 structure which was presented as an Annex to the draft resolution concerning updating the International Standard Classification of Occupations, for consideration at the Meeting of Experts on Labour Statistics held in December 2007. At this meeting a small number of amendments to the draft were made and the amended classification structure was adopted as the International Standard Classification of Occupations, 2008 (see ILO, 2008).

1.5 Scope of the updating work

27. The resolution of the Seventeenth ICLS on ISCO requested the updating and overall improvement of ISCO-88 with the objective of making available a more effective classification, which could be used by countries in the next round of population censuses, as well as in national employment services and other client-oriented applications. It also imposed some limitations on the nature and extent of the revisions that could be made by specifying that:

… the basic principles and main structure of ISCO-88 should not be changed, but that nevertheless modifications are necessary in some areas, both to make improvements in light of experience gained in many countries using ISCO-88-based classifications, and as a consequence of developments in the world of work over the last 15 years …

28. Within the framework of this general restriction the ILO determined, in consultation with the TEG/ISCO and the UN Expert Group on International Economic and Social Classifications, that the nature of the structural and methodological changes that might be made to ISCO-88 would be limited to the following specific types of change:

• The classification was to be reviewed from the point of view of the relative size and diversity of groups at different levels but, because of the wide differences in national circumstances, it would not be possible to impose strict guidelines on the size of groups.

• Occupations with the same job content but with different formal education requirements in different countries were to be classified in a single unit group, thus eliminating the need for “parallel groups”.

• The ISCO-88 major groups were to be merged, deleted or otherwise changed only in exceptional circumstances. In practice the 10 major groups were not fundamentally changed although some occupations were moved from one major group to another and the names of some major groups were changed to improve clarity.

• There was a need for more comprehensive explanatory and methodological notes than those provided with ISCO-88.

• Sub-major and minor groups should be split or merged only if there had been significant growth or decline in the numbers of people employed in them, and/or where groups at a lower level were split or merged. Sub-major groups should, however, contain sufficiently large numbers to allow the production of meaningful summary statistics. The total number of sub-major groups should not decrease dramatically or grow beyond about 40.

• Unit groups could be split or merged and new groups could be created to reflect occupational change and newly identified requirements. Unit groups could also be split, where necessary, to support aggregation of data according to a set of proposed thematic views (see section 2.6 below).

• Unit groups were not to be created for occupations that were very small in numbers of workers, or that existed only in a small number of countries. Such occupations are included as part of a unit group containing similar occupations, or in a suitable “not elsewhere classified” category.

• The content of residual (not elsewhere classified) groups was to be reviewed. Where such groups were unavoidable, the main occupations classified there were to be listed as part of the definition of the group and in the index.

29. In addition to changes of this type, it was recognized that there would be a need to develop definitions of all groups in the classification that were new or modified, to update and refresh the definitions of those groups that had not changed, to update the index of occupation titles, and to provide correspondence tables showing the relationship between ISCO-88 and ISCO-08.
1.6 Definitions of groups

30. The process of developing the ISCO-08 structure resulted in the splitting or merging of a number of ISCO-88 unit groups. In some cases, completely new unit groups were created. There was also structural change at the minor and sub-major group levels, including both splitting and merging of groups and movement of unit groups from one part of the classification to another. These changes created the need for definitions of new groups to be developed and of other groups to be reviewed, to make sure they adequately reflected the content of the group.

31. The definitions of those groups that were not changed were also reviewed and updated, as the ISCO-88 definitions were almost 20 years old, and there had been significant change in both technology and the organization of work tasks within occupations since the late 1980s.

32. At its meeting in April 2007, the TEG/ISCO agreed on a set of principles for developing or updating definitions of ISCO categories. In particular it was agreed that the overall structure of the definitions should be similar to that used in ISCO-88. Some problems were, nevertheless, identified with the structure and content of ISCO-88 definitions, including the following.

- Notes, footnotes and references to the definitions of categories were used to explain the boundaries and differences between other categories, meaning that some definitions were not capable of standing on their own.
- Some definitions of unit groups in ISCO-88 Major Group 2 focused excessively on research and theoretical work, with insufficient reference to practical tasks.
- There was repetition in many definitions of similar phrases that added little in the way of descriptive information and made it difficult to identify the key differences between groups.
- There was a lack of clarity about whether the task statements were meant to characterize the main tasks typically performed in an occupational group, or whether all tasks were to be performed in all jobs classified in the group.

33. The ILO worked closely with TEG/ISCO members and others to develop up-to-date definitions of all ISCO-08 classification categories. To the extent possible, definitions of categories in recently revised national occupation classifications were used as source material. The use of single-source material was avoided and cross-checking was undertaken wherever possible to avoid the risk of producing descriptions that were biased towards those countries with the most developed occupational information systems.

34. Draft definitions of all groups were made available on the Internet for comment, particularly by countries that were in the process of updating national classifications to facilitate comparability with ISCO-08. This consultation process provided the opportunity to improve both the quality and clarity of the definitions.

1.7 Index of occupational titles

35. The entries in the ISCO-08 Index of occupational titles (Volume 2) include a text description for a wider variety of terms used to describe occupations than is possible in the classification structure. It provides a map between “real world” terms used to describe jobs and the formally named titles of groups defined in the classification structure. Similar indexes are used in national settings as tools to assign classification codes to responses to questions (coding) on occupation in statistical and administrative data collections. It is important to note that national indexes of occupations need to be based on terms used in response to questions in data collections in the national context.

36. In considering requirements for an updated index of occupational titles, the TEG/ISCO concluded that the main purposes and likely uses of the ISCO-08 index were the following:

- to clarify the occupational content of each ISCO unit group;
- to help users of ISCO to find particular categories in the classification and determine where particular occupations are classified;
• to assist in understanding the relationship between categories in old and new versions of the classification;
• to serve as a model for, and act as a starting point in, the development of national indexes of occupations, for national classifications based on ISCO;
• to be used directly to assign responses in statistical collections to ISCO in situations where no national index exists, and where countries are not able to develop a national index in advance of data processing.\footnote{2}

37. The ISCO-88 index did not fully support these uses for a number of reasons. For example, many commonly used occupational titles did not appear in the index. The ILO agreed with the TEG/ISCO on a process to address these concerns and produce an index for ISCO-08, using the ISCO-88 index as a starting point but drawing on terms used in a range of national indexes of occupations. Each entry includes a text descriptor as well as the most appropriate ISCO-08 and ISCO-88 codes. The entries are organized as in the ISCO-88 index, with keywords appearing first, allowing qualifying information to be specified in a structured manner when occupation titles alone relate to more than one ISCO unit group.

38. The ISCO-08 Index of occupational titles is published as ISCO-08, Volume 2, in alphabetical order and in code order for both ISCO-88 and ISCO-08. It may be obtained in electronic form on the ISCO website: http://www.ilo.org/public/english/bureau/stat/isco/index.htm, or by sending an email to: ISCO@ilo.org. It may be used as a starting point in the development of national coding indexes without breach of ILO copyright.

\footnote{2 As there are wide variations in the usage and meaning of occupational terminology, even between countries that speak the same language, it is strongly recommended that countries develop national indexes based on words that are actually given, or are likely to be given, in response to questions on occupation in the national context.}
2. CONCEPTUAL FRAMEWORK, DESIGN, STRUCTURE AND CONTENT OF ISCO-08

2.1 Underlying concepts

39. The framework and the concepts underpinning ISCO-08 are essentially unchanged from those used in ISCO-88. The definitions of these concepts have been updated and guidelines for their application to the design of the classification have been strengthened and clarified, where necessary, to address deficiencies in ISCO-88.

40. The framework used for the design and construction of ISCO-08 is based on two main concepts: the concept of job, and the concept of skill.

Definitions of job and occupation

41. A job is defined in ISCO-08 as “a set of tasks and duties performed, or meant to be performed, by one person, including for an employer or in self employment”.

42. Occupation refers to the kind of work performed in a job. The concept of occupation is defined as a “set of jobs whose main tasks and duties are characterized by a high degree of similarity”. A person may be associated with an occupation through the main job currently held, a second job, a future job or a job previously held.

Skill level and skill specialization

43. Skill is defined as the ability to carry out the tasks and duties of a given job. For the purposes of ISCO-08, two dimensions of skill are used to arrange occupations into groups. These are skill level and skill specialization.

44. Skill level is defined as a function of the complexity and range of tasks and duties to be performed in an occupation. Skill level is measured operationally by considering one or more of:

- the nature of the work performed in an occupation in relation to the characteristic tasks and duties defined for each ISCO-08 skill level;
- the level of formal education defined in terms of the International Standard Classification of Education (ISCED-97) (UNESCO, 1997) required for competent performance of the tasks and duties involved; and
- the amount of informal on-the-job training and/or previous experience in a related occupation required for competent performance of these tasks and duties.

45. The concept of skill level is applied mainly at the top (major group) level of the classification, giving more emphasis to the first of these operational measures, the nature of the work performed, than to the formal and informal education and training requirements.

46. Bearing in mind the international character of the classification, only four broad skill levels are defined. As a result, eight of the ten major groups in ISCO-08 contain occupations only at one of four skill levels. For example, ISCO Major Group 2: Professionals includes only occupations at the highest ISCO skill level, Skill Level 4. All groups below the major group level contain occupations at only one skill level.

47. Skill specialization is considered in terms of four concepts:

- the field of knowledge required;
- the tools and machinery used;
- the materials worked on or with; and
- the kinds of goods and services produced.

48. Within each major group, occupations are arranged into unit groups, minor groups and sub-major groups, primarily on the basis of aspects of skill specialization. In the case of ISCO-08 Major Group 1: Managers, and Major Group 0: Armed Forces Occupations, the concept of skill level is applied primarily at the second hierarchical level.
2.2 Definitions of the four ISCO skill levels

49. Definitions of each of the four ISCO-08 skill levels are provided below. These definitions do not change the boundaries between the skill levels used in ISCO-88. They serve to clarify these boundaries and to deal with cases where formal educational requirements may not be the most suitable method of measuring the skill level of a particular occupation. Each definition provides examples of:

- the typical or characteristic tasks performed at each skill level;
- the types of skill required (in broad terms); and
- the typical occupations classified at that skill level.

Skill Level 1

50. Occupations at Skill Level 1 typically involve the performance of simple and routine physical or manual tasks. They may require the use of hand-held tools, such as shovels, or of simple electrical equipment, such as vacuum cleaners. They involve tasks such as cleaning; digging; lifting and carrying materials by hand; sorting, storing or assembling goods by hand (sometimes in the context of mechanized operations); operating non-motorized vehicles; and picking fruit and vegetables.

51. Many occupations at Skill Level 1 may require physical strength and/or endurance. For some jobs basic skills in literacy and numeracy may be required. If required these skills would not be a major part of the work.

52. For competent performance in some occupations at Skill Level 1, completion of primary education or the first stage of basic education (ISCED-97 Level 1) may be required. A short period of on-the-job training may be required for some jobs.

53. Occupations classified at Skill Level 1 include office cleaners, freight handlers, garden labourers and kitchen assistants.

Skill Level 2

54. Occupations at Skill Level 2 typically involve the performance of tasks such as operating machinery and electronic equipment; driving vehicles; maintenance and repair of electrical and mechanical equipment; and manipulation, ordering and storage of information.

55. For almost all occupations at Skill Level 2 the ability to read information such as safety instructions, to make written records of work completed, and to accurately perform simple arithmetical calculations is essential. Many occupations at this skill level require relatively advanced literacy and numeracy skills and good interpersonal communication skills. In some occupations these skills are required for a major part of the work. Many occupations at this skill level require a high level of manual dexterity.

56. The knowledge and skills required for competent performance in occupations at Skill Level 2 are generally obtained through completion of the first stage of secondary education (ISCED-97 Level 2). Some occupations require the completion of the second stage of secondary education (ISCED-97 Level 3), which may include a significant component of specialized vocational education and on-the-job training. Some occupations require completion of vocation-specific education undertaken after completion of secondary education (ISCED-97 Level 4). In some cases experience and on-the-job training may substitute for the formal education.

57. Occupations classified at Skill Level 2 include butchers, bus drivers, secretaries, accounts clerks, sewing machinists, dressmakers, shop sales assistants, police officers, hairdressers, building electricians and motor vehicle mechanics.
Skill Level 3

58. Occupations at Skill Level 3 typically involve the performance of complex technical and practical tasks that require an extensive body of factual, technical and procedural knowledge in a specialized field. Examples of specific tasks performed include: ensuring compliance with health, safety and related regulations; preparing detailed estimates of quantities and costs of materials and labour required for specific projects; coordinating, supervising, controlling and scheduling the activities of other workers; and performing technical functions in support of professionals.

59. Occupations at this skill level generally require a high level of literacy and numeracy and well-developed interpersonal communication skills. These skills may include the ability to understand complex written material, prepare factual reports and communicate verbally in difficult circumstances.

60. The knowledge and skills required for competent performance in occupations at Skill Level 3 are usually obtained as the result of study at a higher educational institution for a period of 1–3 years following completion of secondary education (ISCED-97 Level 5b). In some cases extensive relevant work experience and prolonged on-the-job training may substitute for the formal education.

61. Occupations classified at Skill Level 3 include shop managers, medical laboratory technicians, legal secretaries, commercial sales representatives, diagnostic medical radiographers, computer support technicians, and broadcasting and recording technicians.

Skill Level 4

62. Occupations at Skill Level 4 typically involve the performance of tasks that require complex problem-solving, decision-making and creativity based on an extensive body of theoretical and factual knowledge in a specialized field. The tasks performed typically include analysis and research to extend the body of human knowledge in a particular field, diagnosis and treatment of disease, imparting knowledge to others, and design of structures or machinery and of processes for construction and production.

63. Occupations at this skill level generally require extended levels of literacy and numeracy, sometimes at a very high level, and excellent interpersonal communication skills. These skills usually include the ability to understand complex written material and communicate complex ideas in media such as books, images, performances, reports and oral presentations.

64. The knowledge and skills required for competent performance in occupations at Skill Level 4 are usually obtained as the result of study at a higher educational institution for a period of 3–6 years leading to the award of a first degree or higher qualification (ISCED-97 Level 5a or higher). In some cases extensive experience and on-the-job training may substitute for the formal education, or may be required in addition to formal education. In many cases appropriate formal qualifications are an essential requirement for entry to the occupation.

65. Occupations classified at Skill Level 4 include sales and marketing managers, civil engineers, secondary school teachers, medical practitioners, musicians, operating theatre nurses and computer systems analysts.

2.3 Application of the four skill levels to the ISCO-08 major groups

66. The relationship between the ten ISCO-08 major groups and the four skill levels is summarized in table 1. Within Major Group 1, occupations in Sub-major Group 14: Hospitality, Retail and Other Services Managers are at Skill Level 3. All other occupations in Major Group 1 are at Skill Level 4. Within Major Group 0: Armed Forces Occupations, each of the three sub-major groups is at a different skill level.

68. The use of ISCED categories to assist in defining the four skill levels does not imply that the skills necessary to perform the tasks and duties of a given job can be acquired only through formal education. The skills may be, and often are, acquired through informal training and experience. In addition, it should be emphasized that the focus in ISCO-08 is on the skills required to carry out the tasks and duties of an occupation – and not on whether a worker employed in a particular occupation is more or less skilled than another worker in the same occupation.

69. Formal education and training requirements are thus only one component of the measurement of skill level and should be seen as indicative. The most important determinant of skill level is the nature of the tasks performed in a particular occupation in relation to the characteristic tasks defined for each skill level. In considering these tasks, however, it should be noted that the level of generic skills (those skills that are not specific to a particular occupational group and are required for many jobs) may differ significantly between occupations due to the nature of the job. For example, insurance representatives classified at Skill Level 3 may require a higher level of interpersonal communication skills than software developers at Skill Level 4, mainly due to differences in nature of the work performed.

70. Since the entity classified is the job, not the person who holds the job, it is not relevant to consider the skills or qualifications held by the person in order to classify the job. It is not necessary for a person to hold qualifications at a particular level in order for their job to be classified at a particular ISCO-08 skill level. Thus, for example, a person who is employed in a job that requires the performance of the tasks of a bricklayer should be classified in Unit Group 7112: Bricklayers and Related Workers, whether or not that person holds formal qualifications as a bricklayer or is a good, bad or indifferent bricklayer. Similarly, a person who is employed in a job that requires the performance of the tasks of a veterinarian should be classified in Unit Group 2250: Veterinarians, whether or not that person holds formal qualifications as a veterinarian or is competent to perform these tasks.

\(^3\) At the time of publication it is understood that the revision of ISCED-97 may be completed in 2011. Whilst this would not imply any change in the boundaries between ISCO-08 skill levels, the ILO will provide information about the relationship between any new ISCED levels of education and ISCO-08 skill levels.

71. Finally, it should be noted that the concept of skill level is applied by considering the level of skill required for competent performance of the tasks required for entry-level jobs in a particular occupational group. Some individuals employed in occupations classified at a particular skill level may therefore possess higher or lower skills. The level of skill required for more senior jobs in a particular occupation may also be higher than that required for the occupation as a whole.

2.4 Occupations for which formal education requirements differ between countries

72. A particularly significant change in the application of the concept of skill level to the design of ISCO-08 reflects the principle that occupations that involve the performance of the same tasks should always be classified in the same place, even if the formal educational qualifications required or held may differ from one country to another.

73. A major problem identified by users of ISCO-88 related to occupations that required the performance of similar tasks and duties (or content) but had a different (higher or lower) skill level requirement, as measured in particular countries based on formal educational qualifications. This is because, given differences in national education systems, the same occupation requiring performance of broadly the same set of tasks and duties can be undertaken by individuals with different levels of formal education, without affecting the level of skill required for competent performance of the tasks.4

74. The ISCO-88 guidelines recommended that occupations with higher or lower skill requirements, in the national context, than those assigned in ISCO-88 be classified to the major group corresponding to the skill level that was required for such jobs in the country concerned. This approach tended to reduce international comparability, as occupations with similar content in terms of the tasks performed were classified in different ISCO-88 major groups depending on the country. This was particularly the case when skill level was interpreted primarily in terms of the level of formal education and training required in the national context.

75. Two of the most obvious cases where this was a problem in ISCO-88 related to the treatment of nurses and primary and pre-primary school teachers. In some countries, nurses and teachers require a university degree while in others they do not. At the time ISCO-88 was adopted, this situation was resolved by assigning these occupations to parallel minor groups, in Major Groups 2 and 3. These occupational groups were to be used alternatively, that is, countries were to classify all teachers and all nurses either in Major Group 2 or in Major Group 3, except in cases where there were real differences within the country in the tasks and duties performed. Given that ISCO-88 descriptions for teachers and nurses were identical in both major groups, it is understandable that a number of countries made the distinction between professional and associate professional workers on the basis of the educational level of the job holder, or of the typical educational requirements in the country, and not on the basis of the tasks and duties actually performed.

76. For ISCO-08, this problem is addressed by giving job content (i.e. tasks and duties) priority over national education and training requirements. In other words, occupations that involve the performance of broadly the same sets of tasks and duties are always classified in the same category in ISCO-08, even in cases where national skill level requirements measured in terms of formal education are different. It is hoped that this will lead to an improvement in international comparability.

77. A set of principles and guidelines was developed to help decide what skill level should be assigned to occupations when education and training requirements differ among countries.

4 It may be assumed, nevertheless, that more highly qualified or experienced individuals might perform the same tasks with a higher level of competence than those who are less qualified.
These principles are outlined below and were applied in order of precedence in helping to determine where in the ISCO-08 structure certain occupations are classified.

(a) The complexity and range of the tasks and duties involved in the occupation was considered in relation to the definitions for each skill level, with particular reference to the characteristic tasks and duties associated with each skill level.

(b) Where the formal education requirements were different in only a small number of countries, the skill level was determined on the basis of the requirements that applied in a large majority of countries.

(c) Where consideration of (a) and (b) above was inconclusive in distinguishing between Skill Levels 1 and 2, occupations that required, in some countries, completion of the first stage of secondary education (ISCED-97 Level 2) and, in other countries, completion of primary education only (ISCED-97 Level 1) were classified at Skill Level 1. This approach was taken because, in many highly industrialized countries, completion of the first stage of secondary education is more or less universal. In such circumstances those who have not completed the first stage of secondary education may not be able to find employment in even the most unskilled of jobs.

(d) Where consideration of (a), (b) and (c) above was inconclusive, the situation that prevailed in industrialized countries was generally used to determine the skill level of an occupation, but only where there was a consistent approach across a clear majority of these countries. For example, if a degree was required for entry to an occupation for less than half of the countries that are members of the Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD), but a two-year diploma was required in most other countries, then it may have been appropriate to assign the occupation to Skill Level 3. The size of countries as well as the number of countries was also taken into consideration in making judgements of this type. The reason for adopting this approach was that the prevailing situation in industrialized countries was considered likely to eventually become the norm in other countries. Moreover, the higher level of qualification was likely to be a requirement for many occupational migration purposes.

2.5 Classification structure and code scheme

78. ISCO-08 is designed so that occupations are arranged into one of 436 unit groups at the most detailed level of the classification hierarchy. It is intended that all jobs in the world can be assigned to one (and only one) of these unit groups. In general, each unit group is made up of several “occupations” that have a high degree of similarity in terms of skill level and skill specialization. Unit groups are in turn arranged into minor groups, minor groups into sub-major groups, and sub-major groups into major groups based on the concept of skill level and on successively broader applications of the concept of skill specialization.

79. All but two of the ISCO-08 major groups contain occupations at only one of the four ISCO skill levels. All 43 of the sub-major groups contain occupations at only one skill level. This means that data classified at sub-major, minor or unit group level of ISCO-08 can be aggregated by skill level only, if desired. This is achieved by creating three sub-major groups in Major Group 0: Armed Forces occupations, for commissioned officers, non-commissioned officers and “other ranks”; and by arranging occupations in Major Group 1: Managers, so that all occupations not at Skill Level 4 are in a single sub-major group, at Skill Level 3. This is a departure from ISCO-88 in which occupations in Major Group 1: Legislators, Senior Officials and Managers, and Major Group 0: Armed Forces, were not assigned a skill level.

80. Looking at the hierarchical structure of ISCO-08 from the top down, each of the ten major groups is made up of two or more sub-major groups, which in turn are made up of one or more minor groups. Each of the 130 minor groups is made up of one or more unit groups. Each major group is denoted by a 1-digit code. Each sub-major group is denoted by a 2-digit code, comprising the major group code plus one digit. In the same way, minor groups are denoted by 3-digit codes and unit groups by 4-digit codes comprising the higher level code plus one digit in each case. This convention is illustrated by the following example:
| Major Group | 5 | Services and Sales Workers |
| Sub-major Group | 51 | Personal Services Workers |

Minor Group 511 Travel Attendants, Conductors and Guides

Unit Groups
- 5111 Travel Attendants and Travel Stewards
- 5112 Transport Conductors
- 5113 Travel Guides

81. Other code conventions used in ISCO-88 have also been adopted in ISCO-08. In particular, where a minor group contains only one unit group the last digit in the unit group code is “0”. Where a unit group is a residual group it has the same name as the minor group followed by the words “not elsewhere classified” and its final digit is 9.

82. It is important to note that, while some ISCO-88 categories have not been changed, the code for a particular category may or may not have changed because of structural changes around it. Similarly the same code may refer to quite different categories in ISCO-88 and ISCO-08. All conversion or comparison of data between the two classification versions should, therefore, be undertaken by referring to the correspondence tables provided in Part IV.

2.6 Thematic views

83. In addition to the main classification structure, a set of standard “thematic groupings” or “views” of ISCO-08 is being developed for certain groups of occupations, where there is a need for a standardized approach towards the aggregation of occupational data according to a particular theme. These occupations are not grouped together in the ISCO-08 main structure because skill level takes precedence. Thematic views are thus a standard alternative way of aggregating occupational data classified at the 4-digit level of ISCO-08, according to aspects of skill specialization, primarily the goods and services produced. They are intended to provide guidance for classifying occupations according to these themes, in order to facilitate the compilation of internationally comparable statistics.

84. The thematic views are not intended to be mutually exclusive or jointly exhaustive. Some unit groups may therefore be listed in more than one thematic view, and some unit groups may not be included in any thematic view.

85. Thematic views, once finalized, will be released electronically on the ISCO website. It is proposed to develop thematic views of occupations in the areas listed below. The need for these particular groupings has been taken into account in the design of the ISCO-08 structure. Should the need for further thematic views arise these will be provided as required.

2.7 Definitions of groups

Purpose of the definitions

86. The main purpose of the definitions of the groups in ISCO-08 is to concisely define the content of each group, so that countries can determine as consistently as possible where in the ISCO structure a particular occupational group should be classified. It is hoped that this will promote the accuracy and international comparability of data in statistical and administrative applications. A supplementary purpose is to provide general descriptive information about the nature of the work performed in the group of occupations concerned. There was no intention to create an occupational “dictionary” with detailed specifications of work to be performed in particular occupations.

87. To the extent possible, definitions of ISCO-08 groups are intended to be able to stand alone. In other words, the essence of a group should be able to be understood without making reference to the definitions of other categories.

Structure and content of the definitions

88. The overall structure of the definitions is the same as that used in ISCO-88, except that the use of both notes and footnotes as addenda to definitions has been replaced by an optional field for each definition called “Notes” (see para. 96 below).

89. All definitions therefore begin with a lead statement, which is followed by a statement of tasks performed and a list of inclusions and, where necessary, exclusions and notes. A similar approach is adopted for groups at all levels of the classification, although there are some differences in format and wording conventions.

90. The lead statement summarizes the scope and basic nature of the group and usually comprises one or two sentences. In general, the most important or key aspect of the work performed, that distinguishes the group concerned from other groups, is mentioned first. In some cases a sentence is added that refers only to some of the occupations classified in the group. It is not necessary for all jobs classified in a group to perform all kinds of work identified in the lead statement.

91. Statements of tasks performed indicate the main tasks typically, or usually, performed in occupations classified in the group. The statement does not generally include all tasks performed in all jobs classified in the group, but may include some tasks that are important in only some of the jobs classified there. In general, lists of tasks contain between five and ten items, but there are some cases where more or fewer items are required.

92. Tasks that are unique to a particular occupation within a group are included as separate items only if they are a particularly important component of the occupation concerned, and cannot be incorporated in a more general statement that also applies to other occupations. For example, the definition of Unit Group 2263: Environmental and Occupational Health and Hygiene Professionals includes the following tasks that are specific to occupational health and safety advisers, because these are particularly important elements of the work of that occupation:

(a) recording and investigating injuries and equipment damage, and reporting safety performance;

(b) coordinating arrangements for the compensation, rehabilitation and return to work of injured workers.

93. When a sub-major or minor group contains only one group at the next level down in the hierarchy, the substantive content of the lead statement and task statement is identical for both groups.

94. For major, sub-major and minor groups, the list of tasks performed is followed by a list of the groups included at the next level down in the classification hierarchy. For unit groups the list of tasks is followed by a list of “examples of the occupations classified here”. These lists aim to give an indication of the occupations and job titles included in the group. They do not define a fifth hierarchical level of the classification. The occupations listed are not exhaustive and in some cases are simply commonly occurring occupational titles, which may in reality refer to the same or very similar occupations. More comprehensive information about the detailed content of each unit group is provided in the Index of occupational titles, sorted in code order. The purpose of the list of included occupations is informative rather than prescriptive, and it should be borne in mind that the usage of occupational titles in some countries may differ from the usage implied in ISCO-08.

95. An optional list of “related occupations classified elsewhere” is included where there is a potential for confusion between occupations with similar titles or work content.
96. Some definitions of groups contain additional “Notes”. The notes are used primarily to clarify the boundaries between related groups where this may not be entirely clear based on the descriptive material, where there is potential for confusion, or if there is a need for a comment about a particular occupational group. In general, similar or identical text appears in the notes added to all of the groups mentioned in a particular note, so that the definition of each group may stand alone.
3. MAJOR CHANGES BETWEEN ISCO-88 AND ISCO-08

3.1 Summary of changes and the reasons for them

97. Although the conceptual model used to guide the development of ISCO-08 has not been fundamentally changed from that used in ISCO-88, there are significant differences in the treatment of some occupational groups. These differences reflect the need to address concerns about specific difficulties experienced in the use of ISCO-88, as well as the need to reflect occupational change in the 20-year period since its development.

98. The overall system of major groups, sub-major groups, minor groups and unit groups used in ISCO-88 has been retained in ISCO-08. The ten major groups at the top level of the ISCO-88 structure can still be found in ISCO-08. The names of some of the major groups have been changed slightly so as to more clearly indicate their content, and some occupational groups have been moved from one major group to another. As a result, conversion of data directly from ISCO-88 major groups to ISCO-08 major groups is not possible.

99. A number of completely new sub-major groups, minor groups and unit groups have been introduced to ISCO-08, and several ISCO-88 groups at these levels have been merged with other groups or split into several groups.

100. These changes imply a break in series between statistics based on ISCO-88 and ISCO-08 at all levels in the classification hierarchy, although there is a one-to-one correspondence between some specific groups below the major group level. Full tables showing all correspondences at unit group level between ISCO-88 and ISCO-08 are provided in Part IV. The tables are presented in both ISCO-88 and ISCO-08 order.

101. Many of the changes address concerns that ISCO-88 was seriously out of date in some areas, most notably as a result of the impact of developments in technology on professional, technical and clerical work associated with the use of computers and telecommunications. Some categories in ISCO-88 have therefore been merged, split or moved to reflect occupational and technological change in the labour market. New categories have been created to allow for the identification of new or emerging occupational groups. To assist time series analysis, ISCO-88 unit groups have not been split and joined to parts of other ISCO-88 unit groups, except where this was unavoidable.

102. In addition, there are some changes in the way the ISCO conceptual model is applied to the design of the classification. Most notably, the nature of the work performed has been given more emphasis than formal education and training requirements in determining the skill level of an occupation.

103. Other changes in the classification structure respond to concerns that ISCO-88 was excessively detailed in some areas and inadequately detailed in others, and that there was a wide variation in the size of some sub-major and minor groups. Wherever possible, efforts have been made to ensure that the level of detail provided in ISCO-08 is appropriate and useful considering its main purposes. It is intended that these changes will make it easier to produce estimates from sample surveys for ISCO-08 sub-major and minor groups than was the case with ISCO-88. Given the nature of the occupational distribution of the labour market at the international level, and the variety of uses of ISCO, these concerns about the size of groups and about differing levels of detail in different parts of the classification were important but not overriding considerations.

104. In some cases there were concerns that it was not feasible to make distinctions between certain categories in ISCO-88 on a consistent basis internationally, especially considering the kind of data that it is possible to collect in a census or in surveys. In such cases, for example the treatment of managerial occupations in agriculture, adjustments have been made in ISCO-08 to improve both consistency of reporting and international comparability.

105. Some of the more significant changes are summarized below.

- The sections of the classification dealing with managerial occupations have been reorganized so as to overcome problems experienced by users of ISCO-88.
- Some additional unit groups and one new minor group have been created for selected supervisory occupations, but only in areas where supervisors commonly perform significantly different tasks from the workers they supervise.
• Occupations associated with information and communication technology have been updated and expanded, allowing for the identification of professional and associate professional occupations in this field as sub-major groups.
• ISCO-88 included parallel groups appearing in different major groups to cater for cases where the education and training requirements for a particular occupational group differed between countries because of differences in responsibilities and degree of supervision. Parallel groups do not appear in ISCO-08 when the tasks performed are essentially the same.
• Occupations concerned with the provision of health services have been expanded, in order to provide sufficient detail to allow ISCO-08 to be used as the basis for the international reporting of data on the health workforce. These occupations have been grouped together, where possible, to provide two sub-major groups and a separate minor group devoted to occupations in health services.
• The section of the classification dealing with office clerks has been reorganized to reflect the increasing impact of information and communications technology and to provide more meaningful detail for occupations in which large numbers of women are employed.
• The aggregate groups for sales and service workers has been reorganized, including the provision of new sub-major groups for personal services workers, personal care workers and protective services workers.
• More detailed categories and greater clarity are provided for some occupational groups involved in agriculture.
• More detailed categories are provided for occupations involved in the provision of information and services to clients, including those related to tourism.
• The groups for plant and machine operators have been restructured and reorganized in response to concerns that this part of ISCO-88 was excessively detailed and out-of-date in some areas.
• The coverage and visibility of occupations that are significant in informal employment\(^5\) have been improved, leading to an associated increase in the number of sub-major groups in ISCO-08 Major Group 9: Elementary Occupations, compared to ISCO-88.

106. The result of these changes is a modest increase in detail at each level of the classification except at the top level. These changes are not distributed evenly across the classification structure however. Table 3 shows that the number of unit groups in Major Group 2: Professionals, and Major Group 5: Services and Sales Workers, has increased significantly, whereas the number of unit groups in Major Group 8: Plant and Machine Operators, and Assemblers has significantly decreased.

3.2 Managerial and supervisory occupations

Managers, senior officials and legislators

107. Managerial occupations classified in Major Group 1 were reorganized to overcome problems with the distinction between “corporate” managers and “general” managers experienced by users of ISCO-88. These changes address problems caused by the use, in ISCO-88, of categories based on classifications of industrial activities as well as a number of other technical and practical concerns.

108. In ISCO-08 managerial occupations are organized along functional rather than industrial lines. This means that managers with specialist functions such as human resources or manufacturing production are identifiable, irrespective of the industry they work in or of whether they manage a department in a large enterprise or manage a small enterprise whose business is to provide that function.

109. ISCO-88 Minor Group 121: Directors and Chief Executives appears in ISCO-08 as Minor Group 112: Managing Directors and ChiefExecutives. It was grouped with ISCO-88 Sub-major Group 11: Legislators and Senior Officials to form ISCO-08 Sub-major Group 11: Chief Executives, Senior Officials and Legislators. All jobs that require leadership and management of large and complex organizations, that typically have a hierarchy of managers, are thus classified in a single sub-major group, with more detailed breakdowns at minor and unit group levels.

110. The remainder of ISCO-88 Sub-major Group 12: Corporate Managers, and Sub-major Group 13: General Managers, are replaced by three new sub-major groups resulting in the following sub-major group structure for ISCO-08 Major Group 1: Managers:

11 Chief Executives, Senior Officials and Legislators
12 Administrative and Commercial Managers
13 Production and Specialized Services Managers
14 Hospitality, Retail and Other Services Managers

111. Jobs in both Sub-major Groups 12 and 13 generally require high levels of skill in specific fields, typically acquired as the result of an extended university education and several years of experience in a related occupation classified in Major Group 2: Professionals. These occupations are associated (along with those in Sub-major Group 11) with the highest ISCO skill level (Level 4). Occupations in Sub-major Group 14 are associated with ISCO Skill Level 3.

112. Sub-major Group 12: Administrative and Commercial Managers includes the managers of organizational units that typically provide services or support functions across organizations. They may be managers of departments within companies or government departments, or the managers of small companies that provide these services to other organizations. The recruitment manager of a large corporation and the manager of a small company that provides recruitment services to other organizations are both classified in ISCO-08 Unit Group 121: Human Resource Managers, as they have primary skills in common. In ISCO-88 the former would have been classified in Sub-major Group 12: Corporate Managers, and the latter in Sub-major Group 13: General Managers. Managerial occupations that require high levels of skill in administrative, financial or commercial matters are thus now classified in a single sub-major group and are identifiable at unit group level according to the particular professional and technical skills required.

113. Sub-major Group 13: Production and Specialized Services Managers is for managers responsible for management of the production of the goods or services provided by the organization that they work in. Managers of departments in large organizations or managers of small organizations focused on the production of goods, or of specialized services (except administrative and commercial services), are thus included in a single sub-major group and organized into minor groups or unit groups according to the type of specialized production or service provision.

114. ISCO-88 Unit Group 1221: Production and Operations Department Managers in Agriculture, Hunting, Forestry and Fishing has been replaced with a new minor group containing two unit groups, as shown below. This group is restricted to those who manage production in large-scale enterprises such as ranches and plantations that typically have a hierarchy of managers.

131 Production Managers in Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries
1311 Agricultural and Forestry Production Managers
1312 Aquaculture and Fisheries Production Managers

115. ISCO-88 Unit Group 131: General Managers in Agriculture, Hunting, Forestry and Fishing has been removed from Major Group 1. The occupations included within this category were moved to ISCO-08 Sub-major Group 61: Market-oriented Skilled Agricultural Workers, or to Sub-major Group 62: Market-oriented Skilled Forestry, Fishery and Hunting Workers. They were merged with the relevant groups of skilled agricultural, hunting, forestry or fishery workers. The reason for this change is that the distinction, in ISCO-88, between this group and farmers that do not have a significant management function is not feasible in a number of countries. This led to significant inconsistencies in the international reporting of data.

116. Jobs in Sub-major Group 14: Hospitality, Retail and Other Services Managers generally, although not exclusively, involve management of relatively small organizations that do not have a hierarchy of managers. They do not normally require formal educational qualifications at professional level. It should be noted, however, that managers of large retail and hospitality establishments, such as large supermarkets, department stores or hotels, are also classified in the relevant unit groups in Sub-major Group 14. Although some such establishments may have a hierarchy of managers, it is neither practical nor useful to classify managers of very large supermarkets or hotels separately from the managers of medium-sized and small ones. Chief executive officers and specialized managers of hotel management companies, retail chains and hotel chains are nevertheless classified in the relevant unit group in Sub-major Groups 11, 12 or 13, if they are responsible for activities of groups of hotels or sales outlets.

117. It is also important to note that owner-operators and employee-operators of businesses are only classified in Major Group 1 if management tasks are a significant component of the work. Definitional notes are provided to make it clear that operators of shops, guest houses, cafés, restaurants, bars and similar establishments, for whom management and supervision of staff is not a significant component of the work, are classified elsewhere, usually in Major Group 5: Services and Sales Workers. Although this distinction is not conceptually different from the approach adopted under ISCO-88, the absence of explicit advice about the treatment of this group may have led, in some national applications or adaptations of ISCO-88, to the inclusion of relatively large numbers of operators of small business in ISCO-88 Sub-major Group 13: General Managers.

118. A new Unit Group 5221: Shopkeepers is provided for the particularly important group of workers who own and operate retail shops either independently or with support from a small number of others. Operators of guest houses, restaurants, cafés and similar establishments are classified according to the main tasks performed, for example as domestic housekeepers, cooks or waiters.

Supervisory occupations

119. In ISCO-88 supervisors were generally classified in the same unit group as the workers they supervised. Many countries, however, consider it important to distinguish supervisors from other workers, including managers, in specific sectors where supervisors do not mainly perform the same tasks as the workers supervised. To reflect this concern, unit groups for supervisory occupations are included in ISCO-08 for selected supervisory occupational groups.

120. Due to the additional skill level requirements for some supervisory jobs, a new Minor Group 312: Mining, Manufacturing and Construction Supervisors was created in Sub-major Group 31: Science and Engineering Associate Professionals. For similar reasons, a unit group for office supervisors is included in Minor Group 334: Administrative and Specialized Secretaries.
121. The supervisory unit groups in ISCO-08 are:
   - 3121 Mining Supervisors
   - 3122 Manufacturing Supervisors
   - 3123 Construction Supervisors
   - 3341 Office Supervisors
   - 5151 Cleaning and Housekeeping Supervisors in Offices, Hotels and Other Establishments
   - 5222 Shop Supervisors

122. All other supervisory occupations are classified in the same unit group as the most skilled workers supervised. Definitional material is provided for relevant categories, to ensure that the distinctions between managerial, supervisory and other occupations in ISCO-08 are as clear as possible.

3.3 Professional and technical occupations

Information and communications technology (ICT)

123. Technological change over the 20-year period since ISCO-88 was developed meant that ISCO-88 was particularly out of date with respect to occupations involved in the provision of goods and services related to information and communications technology (ICT). The significant update and expansion of categories for these occupations allows the identification in ISCO-08 of professional and associate professional occupations in ICT as sub-major groups at the second level of the classification, as shown below.

25 Information and Communications Technology Professionals
   - 251 Software and Applications Developers and Analysts
     - 2511 Systems Analysts
     - 2512 Software Developers
     - 2513 Web and Multimedia Developers
     - 2514 Applications Programmers
     - 2519 Software and Applications Developers and Analysts Not Elsewhere Classified
   - 252 Database and Network Professionals
     - 2521 Database Designers and Administrators
     - 2522 Systems Administrators
     - 2523 Computer Network Professionals
     - 2529 Database and Network Professionals Not Elsewhere Classified

35 Information and Communications Technicians
   - 351 Information and Communications Technology Operations and User Support Technicians
     - 3511 Information and Communications Technology Operations Technicians
     - 3512 Information and Communications Technology User Support Technicians
     - 3513 Computer Network and Systems Technicians
     - 3514 Web Technicians
   - 352 Telecommunications and Broadcasting Technicians
     - 3521 Broadcasting and Audiovisual Technicians
     - 3522 Telecommunications Engineering Technicians

124. The proposed thematic view for ICT occupations will include all of the occupations in Sub-major Groups 25 and 35 listed above, as well as a number of other unit groups that primarily involve the production of ICT goods and services such as:
   - 1330 Information and Communications Technology Services Managers
   - 2152 Electronics Engineers
   - 2153 Telecommunications Engineers
2166 Graphic and Multimedia Designers
2356 Information Technology Trainers
2434 Information and Communications Technology Sales Professionals
7422 Information and Communications Technology Installers and Servicers

125. The growing convergence between information and telecommunications technologies is reflected by including unit groups that are specific to telecommunications (including broadcasting) in the same minor groups as other occupations in ICT. In addition, some unit groups cover both information and telecommunications technologies where there is convergence in the skills required in the labour market including, for example, Unit Group 7422: Information and Communications Technology Installers and Servicers.

126. ISCO-08 includes many occupations that involve specialized skills in the use of ICT as a tool, or where the use of these technologies is a major component of the work. These occupations are not included in the two sub-major groups mentioned above, nor is it intended to include them in the proposed thematic view, as they do not primarily involve the production of ICT goods and services. Examples of ISCO-08 unit groups where the use of ICT as a tool is an important defining characteristic include the following:

- 3211 Medical Imaging and Therapeutic Equipment Technicians
- 4222 Contact Centre Information Clerks
- 5244 Contact Centre Salespersons

Health services occupations

127. The coverage of health services occupations has been extended to provide sufficient detail to allow ISCO-08 to be used as the basis for the international reporting of data on the health workforce to the World Health Organization (WHO). The changes also seek to address problems of comparability between countries caused by difficulties in distinguishing between certain occupational groups, particularly in nursing.

128. To improve the visibility of statistics on the health workforce, new sub-major groups for health occupations have been created in Major Groups 2 and 3. The structure of the new Sub-major Groups 22: Health Professionals and 32: Health Associate Professionals is presented below:

22 Health Professionals

- 221 Medical Doctors
  - 2211 Generalist Medical Practitioners
  - 2212 Specialist Medical Practitioners
- 222 Nursing and Midwifery Professionals
  - 2221 Nursing Professionals
  - 2222 Midwifery Professionals
- 223 Traditional and Complementary Medicine Professionals
  - 2230 Traditional and Complementary Medicine Professionals
- 224 Paramedical Practitioners
  - 2240 Paramedical Practitioners
- 225 Veterinarians
  - 2250 Veterinarians
- 226 Other Health Professionals
  - 2261 Dentists
  - 2262 Pharmacists
  - 2263 Environmental and Occupational Health and Hygiene Professionals

2264 Physiotherapists
2265 Dieticians and Nutritionists
2266 Audiologists and Speech Therapists
2267 Optometrists and Ophthalmic Opticians
2269 Health Professionals Not Elsewhere Classified

32 Health Associate Professionals

321 Medical and Pharmaceutical Technicians
   3211 Medical Imaging and Therapeutic Equipment Technicians
   3212 Medical and Pathology Laboratory Technicians
   3213 Pharmaceutical Technicians and Assistants
   3214 Medical and Dental Prosthetic Technicians

322 Nursing and Midwifery Associate Professionals
   3221 Nursing Associate Professionals
   3222 Midwifery Associate Professionals

323 Traditional and Complementary Medicine Associate Professionals
   3230 Traditional and Complementary Medicine Associate Professionals

324 Veterinary Technicians and Assistants
   3240 Veterinary Technicians and Assistants

325 Other Health Associate Professionals
   3251 Dental Assistants and Therapists
   3252 Medical Records and Health Information Technicians
   3253 Community Health Workers
   3254 Dispensing Opticians
   3255 Physiotherapy Technicians and Assistants
   3256 Medical Assistants
   3257 Environmental and Occupational Health Inspectors and Associates
   3258 Ambulance Workers
   3259 Health Associate Professionals Not Elsewhere Classified

129. A number of other points of difference between ISCO-88 and ISCO-08 should be noted in the treatment of professional and associate professional occupations in health. In ISCO-08:

- Separate unit groups are provided for generalist and specialist medical practitioners.
- Separate unit groups are provided for nursing and midwifery occupations at both professional and associate professional level.
- The distinction between professional and associate professional nurses and midwives is made on the basis of the type of work performed and not on the basis of the qualifications held (or typically held) by individuals in the country concerned. The differences in the tasks performed have been made clear in the definitions of these categories.
- A new Minor Group 224: Paramedical Practitioners has been created. Jobs that were classified to ISCO-88 Unit Group 3221: Medical Assistants should be classified in this minor group, if they involve the provision of advisory, diagnostic, curative and preventive care services either working autonomously or under limited supervision of medical doctors.
- Veterinarians and veterinary technicians and assistants are included in the sub-major groups for health professionals and associate professionals respectively, because of the strong similarity with human health occupations in the field of knowledge required and tasks performed. They are identified at minor group level so that data on occupations that involve the provision of human health services can be compiled, by exclusion, from data reported at this level.
- Ambulance workers are classified in Sub-major Group 32, whereas in ISCO-88 they were included in Major Group 5: Service Workers and Shop and Market Sales Workers.
- Emergency paramedics are classified in the same unit group as ambulance officers, as it is difficult to distinguish them from ambulance workers in statistical collections in some countries.
• Medical and dental prosthetic and related technicians have been moved from ISCO-88
Major Group 7: Craft and Related Trades Workers to ISCO-08 Sub-major Group 32.

130. The changes in the classification of practitioners of traditional and complementary medicine are particularly significant. Practitioners of traditional medicine exist at professional level (ISCO Skill Level 4) in large numbers in many Asian countries, and are increasing in number in North America and Europe. These occupations generally require extensive formal education in both traditional and modern (allopathic) medicine. Minor groups were therefore created for traditional and complementary medicine professionals, and for traditional and complementary medicine associate professionals, replacing the single unit group in Major Group 3 provided in ISCO-88. A discussion on the boundaries between these two groups can be found in section 4.4 below.

131. In addition to the changes made for professional and associate professional occupations in health, a separate Sub-major Group 53: Personal Care Workers is also provided. This group replaces ISCO-88 Minor Group 513: Personal Care and Related Workers. Those involved in the provision of health services are identified separately at the minor group level from those involved in child care, as follows:

53 Personal Care Workers
  531 Child Care Workers and Teachers’ Aides
      5311 Child Care Workers
      5312 Teachers’ Aides
  532 Personal Care Workers in Health Services
      5321 Health Care Assistants
      5322 Home-based Personal Care Workers
      5329 Personal Care Workers in Health Services Not Elsewhere Classified

132. It is intended that the occupations involved in the provision of human health services in Sub-major Groups 21, 31 and 53 (that is, excluding those minor groups relating to veterinary care and child care) will be included in the proposed thematic view for health occupations.
A number of other unit groups that were not separately identified in ISCO-88 may also be included, in particular:

  1342 Health Services Managers
  1343 Aged Care Services Managers
  3344 Medical Secretaries

Teachers

133. In ISCO-88, primary school teachers and pre-primary school teachers were classified in either Major Group 2: Professionals or Major Group 3: Technicians and Associate Professionals. The intention was that the distinction should depend on the specific tasks and degree of responsibility in executing them, as well as on the national education and training requirements. In practice the distinction was often based on the qualifications held by individuals, or on the qualifications predominantly held in a particular country. This approach is not consistent with the principle adopted for ISCO-08 that occupations that require the performance of similar tasks should be classified in the same group. Although in a number of countries these teachers do not require the same level of education and training as secondary school teachers, it was agreed that they should all be classified in Major Group 2.
This reflects both the nature of the work performed and the requirement in many countries that primary and pre-primary school teachers should be educated at least to university degree level.

134. Categories have also been provided for vocational education teachers and for some specialized categories of teacher. Those who teach vocational subjects that prepare students for employment in a particular occupational group are classified in Unit Group 2320: Vocational Education Teachers, whether they work in a general secondary school or in a vocational or technical school or college.
Arts, entertainment, design and sports occupations

135. Occupations in arts, entertainment, design and sport were classified in ISCO-88 in Minor Groups 245: Writers and Creative or Performing Artists and 347: Artistic, Entertainment and Sports Associate Professionals. This meant that musicians and dancers, for example, were classified in different major groups depending on whether or not they performed in classical or less formal settings. This does not reflect the reality of contemporary employment in arts and entertainment.

136. In response to this and to a range of other concerns about the treatment of these occupations in ISCO-88, the following changes have been made in ISCO-08:

(a) The arts- and media-related unit groups in ISCO-88 Minor Group 347 have been merged, where possible, with the equivalent unit groups from ISCO-88 Minor Group 245.

(b) A new Minor Group 264: Authors, Journalists and Linguists has been created. This allows the separate identification at unit group level of authors and related writers; journalists; and translators, interpreters and other linguists.

(c) The remaining arts workers are classified in a new Minor Group 265: Creative and Performing Artists, where additional detail is provided at unit group level by identifying actors separately from film, stage and related directors and producers.

(d) ISCO-88 Unit Group 3471: Decorators and Commercial Designers has been split to form three new unit groups:
   - 2163 Product and Garment Designers
   - 2166 Graphic and Multimedia Designers
   - 3432 Interior Designers and Decorators

(e) A new Minor Group 216: Architects, Planners, Surveyors and Designers has been created in recognition that building, graphic, multimedia and other design occupations all require a combination of functional, creative and artistic skills.

(f) A new Minor Group 342: Sports and Fitness Workers has been created.

(g) Photographers are separately identified from other image and sound recording equipment operators (who are classified in Sub-major Group 35: Information and Communications Technicians).

(h) A new Minor Group 343: Artistic, Cultural and Culinary Associate Professionals has been created and contains the new unit groups for photographers; interior designers and decorators; gallery, museum and library technicians; chefs; and a residual category.

Engineering professionals

137. ISCO-88 Minor Group 214: Architects, Engineers and Related Professionals has been split. This allows the inclusion of architects, cartographers, surveyors and town and traffic planners in the new Minor Group 216 mentioned above. A new Minor Group 215: Electrotechnology Engineers includes separate unit groups for electrical, electronics and telecommunications engineers. Industrial and production engineers, and environmental engineers, are now separately identified as unit groups in Minor Group 214: Engineering Professionals (excluding Electrotechnology) along with the remaining unit groups from ISCO-88 Minor Group 214.

Specialized administrative occupations

138. New minor groups and unit groups are provided in Major Groups 1, 2 and 3 to allow for the better identification of occupations that involve the development, implementation and administration of government and corporate policy, and of administrative occupations requiring highly specialized skills. These include but are not restricted to:

121 Business Services and Administration Managers
   - 1211 Finance Managers
   - 1212 Human Resource Managers
   - 1213 Policy and Planning Managers
   - 1219 Business Services and Administration Managers Not Elsewhere Classified
122 Sales, Marketing and Development Managers
  1221 Sales and Marketing Managers
  1222 Advertising and Public Relations Managers
  1223 Research and Development Managers

242 Administration Professionals
  2421 Management and Organization Analysts
  2422 Policy Administration Professionals
  2423 Personnel and Careers Professionals
  2424 Training and Staff Development Professionals

334 Administrative and Specialized Secretaries
  3341 Office Supervisors
  3342 Legal Secretaries
  3343 Administrative and Executive Secretaries
  3344 Medical Secretaries

139. These changes are aimed, in part, at addressing concerns that ISCO-88 catered inadequately for administrative occupations in government service. Whilst all of the occupations listed above are relevant for both the public and private sectors, some of them are particularly relevant for the public sector, most notably Unit Groups 1213: Policy and Planning Managers and 2422: Policy Administration Professionals.

140. With the exception of some very specific groups, such as those occupations included in Minor Group 335: Government Regulatory Associate Professionals, ISCO-08 makes no distinction between administrative occupations in the public sector and the private sector. Almost all ISCO-08 unit groups may therefore include jobs in both sectors. In determining the most appropriate ISCO-08 code for jobs in the civil service, therefore, it is important to consider the nature of the work performed rather than classifying jobs based only on the civil service grade or job title.

Sub-major and minor group structures for professional and technical occupations

141. The changes discussed in the sections above, combined with the provision of additional detail in a number of other areas of the classification, necessitated a significant reorganization of the structures of Major Group 2: Professionals and Major Group 3: Technicians and Associate Professionals. This reorganization was also guided by a desire to avoid retaining groups at the second and third levels of the classification hierarchy that were excessively small in terms of the total number of jobs counted in each group. The sub-major group structures for Major Groups 2 and 3 of ISCO-88 and ISCO-08 are compared in tables 4 and 5.

3.4 Clerical, sales and services occupations

Office clerks

142. ISCO-88 Sub-major Group 41: Office Clerks has been split into three sub-major groups to reflect the impact of developments in ICT on the organization of work, and to provide more meaningful detail for occupations in which large numbers of women are employed. Sub-major Group 42: Customer Services Clerks has been retained. ISCO-08 Major Group 4: Clerical Support Workers thus comprises four sub-major groups:

41 General and Keyboard Clerks

42 Customer Services Clerks

43 Numerical and Material Recording Clerks

44 Other Clerical Support Workers

143. Other changes affecting office clerks include:

- a new minor group for general office clerks (411), in line with practice in a number of national occupation classifications;
- splitting ISCO-88 Minor Group 41: Secretaries and Keyboard-operating Clerks, to provide separate minor groups for those clerks who primarily operate keyboards and for general secretaries;
- the merging of four ISCO-88 unit groups into two ISCO-08 unit groups for keyboard operators – 4131: Typists and Word Processing Operators, and 4132: Data Entry Clerks;
- the separate identification of library clerks from filing and copying clerks; and
- a new unit group for personnel clerks.

Occupations involved in the provision of information and services to clients

144. The scope of ISCO-88 Sub-major Group 42: Customer Services Clerks has not been changed significantly, with the notable exception that ISCO-88 Unit Group 4211: Cashiers and Ticket Clerks has been moved to ISCO-08 Sub-major Group 52: Sales Workers, because of the close relationship of the work performed in many jobs in this unit group with that performed by sales assistants. The group is also represented as a minor group, so as to improve its visibility in summary statistics.

145. More detailed categories are provided for occupations involved in the provision of information and services to clients, including those related to tourism. The number of unit groups in Minor Group 422: Client Information Workers (Client Information Clerks in ISCO-88) has, as a result, increased from 3 to 8.
422 Client Information Workers
4221 Travel Consultants and Clerks
4222 Contact Centre Information Clerks
4223 Telephone Switchboard Operators
4224 Hotel Receptionists
4225 Enquiry Clerks
4226 Receptionists (general)
4227 Survey and Market Research Interviewers
4229 Client Information Workers Not Elsewhere Classified

146. ISCO-88 Unit Group 3414: Travel Consultants and Organisers has been merged with Unit Group 4221: Travel Agency and Related Clerks, on the basis that the distinction between these groups was not clear. The resulting ISCO-08 Unit Group 4221: Travel Consultants and Clerks includes those who make travel and accommodation bookings, issue travel tickets, and/or provide advice and information on local attractions and accommodation. Workers who register passengers for check-in and departure at airports and other transportation facilities are also included in Unit Group 4221 as they require similar skills to travel agency clerks in issuing tickets, rearranging itineraries and so on, and are not distinguishable in practice from airline employees who sell and issue tickets.

147. Tour operators, who plan, design and organize package and group tours, and make bulk travel and accommodation bookings, were included in ISCO-88 Unit Group 3414. They have not been included in ISCO-08 Unit Group 4221 and are explicitly listed as an occupation included in Unit Group 3339: Business Services Agents Not Elsewhere Classified.

Sales workers

148. The number of unit groups in Sub-major Group 52 has increased from 3 to 13 and the minor group structure of the group has been modified. This increase is in part a result of the movement to Sub-major Group 52 of street food vendors (5212: Street Food Salespersons in ISCO-08) and door-to-door and telephone sales persons from Major Group 9: Elementary Occupations; and the movement of cashiers and ticket salespersons from Major Group 4: Clerks. Additional detail is also provided through the separate identification of the following unit groups:

5221 Shopkeepers
5222 Shop Supervisors
5223 Shop Sales Assistants
5242 Sales Demonstrators
5243 Door-to-door Salespersons
5244 Contact Centre Salespersons
5245 Service Station Attendants
5246 Food Service Counter Attendants
5249 Sales Workers Not Elsewhere Classified

Personal and protective services workers

149. In addition to the creation of a separate sub-major group for personal care workers mentioned above in the discussion on health services occupations, ISCO-88 Sub-major Group 51: Personal and Protective Services Workers has been further subdivided to allow the creation of separate sub-major groups for personal services workers and for protective services workers. Additional detail is also provided at minor and unit group levels. These changes are illustrated in table 6 which compares the sub-major group and minor group structures of Major Group 5 in ISCO-88 and ISCO-08.

150. The need for information about workers who provide sexual services on a commercial basis differs from country to country. In a number of countries there is a demand for data about this group, who may operate lawfully and be regulated by government authorities.

\(^7\) Includes Internet salespersons.
In many countries, however, it is unlawful to pay for or receive money for sexual services, and there may be no requirement for information about those who provide such services. In ISCO-88 such workers were tacitly included in Unit Group 5149: Other Personal Service Workers Not Elsewhere Classified. In ISCO-08, a note has been added to the definition of Unit Group 5169: Personal Services Workers Not Elsewhere Classified, explaining that in countries where there is a requirement for the collection of data on sex workers they should be included in this unit group. Where separate identification of this group of workers is required at the unit group level, a Unit Group code 5168 is recommended for this purpose in national adaptations of ISCO-08 that follow the ISCO-08 code structure.

Chefs, cooks and food preparation assistants

151. ISCO-88 Unit Group 5122: Cooks included a wide range of occupations involved in the preparation of meals including chefs, cooks, short order cooks and fast food preparers. Kitchen helpers were classified in ISCO-88 Unit Groups 9131: Domestic Helpers and Cleaners, and 9132: Helpers and Cleaners in Offices, Hotels and Other Establishments. ISCO-08 provides two minor groups and additional detail at the unit group level for these occupations, as outlined below. Chefs are identified as a separate unit group in Major Group 3: Technicians and Associate Professionals, reflecting the higher skill level requirements. The definitional notes provide guidance on the boundaries between the relevant groups.

3.5 Occupations in agriculture, forestry and fisheries

152. A number of changes have been introduced to ISCO-08 with respect to occupations in agriculture, forestry and fisheries. The main changes can be summarized as follows:

- market-oriented agricultural workers are identified in a separate sub-major group from forestry and fishery workers;
- virtually all farmers are classified in Major Group 6, whereas ISCO-88 classified some farmers in Major Group 1;
- more detailed categories are provided for subsistence workers;
- more detailed categories are provided for agricultural, forestry and fishery labourers.

153. In Major Group 6: Skilled Agricultural, Forestry and Fishery Workers, ISCO-08 has three sub-major groups instead of the two included in ISCO-88. ISCO-88 Sub-major Group 61: Market-oriented Skilled Agricultural and Fishery Workers has been split to allow skilled agricultural workers to be identified at the second level of the classification, separately from market-oriented forestry and fishery workers.

154. Most jobs classified in ISCO-88 Unit Group 1311: General Managers in Agriculture, Hunting, Forestry and Fishing are now included in the relevant categories in ISCO-08 Sub-major Group 61: Market-oriented Skilled Agricultural Workers, or in Sub-major Group 62: Market-oriented Skilled Forestry, Fishery and Hunting Workers. The reason for this is that the distinction between these groups was not feasible in a number of countries. This led to significant inconsistencies in international reporting of data, as indicated above in the discussion on managerial occupations.

155. With respect to subsistence workers, there was extensive debate during the development of ISCO-08 about whether or not ISCO-88 Sub-major Group 62: Subsistence Agricultural and Fishery Workers should be retained. On the one hand there was concern that the boundary between subsistence and market-oriented activity could be difficult to draw, both in concept and from a practical point of view in statistical collections, as most subsistence farming involves the sale of a surplus. It was felt that the accurate collection of data on subsistence workers may require additional questions in censuses and surveys. In many countries employment in subsistence activity is very small or non-existent.

156. On the other hand, in many countries subsistence farming represents a large proportion of total employment and is seen as being qualitatively quite different from other types of employment. Whilst some experts felt that subsistence activity may be better identified in other international statistical standards such as the International Classification of Status in Employment, the removal of this group from ISCO would mean that this type of employment would no longer be identified in any current international statistical standard.

157. The group has therefore been retained as Sub-major Group 63: Subsistence Farmers, Fishers, Hunters and Gatherers. The single minor and unit group provided in ISCO-88 has been replaced in ISCO-08 with separate minor and unit groups for those producing crops only, livestock only, mixed crops and livestock, and for subsistence fishers, hunters, trappers and gatherers.

63 Subsistence Farmers, Fishers, Hunters and Gatherers

- 631 Subsistence Crop Farmers
  - 6310 Subsistence Crop Farmers
- 632 Subsistence Livestock Farmers
  - 6320 Subsistence Livestock Farmers
- 633 Subsistence Mixed Crop and Livestock Farmers
  - 6330 Subsistence Mixed Crop and Livestock Farmers
- 634 Subsistence Fishers, Hunters, Trappers and Gatherers
  - 6340 Subsistence Fishers, Hunters, Trappers and Gatherers

158. The definitional material for this group and for Sub-major Groups 61, 62 and 92 (Agricultural, Forestry and Fishery Labourers) has been improved to make it clear that:
(a) workers engaged in agricultural, forestry and fisheries activities should be classified in Sub-major Group 63 if the main aim of the production is to provide goods (mainly food) for consumption by the worker’s own household;
(b) those who perform only simple tasks requiring little judgement or experience should nevertheless be classified in Sub-major Group 92;
(c) subsistence hunters, trappers and gatherers should be classified in Sub-major Group 63.

159. For countries and regions in which subsistence activities are virtually non-existent, Sub-major Group 63 can be excluded from national and regional adaptations of ISCO-08 without loss of international comparability.

160. More detailed categories have also been created in Minor Group 921: Agricultural, Forestry and Fishery Labourers. These categories reflect the minor group structure used in Sub-major Group 61: Market-oriented Skilled Agricultural Workers, and in Sub-major Group 62: Market-oriented Skilled Forestry, Fishery and Hunting Workers. In this way, those working on crop farms, livestock farms, and mixed crop and livestock farms can be identified separately, regardless of any national variations in practice for coding farm jobs as skilled or elementary in Major Groups 6 and 9 respectively. A separate unit group is also provided for garden and horticultural labourers. Hunting and trapping labourers are no longer included in the same unit group as forestry labourers, on the basis that they cannot easily be distinguished from skilled hunters and trappers.

92 Agricultural, Forestry and Fishery Labourers

- 921 Agricultural, Forestry and Fishery Labourers
  - 9211 Crop Farm Labourers
  - 9212 Livestock Farm Labourers
  - 9213 Mixed Crop and Livestock Farm Labourers
  - 9214 Garden and Horticultural Labourers
  - 9215 Forestry Labourers
  - 9216 Fishery and Aquaculture Labourers

161. A new Unit Group 9624: Water and Firewood Collectors is also provided in ISCO-08. Although many water collectors are employed in agricultural settings, this unit group is included in Minor Group 962: Other Elementary Workers, as the activity does not necessarily involve agricultural production. Jobs in this unit group are common in urban as well as agricultural settings.

3.6 Occupations in crafts, repair and operation of machinery

Electrical and electronics trades workers

162. A new Sub-major Group 74: Electrical and Electronics Trades Workers has been created for ISCO-08. It comprises those jobs classified in ISCO-88 Minor Group 724: Electrical and Electronic Equipment Mechanics and Fitters and Unit Group 7137: Building and Related Electricians. Separate minor groups are provided for electrical and for electronics equipment installers and repairers. The unit groups reflect the growing convergence between computer and telecommunications technologies, and aim to provide a clear distinction between those working with high tension and low tension equipment.

Handicraft workers

163. The new ISCO-08 Minor Group 731: Handicraft Workers comprises most of the occupations included in ISCO-88 Minor Groups 731: Precision Workers in Metal and Related Materials; 732: Potters, Glass-makers and Related Trades Workers; and 733: Handicraft Workers in Wood, Textile, Leather and Related Materials. It also includes ISCO-88 Unit Groups 7424: Basketry Weavers, Brush Makers and Related Workers; 7431: Fibre Preparers; and 7432: Weavers, Knitters and Related Workers. Some of the unit groups moved to the new minor group have been merged, due to the very small numbers employed in many of these occupations and the difficulty in distinguishing between occupations such as “handicraft worker, reed weaving” and “basket maker”.

Printing occupations

164. The groups for printing occupations specified in Major Groups 7 and 8 in ISCO-88 had become outdated due to developments in printing technology. In particular, the distinction between machine operators and trades workers was no longer seen as meaningful. ISCO-08 provides a simplified arrangement, involving only three unit groups: pre-press technicians, printers, and print finishing and binding workers. These unit groups form a single Minor Group 732:
Printing Trades Workers. This minor group is grouped with the new Minor Group 731: Handicraft Workers to form Sub-major Group 73: Handicraft and Printing Workers, reflecting the combined manual dexterity, use of specialized tools, and artistic skill involved in both groups.

Plant and machine operators

165. The groups for plant and machine operators have been significantly rationalized and reorganized in response to concerns that this part of ISCO-88 was excessively detailed and out of date in some areas. There was also difficulty in distinguishing reliably between stationary plant operators and machine operators. Some occupations have been classified at a higher skill level due to technological developments and the automation of industrial processes controlled by technicians from a central control room or console.

166. The main features of the changes introduced to address these concerns are:
(a) ISCO-88 Sub-major Groups 81: Stationary-Plant and Related Operators, and 82: Machine
Operators and Assemblers have been replaced by two new sub-major groups:

81 Stationary Plant and Machine Operators

82 Assemblers

(b) some minor groups have been merged where there were parallel groups in related fields in ISCO-88 for stationary plant operators and machine operators;
(c) a new Minor Group 313: Process Control Technicians has been created and a number of unit groups, or parts of unit groups, have been moved into this new group from ISCO-88 Sub-major Group 81: Stationary-Plant and Machine Operators, reflecting the need for these occupations to be classified at a higher skill level; and
(d) a number of unit groups have been merged where there was concern that the categories in ISCO-88 were too detailed.

167. In addition, some groups in Major Group 8 have been merged with groups of related occupations in Major Group 7, where the distinction between craft and related trades workers on the one hand, and plant and machine operators on the other, was no longer meaningful.
This was the case, for example, for printing occupations, mining occupations and for some machine tool setters and operators.

3.7 Improved identification of elementary occupations and of occupations predominant in informal employment

168. The need to identify occupations that are common in informal employment was taken into consideration in ISCO-88 primarily through the delineation of specific unit groups considered to be important in the informal sector. There was widespread concern, however, that coverage of such occupations remained inadequate. Statistics about employment in many of these occupations were not visible in internationally comparable data, as they were separately identified only at detailed levels of ISCO-88. For example, ISCO-88 included two unit groups for street vendors, an occupational group that is very commonly associated with informal employment. These two unit groups were included in the same minor group, however, as door-to-door and telephone salespersons, more frequently associated with formal employment.
169. The coverage of occupations that are predominant in informal employment has been extended in ISCO-08. Where possible, such occupations have been aggregated into minor groups and sub-major groups, to allow them to be more easily visible in internationally reported data. This is reflected, for example, in the creation of Minor Group 731: Handicraft Workers, mentioned above, and in a number of changes in the structure of Major Group 9: Elementary Occupations, discussed below.

170. Although jobs in informal employment can be found in all ISCO major groups, the structure of Major Group 9: Elementary Occupations has been significantly affected by the changes mentioned above. In particular, there has been an increase from 3 to 6 in the number of sub-major groups in Major Group 9, including the creation of Sub-major Group 95: Street and Related Sales and Services Workers.8

171. The ISCO-88 and ISCO-08 sub-major and minor group structures for Major Group 9: Elementary Occupations are compared in table 7.

8 Street food vendors are classified in ISCO-08 Unit Group 5212: Street Food Salespersons.
172. ISCO-88 Minor Group 914: Building Caretakers, Window and Related Cleaners has been split. Building caretakers are identified in ISCO-08 as a unit group in Minor Group 515: Building and Housekeeping Supervisors. Separate unit groups are provided in ISCO-08 Minor Group 912 for hand launderers and pressers, vehicle cleaners, window cleaners and other cleaning workers.

173. With respect to ISCO-88 Minor Group 915: Messengers, Porters, Doorkeepers and Related Workers, the bulk of occupations classified in Unit Group 9152: Doorkeepers, Watchpersons and Related Workers are now included in ISCO-08 Unit Group 5414: Security Guards. The remaining unit groups in this minor group are now included in Minor Group 962: Other Elementary Workers.
4. NOTES ON SPECIFIC ISSUES AND BOUNDARY PROBLEMS

4.1 Purpose of these notes

174. Chapter 4 discusses and clarifies areas of ISCO-08 where the boundaries between related groups may be difficult to delimit consistently in national contexts. It discusses cases where practice and boundaries have changed between ISCO-88 and ISCO-08 and provides advice on a number of other situations where the process of determining the most appropriate ISCO-08 code for a particular job or occupation may be difficult. In all of these cases special care may need to be taken to ensure consistent interpretation in national adaptations and applications of ISCO-08.

175. The information presented here relates primarily to the conceptual boundaries between categories in the classification, in situations where all information about the occupations concerned can be known. In statistical and administrative data collection activities it is frequently the case, however, that only a limited amount of information is available about the work performed. Some information is provided, therefore, about the evidence that may be needed to differentiate between some of the more difficult groups. It is hoped that those responsible for the development of tools to support the implementation of ISCO and related national classifications will be able to use this information to help make decisions about how best to assign classification codes to commonly occurring occupation titles associated with these difficult cases.

176. ISCO-08 has been designed so that, for most statistical purposes, the responses to questions about (a) the occupation or job title and (b) the main tasks or duties usually performed by the worker should be sufficient to assign a 4-digit ISCO code. Chapter 6 provides general guidance on the design of questions and on the procedures that may need to be adopted to ensure sufficiently consistent and accurate assignment of occupation codes, based on the evidence that might be available in particular statistical and administrative contexts. These issues will be covered more comprehensively in the proposed ISCO-08 Implementation guide.

4.2 Boundary issues affecting a broad spectrum of occupations

Occupations with a broad range of tasks and duties

177. Occupational classifications – national as well as international – define occupations and occupational groups by reference to the most common combinations of tasks and duties. Problems may arise therefore when, in the case of some jobs, the range of tasks and duties performed does not correspond exactly to those specified in the classification. In such cases application of the following rules is suggested, in the order of precedence given below, when implementing ISCO-08 and related classifications.

(a) In cases where the tasks and duties performed require skills usually obtained through different levels of training and experience, jobs should be classified in accordance with those tasks and duties which require the highest level of skills. For instance, a job which consists of driving a van, loading and unloading it and delivering goods by hand should be classified in Unit Group 8322: Car, Taxi and Van Drivers.

(b) In cases where the tasks and duties are connected with different stages of the production and distribution of goods process, tasks and duties related to the production stage should take priority over associated ones, such as those related to the sales and marketing of the same goods, their transportation or the management of the production process. For example, a baker who bakes bread and pastries and also sells these products should not be classified as a salesperson, but as a baker, which means, in ISCO-08 terms, Unit Group 7512: Bakers, Pastry-cooks and Confectionery Makers.

* If there is a need to distinguish accurately between occupations classified in Sub-major Group 63: Subsistence Farmers, Fishers, Hunters and Gatherers, and other skilled agricultural, forestry and fishery workers, a separate question on subsistence activity may also be advisable.
(c) Where the tasks and duties performed are both at the same skill level and at the same stage of production, jobs should be classified according to the predominant tasks performed. For example a “fire door installer” may assemble and install doors, door frames and fittings and also install and connect electrical wiring systems so that the door will close automatically in the event of a fire alarm. In this case, the job requires skills both as a carpenter and as an electrician, but the most time-consuming part of the work relates to carpentry. It should therefore be classified in Unit Group 7115: Carpenters and Joiners, rather than in Unit Group 7411: Building and Related Electricians.

Apprentices and trainees

178. In ISCO-08 apprentices and trainees are classified according to the occupation they are training for, if they are employed in the capacity of apprentice or trainee.\(^{10}\)

179. The ISCO-88 introduction (p. 11) stated: “Apprentices and trainees are classified according to the tasks and duties actually performed, and not, as is the case with some occupational classifications, according to their future occupation.” Most apprentices and trainees, however, perform the same tasks as those performed by fully qualified workers, but do so under varying degrees of supervision. Moreover, most data sources would not provide sufficient detail to allow us to determine whether the apprentice performs the same tasks or different tasks from those performed in the occupation for which he or she is training.

180. ISCO-08 therefore classifies workers in a formal learning status with an employer who instructs them in an occupation in the same way throughout the classification. Apprentice carpenters and apprentice electricians, for example, are classified as carpenters and electricians. Medical and legal interns are similarly classified as doctors and lawyers. Where trainees also have jobs in a related occupation, these jobs should be classified according to the work required to be performed, such as when medical or legal students, for example, are employed as ward attendants, medical assistants or legal clerks.

181. It should also be noted that responses in statistical collections frequently do not contain information about apprentice or trainee status, unless specific questions are asked to identify this group. If information about apprentice or trainee status is required, it may be more effective to treat this as a separate variable, with a separate question, rather than to attempt to identify apprentices and trainees as separate occupations in a national occupation classification.

4.3 Managers, supervisors and operators of businesses

Managers and supervisors

182. The distinction between managers and supervisors may frequently cause difficulties. This problem existed in ISCO-88 but is highlighted in ISCO-08 where some supervisory occupations are identified separately from the occupations they supervise. The critical difference is that supervisors are responsible only for supervision of the activities of other workers, whereas those classified in Major Group 1: Managers have overall responsibility for the operations of a business or an organizational unit.

183. Both managers and supervisors plan, organize, coordinate, control and direct the work done by others. In addition, managers usually have responsibility for and make decisions about: (a) the overall strategic and operational direction of a business or organizational unit (for example about the kinds, quantity and quality of goods to be produced);

\(^{10}\) Where students are undertaking work practice not as part of an employment arrangement, they are not classified according to economic activity status as employed, and their learning activity would therefore not normally be classified by occupation. As this situation may be fairly common in educational programmes for particular occupational groups, care should be taken to check economic activity status when considering occupational titles such as “student teacher” or “pupil nurse” in statistical collections.
(b) budgets (how much money is to be spent and for what purposes); and
(c) the selection, appointment and dismissal of staff.

184. It is not a necessary condition that managers have responsibility for all three of strategic and operational direction, budgets and staff selection and dismissal. The degree of autonomy they exercise may also vary.

185. Supervisors may provide advice and assistance to managers on these matters, especially in relation to staff selection and dismissal, but do not have authority to make decisions. They usually have experience as workers in one or more of the occupations they supervise, and do not usually supervise the activities of workers employed in a wide range of occupations.

186. Managers do not necessarily know how to perform the work of all of the staff employed in the units they manage, although in some circumstances they may. It is frequently the case that managers plan, coordinate and control the activities of workers employed in a wide range of occupations.

Managers and operators of small businesses

187. Self-employed workers, who operate their own business either independently or with assistance from a small number of others, frequently perform some management and administrative tasks as part of their normal activity. In ISCO-08 such jobs are only classified in Major Group 1: Managers if there is evidence that management, including supervision of staff, is the major component of the work performed. For example, a motor vehicle mechanic who owns and operates his or her own workshop and employs a small number of other mechanics, a receptionist and a cleaner, but spends most of the time repairing vehicles and/or supervising the work of the other mechanics, is classified in Unit Group 7231: Motor Vehicle Mechanics and Repairers.

188. It is important to note that ISCO-08, like its predecessor, does not take into consideration whether a worker is a working proprietor or not, as this and similar attributes of the labour force, such as being an employer or an employee, reflect status in employment and not the tasks and duties of the worker. It is better therefore to treat this characteristic of jobs as a separate variable, classified according to a classification such as the International Classification of Status in Employment (ICSE-93).\textsuperscript{11} Information related to status in employment should not generally be taken into consideration in assigning jobs to ISCO-08 categories. The fact that a worker is, for example, an owner of the business in which he or she is employed may have little or no relationship to the kind of work performed.

Size of the organization

189. There is an evident relationship between the size of the organization in which a worker is employed and categories in ISCO-08 related to management. For example, those occupations classified in Minor Group 112: Managing Directors and Chief Executives are usually senior managers in organizations that are large enough to have a hierarchy of managers. Similarly, most occupations classified in Sub-major Group 14: Hospitality, Retail and Other Services Managers are the managers of relatively small organizations that do not usually have hierarchies of managers. Workers classified in Sub-major Groups 12: Administrative and Commercial Managers and 13: Production and Specialized Services Managers may be employed in large hierarchical organizations or in relatively small organizations that provide specialist services to other organizations.

190. Despite these relationships, information about the size of the organization in which an individual manager is employed is not generally relevant to decisions about the most appropriate

\textsuperscript{11} See ILO, 1993. Current guidelines on the International Classification of Status in Employment can be found
ISCO-08 code. This is because ISCO-08 Major Group 1 is organized according to functional specialization and not according to the size of the organization managed.

191. Although most shop managers, for example, are responsible for relatively small establishments, the managers of large supermarkets and department stores are still shop managers. They are classified with other shop managers in Unit Group 1420: Retail and Wholesale Trade Managers. Taking another example, the key characteristics of chief executives, classified in Minor Group 112, are that they coordinate and direct the activities of other managers who have a range of specialized functions, and that they report to a board of directors. This is a result, primarily, of the way in which management and governance of the organization is arranged, and reflects the complexity of the organization’s functions as much as its size.

192. It is therefore not recommended to use information about the size of the organization in which a worker is employed, measured in terms of number of employees or turnover, or about the number of staff supervised, to differentiate between managers classified in the different sub-major groups of Major Group 1. Similarly, information about organization size should not be used to differentiate managers from operators of small businesses classified in other major groups. The most reliable way to make these distinctions in statistical and administrative collections is likely to be to collect information about both the occupation or job title and the main tasks or duties performed.

4.4 Related occupations at different skill levels

General principles

193. There are many cases, in both ISCO-88 and ISCO-08, where occupations that are relatively similar in terms of aspects of skill specialization are classified in different major groups because of differences in skill level. Whilst the distinctions between such occupations are frequently clear cut and well understood, there are some cases where care needs to be taken to ensure that specific occupational groups in the national context are mapped appropriately to ISCO-08 categories. In general, the following principles should be applied in making decisions about where in ISCO-08 to classify particular occupations with respect to skill level.

(a) Decisions should be made on the basis of the tasks actually performed, rather than on the level of qualifications required in a particular country, or on the extent to which the occupations concerned are formally regulated. In this way, occupations that involve performance of the same tasks are always classified in the same ISCO-08 group, regardless of differences in national training or regulation.

(b) The actual qualifications held by the person holding a particular job should not be taken into consideration.

(c) Jobs held by experienced or highly qualified individuals are classified in the same group as those held by less well qualified individuals when the tasks performed are essentially the same, even though the more qualified individuals may sometimes perform more difficult or complex tasks. For example, master carpenters, senior carpenters, junior carpenters and apprentice carpenters, who build structures using wood and other materials, are all classified in Unit Group 7115: Carpenters and Joiners. Skill level is determined on the basis of the requirements for entry-level jobs for fully qualified workers.

194. The boundaries between occupations classified in Major Group 9: Elementary Occupations and those that are related in terms of skill specialization but classified in Major Groups 6, 7 and 8 may cause particular difficulty when occupation titles such as “farm hand”, “construction worker”, “process worker” or “factory worker” are used. The general principle to be adopted is that occupations classified in Major Group 9 typically involve the performance of simple and routine manual and physical tasks that require limited training and no more than basic skills in numeracy, literacy and interpersonal communication. Whilst the operation of complex machinery is not involved, the use of hand-held mechanical tools may be required.

195. Where boundary issues are of particular concern, guidelines are provided in the notes included with the ISCO-08 group definitions. Examples of occupation titles included in each group are also given. Where it is known, however, that the same or similar terms are used in different countries to refer to occupations classified in different occupation groups, these terms have not generally been listed in either the list of included occupations or in the Index of occupational titles (ISCO-08, Volume 2). In these and other cases, decisions will need to be made in the national context, based on the nature of the work performed. The examples discussed below may require particular attention and may serve to illustrate the points made above.

Nursing professionals, associate professionals and personal care workers

196. Occupations whose titles contain the word “nurse” or “nursing” may be found in Unit Groups 2221: Nursing Professionals and 3221: Nursing Associate Professionals, as well as in Minor Group 532: Personal Care Workers in Health Services.

197. The boundaries between these groups in terms of the tasks performed are defined in the group definitions and associated notes. In summary, nursing professionals assume responsibility for the planning and management of the care of patients, working autonomously or in teams with medical doctors and others. Nursing associate professionals provide basic nursing and personal care and generally work under the supervision or in support of medical, nursing or other health professionals. Personal care workers provide personal care and assistance with mobility and activities of daily living but do not provide nursing care beyond assisting patients with oral medications and changing dressings.

198. Occupational titles such as “nursing sister”, “registered nurse”, “charge nurse”, “enrolled nurse”, “assistant nurse”, “nursing assistant”, “auxiliary nurse” and “nurse aide” need to be mapped to the appropriate ISCO-08 unit group or minor group, based on the usage of these terms in the national context. Although some of these occupation titles are listed in the ISCO-08 group definitions and index, the scope of practice for such titles may vary between countries and within countries over time. It is necessary, therefore, to consider the tasks that workers in jobs with these titles are competent or authorized to perform in the national context, and to compare these tasks with those listed in the ISCO-08 group definitions, in order to determine where in the classification each title will be classified. In this way all relevant terms can be appropriately included in the national index of occupational titles.

Early childhood educators and child care workers

199. Occupations involved in the care and development of children below primary school age may be classified in Unit Group 2342: Early Childhood Educators; 5311: Child Care Workers; or 5312: Teachers’ Aides.

200. Jobs classified in Unit Group 2342 differ from those included in the other two unit groups in that they plan, organize and conduct educational and play activities that are intended to promote the development of children below primary school age. Although it is not advisable to consider the formal qualifications held by individuals, it should be noted that tertiary qualifications in education and early childhood development are normally required.

201. Child care workers provide care and supervision for children. Teachers’ aides perform similar duties and also perform a range of other non-teaching duties to assist teaching staff. Neither of these two groups generally plans and organizes structured play or educational activities, although they may assist in the provision of these activities.

Traditional and complementary medicine professionals and associate professionals

202. The distinction between occupations classified in Unit Group 2230: Traditional and Complementary Medicine Professionals, and 3230: Traditional and Complementary Medicine Associate Professionals, has the potential to be a source of uncertainty, especially in countries where this type of practice is not part of mainstream health service provision.

203. A key point is that traditional and complementary medicine professionals develop and implement treatment plans for human ailments by applying knowledge, skills and practices for which competent performance requires extensive study of theories, beliefs and experiences originating in specific cultures. Those occupations whose practice requires a less extensive understanding based on relatively short periods of formal or informal education and training, or acquired informally through the traditions and practices of the communities where they originated, are included in Unit Group 3230: Traditional and Complementary Medicine Associate Professionals.

204. A comprehensive list of the occupational titles included in each of these groups is included in the unit group definitions and in the ISCO-08 Index of occupational titles available on the ISCO website. Care should be taken, however, in interpreting these occupational titles in national contexts, as the scope of practice and nature of the tasks performed by individuals using these and similar occupation titles may vary from country to country. In some countries there may be a limited framework for the recognition of qualifications in the field of complementary medicine, or the regulatory framework may not allow the performance of certain tasks. As with other occupational groups, the distinction between these two groups should be made on the basis of the tasks performed in these occupations in the national setting, rather than on the qualifications held by individuals. For example, it may be appropriate to classify practitioners who administer treatments within the framework of a treatment plan established by others in Unit Group 3230 rather than in Unit Group 2230.

Occupations in food preparation

205. Occupations that mainly involve the preparation, assembly and presentation of food for immediate consumption may be classified in one of the following unit groups:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Code</th>
<th>Occupation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>3434</td>
<td>Chefs</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5120</td>
<td>Cooks</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9411</td>
<td>Fast Food Preparers</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>9412</td>
<td>Kitchen Helpers</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

206. In determining the boundaries between these groups the following points are of particular relevance.

(a) Chefs, classified in Unit Group 3434, plan and develop recipes and menus, create dishes and oversee the planning, organization, preparation and cooking of meals.

(b) Whilst cooks, classified in Unit Group 5120, plan, organize, prepare and cook a range of dishes, they do so according to recipes or under the supervision of chefs. They do not generally develop menus or create new dishes.

(c) Fast food preparers, classified in Unit Group 9411, prepare and cook to order a limited range of foods or beverages involving simple preparation processes and a small number of ingredients. The key point is that they prepare foods and beverages for which extensive training in food preparation is not required.

(d) Kitchen helpers, classified in Unit Group 9412, mainly provide support to cooks, chefs and waiters by keeping kitchens and food service areas clean and tidy and assisting with basic food preparation tasks.

(e) Jobs that combine simple preparation of food with a significant element of client service should normally be classified in one of the following unit groups as appropriate:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Code</th>
<th>Occupation</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>5131</td>
<td>Waiters</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5212</td>
<td>Street Food Salespersons</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>5246</td>
<td>Food Service Counter Attendants</td>
</tr>
</tbody>

In this case the higher level of skill required for client service takes precedence over the simple food preparation tasks, in line with priority rule (a) specified in section 4.2 above.

(f) Chefs and cooks who prepare more complex dishes and also provide direct service to clients should be classified as chefs or cooks, in line with priority rule (b) specified in section 4.2 above.

207. Although the boundaries between these groups are relatively clear conceptually, it may be more difficult in practice to establish national rules on how to classify particular jobs based on limited information, such as the occupation title and a short task description. Occupation titles like “chef” and “head cook” may generally be coded with confidence to Unit Group 3434: Chefs. The term “cook” without further qualification or information would generally be coded to 5120: Cooks.

208. When the type of food cooked is specified it may be necessary to consider the cooking process used and whether, in the national context, such items are generally cooked according to a simple predefined process. For example, occupation titles such as “hamburger cook” would generally be coded to Unit Group 9411: Fast Food Prepares. In many cases information about the employer may be helpful in determining the most appropriate code. For example, it may be appropriate to consider “cooks” employed by certain well-known fast food chains, specializing in hamburgers or fried chicken, as fast food preparers.

209. Those cooks who specialize in preparing dishes according to a particular national or regional cuisine and generally prepare a wide range of dishes should be classified in Unit Group 5120: Cooks, even if the food is served in a fast food or take-away outlet.

Domestic housekeepers and domestic cleaners

210. Domestic Housekeepers, classified in Unit Group 5152, and Domestic Cleaners and Helpers, classified in Unit Group 9111, have a number of tasks in common. The key difference is that domestic housekeepers take responsibility for the organization and supervision of housekeeping functions in private households, as well as carrying out some or all of these functions themselves. Domestic cleaners and helpers, on the other hand, carry out these functions under the supervision either of a person employed as a domestic housekeeper or of a member of the household who takes responsibility for the organization of housekeeping functions.

4.5 Boundaries between occupational groups in agriculture, forestry and fisheries

211. In classifying occupations in agriculture, forestry and fisheries, particular attention may need to be paid to the boundaries between the following groups:

- agricultural production managers, farmers and farm managers;
- mixed producers of both crops and animals, and specialist producers of crops or animals;
- occupations classified in Sub-major Group 63: Subsistence Farmers, Fishers, Hunters and Gatherers and those classified in the “market-oriented” Sub-major Groups 61 and 62;
- skilled agricultural, forestry and fishery workers classified in Major Group 6 and labourers, classified in Major Group 9: Elementary Occupations.

Agricultural production managers, farmers and farm managers

212. Minor Group 131: Production Managers in Agriculture, Forestry and Fisheries is restricted to those who manage production in large-scale agricultural, horticultural, forestry, aquaculture and fishery operations. Such operations would include large plantations, large ranches, collective farms and cooperatives. Typically such enterprises have a hierarchy of managers and the production manager reports to a managing director.

213. “Farmers” on the other hand generally own and operate their own farm. They perform a range of management tasks as well as tasks directly associated with agricultural production. They are classified in the appropriate unit group in Major Group 6: Skilled Agricultural, Forestry and Fishery Workers, depending on the type of farm they operate.

214. Whilst the distinction between these two groups is conceptually quite straightforward, it may be difficult, in practice, to determine whether a job with an occupation title like “farm manager” should be classified in Major Group 1 or Major Group 6. Such terms may most

12 In some contexts terms such as “chef” and “cook” may be used more or less interchangeably. In such cases alternative approaches adapted to national requirements may need to be considered.
commonly be used in situations where the owner of a farm has engaged an employee to operate the farm. This employee effectively performs the same tasks as a farmer who owns and operates the farm and should be classified in Major Group 6. The distinction between the farmer and farm manager in such cases is primarily a function of status in employment (ILO, 1993) rather than occupation, defined in terms of the type of work performed, and is not generally relevant for determining the most appropriate ISCO-08 code to information about specific jobs (see section 4.3 above).

215. There may be cases, however, where occupation titles such as “farm manager” and “ranch manager” may refer to the management of production in large-scale enterprises with hierarchies of managers. When this is the case, it may be necessary to consider the way in which agricultural production is organized at the national level, as well as the use of occupational titles in the national context, in order to develop suitable national approaches to the coding of such occupation titles.

Mixed and specialist crop and animal producers

216. The notes provided with the definition of Unit Group 6130: Mixed Crop and Animal Producers state that agricultural workers whose tasks predominantly involve either raising animals or growing crops, but also involve some incidental activity in crop growing or tending animals, respectively, should not be included there. In statistical collections the boundaries between mixed producers and specialist producers may, however, pose some problems.

217. In some cases the occupation title used will be sufficient. For example, if the response to a survey question on occupation stated that someone was a “fruit and vegetable grower” or a “shepherd”, it should not be necessary to seek additional evidence. In many cases information about the main tasks performed will also provide satisfactory evidence. For example, a “farmer” whose main tasks are “raising sheep and growing wheat” or “operating a livestock and wheat farm” would be coded to Unit Group 6130: Mixed Crop and Animal Producers.

218. If information about the occupation title and tasks performed is inconclusive, information about the kind of economic activity (industry) of the establishment in which the person is employed may be helpful – but should be treated with caution. For example, it would be reasonable to assume that a skilled farm worker on a livestock farm should be classified to Unit Group 6121: Livestock and Dairy Producers. It is possible, however, that some individual workers on mixed farms may specialize in either animal production or crop production. Mixed farms may, for example, employ both shepherds and tree pruners.

219. Information about the kind of economic activity may be found either in the form of written information provided in response to questions about the establishment in which the person is employed, or in the form of information coded to a classification of economic activities. Particular care needs to be taken when using coded information on the kind of economic activity of agricultural establishments to help assign occupation codes for workers. This is because precedence rules used to determine the predominant activity, for the purposes of economic statistics, may not be compatible with the purposes of an occupation classification based on the kind of work performed, defined in terms of skill requirements. For example, the current version of the International Standard Industrial Classification of All Economic Activities (ISIC Rev. 4) specifies that “if either production of crops or animals in a given unit exceeds 66 per cent or more of standard gross margins, the combined activity should not be included” in Class 0150: Mixed Farming but allocated to crop or animal farming (UN, 2008, p. 72). Workers who specialize in crop or animal farming may thus be employed on mixed farms that have been classified to ISIC categories associated with crop or animal production.

220. Whilst it is not possible here to prescribe strict rules that could be applied in all situations and national contexts, it should be clear from the above that information about economic activity of the establishment should not normally take precedence over information given about occupation title and tasks performed in the job. The important point is that the skills required for performance in the job are the main consideration in determining the most appropriate occupation code. Thus, if skills associated with both animal raising and crop production are essential requirements, then the job should be classified as mixed crop and animal production.
Market-oriented and subsistence workers

221. Special attention may need to be given to the distinction between subsistence farmers and fishers and those working in market-oriented enterprises. As discussed in section 3.5 above, workers should be classified in Sub-major Group 63: Subsistence Farmers, Fishers, Hunters and Gatherers, if the main aim of production is to provide food, shelter and other goods for consumption by members of the worker’s own household.

222. In most cases of subsistence activity some goods are sold to provide a minimum of cash income. If no cash income or bartering is involved, all production of goods for own consumption should be counted as employment and treated as subsistence production. Similarly, if a large surplus is produced, and more goods are sold than consumed, but the main aim of production was for own consumption, the jobs should nevertheless be classified in Sub-major Group 63. Jobs should only be classified as market-oriented agricultural forestry, fishery or hunting if the main aim of the activity is to produce goods for the market.

223. In some (mainly industrialized) countries, subsistence farming may be rare or even non-existent, in which case there would be no need to make special provision or even to include a group for subsistence activities in national adaptations of ISCO-08. In many countries, however, subsistence farming represents a large proportion of rural employment and the distinction between market-oriented and subsistence activity may be important for a wide range of purposes associated with social, economic and labour market policies.

224. In countries where separate job titles are used for subsistence workers and market-oriented workers, these titles should be included in the national index of occupation titles, along with the appropriate classification codes. Where this is not the case, it is unlikely that information about the tasks performed would provide sufficient information to reliably identify subsistence workers, as they have many tasks in common with market-oriented workers. If subsistence farming is a significant concern, it may be necessary, therefore, to consider an additional question asking whether or not production is mainly for sale or mainly for own or family/household use. This question may be asked in the context of other questions on occupation (title and tasks) or in association with questions on economic activity and status in employment. Whenever such a question is included in a household survey or census, it is important to ensure that the responses are used in the occupation coding or editing process.

225. Suggestions for the design and testing of questions related to subsistence farming are included in Chapter 6.

Skilled farm workers (Major Group 6) and farm labourers (Major Group 9)

226. Workers in Sub-major Group 92: Agricultural, Forestry and Fishery Labourers perform a limited range of simple and routine manual tasks requiring limited training or experience. Those classified in Major Group 6: Skilled Agricultural, Forestry and Fishery Workers generally perform a wide range of tasks, typically involving skills acquired through extensive experience and/or training. It should be noted that routine manual tasks may involve the use of mechanized hand-held tools, for which limited training is required.

227. In some cases the occupation title alone may be sufficient to distinguish between skilled and elementary farm workers. For example, occupation titles where the key noun is “farmer”, “grower”, “shepherd”, “pruner” or “shearer” would all indicate occupations that involve the performance of a wide range of tasks, or highly specialized skills requiring considerable training or experience, and are classified in Major Group 6. Similarly, occupation titles such as “farm labourer”, “fruit picker” or “cane cutter” would indicate routine or repetitive tasks requiring limited training or initiative.

228. Occupation titles such as “farm worker” or “farm hand”, however, may require more consideration, as they refer to the fact that the worker is an employee on a farm, rather than to the level of skill or responsibility required. In such cases it is necessary to consider the use of terminology in the national context and in particular agricultural settings. For example, the term “stock hand” may be used in some countries to refer to a worker who looks after the care and well-being of animals on a livestock farm, classified in Unit Group 6121: Livestock and Dairy Producers. An “orchard hand”, however, may be more likely to refer to someone who picks fruit and performs other routine manual tasks than to someone who prunes trees, checks crops for disease and ensures that fruit-bearing trees are healthy and productive.

229. The combination of occupation title with task information or other qualifying information may therefore be useful. For example a “dairy farm worker” who milks cows should be classified in Unit Group 6121: Livestock and Dairy Producers, whilst a “dairy farm hand” who cleans animal enclosures should be classified in Unit Group 9212: Livestock Farm Labourers. Where a combination of tasks is performed including some that involve higher skills or initiative, then Major Group 6 would be more appropriate.

230. It is also important to note that some elementary occupations that commonly occur in rural or farm settings also occur in non-agricultural settings and do not require direct involvement with animals or crops. Such occupations are classified in relevant groups outside Sub-major Group 92: Agricultural, Forestry and Fishery Labourers. For example, ditch digging labourers are classified in Unit Group 9312: Civil Engineering Labourers, and water carriers are classified in Unit Group 9624: Water and Firewood Collectors.

Operation of farm and forestry machinery

231. Finally, it should be noted that many skilled agriculture and forestry workers operate specialized machinery such as tractors and drive motorized vehicles as part of their normal duties. Jobs that require operation of machinery combined with a range of other skilled farm work are classified in Major Group 6. Workers such as harvester operators, who specialize in the operation of machinery but may perform other farm or forestry duties incidentally, should be classified in the appropriate unit group for the type of machinery operated. In most cases this would be Unit Group 8341: Mobile Farm and Forestry Plant Operators.
5. ADAPTING ISCO-08 FOR NATIONAL USE AND FOR THE PRODUCTION OF INTERNATIONALLY COMPARABLE DATA

5.1 Scenarios for the adaptation of ISCO-08 for national use

232. Depending on national circumstances there are three main ways in which ISCO-08 may be adopted or adapted for national use:

- adopting ISCO-08 directly for national purposes (not recommended in most circumstances);
- development or review of a national classification based on ISCO-08;
- an existing national classification, different from ISCO-08, is mapped to ISCO-08 to facilitate the production of internationally comparable data.

233. This chapter provides general guidance on the use of ISCO-08 following each of these scenarios. More detailed advice will be provided in the proposed ISCO-08 Implementation guide.\(^\text{13}\)

234. As outlined in Chapter 1, the ideal situation is that countries develop national classifications that are tailored to meet national requirements whilst also facilitating the provision of internationally comparable information. This means that the development work should take into consideration requirements for international comparability, as well as reflect specific national requirements based on the occupational structure of the workforce and national priorities for information to support policy debate. As these requirements may not always be fully compatible with each other, difficult decisions may sometimes need to be made in weighing national priorities against the need for international comparability.

5.2 Adopting ISCO-08 directly for national purposes

235. In situations where countries do not have the resources, capacity or time to develop a national occupation classification (NOC) designed to suit the country’s own realities and requirements, there may be little choice other than to adopt ISCO-08 with minimal change, at least in the short to medium term. This approach is far from ideal, as the occupational structure of the national labour market, as well as national policy concerns, will vary greatly between countries. It is unlikely, therefore, that ISCO-08 without modification would fully satisfy the range of national requirements for occupational statistics and information.

236. Adopting ISCO-08 in this way does, nevertheless, involve a significant amount of preparation on the part of agencies wishing to use ISCO to collect data on occupations. This might include translating ISCO-08 into the national language or languages where necessary. It would also be necessary to determine where in ISCO-08 particular occupational groups in the country should be classified.

237. Countries would need to decide, for example, whether nursing occupations should be classified in Major Group 2: Professionals, in Major Group 3: Technicians and Associate Professionals, or whether some nursing jobs should be classified in one and some in the other of these groups. The decision would need to be based on knowledge about the nature of the work performed by different types of nurse in the country, and would therefore require some research on the part of those responsible for adopting and using ISCO in national applications.

238. There may also be some occupations in the country that do not commonly exist in other countries and are consequently not separately listed in ISCO-08. Countries would therefore need to collect information about the nature of the work performed in these occupations and their skill requirements, in order to identify the most appropriate ISCO-08 group in which to include them.

\(^{13}\) See also Embury et al., 1997.
239. The most important task, where resources are limited, is to develop a national index of occupation titles, coded to ISCO-08 (and/or to the national adaptation of it). The purpose of this exercise is to accurately map terms used to describe occupations in national data collections to the standard occupation classification. Either the ISCO-08 index or an existing national index may be used as a starting point (see section 6.4 below).

240. The ISCO-08 index provides some common combinations of occupation titles, tasks performed and other qualifying information that may be of assistance in adapting ISCO-08 for national use. The use of these terms in the national context would need to be verified, however, by those developing national indexes of occupational titles. Terms used to describe occupations in the national context would need to be added to the ISCO index, following determination of the appropriate ISCO code.

241. The development or review of a NOC based on ISCO-08 may typically include, in addition to the items mentioned in section 5.2 above, the deletion or merging of categories that are either non-existent or unimportant in the country. It may also include the specification of nationally specific occupational groups, and of groups that are adapted to suit national circumstances. In all cases investigation is required to understand, firstly, the occupational structure of the national labour market and, secondly, the nature of the occupational data required to inform deliberations on nationally important policy issues.

242. This information is likely to be obtained in part through consultation with key users and producers of occupational information and in part through detailed analysis of existing data classified by occupation. This information is used to determine the extent to which the categories and structure of ISCO-08 reflect the reality of national circumstances and requirements. It may be necessary to split some ISCO-08 categories to provide more detail in some areas, or to create an additional more detailed hierarchical level, to satisfy some needs.

243. If the national classification is to be used in administrative or client-oriented activities such as matching jobseekers with job vacancies, as well as in statistical applications, the specific and potentially conflicting operational needs of agencies such as the national employment service and the national statistical office need to be taken into consideration. Employment services may typically require more detailed and more frequently updated information than is practical for use in statistical surveys. Those responsible for designing the classification need to collaborate closely, therefore, with the various national agencies that will use it.

244. Collaboration among those agencies that need to use occupational classifications for the production of data, for operational purposes and for policy analysis, may lead to a commitment among the agencies concerned to adopt a nationally consistent approach. Such collaboration may facilitate the provision of integrated occupational information, based on comparable quantitative and qualitative data from a range of statistical and administrative sources, if a single classificatory framework is used in all applications. Alternatively, a close linkage between different but complementary classification systems can be established. In either case, significant value can be added to the information collected if it is able to be integrated or compared meaningfully with data from other sources.

245. Where it is found necessary to merge ISCO-08 unit groups or higher level groups it should be borne in mind that this may impose limitations on the capacity of countries to map national data to ISCO-08. For example it may be possible to map data only from a detailed level of the NOC to a higher level of ISCO.

246. Where there is an existing NOC that is different from ISCO-08 it may, nevertheless, be desirable to review that classification to improve international comparability of national data, and to determine whether any of the features of the international standard may be useful for national purposes.
5.4 Mapping national occupation classifications to ISCO

247. Unless ISCO-08 is used directly at national level, the comparison of occupational information among countries or regions normally requires that national occupational statistics be converted to the international standard. This may be achieved by mapping the national occupational categories to ISCO-08 or by coding directly to the international classification, as described in section 5.5 below.

248. Mapping one classification into another is equivalent to coding each group in the first classification to the most appropriate group in the second. The validity and accuracy of the mapping will increase with the level detail at which the mapping is done. The mapping should be carried out, therefore, at the lowest possible level of aggregation of each of the two classifications, i.e. NOC and ISCO-08 (see Hoffmann, 1994). The mapping is generally represented in a correspondence table that shows the relationship between the categories in one classification and those in another.

249. In the process of mapping, the following three situations are the most frequently encountered:

(a) The NOC group belongs unambiguously to one of the ISCO-08 unit groups. This is, of course, the simplest situation and, if the NOC is based on a conceptual model similar to that of ISCO-08, it is likely to be the most usual situation.

(b) The NOC group, at the lowest level of aggregation, differs in occupational content from the most relevant ISCO-08 unit group, but the difference in the content does not prevent the NOC group from being validly mapped into an ISCO-08 group at one of the higher levels of aggregation. For example: the NOC classifies mobile farm, forestry and earthmoving plant operators in the same lowest level group, while ISCO-08 classifies these occupations in two separate unit groups, but in both classifications subsequent aggregation of these occupations is carried out in the same manner.

(c) The way of grouping certain occupations is different in the NOC from that applied in ISCO-08, and, as a result, an existing NOC group cannot validly be mapped into any of the ISCO-08 groups. For example: at the lowest level of aggregation, the NOC classifies livestock farmers and livestock farm labourers in a single group, whereas ISCO-08 classifies these occupations in two separate unit groups belonging to different minor, sub-major and major groups.

250. If internationally available occupational statistics have to be produced at the minor group level of ISCO-08, or at any of the higher levels of aggregation, then few problems are likely to arise in the situation described under (b) above. If the information has to be produced at the level corresponding to ISCO-08 unit groups, and the situation described under (b) and (c) above applies, then the following rules, originally developed for ISCO-88, may also be applied for mapping to ISCO-08 in the order of priority given below.

(a) The numerical dominance rule, according to which, on the basis of the additional information available from economic and other statistics, or from sectoral experts, estimates or judgement should be made concerning the relative importance of the occupations classified in the NOC group. If approximately 80 per cent or more of the jobs classified in the NOC group belong to a particular ISCO-08 group, then the whole NOC group should be classified in this ISCO-08 group.

(b) The skill level rule, according to which the occupational mix of the NOC group should be analysed on the basis of the ISCO-08 skill-level concept. The mapping into an ISCO-08 group should then be carried out on the basis of the occupations found to be the most skilled.

(c) The production rule, according to which, for the purposes of mapping into ISCO-08, in the occupational mix of a NOC group production occupations will have priority over sales or managerial occupations.

251. Use of the rules (a), (b) and (c) specified above for mapping categories in national classifications to ISCO-08 will inevitably have a negative impact on the accuracy of any exercise to convert national occupational data to ISCO-08. This may impose significant limitations on the validity of international comparisons. If this type of mapping is necessary it may be worth considering coding national occupational data directly to ISCO-08, as discussed below in section 5.5.
5.5 Coding to both the national occupation classification and ISCO

252. International comparability of occupational statistics can be achieved most accurately by coding the original responses to questions on occupation directly to the international classification system (Hoffmann, 1994, pp. 208–9). If this involves the recoding of census or survey responses that have already been coded to the national classification, the costs may be prohibitive. If, however, the coding index includes both ISCO-08 codes and NOC codes, then it is possible to assign codes for both classification systems. This allows dual coding to be done in a cost-effective manner using a single coding process at the time the survey or census data are originally processed. Where coding is done manually, this is likely to involve the relatively modest additional expense of key entering two sets of codes instead of one. Where computer-assisted or automatic coding is used, the additional costs are likely to be minimal.

253. The complexity of dual coding operations of this type will depend on how different the NOC is from ISCO-08. For example, if the NOC is closely based on ISCO-08 and uses a similar conceptual model, it may be relatively easy to assign both NOC and ISCO-08 codes to coding index entries.

254. If the two classifications have very different conceptual approaches, it is likely to be more difficult to design index entries that assign codes to both classifications. Additional index entries may need to be developed, for example to allow for the distinctions between categories in both classification systems to be made. It is precisely in this situation, however, that mapping from the national classification to ISCO-08 using a correspondence table may be least feasible. In such cases the extra effort involved in designing an index that will assign codes to both classifications may be the only effective way of producing valid internationally comparable data.
6. COLLECTION AND CODING OF DATA FOR CLASSIFICATIONS BASED ON ISCO-08

255. This chapter provides an overview of considerations involved in the collection of data on occupation. It also summarizes the procedures for assigning the responses to questions on occupation to classifications based on ISCO-08. These procedures are referred to as “coding”.

256. More detailed information about collecting and coding data on occupation can be found in Measuring the economically active in population censuses: A handbook, published jointly by the United Nations and the ILO in 2010. Much of the information provided in this handbook is relevant for household and other surveys as well as for censuses. Further advice will also be provided in the proposed ISCO-08 Implementation guide.

6.1 Information needed for coding

257. For accurate coding to any level of ISCO-08 and related national classifications, information is needed on the following:

- Name or title of occupation
- Main tasks or duties usually performed in the job

258. The following information may also be useful:

- The type of economic activity of the establishment (industry)
- Whether or not the main aim of the activity is own consumption (subsistence)

259. Information about the kind of economic activity (or industry) of the establishment in which a person is employed, and even the name of the establishment, may be helpful in some instances, when used in support of information about occupation title and/or tasks performed. Information on the industry of the establishment in which a person is employed is not normally useful, on its own, in assigning occupation codes.

260. If subsistence farming or fishing is significant in the country, or is a major policy concern, it may also be necessary to collect information about whether or not the worker produces goods mainly for the market or mainly for own household consumption.

261. Information about the level of skill or the formal qualifications held by an individual is not necessary and not useful. It is frequently the case that individuals hold higher qualifications than those required for the job in which they are employed or, conversely, that they do not hold any formal qualifications relevant to the job. The use of such information for occupation coding could therefore lead to error and introduce a bias in the relationship between data on occupation and level of education.

6.2 Types of question on occupation

262. Three types of question on occupation have typically been used in national censuses and household surveys:

- One or two pre-coded (tick box) questions on the jobs that the individuals held (not recommended)
- One write-in question to obtain occupation-relevant information about individuals’ jobs
- Two or more write-in questions: a basic question on the title of the position held with follow-up on main tasks performed by the individual in the job

263. In establishment surveys and administrative data collections, a job description or duty statement may be coded directly to the occupation classification, using both the coding index and detailed text descriptions of the classification groups. The nature and detail of the information available from these sources may be quite different from the information provided in household-based collections.
Pre-coded questions

264. Closed-ended pre-coded questions have limited accuracy, as the names for groups in occupation classifications do not usually equate with “real world” terms used to describe jobs. In addition, since these questions are necessarily limited to a small number of categories they do not provide sufficient detail to meet the needs of most data users, even though they take up a large amount of space on census and survey forms.

265. The principal advantage of closed-ended questions on occupation is that responses can be processed quickly and at a low cost. If this approach is unavoidable due to cost limitations, separate response categories can be provided for high-priority groups. Accuracy can also be improved through testing and refinement of questions. It is important to note that the names of categories from broad classification groups should not usually appear on the questionnaire.

Open-ended questions

266. Open-ended questions, if designed well, can provide sufficient information to accurately assign a 4-digit ISCO-08 code. Adequate space must be provided for a written response of several words, and the question or questions should collect information about both the job title and the main tasks or duties performed. Examples of suitably detailed responses should be provided where possible, especially on self-enumerated questionnaires. Where data are collected by telephone or personal interview, good interviewer training is essential to ensure that responses are adequate.

267. The obvious disadvantage of using open-ended questions is that responses have to be assigned classification codes using an index of occupation titles (a coding index). This can be a costly process but is the only way of obtaining accurate and reliable statistical and administrative data on occupation. Relatively quick and cost-effective coding methods are possible, but are likely to require significant development effort.

268. A single question has frequently been asked in surveys and censuses such as:

- What is the main occupation of (the person) in this workplace?
- What kind of work does (the person) do?

269. This approach may provide adequate information from some but not all respondents. This type of question is likely, however, to yield responses such as “manager”, “consultant” or “farm work”. Such responses may not be able to be coded reliably to any level of ISCO-08. If this type of question is used, interviewers need to be trained thoroughly to probe when the information initially provided is insufficient.

270. The use of separate questions on job title and tasks performed is increasingly used by statistical offices and is the recommended approach for household surveys and censuses. The use of two questions generally assures that sufficient detail is provided. Asking for two different types of information will help the respondent to respond fully and to give more detail in the second question, for example:

- Title: Sales manager
- Tasks: Selling used cars
- Title: Customer services consultant
- Tasks: Selling used cars

6.3 Suggested questions recommended for testing and further development

271. Questions for use in statistical collections need to be tested for suitability in a particular data collection setting and in the national context. Testing should generally involve attempting to assign classification codes to the responses to survey questions (test coding), as well as conducting follow-up interviews with data collectors and respondents. The test coding process is also a useful method of developing, testing and refining the coding index.
272. The following questions are suggested as a starting point in the development of a national approach towards the collection of occupation data.

1. In the main job held last week what was your work or occupation?
   Please give full job title and be specific. For example:
   - Fruit picker
   - Legal secretary
   - Restaurant manager
   - Secondary school teacher
   - Cattle farmer
   - Registered nurse

   Occupation: ________________________________

   2. What are your main tasks or duties in that job?
   Please give details. For example:
   - Picking and carrying oranges and peaches
   - Preparing legal documents
   - Managing the operations of a restaurant
   - Teaching mathematics
   - Managing a cattle farm
   - Caring for the sick and administering medications

   Main tasks or duties: ________________________________

273. Special attention may need to be given to subsistence farming and fishing. If this is a policy concern, or is thought to represent a significant proportion of employment, it may be advisable to ask an additional question to improve accuracy. The following approach is suggested.

   3. Do you produce goods mainly for sale or mainly for your own or family use?
      □ Only for sale
      □ Mainly for sale but partly for own or family use
      □ Mainly for own or family use but partly for sale
      □ Only for own or family use

274. This question can generally be asked as a closed-ended question with response categories that ensure a clean separation between those who produce goods mainly for sale and mainly for family use. The four closed-ended response categories suggested above require the respondent to decide whether production is mainly for sale or mainly for own consumption. Selection of the third or fourth response categories would imply that an ISCO-08 code in Sub-major Group 63: Subsistence Farmers, Fishers, Hunters and Gatherers may be appropriate.

275. If information on subsistence activity is collected as part of a set of questions on status in employment or economic activity status, the responses should also be used in the occupation coding or editing process and adapted, if necessary, to ensure they are sufficiently consistent with the definition of ISCO-08 Sub-major Group 63.

6.4 Assigning classification codes to survey responses (coding)

276. Responses to open-ended questions have to be assigned to the appropriate category in an occupation classification. Whether or not the occupation classification is based on ISCO-08 this is not usually a simple process. Responses to questions on occupation (title and tasks), industry and name and address of workplace are relevant to the occupation coding process. Responses to any questions that collect data on subsistence activity should also be taken into consideration.
277. It is advisable to prepare three documents in advance of coding responses to open-ended questions on occupation. These are: (1) coding instructions specifying the procedures the coder is to follow; (2) a coding index; and (3) query resolution procedures, specifying how to deal with responses that cannot be coded using the index and the standard coding procedures specified in (1).

278. The coding index is the key instrument for matching responses to questions with ISCO-08 codes. It can take the form of a durable printed publication, a loose-leaf binder, computer printout, or a machine-readable file within a computer system. The same index can be used in all of these forms in manual, computer-assisted and automatic coding operations.

279. The index is needed because the formal names for classification categories (e.g. Education Manager) are not usually the same as terms normally used to describe jobs in natural language (e.g. head teacher, school principal, university dean, headmistress).

280. The index entries usually include a code for one or more classification systems, and one or more words based on responses given in censuses and surveys. Various devices such as slashes, underlining and italics may be used to indicate whether specific words can be matched with information given as the occupation title, tasks performed or other supplementary information such as industry. The index is searched alphabetically but can also be sorted in code order for updating and query resolution.

281. In the absence of any national index or any other useful source to assess completeness of a national index, the ISCO-08 Index of occupational titles, published as ISCO-08, Volume 2, may be a good starting point to develop a national index. The national index, however, needs to reflect language as used in survey responses in the country concerned.

282. The ISCO-08 Index of occupational titles can be found in electronic form on the ISCO website: http://www.ilo.org/public/english/bureau/stat/isco/index.htm, or by sending an email to: ISCO@ilo.org, and may be used as a starting point in the development of national coding indexes without breach of ILO copyright.

283. In some statistical collections there has been a tendency to code data on occupation only to a particular aggregate level of the classification structure (e.g. the 3-digit level of ISCO). One argument for this is the perceived cost of coding to a larger number of categories in terms of errors and staff hours required. There may also be concern that the responses would not support coding to more detailed categories or that the detailed results may not be publishable due to sampling considerations.

284. The experience of many statistical agencies has shown, however, that the marginal costs of coding to a larger number of ISCO categories are small. Error rates do not significantly increase and may improve for aggregate groups. Many responses support detailed coding, while some do not. Coding to an arbitrary specific level of the classification may therefore involve unnecessary loss of information. With respect to sampling considerations, it is important to note that occupation classifications, including ISCO-08, are not generally designed so that categories at a particular hierarchical level are even in size. Some groups at detailed levels of classification may be larger than others at higher levels. Coding at a higher level will limit options for tabulation, international reporting, and for the production of flexible non-standard aggregations.

6.5 Coding of vague and inadequate responses

285. Whatever level of detail of the classification is used, some responses may be too vague and imprecise to allow the coder to determine to which category the job belongs. Such responses should be coded to the level in the classification structure supported by the information provided on the questionnaire. They should not be forced into any particular detailed category where only a small proportion of the jobs would fall if the responses were adequate. It is particularly important to ensure that residual groups (Not Elsewhere Classified) are not used for vague responses.

286. A common method of dealing with this type of response is to provide entries in the coding index for commonly occurring vague responses. Such responses are assigned the code for the relevant higher category, followed by trailing zeros. Alternatively, such codes can be assigned by specially trained coding staff or coding supervisors as part of a query resolution process. For example, if the only information available is that the person is a manager, the response can be assigned the code for Major Group 1: Managers, followed by three zeros and represented as: “1000: Managers Not Further Defined”.

287. A similar approach can be adopted when data can be coded only to the sub-major group level. If, for example, the only information is the job title “teacher”, it can be coded only to Sub-major Group 23: Teaching Professionals. The response can be assigned a code for what is effectively an artificial unit group (2300: Teaching Professionals Not Further Defined) by adding two trailing zeros.

288. When data can be coded only at the minor group level, a single trailing zero can be added to the 3-digit minor group code. If the only information is that somebody is a medical doctor, for example, it may not be possible to determine whether the response refers to a generalist medical practitioner (Unit Group 2211) or to a specialist medical practitioner (Unit Group 2212). The response can reliably be coded to Minor Group 221: Medical Doctors, and assigned code 2210: Medical Doctors Not Further Defined. Looking at another example, in the case of the response “engineer” with no other useful information, it may be appropriate to assign a code 2140: Engineering Professionals Not Further Defined.

289. In statistical outputs there are two main ways of dealing with these responses. One option is to allocate them proportionally to the more detailed categories in a transparent manner. Alternatively, they can be released in tables labelled as: (Group Name) Not Further Defined. For example, if 15 per cent of all responses coded to ISCO-08 Major Group 1 provide no more detailed information than:

   Occupation title: Manager
   Tasks and duties performed: Management and supervision of staff

it may be appropriate to represent these data in statistical output as Managers Not Further Defined with an ISCO-08 code 1000. In aggregate output, these vague responses are automatically included with data for the relevant aggregate group.

290. The use of codes with trailing zeros entails the creation of supplementary codes (and labels) for data processing and output. Although they are not substantive categories in the classification they need to be specified as valid codes for data storage and processing purposes, in advance of data processing along with other supplementary codes such as those for “inadequately described”, “not stated” and “not applicable” responses.

SEVENTEENTH INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCE OF LABOUR STATISTICIANS: RESOLUTION III

RESOLUTION CONCERNING FURTHER WORK ON THE INTERNATIONAL STANDARD CLASSIFICATION OF OCCUPATIONS

The Seventeenth International Conference of Labour Statisticians,

Having examined the report to the Conference of the International Labour Office's work with classifications,

Recognizing the valuable work that the International Labour Office (ILO) has carried out over the years to develop the current version of the International Standard Classification of Occupations (ISCO-88) and to advise on its use as a model for national occupational classifications as well as on their effective and reliable use for statistics and in client-related applications,

Recognizing that some countries have national occupational classifications that differ significantly from ISCO-88 to well reflect their national circumstances,

Concluding that the basic principles and main structure of ISCO-88 should not be changed, but that nevertheless modifications are necessary in some areas, both to make improvements in light of experience gained in many countries using ISCO-88-based classifications, and as a consequence of developments in the world of work over the last 15 years,

Observing that the custodians of national standard occupational classifications as well as the users of such classifications and of occupational statistics significantly benefit from the technical advisory services that the ILO is uniquely qualified to provide, and

Recalling the request made by the Statistical Commission of the United Nations at its 34th session (March 2003) that the timetable for the revision of ISCO should meet the needs of the 2010 round of population and housing censuses;

Requests the Governing Body of the International Labour Organization to:

(a) ensure that the ILO, as the custodian of the International Standard Classification of Occupations (ISCO-88), will have the capacity to:

(1) undertake the research and consultations necessary to formulate the modifications and updates of ISCO-88 that are necessary to ensure that it can continue to serve as a good model for national occupational classifications to be used for statistics as well as for client-related applications;

(2) complete this work not later than the end of 2007 for the results to be taken into account in national preparations for the majority of population censuses that are to be undertaken in the 2010 round;

(b) develop and implement mechanisms for this work to be done in cooperation and consultation with representatives of custodians of national occupational classifications as well as other experts and interested parties;

(c) convene an ILO meeting of experts to evaluate and make appropriate recommendations on the results to the Governing Body; and

(d) ensure that the ILO will have the capacity to provide the technical advisory services that will be needed particularly by the developing countries to ensure that national occupational classifications can be developed or improved correspondingly and be used effectively and reliably.
ANNEX 2

RESOLUTION CONCERNING UPDATING THE INTERNATIONAL STANDARD CLASSIFICATION OF OCCUPATIONS

The Tripartite Meeting of Experts on Labour Statistics on Updating the International Standard Classification of Occupations (ISCO),

Having been convened at Geneva by the Governing Body of the ILO and having met from 3 to 6 December 2007;

Recalling the Resolution of the Fourteenth International Conference of Labour Statisticians, made on 6 November 1987, endorsing the International Standard Classification of Occupations, 1988 (ISCO-88);

Recalling the request made by the Statistical Commission of the United Nations at its 34th session (March 2003) that the timetable for the revision of ISCO should meet the needs of the 2010 round of population and housing censuses; and

Concurring that, whilst the basic principles and main structure of ISCO-88 remain valid, significant modifications reflecting experience gained in many countries using ISCO-88-based classifications and new developments in the world of work are necessary to allow ISCO to continue to be a useful model for the development of national classifications and a basis for international comparison and exchange of information classified by occupation;

Recalling the recommendation adopted by the Seventeenth International Conference of Labour Statisticians in 2003 for the meeting to evaluate the work of the ILO to update ISCO-88 and to make appropriate recommendations on the results to the Governing Body; and

Having examined the report to the Meeting describing the work of the International Labour Office on updating ISCO-88;

Adopts, this sixth day of December 2007, the following resolution:

1. The occupational classification system of major, sub-major, minor and unit groups shown in the Annex to this resolution is endorsed by the Meeting of Experts in Labour Statistics and is designated the International Standard Classification of Occupations, 2008 (ISCO-08).

2. ISCO classifies jobs. A Job is defined for the purposes of ISCO-08 as a set of tasks and duties performed, or meant to be performed, by one person, including for an employer or in self employment.

3. An occupation is defined as a set of jobs whose main tasks and duties are characterized by a high degree of similarity. A person may be associated with an occupation through the main job currently held, a second job or a job previously held.

4. Jobs are classified by occupation with respect to the type of work performed, or to be performed. The basic criteria used to define the system of major, sub-major, minor and unit groups are the “skill level” and “skill specialization” required to competently perform the tasks and duties of the occupations.

5. In collecting and processing statistics classified by occupation (e.g. for use in fields such as labour market analysis, educational planning, human resource planning, occupational health and safety analysis, wages analysis, etc.), each country should endeavour to compile data that can be converted to the ISCO-08 system, to facilitate the international use and comparison of occupational information.

6. Countries should provide information to the ILO about how the groups defined in the classification (or classifications) of occupations used for national purposes can best be related to ISCO-08.

7. The Meeting of Experts notes that the ILO plans to:
   (a) publish ISCO-08 including definitions of the major, sub-major, minor and unit groups and an index of occupations in English, French and Spanish;
(b) provide a manual and training material on how to adapt ISCO-08 for use in national and regional settings; and provide training on a regional basis through a series of regional workshops;

(c) ensure that, as the custodian of the International Standard Classification of Occupations (ISCO-08), it will have the capacity to provide the technical advisory services that will be needed particularly by the developing countries to ensure that national occupational classifications can be developed or improved correspondingly and be used effectively and reliably.

PART III

DEFINITIONS OF MAJOR GROUPS, SUB-MAJOR GROUPS, MINOR GROUPS AND UNIT GROUPS
Major Group 1
MANAGERS

Managers plan, direct, coordinate and evaluate the overall activities of enterprises, governments and other organizations, or of organizational units within them, and formulate and review their policies, laws, rules and regulations. Competent performance in most occupations in this major group requires skills at the fourth ISCO skill level, except for Sub-major Group 14: Hospitality, Retail and Other Services Managers, for which skills at the third ISCO skill level are generally required.

Tasks performed by managers usually include: formulating and advising on the policy, budgets, laws and regulations of enterprises, governments and other organizational units; establishing objectives and standards and formulating and evaluating programmes and policies and procedures for their implementation; ensuring appropriate systems and procedures are developed and implemented to provide budgetary control; authorizing material, human and financial resources to implement policies and programmes; monitoring and evaluating performance of the organization or enterprise and of its staff; selecting or approving the selection of staff; ensuring compliance with health and safety requirements; planning and directing daily operations; representing and negotiating on behalf of the government, enterprise or organizational unit managed in meetings and other forums.

Occupations in this major group are classified into the following sub-major groups:

11 Chief Executives, Senior Officials and Legislators
12 Administrative and Commercial Managers
13 Production and Specialized Services Managers
14 Hospitality, Retail and Other Services Managers

Notes
In distinguishing between managers classified in Major Group 1: Managers, and supervisors, classified in other major groups, it should be noted that both managers and supervisors may plan, organize, coordinate, control and direct the work done by others. In addition, managers usually have responsibility for and make decisions about: the overall strategic and operational direction of a business or organizational unit (for example about the kinds, quantity and quality of goods to be produced); budgets (how much money is to be spent and for what purposes); and the selection, appointment and dismissal of staff. Supervisors may provide advice and assistance to managers on these matters, especially in relation to staff selection and dismissal, but do not have authority to make decisions.

It should be noted that it is not a necessary condition that managers have responsibility for all three of strategic and operational direction, budgets and staff selection and dismissal. The degree of autonomy they exercise may also vary. The critical difference is that supervisors are responsible only for the supervision of the activities of other workers, whereas managers have overall responsibility for the operations of an organizational unit.
Sub-major Group 11

Chief Executives, Senior Officials and Legislators

Chief executives, senior officials and legislators formulate and review the policies, and plan, direct, coordinate and evaluate the overall activities, of enterprises, governments and other organizations with the support of other managers. Competent performance in most occupations in this sub-major group requires skills at the fourth ISCO skill level.

Tasks performed by workers in this sub-major group usually include: presiding over or participating in the proceedings of legislative bodies, boards of directors and committees; formulating and advising on the policy budgets, laws and regulations of enterprises, governments and other organizations; establishing objectives for enterprises, government departments or agencies and other organizations; formulating or approving and evaluating programmes and policies and procedures for their implementation; ensuring appropriate systems and procedures are developed and implemented to provide budgetary control; authorizing material, human and financial resources to implement policies and programmes; monitoring and evaluating performance of the organization or enterprise; selecting or approving the selection of senior staff; performing ceremonial duties and representing the enterprise, government, organization or community at official occasions and in meetings, negotiations, conventions and public hearings.

Occupations in this sub-major group are classified into the following minor groups:

- 111 Legislators and Senior Officials
- 112 Managing Directors and Chief Executives

Minor Group 111

Services Managers Not Elsewhere Classified

This unit group covers managers that plan, direct and coordinate the provision of services and are not classified in Sub-major Group 13: Production and Specialized Services Managers or elsewhere in Sub-major Group 14: Hospitality, Retail and Other Services Managers. For instance, managers of travel agencies, conference centres, contact centres and shopping centres are classified here.

Examples of the occupations classified here:

- Camp site manager
- Caravan park manager
- Conference centre manager
- Contact centre manager
- Shopping centre manager
- Travel agency manager

Note

Excluded from this unit group are occupations that involve managing the provision of specialized professional and technical services and require specialized qualifications and experience relevant to one or more occupations classified in Major Group 2: Professionals or in Major Group 3: Technicians and Associate Professionals. These managerial occupations are classified in various unit groups in Sub-major Groups 12: Administrative and Commercial Managers and 13: Production and Specialized Services Managers.

PROFESSIONALS

Professionals increase the existing stock of knowledge; apply scientific or artistic concepts and theories; teach about the foregoing in a systematic manner; or engage in any combination of these activities. Competent performance in most occupations in this major group requires skills at the fourth ISCO skill level.

Tasks performed by professionals usually include: conducting analysis and research, and developing concepts, theories and operational methods; advising on or applying existing knowledge related to physical sciences, mathematics, engineering and technology, life sciences, medical and health services, social sciences and humanities; teaching the theory and practice of one or more disciplines at different educational levels; teaching and educating persons with learning difficulties or special needs; providing various business, legal and social services; creating and performing works of art; providing spiritual guidance; preparing scientific papers and reports. Supervision of other workers may be included.

Occupations in this major group are classified into the following sub-major groups:

21 Science and Engineering Professionals
22 Health Professionals
23 Teaching Professionals
24 Business and Administration Professionals
25 Information and Communications Technology Professionals
26 Legal, Social and Cultural Professionals
Sub-major Group 21
Science and Engineering Professionals

Science and engineering professionals conduct research; improve or develop concepts, theories and operational methods; or apply scientific knowledge relating to fields such as physics, astronomy, meteorology, chemistry, geophysics, geology, biology, ecology, pharmacology, medicine, mathematics, statistics, architecture, engineering, design and technology. Competent performance in most occupations in this sub-major group requires skills at the fourth ISCO skill level.

Tasks performed by workers in this sub-major group usually include: conducting research, enlarging, advising on or applying scientific knowledge obtained through the study of structures and properties of physical matter and phenomena, chemical characteristics and processes of various substances, materials and products, all forms of human, animal and plant life and of mathematical and statistical concepts and methods; advising on, designing and directing construction of buildings, towns and traffic systems, or civil engineering and industrial structures, as well as machines and other equipment; advising on and applying mining methods and ensuring their optimum use; surveying land and sea and making maps; studying and advising on technological aspects of particular materials, products and processes, and on efficiency of production and work organization; preparing scientific papers and reports. Supervision of other workers may be included.

Occupations in this sub-major group are classified into the following minor groups:

- 211 Physical and Earth Science Professionals
- 212 Mathematicians, Actuaries and Statisticians
- 213 Life Science Professionals
- 214 Engineering Professionals (excluding Electrotechnology)
- 215 Electrotechnology Engineers
- 216 Architects, Planners, Surveyors and Designers

Minor Group 211
Physical and Earth Science Professionals

Physical and earth science professionals conduct research; improve or develop concepts, theories and operational methods; or apply scientific knowledge relating to physics, astronomy, meteorology, chemistry, geology and geophysics.

Tasks performed usually include: enlarging scientific knowledge through research and experiments related to mechanics, thermodynamics, optics, sonics, electricity, magnetism, electronics, nuclear physics, astronomy, various branches of chemistry, atmospheric conditions and the physical nature of the Earth; advising on or applying this knowledge in such fields as manufacturing, agriculture, medicine, navigation, space exploration, oil, gas, water and mineral exploitation, telecommunications and other services, or civil engineering; preparing scientific papers and reports.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

- 2111 Physicists and Astronomers
- 2112 Meteorologists
- 2113 Chemists
- 2114 Geologists and Geophysicists
Unit Group 2111

Physicists and Astronomers

Physicists and astronomers conduct research and improve or develop concepts, theories and operational methods concerning matter, space, time, energy, forces and fields and the interrelationship between these physical phenomena. They apply scientific knowledge relating to physics and astronomy in industrial, medical, military or other fields.

Tasks include –
(a) conducting research and improving or developing concepts, theories, instrumentation, software and operational methods related to physics and astronomy;
(b) conducting experiments, tests and analyses on the structure and properties of matter in fields such as mechanics, thermodynamics, electronics, communications, power generation and distribution, aerodynamics, optics and lasers, remote sensing, medicine, sonics, magnetism and nuclear physics;
(c) evaluating results of investigations and experiments and expressing conclusions, mainly using mathematical techniques and models;
(d) applying principles, techniques and processes to develop or improve industrial, medical, military and other practical applications of the principles and techniques of physics or astronomy;
(e) ensuring the safe and effective delivery of radiation (ionizing and non-ionizing) to patients to achieve a diagnostic or therapeutic result as prescribed by a medical practitioner;
(f) ensuring the accurate measurement and characterization of physical quantities used in medical applications;
(g) testing, commissioning and evaluating equipment used in applications such as imaging, medical treatment and dosimetry;
(h) advising and consulting with medical practitioners and other health care professionals in optimizing the balance between the beneficial and deleterious effects of radiation;
(i) observing, analysing and interpreting celestial phenomena and developing methods, numerical models and techniques to extend knowledge of fields such as navigation, satellite communication, space exploration, celestial bodies and cosmic radiation;
(j) developing, implementing and maintaining standards and protocols for the measurement of physical phenomena and for the use of nuclear technology in industrial and medical applications;
(k) preparing scientific papers and reports.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Astronomer
- Medical physicist
- Nuclear physicist
- Physicist

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Radiation oncologist – 2212
- Radiologist – 2212
- Specialist physician (nuclear medicine) – 2212
- Radiographer – 3211

Note
It should be noted that, while they are appropriately classified in this unit group with other physicists, medical physicists are considered to be an integral part of the health workforce alongside those occupations classified in Sub-major Group 22: Health Professionals and others classified in a number of other unit groups in Major Group 2: Professionals.

Unit Group 2112

Meteorologists

Meteorologists prepare short-term or long-term weather forecasts used in aviation, shipping, agriculture and other areas and for the information of the general public. They conduct research related to the composition, structure and dynamics of the atmosphere.

Tasks include –
(a) investigating direction and speed of air movements, pressures, temperatures, humidity, physical and chemical transformation of pollutants and other phenomena such as cloud formation and precipitation, electrical disturbances or solar radiation;
(b) studying data collected from meteorological stations, radar and satellite imagery and computer model output to plot and forecast weather conditions;
(c) preparing and reporting short-term or long-term weather maps, forecasts and warnings relating to atmospheric phenomena such as cyclones, storms and other hazards to life and property, and disseminating information about atmospheric conditions through a variety of media including radio, television, print and the Internet;
(d) conducting experiments in fog dispersal, cloud seeding, rain enhancement and other types of weather modification programmes;
(e) developing and testing mathematical computer models of weather and climate for experimental or operational use;
(f) participating in studies of the effect of weather on the environment;
(g) analysing the impact of industrial projects and human activity on the climate and quality of the air, and working with the social science, engineering and economic communities to develop appropriate mitigation strategies;
(h) engaging in the design and development of new equipment and procedures for meteorological data collection and remote sensing, or for related applications;
(i) conducting research on and improving or developing concepts, theories and operational methods related to the composition, structure and dynamics of the atmosphere, and preparing scientific papers and reports on the outcome of this research.

Examples of the occupations classified here:

- Climatologist
- Hydrometeorologist
- Meteorologist
- Weather forecaster

Example of the occupations classified here:

- Chemist

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:

- Biochemist – 2131
- Pharmacologist – 2131
- Pharmacist – 2262

Unit Group 2114

Geologists and Geophysicists

Geologists and geophysicists conduct research; improve or develop concepts, theories and operational methods; or apply scientific knowledge relating to geology and geophysics in such fields as oil, gas and mineral exploration and extraction, water conservation, civil engineering, telecommunications and navigation, and assessment and mitigation of the effects of development and waste disposal projects on the environment.

Tasks include –

(a) conducting research and improving or developing concepts, theories and operational methods related to geology and geophysics;
(b) studying composition and structure of the Earth's crust, examining rocks, minerals, fossils and other materials to determine processes affecting the development of the Earth, trace evolution of past life, establish the nature and chronology of geological formations and assess their commercial applications;
(c) interpreting research data and preparing geological reports, maps, charts and diagrams, reports and papers;
(d) applying geological knowledge to problems encountered in civil engineering projects such as the construction of dams, bridges, tunnels and large buildings, and land reclamation projects;
(e) using various remote sensing programmes to investigate and measure seismic, gravitational, electrical, thermal and magnetic forces affecting the Earth;
(f) estimating weight, size and mass of the Earth and composition and structure of its interior, and studying the nature, activity and predictability of volcanoes, glaciers and earthquakes;
(g) charting the Earth's magnetic field and applying this and other collected data for broadcasting, navigation and other purposes;
(h) studying and measuring physical properties of seas and the atmosphere and their interrelationship, such as the exchange of thermal energy;

(i) locating and determining the nature and extent of oil, gas and mineral deposits using seismological, gravimetric, magnetic, electrical or radiometric methods;

(j) identifying deposits of construction materials and determining their characteristics and suitability for use as concrete aggregates, road fill or for other applications;

(k) researching the movement, distribution and physical properties of ground and surface waters;

(l) advising in areas such as waste management, route and site selection and the restoration of contaminated sites.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Geological oceanographer
- Geologist
- Geophysical oceanographer
- Geophysicist
- Geoscientist

Minor Group 212

Mathematicians, Actuaries and Statisticians

Mathematicians, actuaries and statisticians conduct research; improve or develop mathematical, actuarial and statistical concepts, theories and operational models and techniques; and apply this knowledge to a wide range of tasks in such fields as engineering, business and social and other sciences.

Tasks performed usually include: studying, improving and developing mathematical, actuarial and statistical theories and techniques; advising on or applying mathematical principles, models and techniques to a wide range of tasks in the fields of engineering, natural, social or life sciences; conducting logical analyses of management problems, especially in terms of input–output effectiveness, and formulating mathematical models of each problem usually for programming and solution by computer; designing and putting into operation pension schemes and life, health, social and other types of insurance systems; applying mathematics, statistics, probability and risk theory to assess potential financial impacts of future events; planning and organizing surveys and other statistical collections, and designing questionnaires; evaluating, processing, analysing and interpreting statistical data and preparing them for publication; advising on or applying various data collection methods and statistical methods and techniques, and determining reliability of findings, especially in such fields as business or medicine as well as in other areas of natural, social or life sciences; preparing scientific papers and reports; supervising the work of mathematical, actuarial and statistical assistants and statistical clerks.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit group:

2120 Mathematicians, Actuaries and Statisticians

Unit Group 2120

Mathematicians, Actuaries and Statisticians

Mathematicians, actuaries and statisticians conduct research and improve or develop mathematical, actuarial and statistical concepts, theories and operational methods and techniques and advise on or engage in their practical application in such fields as engineering, business and social and other sciences.

Tasks include—

(a) studying, improving and developing mathematical, actuarial and statistical theories and techniques;

(b) advising on or applying mathematical principles, models and techniques to a wide range of tasks in the fields of engineering, natural, social or life sciences;

(c) conducting logical analyses of management problems, especially in terms of input–output effectiveness, and formulating mathematical models of each problem usually for programming and solution by computer;

(d) designing and putting into operation pension schemes and life, health, social and other types of insurance systems;

(e) applying mathematics, statistics, probability and risk theory to assess potential financial impacts of future events;

(f) planning and organizing surveys and other statistical collections, and designing questionnaires;
(g) evaluating, processing, analysing and interpreting statistical data and preparing them for publication;
(h) advising on or applying various data collection methods and statistical methods and techniques, and determining reliability of findings, especially in such fields as business or medicine as well as in other areas of natural, social or life sciences;
(i) preparing scientific papers and reports;
(j) supervising the work of mathematical, actuarial and statistical assistants and statistical clerks.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Actuary
• Demographer
• Mathematician
• Operations research analyst
• Statistician

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Information systems analyst – 2511
• Actuarial assistant – 3314
• Mathematical assistant – 3314
• Statistical assistant – 3314
• Actuarial clerk – 4312
• Statistical clerk – 4312

Minor Group 213
Life Science Professionals

Life science professionals apply knowledge gained from research into human, animal and plant life and their interactions with each other and the environment to develop new knowledge, improve agricultural and forestry production, and solve human health and environmental problems.

Tasks performed usually include: collecting, analysing and evaluating experimental and field data to identify and develop new processes and techniques; providing advice and support to governments, organizations and businesses about ecological sustainable development of natural resources.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

2131 Biologists, Botanists, Zoologists and Related Professionals
2132 Farming, Forestry and Fisheries Advisers
2133 Environmental Protection Professionals

Unit Group 2131
Biologists, Botanists, Zoologists and Related Professionals

Biologists, botanists, zoologists and related professionals study living organisms and their interactions with each other and with the environment, and apply this knowledge to solving human health and environmental problems. They work in diverse fields such as botany, zoology, ecology, marine biology, genetics, immunology, pharmacology, toxicology, physiology, bacteriology and virology.

Tasks include –
(a) undertaking research in laboratories and in the field to increase scientific knowledge of living organisms, to discover new information, to test hypotheses, to solve problems in areas such as the environment, agriculture and health, and to develop new products, processes and techniques for pharmaceutical, agricultural and environmental use;
(b) designing and conducting experiments and tests;
(c) gathering human, animal, insect and plant specimens and data, and studying their form, structure, composition, and life and reproductive processes;
(d) examining living organisms using a variety of specialized equipment, instruments, technologies and techniques such as electron microscopes, telemetry, global positioning systems, biotechnology, satellite imaging, genetic engineering, digital imaging analysis, polymerase chain reaction and computer modelling;
(e) identifying, classifying, recording and monitoring living organisms and maintaining databases;
(f) writing scientific papers and reports detailing research and any new findings which are then made available to the scientific community in scientific journals or at conferences for scrutiny and further debate;
(g) designing and carrying out environmental impact assessments to identify changes caused by natural or human factors;
(h) providing advice to governments, organizations and businesses in areas such as conservation, management of natural resources, and the effects of climate change and pollution.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Animal behaviourist
- Bacteriologist
- Biochemist
- Biologist
- Biomedical researcher
- Biotechnologist
- Botanist
- Cell geneticist
- Marine biologist
- Microbiologist
- Molecular biologist
- Molecular geneticist
- Pharmacologist
- Zoologist

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Ecologist – 2133

Note
Medical research professionals who participate in biomedical research using living organisms and do not undertake clinical practice are classified in Unit Group 2131: Biologists, Botanists, Zoologists and Related Professionals. Those who also undertake clinical practice are classified in Minor Group 221: Medical Doctors.

Unit Group 2132
Farming, Forestry and Fisheries Advisers

Farming, forestry and fisheries advisers study and provide assistance and advice on farm, forestry and fisheries management, including cultivation, fertilization, harvesting, soil erosion and composition, disease prevention, nutrition, crop rotation and marketing. They develop techniques for increasing productivity, and study and develop plans and policies for land and fisheries management.

Tasks include –
(a) collecting and analysing data and samples related to produce, feed, soil, water quality and other factors affecting farm, forest or fishery production;
(b) advising on techniques for improving the production of crops, livestock and fish, and alternative production options;
(c) advising on livestock and crop disease, control of pests and weeds, soil improvement, animal husbandry and feeding programmes;
(d) studying the environmental factors affecting commercial crop production, pasture growth, animal breeding, fish stocks and the growth and health of forest trees;
(e) studying the effects of cultivation techniques, soils, insects, diseases and fisheries practices on animal, crop, forestry and fisheries yield;
(f) studying fish migration, growth, feeding and spawning, and devising methods of collecting, fertilizing, incubating and hatching fish eggs;
(g) researching into characteristics, use capability and productivity of soils, and applying findings to development of improved agricultural, horticultural and forestry practices;
(h) developing procedures and techniques for solving agricultural problems and improving the efficiency of production;
(i) managing forest and fisheries resources to maximize their long-term commercial, recreational and environmental benefits;
(j) studying the propagation and culture of forest trees, methods for improving the growth of stock, and the effects of thinning on forest yields;
(k) investigating, planning and implementing management procedures to cope with the effects of fires, floods, droughts, soil erosion, pests and diseases;
(l) preparing scientific reports and conducting advisory information sessions and lectures for farming, forestry and fishing communities and other groups.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Agronomist
- Fisheries adviser
- Forestry adviser
- Forestry scientist
- Horticultural scientist
- Silviculturist
- Soil scientist

Unit Group 2133
Environmental Protection Professionals

Environmental protection professionals study and assess the effects on the environment of human activity such as air, water and noise pollution, soil contamination, climate change, toxic waste and depletion and degradation of natural resources. They develop plans and solutions to protect, conserve, restore, minimize and prevent further damage to the environment.

Tasks include –
(a) conducting research, performing tests, collecting samples, performing field and laboratory analysis to identify sources of environmental problems, and recommending ways to prevent, control and remediate the impact of such problems;

(b) assessing the likely impact that potential or proposed activities, projects and developments may have on the environment, and recommending whether such developments should proceed;

(c) developing and coordinating the implementation of environmental management systems to enable organizations to identify, monitor and control the impact of their activities, products and services on the environment;

(d) conducting audits to evaluate the environmental impact of existing activities, processes, wastes, noises and substances;

(e) assessing an organization’s compliance with government and internal environmental regulations and guidelines, identifying violations and determining appropriate remedial action;

(f) providing technical advice and support services to organizations on how best to deal with environmental problems in order to reduce environmental damage and minimize financial loss;

(g) developing conservation plans.

Examples of the occupations classified here:

- Air pollution analyst
- Conservation officer
- Conservation scientist
- Ecologist
- Environmental adviser
- Environmental auditor
- Environmental consultant
- Environmental research scientist
- Environmental scientist
- Park ranger
- Water quality analyst

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:

- Environmental engineer – 2143

Minor Group 214

Engineering Professionals (excluding Electrotechnology)

Engineering professionals (excluding electrotechnology) design, plan and organize the testing, construction, installation and maintenance of structures, machines and their components, and production systems and plants; and plan production schedules and work procedures to ensure that engineering projects are undertaken safely, efficiently and in a cost-effective manner.

Tasks performed usually include: planning and designing chemical process systems, civil engineering projects, mechanical equipment and systems, mining and drilling operations, and other engineering projects; specifying and interpreting drawings and plans, and determining construction methods; supervising the construction of structures, water and gas supply and transportation systems, and the manufacture, installation, operation and maintenance of equipment, machines and plant; organizing and managing project labour and the delivery of materials, plant and equipment; estimating total costs and preparing detailed cost plans and estimates as tools for budgetary control; resolving design and operational problems in the various fields of engineering through the application of engineering technology.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

- 2141 Industrial and Production Engineers
- 2142 Civil Engineers
- 2143 Environmental Engineers
- 2144 Mechanical Engineers
- 2145 Chemical Engineers
- 2146 Mining Engineers, Metallurgists and Related Professionals
- 2149 Engineering Professionals Not Elsewhere Classified

Unit Group 2141

Industrial and Production Engineers

Industrial and production engineers conduct research and design, organize and oversee the construction, operation and maintenance of industrial production processes and installations. They establish programmes for the coordination of manufacturing activities and assess cost effectiveness and safety.
Tasks include—
(a) studying functional statements, organizational charts and project information to determine functions and responsibilities of workers and work units and to identify areas of duplication;
(b) establishing work measurement programmes and analysing work samples to develop standards for labour utilization;
(c) analysing workforce utilization, facility layout, operational data and production schedules and costs to determine optimum worker and equipment efficiencies;
(d) developing specifications for manufacture, and determining materials, equipment, piping, material flows, capacities and layout of plant and systems;
(e) organizing and managing project labour and the delivery of materials, plant and equipment;
(f) establishing standards and policies for installation, modification, quality control, testing, inspection and maintenance according to engineering principles and safety regulations;
(g) inspecting plant to improve and maintain performance;
(h) directing the maintenance of plant buildings and equipment, and coordinating the requirements for new designs, surveys and maintenance schedules;
(i) advising management on new production methods, techniques and equipment;
(j) liaising with materials buying, storing and controlling departments to ensure a steady flow of supplies.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Industrial efficiency engineer
- Industrial engineer
- Industrial plant engineer
- Production engineer

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Manufacturing production manager – 1321

Unit Group 2142

Civil Engineers

Civil engineers conduct research; advise on, design and direct construction; manage the operation and maintenance of civil engineering structures; or study and advise on technological aspects of particular materials.

Tasks include—
(a) conducting research and developing new or improved theories and methods related to civil engineering;
(b) advising on and designing structures such as bridges, dams, docks, roads, airports, railways, canals, pipelines, waste-disposal and flood-control systems, and industrial and other large buildings;
(c) determining and specifying construction methods, materials and quality standards, and directing construction work;
(d) establishing control systems to ensure efficient functioning of structures as well as safety and environmental protection;
(e) organizing and directing maintenance and repair of existing civil engineering structures;
(f) analysing the behaviour of soil and rock when placed under pressure by proposed structures and designing structural foundations;
(g) analysing the stability of structures and testing the behaviour and durability of materials used in their construction.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Civil engineer
- Geotechnical engineer
- Structural engineer

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Civil engineering project manager – 1323
- Geoscientist – 2114
- Metallurgist – 2146
- Mining engineer – 2146
- Town and traffic planners – 2164

Unit Group 2143

Environmental Engineers

Environmental engineers conduct research and advise on, design and direct implementation of solutions to prevent, control or remedy negative impacts of human activity on the environment utilizing a variety of engineering disciplines. They conduct environmental assessments of construction and civil engineering projects and apply engineering principles to pollution control, recycling and waste disposal.

Tasks include—
(a) conducting research and assessing and reporting on the environmental impact of existing and proposed construction, civil engineering and other activities;
(b) inspecting industrial and municipal facilities and programmes to evaluate operational effectiveness and ensure compliance with environmental regulations;
(c) designing and overseeing the development of systems, processes and equipment for control, management or remediation of water, air or soil quality;
(d) providing environmental engineering assistance in network analysis, regulatory analysis, and planning or reviewing database development;
(e) obtaining, updating and maintaining plans, permits and standard operating procedures;
(f) providing engineering and technical support for environmental remediation and litigation projects, including remediation system design and determination of regulatory applicability;
(g) monitoring progress of environmental improvement programmes;
(h) advising corporations and government agencies of procedures to follow in cleaning up contaminated sites to protect people and the environment;
(i) collaborating with environmental scientists, planners, hazardous waste technicians, engineers from other disciplines and specialists in law and business to address environmental problems.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Air pollution control engineer
- Environmental analyst
- Environmental engineer
- Environmental remediation specialist
- Wastewater process engineer

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Environmental scientist – 2133
- Radiation protection expert – 2263

Unit Group 2145

Chemical Engineers

Chemical engineers conduct research and develop, advise on and direct commercial-scale chemical processes and production of various substances and items such as crude oil, petroleum derivatives, food and drink products, medicines or synthetic materials. They direct maintenance and repair of chemical plant and equipment and study and advise on chemical aspects of particular materials, products or processes.

Tasks include –
(a) conducting research and advising on, and developing, commercial-scale chemical processes to refine crude oil and other liquids or gases, and to produce substances and items such as petroleum derivatives, explosives, food and drink products, medicines or synthetic materials;
(b) specifying chemical production methods, materials and quality standards and ensuring that they conform to specifications;
(c) establishing control standards and procedures to ensure safety and efficiency of chemical production operations and safety of workers’ operating equipment or of those working in close proximity to ongoing chemical reactions;
(d) designing chemical plant equipment and devising processes for manufacturing chemicals and products;
(e) performing tests throughout stages of production to determine degree of control over variables, including temperature, density, specific gravity and pressure;
(f) developing safety procedures to be employed;
(g) preparing estimates of production costs and production progress reports for management;
(h) performing laboratory studies of steps in the manufacture of new products and testing proposed processes in small-scale operations such as a pilot plant.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Chemical engineer
• Fuel technologist
• Plastics technologist
• Refinery process engineer

Unit Group 2146

Mining Engineers, Metallurgists and Related Professionals

Mining engineers, metallurgists and related professionals conduct research on, design, develop and maintain commercial-scale methods of extracting metals from their ores, or minerals, water, oil or gas from the earth, and of developing new alloys, ceramic and other materials, or study and advise on mining or metallurgical aspects of particular materials, products or processes.

Tasks include –
(a) determining the location and planning the extraction of coal, metallic ores, non-metallic minerals, and building materials such as stone and gravel;
(b) determining the most suitable methods of efficient mining and extraction and types of machinery to be used, planning layout and directing construction of shafts and tunnels;
(c) determining drilling sites and devising methods of controlling the flow of water, oil or gas from wells;
(d) planning and directing storage, initial treatment and transportation of water, oil or gas;
(e) establishing safety standards and procedures and first-aid facilities, especially underground;
(f) conducting research, developing methods of extracting metals from their ores and advising on their application;
(g) investigating properties of metals and alloys, developing new alloys and advising on and supervising technical aspects of metal and alloy manufacture and processing;
(h) maintaining technical liaison and consultancy with other relevant specialists such as geologists and geophysicists;
(i) examining deposits or mines to evaluate profitability.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Extractive metallurgist
• Mining engineer
• Petroleum and natural gas extraction engineer

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Geologist – 2114
• Geophysicist – 2114

Unit Group 2149

Engineering Professionals Not Elsewhere Classified

This unit group covers engineering professionals not classified elsewhere in Minor Group 214: Engineering Professionals (excluding Electrotechnology) or in Minor Group 215: Electrotechnology Engineers. For instance, the group includes those who conduct research and advise on or develop engineering procedures and solutions concerning workplace safety, biomedical engineering, optics, materials, nuclear power generation and explosives.

In such cases tasks would include –
(a) applying knowledge of engineering to the design, development and evaluation of biological and health systems and products such as artificial organs, prostheses and instrumentation;
(b) designing devices used in various medical procedures and imaging systems such as magnetic resonance imaging, and devices for automating insulin injections or controlling body functions;
(c) designing components of optical instruments such as lenses, microscopes, telescopes, lasers, optical disc systems and other equipment that utilize the properties of light;
(d) designing, testing and coordinating the development of explosive ordnance material to meet military procurement specifications;
(e) designing and overseeing the construction and operation of nuclear reactors and power... plants and nuclear fuels reprocessing and reclamation systems;
(f) designing and developing nuclear equipment such as reactor cores, radiation shielding and associated instrumentation and control mechanisms;
(g) assessing damage and providing calculations for marine salvage operations;
(h) studying and advising on engineering aspects of particular manufacturing processes, such as those related to glass, ceramics, textiles, leather products, wood and printing;
(i) identifying potential hazards and introducing safety procedures and devices.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Biomedical engineer
- Explosive ordnance engineer
- Marine salvage engineer
- Materials engineer
- Nuclear power generation engineer
- Optical engineer
- Quantity surveyor
- Safety engineer

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Industrial and production engineers – 2141
- Environmental engineer – 2143
- Surveyor – 2165

Note
It should be noted that, while they are appropriately classified in this unit group with other engineering professionals, biomedical engineers are considered to be an integral part of the health workforce alongside those occupations classified in Sub-major Group 22: Health Professionals, and others classified in a number of other unit groups in Major Group 2: Professionals.

Minor Group 215
Electrotechnology Engineers

Electrotechnology engineers conduct research on and design, advise, plan and direct the construction and operation of electronic, electrical and telecommunications systems, components, motors and equipment. They organize and establish control systems to monitor the performance and safety of electrical and electronic assemblies and systems.

Tasks performed usually include: conducting research and advising on and directing the maintenance and repair of electrical, electronic and telecommunications products and systems; advising on and designing power stations and systems that generate, transmit and distribute electrical power; establishing control standards to monitor performance and safety of electrical, electronic and telecommunications systems and equipment.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

- 2151 Electrical Engineers
- 2152 Electronics Engineers
- 2153 Telecommunications Engineers

Unit Group 2151
Electrical Engineers

Electrical engineers conduct research and advise on, design and direct the construction and operation of electrical systems, components, motors and equipment, and advise on and direct their functioning, maintenance and repair, or study and advise on technological aspects of electrical engineering materials, products and processes.

Tasks include –
(a) advising on and designing power stations and systems which generate, transmit and distribute electrical power;
(b) supervising, controlling and monitoring the operation of electrical generation, transmission and distribution systems;
(c) advising on and designing systems for electrical motors, electrical traction and other equipment, or electrical domestic appliances;
(d) specifying electrical installation and application in industrial and other buildings and objects;
(e) establishing control standards and procedures to monitor performance and safety of electrical generating and distribution systems, motors and equipment;
(f) determining manufacturing methods for electrical systems, as well as maintenance and repair of existing electrical systems, motors and equipment.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Electrical engineer
Electric power generation engineer
Electromechanical engineer

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Nuclear power generation engineer – 2149
- Electronics engineer – 2152
- Broadcast engineer – 2153
- Telecommunications engineer – 2153

Unit Group 2152

Electronics Engineers

Electronics engineers conduct research on, design and direct the construction functioning, maintenance and repair of electronic systems, and study and advise on technological aspects of electronic engineering materials, products or processes.

Tasks include –
(a) advising on and designing electronic devices or components, circuits, semi-conductors and systems;
(b) specifying production or installation methods, materials and quality standards, and directing production or installation work of electronic products and systems;
(c) establishing control standards and procedures to ensure efficient functioning and safety of electronic systems, motors and equipment;
(d) organizing and directing maintenance and repair of existing electronic systems and equipment;
(e) designing electronic circuits and components for use in fields such as aerospace guidance and propulsion control, acoustics, or instruments and controls;
(f) researching and advising on radar, telemetry and remote control systems, microwaves and other electronic equipment;
(g) designing and developing signal processing algorithms and implementing these through appropriate choice of hardware and software;
(h) developing apparatus and procedures to test electronic components, circuits and systems.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Computer hardware engineer

Unit Group 2153

Telecommunications Engineers

Telecommunications engineers conduct research and advise on, design and direct the construction, functioning, maintenance and repair of telecommunication systems and equipment. They study and advise on technological aspects of telecommunication engineering materials, products or processes.

Tasks include –
(a) advising on and designing telecommunications devices or components, systems, equipment and distribution centres;
(b) specifying production or installation methods, materials and quality and safety standards, and directing production or installation work of telecommunications products and systems;
(c) organizing and directing maintenance and repair of existing telecommunication systems, motors and equipment;
(d) researching and advising on telecommunications equipment;
(e) planning and designing communications networks based on wired, fibre optical and wireless communication media;
(f) designing and developing signal processing algorithms and implementing these through appropriate choice of hardware and software;
(g) designing telecommunications networks and radio and television distribution systems, including both cable and over the air.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Broadcast engineer
- Telecommunications engineer
- Telecommunications engineering technologist

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Electronics engineer – 2152

Minor Group 216

Architects, Planners, Surveyors and Designers

Architects, planners, surveyors and designers plan and design landscapes, building exteriors and interiors, products for manufacture, and visual and audiovisual content for the communication of information. They conduct survey work to precisely position geographical features; design, prepare and revise maps; and develop and implement plans and policies for controlling the use of land.

Tasks performed usually include: determining the objectives and constraints of the design brief by consulting with clients and stakeholders; formulating design concepts and plans that harmonize aesthetic considerations with technical, functional, ecological and production requirements; preparing sketches, diagrams, illustrations, animations, plans, maps, charts, samples and models to communicate design concepts and other information; analysing photographs, satellite imagery, survey documents and data, maps, records, reports and statistics; undertaking research and analysing functional, spatial, commercial, cultural, safety, environmental and aesthetic requirements.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

2161 Building Architects
2162 Landscape Architects
2163 Product and Garment Designers
2164 Town and Traffic Planners
2165 Cartographers and Surveyors
2166 Graphic and Multimedia Designers

Unit Group 2161
Building Architects

Building architects design commercial, industrial, institutional, residential and recreational buildings and plan and monitor their construction, maintenance and rehabilitation.

Tasks include—
(a) developing new or improved architectural theories and methods;
(b) inspecting sites and consulting clients, management and other stakeholders to determine type, style and size of proposed buildings and alterations to existing buildings;
(c) providing information regarding designs, materials and estimated building times;
(d) preparing project documentation, including sketches and scale drawings, and integrating structural, mechanical and aesthetic elements in final designs;
(e) writing specifications and contract documents for use by builders and calling tenders on behalf of clients;
(f) making necessary contacts to ensure feasibility of projects regarding style, cost, timing and compliance with regulations;
(g) identifying and finding best solutions for problems regarding function and quality of interior environments of buildings and making necessary designs, drawings and plans;
(h) monitoring construction or rehabilitation work to ensure compliance with specifications and quality standards;
(i) maintaining technical liaison and consultancy with other relevant specialists.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Building architect
• Interior architect

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Landscape architect – 2162
• Interior decorator – 3432
• Interior designer – 3432

Unit Group 2162
Landscape Architects

Landscape architects plan and design landscapes and open spaces for projects such as parks, schools, institutions, roads and external areas for commercial, industrial and residential sites, and plan and monitor their construction, maintenance and rehabilitation.

Tasks include—
(a) developing new or improved theories and methods and providing advice on policy related to landscape architecture;
(b) inspecting sites and consulting clients, management and other stakeholders to determine type, style and size of proposed buildings, parks, roads and other open spaces;
(c) compiling and analysing site and community data about geographical and ecological features, landforms, soils, vegetation, site hydrology, visual characteristics and human-made structures, to formulate land use and development recommendations, feasibility studies and environmental impact statements;
(d) preparing reports, strategic plans, site plans, working drawings, specifications and cost

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Building architect
• Interior architect

Unit Group 2163
Product and Garment Designers

Product and garment designers design and develop products for manufacture and prepare designs and specifications of products for mass, batch and one-off production.

Tasks include –

(a) determining the objectives and constraints of the design brief by consulting with clients and stakeholders;

(b) formulating design concepts for clothing, textiles, industrial, commercial and consumer products, and jewellery;

(c) harmonizing aesthetic considerations with technical, functional, ecological and production requirements;

(d) preparing sketches, diagrams, illustrations, plans, samples and models to communicate design concepts;

(e) negotiating design solutions with clients, management, and sales and manufacturing staff;

(f) selecting, specifying and recommending functional and aesthetic materials, production methods and finishes for manufacture;

(g) detailing and documenting the selected design for production;

(h) preparing and commissioning prototypes and samples;

(i) supervising the preparation of patterns, programmes and tooling, and of the manufacturing process.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Costume designer
- Fashion designer
- Industrial designer

Unit Group 2164
Town and Traffic Planners

Town and traffic planners develop and implement plans and policies for the controlled use of urban and rural land and for traffic systems. They conduct research and provide advice on economic, environmental and social factors affecting land use and traffic flows.

Tasks include –

(a) planning layout and coordinating development of urban areas;

(b) compiling and analysing data on economic, legal, political, cultural, demographic, sociological, physical and environmental factors affecting land use;

(c) conferring with government authorities, communities and specialists in fields such as architecture, planning, social science, the environment and the law;

(d) devising and recommending use and development of land, and presenting narrative and graphic plans, programmes and designs to groups and individuals;

(e) advising governments, companies and communities on urban and regional planning issues and proposals;

(f) reviewing and evaluating environmental impact reports;

(g) planning and coordinating the development of land areas for parks, schools, institutions, airports, roadways and related projects, and for commercial, industrial and residential sites;

(h) planning and advising on routing and control of road traffic and public transportation systems for efficiency and safety.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Land planner
- Traffic planner
- Urban planner
Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Building architect – 2161

Cartographers and Surveyors

Cartographers and surveyors determine the exact position of, or prepare and revise digital, graphic and pictorial maps, charts or other visual representation of, natural and constructed features and boundaries of land, seas, underground areas and celestial bodies, applying scientific and mathematical principles.

Tasks include –
(a) surveying, measuring and describing land surfaces, mines, underground surfaces and sea, river and lake beds;
(b) noting exact position of various features and recording survey data in digital form;
(c) making charts and maps to be used in determining navigable waters and channels and in planning construction of marine structures;
(d) planning and conducting aerial photographic surveys;
(e) designing, compiling and revising maps and charts using aerial and other photographs, satellite imagery, survey documents and data, existing maps and records, reports and statistics;
(f) undertaking research and development of surveying and photogrammetric measurement systems, cadastral systems and land information systems;
(g) studying and advising on technical, aesthetic and economic aspects of map production;
(h) maintaining technical liaison and consultancy with other relevant specialists.

Graphic and Multimedia Designers

Graphic and multimedia designers design visual and audiovisual content for the communication of information using print, film, electronic, digital and other forms of visual and audio media. They create graphics, special effects, animation or other visual images for use in computer games, movies, music videos, print media and advertisements.

Tasks include –
(a) determining the objectives and constraints of the design brief by consulting with clients and stakeholders;
(b) undertaking research and analysing functional communication requirements;
(c) formulating design concepts for the subject to be communicated;
(d) preparing sketches, diagrams, illustrations and layouts to communicate design concepts;
(e) designing complex graphics and animation to satisfy functional, aesthetic and creative requirements of the design brief;
(f) creating two-dimensional and three-dimensional images depicting objects in motion or illustrating a process, using computer animation or modelling programmes;
(g) negotiating design solutions with clients, management and sales and production staff;
(h) selecting, specifying or recommending functional and aesthetic materials and media for publication, delivery or display;
(i) detailing and documenting the selected design for production;
(j) supervising or carrying out production in the chosen media.

Sub-major Group 22

Health Professionals

Health professionals conduct research; improve or develop concepts, theories and operational methods; and apply scientific knowledge relating to medicine, nursing, dentistry, veterinary medicine, pharmacy, and promotion of health. Competent performance in most occupations in this sub-major group requires skills at the fourth ISCO skill level.

Tasks performed by workers in this sub-major group usually include: conducting research and obtaining scientific knowledge through the study of human and animal disorders and illnesses and ways of treating them; advising on or applying preventive and curative measures, or promoting health; preparing scientific papers and reports. Supervision of other workers may be included.

Occupations in this sub-major group are classified into the following minor groups:

- 221 Medical Doctors
- 222 Nursing and Midwifery Professionals
- 223 Traditional and Complementary Medicine Professionals
- 224 Paramedical Practitioners
- 225 Veterinarians
- 226 Other Health Professionals

Note

In using ISCO in applications that seek to identify, describe or measure the health workforce, it should be noted that a number of professions considered to be a part of the health workforce are classified in groups other than Sub-major Group 22: Health Professionals. Such occupations include but are not restricted to: addictions counsellors, biomedical engineers, clinical psychologists and medical physicists.

Minor Group 221

Medical Doctors

Medical doctors (physicians) study, diagnose, treat and prevent illness, disease, injury and other physical and mental impairments in humans through the application of the principles and procedures of modern medicine. They plan, supervise and evaluate the implementation of care and treatment plans by other health care providers, and conduct medical education and research activities.

Tasks performed usually include: conducting physical examinations of patients and interviewing them and their families to determine their health status; ordering diagnostic tests and analysing findings; prescribing and administering curative treatments and preventive measures; performing surgery and other clinical procedures; monitoring patients’ progress and response to treatment; advising on health, nutrition and lifestyle behaviours which aid prevention or treatment of disease and disorders; identifying and managing complications before, during and after childbirth; planning, managing and implementing referral plans for patients in need of specialized, long-term or other types of health care services; exchanging medical information with other health professionals to ensure continuing and comprehensive care; reporting births, deaths and notifiable diseases to government authorities; conducting research into human disorders and illnesses and preventive or curative methods.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

- 2211 Generalist Medical Practitioners
- 2212 Specialist Medical Practitioners
Unit Group 2211
Generalist Medical Practitioners

Generalist medical practitioners (including family and primary care doctors) diagnose, treat and prevent illness, disease, injury and other physical and mental impairments and maintain general health in humans through application of the principles and procedures of modern medicine. They do not limit their practice to certain disease categories or methods of treatment, and may assume responsibility for the provision of continuing and comprehensive medical care to individuals, families and communities.

Tasks include –
(a) conducting physical examinations of patients and interviewing them and their families to determine their health status;
(b) ordering laboratory tests, X-rays and other diagnostic procedures and analysing findings to determine the nature of disorders or illnesses;
(c) providing continuing medical care for patients including prescribing, administering, counselling on and monitoring curative treatments and preventive measures;
(d) performing surgery and other clinical procedures;
(e) advising individuals, families and communities on health, nutrition and lifestyle which aid prevention or treatment of disease and disorders;
(f) providing referrals to patients and families for specialized care in hospitals, rehabilitation centres or other types of health care centres;
(g) identifying, managing and providing referrals for complications before, during and after childbirth;
(h) recording patients’ medical information and history and exchanging information with specialist practitioners and other health workers as required for continuing medical care;
(i) reporting births, deaths and notifiable diseases to government authorities to meet legal and professional requirements;
(j) conducting research in human health and medical services and disseminating the findings such as through scientific reports;
(k) planning and participating in programmes designed to prevent the occurrence and spread of common diseases.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• District medical doctor–therapist
• Family medical practitioner
• General practitioner
• Medical doctor (general)

• Medical officer (general)
• Physician (general)
• Primary health care physician
• Resident medical officer specializing in general practice

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Psychiatrist – 2212
• Specialist physician – 2212
• Surgeon – 2212
• Clinical officer (paramedical) – 2240
• Feldscher – 2240

Note
Occupations included in this unit group require completion of a university-level degree in basic medical education plus postgraduate clinical training or equivalent for competent performance. Medical interns or residents who have completed their university education in basic medical education and are undertaking postgraduate clinical training in general medicine without any area of specialization are included here. Although in some countries “general practice” and “family medicine” may be considered as medical specializations, these occupations should always be classified here.

Unit Group 2212
Specialist Medical Practitioners

Specialist medical practitioners (medical doctors) diagnose, treat and prevent illness, disease, injury and other physical and mental impairments in humans, using specialized testing and diagnostic, medical, surgical, physical and psychiatric techniques through application of the principles and procedures of modern medicine. They specialize in certain disease categories, types of patient or methods of treatment and may conduct medical education and research in their chosen areas of specialization.

Tasks include –
(a) conducting physical examinations of patients and interviewing them and their families to determine their health status;
(b) considering medical information provided by a referring doctor or other health care provider;
(c) ordering specialized diagnostic tests to determine the nature of disorders or illnesses;
(d) prescribing, administering and monitoring patients’ responses to treatments, medications, anaesthetics, psychotherapies, physical rehabilitation programmes and other preventive and curative measures;
(e) performing surgery of a general or specialized nature;
(f) managing complications before, during and after childbirth;
(g) recording patients’ medical information and exchanging information with other health professionals to ensure the provision of comprehensive care;
(h) reporting births, deaths and notifiable diseases to government authorities to meet legal and professional requirements;
(i) providing information to patients and families and communities about preventive measures, treatment and care for specific ailments;
(j) performing autopsies to determine cause of death;
(k) conducting research into specific human disorders and illnesses and preventive or curative methods and disseminating the findings such as through scientific reports;
(l) planning and participating in programmes designed to prevent the occurrence and spread of specific diseases.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Anaesthetist
- Cardiologist
- Emergency medicine specialist
- Gynaecologist
- Obstetrician
- Ophthalmologist
- Paediatrician
- Pathologist
- Preventive medicine specialist
- Psychiatrist
- Radiation oncologist
- Radiologist
- Resident medical officer in specialist training
- Specialist medical practitioner (public health)
- Specialist physician (internal medicine)
- Specialist physician (nuclear medicine)
- Surgeon

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Biomedical researcher – 2131
- General practitioner – 2211
- Resident medical officer specializing in general practice – 2211
- Dental practitioner – 2261
- Dental surgeon – 2261
- Oral and maxillofacial surgeon – 2261
- Clinical psychologist – 2634

Notes
Occupations included in this unit group require completion of a university-level degree in basic medical education plus postgraduate clinical training in a medical specialization (except general practice) or equivalent. Resident medical officers and interns training as specialist practitioners (except general practice) are included here. Although in some countries “stomatology” may be considered as a medical specialization, stomatologists should be included in Unit Group 2261: Dentists.

Medical research professionals who participate in biomedical research using living organisms and do not undertake clinical practice are classified in Unit Group 2131: Biologists, Botanists, Zoologists and Related Professionals.

Minor Group 222
Nursing and Midwifery Professionals

Nursing and midwifery professionals provide treatment and care services for people who are physically or mentally ill, disabled or infirm, and others in need of care due to potential risks to health including before, during and after childbirth. They assume responsibility for the planning, management and evaluation of the care of patients, including the supervision of other health care workers, working autonomously or in teams with medical doctors and others in the practical application of preventive and curative measures.

Tasks performed usually include: assessing, planning, providing and evaluating nursing and midwifery care for patients according to the practice and standards of modern nursing and midwifery; coordinating the care of patients in consultation with other health professionals and members of health teams; developing and implementing care plans, treatments and therapies, including administering medications; monitoring and alleviating pain and discomfort experienced by patients using a variety of therapies, including the use of pain-killing drugs; monitoring patients’ health condition, including progress of pregnancy and responses to curative treatment; providing information to patients, families and communities about a range of health issues, including prevention of illness, treatment and care, pregnancy and childbirth and other topics; supervising and coordinating the work of other health care workers; conducting research on nursing and midwifery practice and preparing scientific papers and reports.
Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

2221 Nursing Professionals
2222 Midwifery Professionals

Note
The distinctions between nursing and midwifery professionals and associate professionals should be made on the basis of the nature of the work performed in relation to the tasks specified in this definition and in the relevant unit group definitions. The qualifications held by individuals or that predominate in the country are not the main factor in making this distinction, as training arrangements for nurses and midwives vary widely between countries and have varied over time within countries.

Unit Group 2221

Nursing Professionals

Nursing professionals provide treatment, support and care services for people who are in need of nursing care due to the effects of ageing, injury, illness or other physical or mental impairment, or potential risks to health. They assume responsibility for the planning and management of the care of patients, including the supervision of other health care workers, working autonomously or in teams with medical doctors and others in the practical application of preventive and curative measures.

Tasks include –
(a) planning, providing and evaluating nursing care for patients according to the practice and standards of modern nursing;
(b) coordinating the care of patients in consultation with other health professionals and members of health teams;
(c) developing and implementing care plans for the biological, social and psychological treatment of patients in collaboration with other health professionals;
(d) planning and providing personal care, treatments and therapies including administering medications, and monitoring responses to treatment or care plan;
(e) cleaning wounds and applying surgical dressings and bandages;
(f) monitoring pain and discomfort experienced by patients and alleviating pain using a variety of therapies, including the use of painkilling drugs;
(g) planning and participating in health education programmes, health promotion and nurse education activities in clinical and community settings;
(h) answering questions from patients and families and providing information about prevention of ill-health, treatment and care;
(i) supervising and coordinating the work of other nursing, health and personal care workers;
(j) conducting research on nursing practices and procedures and disseminating findings such as through scientific papers and reports.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Clinical nurse consultant
• District nurse
• Nurse anaesthetist
• Nurse educator
• Nurse practitioner
• Operating theatre nurse
• Professional nurse
• Public health nurse
• Specialist nurse

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Professional midwife – 2222
• Paramedical practitioner – 2240
• University lecturer – 2310
• Vocational education teacher – 2320
• Associate professional nurse – 3221
• Associate professional midwife – 3222
• Nursing aide (clinic or hospital) – 5321

Notes
The distinction between professional and associate professional nurses should be made on the basis of the nature of the work performed in relation to the tasks specified in this definition. The qualifications held by individuals or that predominate in the country are not the main factor in making this distinction, as training arrangements for nurses vary widely between countries and have varied over time within countries.

Nurses who combine nursing education or research with clinical nursing practice are classified in Unit Group 2221: Nursing Professionals. Nursing researchers who participate in biomedical research using living organisms and do not undertake clinical nursing practice are classified in Unit Group 2131: Biologists, Botanists, Zoologists and Related Professionals.

Unit Group 2222

Midwifery Professionals

Midwifery professionals plan, manage, provide and evaluate midwifery care services before, during and after pregnancy and childbirth. They provide delivery care for reducing health risks to women and newborn children, working autonomously or in teams with other health care providers.
Tasks include—
(a) planning, providing and evaluating care and support services for women and babies before, during and after pregnancy and childbirth according to the practice and standards of modern midwifery care;
(b) providing advice to women and families and conducting community education on health, nutrition, hygiene, exercise, birth and emergency plans, breastfeeding, infant care, family planning and contraception, lifestyle and other topics related to pregnancy and childbirth;
(c) assessing progress during pregnancy and childbirth, managing complications and recognizing warning signs requiring referral to a medical doctor with specialized skills in obstetrics;
(d) monitoring the health status of newborns, managing complications and recognizing warning signs requiring referral to a medical doctor with specialized skills in neonatology;
(e) monitoring pain and discomfort experienced by women during labour and delivery and alleviating pain using a variety of therapies, including the use of painkilling drugs;
(f) reporting births to government authorities to meet legal and professional requirements;
(g) conducting research on midwifery practices and procedures and disseminating findings such as through scientific papers and reports;
(h) planning and conducting midwifery education activities in clinical and community settings.

Example of the occupations classified here:
• Professional midwife

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Professional nurse – 2221
• Associate professional nurse – 3221
• Associate professional midwife – 3222
• Nursing aide (clinic or hospital) – 5321

Notes
The distinctions between nursing and midwifery professionals and associate professionals should be made on the basis of the nature of the work performed in relation to the tasks specified in this definition. The qualifications held by individuals or that predominate in the country are not the main factor in making this distinction, as training arrangements for nurses and midwives vary widely between countries and have varied over time within countries.

Midwives who combine midwifery education or research with clinical midwifery practice are classified in Unit Group 2222: Midwifery Professionals.

Minor Group 223
Traditional and Complementary Medicine Professionals

Traditional and complementary medicine professionals examine patients; prevent and treat illness, disease, injury and other physical and mental impairments; and maintain general health in humans by applying knowledge, skills and practices acquired through extensive study of the theories, beliefs and experiences originating in specific cultures.

Tasks performed usually include: conducting physical examinations of patients and interviewing them and their families to determine their health status; developing and implementing treatment plans for physical, mental and psychosocial ailments using applications such as acupuncture, ayurvedic, homeopathic and herbal medicine; evaluating and documenting patients’ progress through treatment plans; providing health, nutrition and lifestyle advice to individuals, families and communities; prescribing and preparing traditional medicines, such as herbal, plant, mineral and animal extracts, to stimulate the body’s capacity for self-healing; exchanging information about patients with other health care workers as needed to ensure continuing and comprehensive health care; conducting research into traditional and complementary medicines and treatments and disseminating findings such as through scientific papers and reports.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit group:

2230 Traditional and Complementary Medicine Professionals
Unit Group 2230

Traditional and Complementary Medicine Professionals

Traditional and complementary medicine professionals examine patients, prevent and treat illness, disease, injury and other physical and mental impairments and maintain general health in humans by applying knowledge, skills and practices acquired through extensive study of the theories, beliefs and experiences originating in specific cultures.

Tasks include –
(a) conducting physical examinations of patients and interviewing them and their families to determine their health status;
(b) developing and implementing treatment plans for physical, mental and psychosocial ailments using applications such as acupuncture, ayurvedic, homeopathic and herbal medicine;

• Acupressure therapist – 3255
• Hydrotherapist – 3255
• Shiatsu therapist – 3255
• Faith healer – 3413

Note
Occupations in traditional and complementary medicine for which competent performance requires an extensive understanding of the benefits and applications of traditional and complementary therapies, developed as the result of extended formal study of these techniques as well as human anatomy and elements of modern medicine, are classified in Unit Group 2230: Traditional and Complementary Medicine Professionals. Those occupations whose practice requires a less extensive understanding based on relatively short periods of formal or informal education and training, or informally through the traditions and practices of the communities where they originated, are included in Unit Group 3230: Traditional and Complementary Medicine Associate Professionals. Practitioners working in the singular application of approaches to herbal medicines, spiritual therapies or manual therapeutic techniques are excluded from Unit Group 2230.

Minor Group 224

Paramedical Practitioners

Paramedical practitioners provide advisory, diagnostic, curative and preventive medical services more limited in scope and complexity than those carried out by medical doctors. They work autonomously or with limited supervision of medical doctors, and apply advanced clinical procedures for treating and preventing diseases, injuries and other physical or mental impairments common to specific communities.

Tasks performed usually include: conducting physical examinations of patients and interviewing them and their families to determine their health status and recording patients’ medical information; performing basic or more routine medical and surgical procedures, including prescribing and administering treatments, medications and other preventive or curative measures, especially for common diseases and disorders; administering or ordering diagnostic tests, such as X-ray, electrocardiogram and laboratory tests; performing therapeutic procedures such as injections, immunizations, suturing and wound care, and infection management; assisting medical doctors with complex surgical procedures; monitoring patients’ progress and response to treatment, and identifying signs and symptoms requiring referral to medical doctors; advising patients and families on diet, exercise and other habits which aid prevention or treatment of disease and disorders; identifying and referring complex or unusual cases to medical doctors, hospitals or other places for specialized care; reporting births, deaths and notifiable diseases to government authorities to meet legal and professional reporting requirements.

TECHNICIANS AND ASSOCIATE PROFESSIONALS

Technicians and associate professionals perform technical and related tasks connected with research and the application of scientific or artistic concepts and operational methods, and government or business regulations. Competent performance in most occupations in this major group requires skills at the third ISCO skill level.

Tasks performed by technicians and associate professionals usually include: undertaking and carrying out technical work connected with research and the application of concepts and operational methods in the fields of physical sciences including engineering and technology, life sciences including the medical profession, and social sciences and humanities; initiating and carrying out various technical services related to trade, finance and administration including administration of government laws and regulations, and to social work; providing technical support for the arts and entertainment; participating in sporting activities; executing some religious tasks. Supervision of other workers may be included.

Occupations in this major group are classified into the following sub-major groups:

- 31 Science and Engineering Associate Professionals
- 32 Health Associate Professionals
- 33 Business and Administration Associate Professionals
- 34 Legal, Social, Cultural and Related Associate Professionals
- 35 Information and Communications Technicians
Sub-major Group 31

Science and Engineering Associate Professionals

Science and engineering associate professionals perform technical tasks connected with research and operational methods in science and engineering. They supervise and control technical and operational aspects of mining, manufacturing, construction and other engineering operations, and operate technical equipment including aircraft and ships. Competent performance in most occupations in this sub-major group requires skills at the third ISCO skill level.

Tasks performed by workers in this sub-major group usually include: setting up, monitoring and operating instruments and equipment; conducting and monitoring experiments and tests of systems; collecting and testing samples; recording observations and analysing data; preparing, revising and interpreting technical drawings and diagrams; coordinating, supervising, controlling and scheduling the activities of other workers; operating and monitoring switchboards, computerized control systems, and multi-function process control machinery; performing technical functions to ensure safe and efficient movement and operations in ships, aircraft and other equipment.

Occupations in this sub-major group are classified into the following minor groups:

- 311 Physical and Engineering Science Technicians
- 312 Mining, Manufacturing and Construction Supervisors
- 313 Process Control Technicians
- 314 Life Science Technicians and Related Associate Professionals
- 315 Ship and Aircraft Controllers and Technicians

Minor Group 311

Physical and Engineering Science Technicians

Physical and engineering science technicians perform technical tasks to aid in research on and the practical application of concepts, principles and operational methods particular to physical sciences including such areas as engineering, technical drawing or economic efficiency of production processes.

Tasks performed usually include: undertaking and carrying out technical work related to chemistry, physics, geology, meteorology, astronomy, engineering or technical drawing; setting up, operating and maintaining laboratory instruments and equipment; monitoring experiments, making observations, and calculating and recording results; preparing materials for experimentation; conducting tests of systems; collecting and testing samples; recording observations and analysing data; preparing, revising and interpreting technical drawings, wiring diagrams, circuit board assembly diagrams or layout drawings.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

- 3111 Chemical and Physical Science Technicians
- 3112 Civil Engineering Technicians
- 3113 Electrical Engineering Technicians
- 3114 Electronics Engineering Technicians
- 3115 Mechanical Engineering Technicians
- 3116 Chemical Engineering Technicians
- 3117 Mining and Metallurgical Technicians
- 3118 Draughtpersons
- 3119 Physical and Engineering Science Technicians Not Elsewhere Classified
Chemical and Physical Science Technicians

Chemical and physical science technicians perform technical tasks to aid in research in chemistry, physics, geology, geophysics, meteorology and astronomy, and in the development of industrial, medical, military and other practical applications of research results.

Tasks include –
(a) collecting samples and preparing materials and equipment for experiments, tests and analyses;
(b) carrying out routine laboratory tests and performing a variety of technical support functions to assist chemical and physical scientists in research, development, analysis and testing;
(c) controlling the quality and quantity of laboratory supplies by testing samples and monitoring usage and preparing detailed estimates of quantities and costs of materials and labour required for projects, according to the specifications given;
(d) setting up, operating and maintaining laboratory instruments and equipment, monitoring experiments, making observations, and calculating and recording results;
(e) preparing materials for experimentation such as freezing and slicing specimens and mixing chemicals;
(f) collecting and testing earth and water samples, recording observations and analysing data in support of geologists or geophysicists.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Chemistry technician
- Geology technician
- Meteorology technician
- Physics technician

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Chemical engineering technician – 3116
- Chemical process technician – 3133
- Life science technician – 3141

Civil Engineering Technicians

Civil engineering technicians perform technical tasks in civil engineering research and in the design, construction, operation, maintenance and repair of buildings and other structures such as water supply and wastewater treatment systems, bridges, roads, dams and airports.

Tasks include –
(a) performing or assisting with field and laboratory tests of soils and construction materials;
(b) providing technical assistance connected with the construction of buildings and other structures, and with surveys or the preparation of survey reports;
(c) ensuring compliance with design specifications, relevant legislation and regulations, and maintenance of desired standards of materials and work;
(d) applying technical knowledge of building and civil engineering principles and practices in order to identify and solve problems arising;
(e) assisting with the preparation of detailed estimates of quantities and costs of materials and labour required for projects, according to the specifications given;
(f) organizing maintenance and repairs;
(g) inspecting buildings and structures during and after construction to ensure that they comply with building, grading, zoning and safety laws and approved plans, specifications and standards, as well as with other rules concerning quality and safety of buildings;
(h) inspecting industrial plant, hotels, cinemas and other buildings and structures to detect fire hazards and advise on how they can be removed;
(i) advising on the installation of fire detectors and sprinkler systems and the use of materials in the construction of buildings, and means of transportation to reduce risk of fire and extent of damage and danger if fire occurs.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Building inspector
- Building surveyor
- Civil engineering technician
- Clerk of works
- Fire inspector
- Fire prevention specialist
- Geotechnical technician
- Surveying technician

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Quantity surveyor – 2149
- Marine surveyor – 3115
- Fire investigator – 3119

Electrical Engineering Technicians

Electrical engineering technicians perform technical tasks to aid in electrical engineering research and in the design, manufacture, assembly, construction, operation, maintenance and repair of electrical equipment, facilities and distribution systems.

Tasks include –
(a) providing technical assistance in research on and development of electrical equipment and facilities, or testing prototypes;
(b) designing and preparing blueprints of electrical installations and circuitry according to the specifications given;
(c) preparing detailed estimates of quantities and costs of materials and labour required for manufacture and installation, according to the specifications given;
(d) monitoring technical aspects of the manufacture, utilization, maintenance and repair of electronic equipment to ensure satisfactory performance and ensure compliance with specifications and regulations;
(e) assisting in the design, development, installation, operation and maintenance of electronic systems;
(f) planning installation methods, checking completed installations for safety and controls or undertaking the initial running of the new electronic equipment or system;
(g) conducting tests of electronic systems, collecting and analysing data, and assembling circuitry in support of electronics engineers.

Example of the occupations classified here:
- Electronics engineering technician

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Electrical engineering technician – 3113
- Telecommunications engineering technician – 3522
- Electronics mechanic – 7421
- Electronic equipment assembler – 8212

Unit Group 3115

Mechanical Engineering Technicians

Mechanical engineering technicians perform technical tasks to aid in mechanical engineering research and in the design, manufacture, assembly, construction, operation, maintenance and repair of machines, components and mechanical equipment.

Tasks include –
(a) providing technical assistance in research on and development of machines and mechanical installations, facilities and components, or testing prototypes;
(b) designing and preparing layouts of machines and mechanical installations, facilities and components, according to the specifications given;
(c) preparing detailed estimates of quantities and costs of materials and labour required for manufacture and installation, according to the specifications given;
(d) monitoring technical aspects of manufacture, utilization, maintenance and repair of machines and mechanical installations, facilities and components to ensure satisfactory performance and compliance with specifications and regulations;

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Electrical engineering technician

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Electrical engineering technician – 3113
- Telecommunications engineering technician – 3522
- Electronics mechanic – 7421
- Electronic equipment assembler – 8212
(e) developing and monitoring the implementation of safety standards and procedures for marine survey work in relation to ships’ hulls, equipment and cargoes;
(f) assembling and installing new and modified mechanical assemblies, components, machine tools and controls, and hydraulic power systems;
(g) conducting tests of mechanical systems, collecting and analysing data, and assembling and installing mechanical assemblies in support of mechanical engineers;
(h) ensuring that mechanical engineering designs and finished work are within specifications, regulations and contract provisions.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Aeronautics engineering technician
- Marine engineering technician
- Marine surveyor
- Mechanical engineering estimator
- Mechanical engineering technician

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Chemical technician – 3111
- Chemical process technician – 3133

Unit Group 3117
Mining and Metallurgical Technicians

Mining and metallurgical technicians perform technical tasks to assist in research and experiments related to metallurgy, in improving methods of extracting solid minerals, oil and gas, and in the design, construction, operation, maintenance and repair of mines and mine installations, of systems for transporting and storing oil and natural gas, and for extraction of metals from ores.

Tasks include –
(a) providing technical assistance to aid in research on and development of processes to determine the properties of metals and new alloys;
(b) providing technical assistance in geological and topographical surveys and in the design and layout of oil, natural gas and mineral ore extraction and transportation systems, and processing and refining plants for minerals and metals;
(c) preparing detailed estimates of quantities and costs of materials and labour required for mineral, oil and natural gas exploration, extraction, processing and transport projects;
(d) monitoring technical, regulatory and safety aspects of the construction, installation, operation, maintenance and repair of mineral ore, oil and natural gas exploration, extraction, transport and storage installations and mineral processing plants;
(e) helping plan and design mines, mine shafts, tunnels and underground first-aid facilities;
(f) collecting and preparing rock, mineral and metal samples, performing laboratory tests to determine properties, analysing and reporting test results and maintaining testing equipment;
(g) using microscopes, electromagnetic irradiation machines, spectrometers, spectrographs, densitometers and tension testing machines;
(h) assisting scientists in the use of electrical, sonic or nuclear measuring instruments in both laboratory and production activities to obtain data indicating potential sources of metallic ore, gas or petroleum.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Metallurgical technician
- Mine inspector
- Mining engineering technician

Unit Group 3116
Chemical Engineering Technicians

Chemical engineering technicians perform technical tasks to aid in chemical engineering research and in the design, manufacture, construction, operation, maintenance and repair of chemical plant.

Tasks include –
(a) assisting in research on and development of industrial chemical processes, plant and equipment, or testing prototypes;
(b) designing and preparing layouts of chemical plants according to the specifications given;
(c) preparing detailed estimates of quantities and costs of materials and labour required for manufacture and installation, according to the specifications given;
(d) monitoring technical aspects of the construction, installation, operation, maintenance and repair of chemical plants to ensure satisfactory performance and compliance with specifications and regulations;
(e) conducting chemical and physical laboratory tests to assist scientists and engineers in making qualitative and quantitative analyses of solids, liquids and gaseous materials.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Chemical engineering estimator
- Chemical engineering technician

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Industrial machinery mechanic – 7233
- Mechanical machinery assembler – 8211
Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Geology technician – 3111
- Miner – 8111
- Mining plant operator – 8111
- Quarry – 8111

Unit Group 3118
Draughtspersons

Draughtspersons prepare technical drawings, maps and illustrations from sketches, measurements and other data, and copy final drawings and paintings onto printing plates.

Tasks include –
(a) preparing and revising working drawings from sketches and specifications prepared by engineers and designers for the manufacture, installation and erection of machinery and equipment or for the construction, modification, maintenance and repair of buildings, dams, bridges, roads and other architectural and civil engineering projects;
(b) operating computer-aided design and draughting equipment to create, modify and generate hard-copy and digital representations of working drawings;
(c) operating digitizing table or similar equipment to transfer hard-copy representation of working drawings, maps and other curves to digital form;
(d) preparing and revising illustrations for reference works, brochures and technical manuals dealing with the assembly, installation, operation, maintenance and repair of machinery and other equipment and goods;
(e) copying drawings and paintings onto stone or metal plates for printing;
(f) preparing wiring diagrams, circuit board assembly diagrams and layout drawings used for manufacture, installation and repair of electrical equipment in factories, power plants and buildings;
(g) creating detailed working diagrams of machinery and mechanical devices, including dimensions, fastening methods and other engineering information;
(h) arranging for completed drawings to be reproduced for use as working drawings.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Draughtsperson
- Technical illustrator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Cartographer – 2165
- Surveyor – 2165

Unit Group 3119
Physical and Engineering Science Technicians Not Elsewhere Classified

This unit group covers physical and engineering science technicians not classified elsewhere in Minor Group 311: Physical and Engineering Science Technicians. For instance, the unit group includes those who assist scientists and engineers engaged in developing procedures or conducting research on safety in biomedical, environmental or industrial and production engineering.

In such cases tasks would include –
(a) collecting data and providing technical assistance regarding: efficient, safe and economic utilization of personnel, material and equipment; methods of work and sequence of operations and supervision of their implementation; and efficient layout of plant or establishment;
(b) aiding in the identification of potential hazards and introducing safety procedures and devices;
(c) modifying and testing equipment and devices used in the prevention, control and remediation of environmental pollution, in site remediation and land reclamation;
(d) assisting in the development of environmental pollution remediation devices under the direction of an engineer;
(e) assisting engineers in testing and designing robotics equipment.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Engineering technician (production)
- Fire investigator
- Forensic science technician
- Quantity surveying technician
- Robotics technician
- Time and motion study technician

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Production engineer – 2141
- Quantity surveyor – 2149
- Aeronautics engineering technician – 3115
Minor Group 312

Mining, Manufacturing and Construction Supervisors

Mining, manufacturing and construction supervisors coordinate, supervise, control and schedule the activities of workers in manufacturing, mining and construction operations.

Tasks performed usually include: overseeing, supervising and coordinating the activities of tradespersons, process control technicians, machine operators, assemblers, labourers and other workers; organizing and planning daily work; preparing cost estimates, records and reports; identifying shortages of staff or supplies; ensuring safety of workers; instructing and training new staff.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

- 3121 Mining Supervisors
- 3122 Manufacturing Supervisors
- 3123 Construction Supervisors

Notes

Jobs classified in Minor Group 312: Mining, Manufacturing and Construction Supervisors mainly involve planning, organizing, coordinating, controlling and directing the work done by others. Most of the time workers employed in these jobs do not perform the tasks performed by those they supervise, although they frequently have extensive experience in performance of these tasks. Those who carry out the tasks and duties of the jobs they supervise, in addition to controlling the technical quality of the work done by others, should be classified with the workers they supervise. These supervisory jobs often are called “foremen/women” or “team leaders”.

In distinguishing between managers classified in Major Group 1: Managers, and supervisors, classified in other major groups, it should be noted that both managers and supervisors may plan, organize, coordinate, control and direct the work done by others. In addition, managers usually have responsibility for and make decisions about: the overall strategic and operational direction of a business or organizational unit (for example about the kinds, quantity and quality of goods to be produced); budgets (how much money is to be spent and for what purposes); and the selection, appointment and dismissal of staff. Supervisors may provide advice and assistance to managers on these matters, especially in relation to staff selection and dismissal, but do not have authority to make decisions.

It should be noted that it is not a necessary condition that managers have responsibility for all three of strategic and operational direction, budgets and staff selection and dismissal. The degree of autonomy they exercise may also vary. The critical difference is that supervisors are responsible only for the supervision of the activities of other workers, whereas managers have overall responsibility for the operations of an organizational unit.

Unit Group 3121

Mining Supervisors

Mining supervisors oversee mining and quarrying operations and directly supervise and coordinate the activities of miners working in underground and surface mines and quarries.

Tasks include –

- (a) supervising and coordinating the activities of workers who extract minerals and other natural deposits from the earth, and who operate underground conveyances or heavy equipment in surface mines and quarries;
- (b) establishing methods to meet work schedules and recommending measures to mining managers to improve productivity;
- (c) working with managerial and technical personnel, other departments and contractors to resolve operational problems and coordinate activities;
- (d) providing reports and other information to mining managers about all aspects of mining or quarrying operations;
- (e) determining staffing and material needs for the mine or quarry.

Examples of the occupations classified here:

- Mine deputy
- Mine supervisor
- Mine under-manager
- Quarry supervisor

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:

- Mine manager – 1322
- Mine inspector – 3117
- Miner – 8111
- Quarrier – 8111
Unit Group 3122

Manufacturing Supervisors

Manufacturing supervisors coordinate and supervise the activities of process control technicians, machine operators, assemblers and other manufacturing labourers.

Tasks include –
(a) coordinating and supervising the activities of process control technicians, machine operators, assemblers and other manufacturing labourers;
(b) organizing and planning the daily work with regard to plans, economy, staff and environment;
(c) preparing cost estimates, records and reports;
(d) identifying shortage of staff or components;
(e) ensuring safety of workers;
(f) instructing and training new staff.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Area coordinator (manufacturing)
- Assembly supervisor
- Finishing supervisor
- Production supervisor (manufacturing)

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Manufacturing manager – 1321

Unit Group 3123

Construction Supervisors

Construction supervisors coordinate, supervise and schedule the activities of workers engaged in the construction and repair of buildings and structures.

Tasks include –
(a) reading specifications to determine construction requirements and planning procedures;
(b) organizing and coordinating the material and human resources required to complete jobs;
(c) examining and inspecting work progress;
(d) examining equipment and construction sites to ensure that health and safety requirements are met;
(e) supervising construction sites and coordinating work with other construction projects;
(f) supervising the activities of building trades workers, labourers and other construction workers.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Building construction supervisor
- Site manager (construction)

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Construction project manager – 1323
- Project builder – 1323
- Clerk of works – 3112

Minor Group 313

Process Control Technicians

Process control technicians operate and monitor switchboards, computerized control systems and multi-function process control machinery; and maintain processing units in electrical power generation and distribution, wastewater, sewage treatment and waste disposal plants, chemical, petroleum and natural gas refineries, in metal processing and other multiple process operations.

Tasks performed usually include: operating electronic or computerized control panels from a central control room to monitor and optimize processes; controlling process start-up and shut-down; operating and monitoring switchboards and related equipment; monitoring and inspecting equipment and systems to detect malfunctions; taking readings from charts, meters and gauges at established intervals; troubleshooting and taking corrective action as necessary; maintaining records, logs and reports; communicating with other personnel to assess equipment operating status; cleaning and maintaining equipment; supervising plant and machine operators, assemblers and other workers.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

3131 Power Production Plant Operators
3132 Incinerator and Water Treatment Plant Operators
3133 Chemical Processing Plant Controllers
3134 Petroleum and Natural Gas Refining Plant Operators
3135 Metal Production Process Controllers
3139 Process Control Technicians Not Elsewhere Classified
Notes
In some jobs, the work of process control technicians may be combined with supervision of staff in other occupations, such as plant and machine operators and assemblers. These jobs should be classified in Minor Group 313: Process Control Technicians, unless supervision of other workers is the clearly predominant element of the work and the process control activities are relatively simple. For example, a chemical processing plant controller who operates and monitors chemical processing units and equipment from a central control room, and also supervises the activities of chemical products plant and machine operators, should be classified in Unit Group 3133: Chemical Processing Plant Controllers. A supervisor of assemblers, however, who is also responsible for start-up and shut-down of a partially automated assembly line is classified in Unit Group 3122: Manufacturing Supervisors.

Operators of single process plant and machines, or of machinery that does not involve automated control of multiple processes, are not included in Minor Group 313: Process Control Technicians. Such occupations are mainly classified in Major Group 8: Plant and Machine Operators and Assemblers.

All mining plant operators are classified in Unit Group 8111: Miners and Quarryers.

Unit Group 3131
Power Production Plant Operators

Power production plant operators operate, monitor and maintain switchboards and related equipment in electrical control centres which control the production and distribution of electrical or other power in transmission networks. The equipment operated includes reactors, turbines, generators and other auxiliary equipment in electrical power-generating stations.

Tasks include –
(a) operating, monitoring and inspecting various types of energy-generating power plants;
(b) operating and controlling power-generating systems and equipment including boilers, turbines, generators, condensers and reactors in hydro, thermal, coal, oil, natural gas and nuclear power plants to generate and distribute electrical power;
(c) controlling start-up and shut-down of power plant equipment, controlling switching operations, regulating water levels and communicating with systems operators to regulate and coordinate transmission loads, frequency and line voltages;
(d) taking readings from charts, meters and gauges at established intervals, troubleshooting and performing corrective action as necessary;
(e) completing and maintaining station records, logs and reports, and communicating with other plant personnel to assess equipment operating status;
(f) cleaning and maintaining equipment such as generators, boilers, turbines, pumps and compressors in order to prevent equipment failure or deterioration.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Distribution control operator
- Electric power plant operator
- Generating station operator

- Hydroelectric power plant operator
- Nuclear power plant operator
- Power system operator
- Solar power plant operator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Steam engine and boiler operators – 8182

Unit Group 3132
Incinerator and Water Treatment Plant Operators

Incinerator and water treatment plant operators monitor and operate computerized control systems and related equipment in solid and liquid waste treatment plants to regulate the treatment and disposal of sewage and wastes, and in water filtration and treatment plants to regulate the treatment and distribution of water.

Tasks include –
(a) operating and monitoring computerized control systems, machinery and related equipment in wastewater treatment, sewage treatment and liquid waste plants to regulate flow, treatment and disposal of sewage and wastes, and in water filtration and treatment plants to regulate the treatment and distribution of water for human consumption and for later disposal into natural water systems;
(b) controlling the operation of multiple-hearth incinerator furnaces and related equipment to burn sludge and solid waste in waste treatment plants;
(c) inspecting equipment and monitoring operating conditions, meters, filters, chlorinators and gauges in central control rooms to determine load requirements, to verify that flows, pressures and temperatures are within specification, and to detect malfunctions;
(d) monitoring and adjusting controls of auxiliary equipment such as exhaust emissions, scrubbers and incinerator heat recovery units;
(e) collecting and testing water and sewage samples for chemical and bacterial content, using test equipment and colour analysis standards;
(f) analysing test results to make adjustments to plant equipment and systems to disinfect and deodorize water and other liquids;
(g) performing security and safety checks in plant and on grounds;
(h) completing and maintaining plant logs and reports.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Incinerator operator
- Liquid waste process operator
- Pumping-station operator
- Sewage plant operator
- Wastewater operator
- Water treatment plant operator

Unit Group 3133
Chemical Processing Plant Controllers

Chemical processing plant controllers operate and monitor chemical plants and related multi-function process control machinery, and adjust and maintain processing units and equipment which distil, filter, separate, heat or refine chemicals. Tasks include –
(a) operating electronic or computerized control panels from a central control room to monitor and optimize physical and chemical processes for several processing units;
(b) adjusting equipment, valves, pumps, controls and process equipment;
(c) controlling the preparation, measuring and feeding of raw materials and processing agents such as catalysts and filtering media into plant;
(d) controlling process start-up and shut-down, troubleshooting and monitoring outside process equipment;
(e) verifying equipment for malfunctions, carrying out routine operating tests and arranging for maintenance;
(f) analysing sample products, performing tests, recording data and writing production logs.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Chemical filtering and separating equipment operator
- Chemical heat treating plant operator
- Chemical process technician
- Chemical still and reactor operator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Petroleum and natural gas refining plant operator – 3133
- Chemical products plant and machine operator – 8131

Unit Group 3134
Petroleum and Natural Gas Refining Plant Operators

Petroleum and natural gas refining plant operators operate and monitor plants and adjust and maintain processing units and equipment which refine, distil and treat petroleum, petroleum-based products and by-products, or natural gas. Tasks include –
(a) operating electronic or computerized control panels from a central control room to monitor and optimize physical and chemical processes for several processing units;
(b) adjusting equipment, valves, pumps, controls and process equipment;
(c) controlling process start-up and shut-down, troubleshooting and monitoring outside process equipment;
(d) verifying equipment for malfunctions, testing well pipes for leaks and fractures and arranging for maintenance;
(e) analysing sample products, performing tests, recording data and writing production logs.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Blender operator (petroleum and natural gas refining)
- Gas plant operator
- Paraffin plant operator
- Petroleum process operator
- Refinery process technician
- Still operator (petroleum and natural gas refining)

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Chemical processing plant controller – 3133
- Chemical products plant and machine operator – 8131

Unit Group 3135
Metal Production Process Controllers

Metal production process controllers operate and monitor multi-function process control machinery and equipment to control the processing of metal converting and refining furnaces, metal-rolling mills and metal heat-treating or metal-extrusion plants. Tasks include –
(a) coordinating and monitoring the operation of a particular aspect of metal processing production through control panels, computer terminals or other control systems, usually from a central control room;
(b) operating multi-function central process control machinery to grind, separate, filter, melt, roast, treat, refine or otherwise process metals;
(c) observing computer printouts, video monitors and gauges to verify specified processing conditions and to make necessary adjustments;
(d) coordinating and supervising production crew such as machine and process operators, assistants and helpers;
(e) starting up and shutting down the production system in cases of emergency or as required by schedule;
(f) providing and organizing training for members of production crews;
(g) maintaining shift logs of production and other data and preparing production and other reports.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Blast furnace operator
- Central control caster
- Rolling mill control operator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Ladle pourer – 8121
- Steel roller – 8121
- Metal finishing machine operator – 8122

Unit Group 3139
Process Control Technicians Not Elsewhere Classified

This unit group covers process control technicians not classified elsewhere in Minor Group 313: Process Control Technicians. For instance, the unit group includes those who operate multiple process control equipment in manufacturing assembly lines and paper and pulp production.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Automated assembly line operator
- Industrial robot controller
- Panel board operator (pulp and paper)
- Paper pulp refinery operator
- Pulping control operator
- Pulping technician

Note
All mining plant operators are classified in Unit Group 8111: Miners and Quarriers.

Minor Group 314
Life Science Technicians and Related Associate Professionals

Life science technicians and related associate professionals perform a variety of technical tasks to support life science professionals with their research, development, management, conservation and protection work, in areas such as biology, botany, zoology, biotechnology and biochemistry, and to agriculture, fisheries and forestry.

Tasks performed usually include: conducting tests, experiments, laboratory analyses, field research and surveys to collect information by using accepted scientific methods; keeping records; assisting in analysing data and preparing reports; operating and maintaining equipment.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:
- 3141 Life Science Technicians (excluding Medical)
- 3142 Agricultural Technicians
- 3143 Forestry Technicians

Unit Group 3141
Life Science Technicians (excluding Medical)

Life science technicians (excluding medical) provide technical support to life science professionals undertaking research, analysis and testing of living organisms, and development and application of products and processes resulting from research in areas such as natural resource management, environmental protection, plant and animal biology, microbiology, and cell and molecular biology.

Tasks include:
(a) assisting in designing, setting up and conducting experiments;
(b) setting up, calibrating, operating and maintaining laboratory instruments and equipment;
(c) collecting and preparing specimens and samples, chemical solutions and slides and growing cultures for use in experiments;
(d) identifying pathogenic micro-organisms and insects, parasites, fungi and weeds harmful to crops and livestock, and assisting in devising methods of control;
(e) collecting and preparing specimens and samples;
(f) making observations of tests and analysing, calculating, recording and reporting test results using appropriate scientific methods;
(g) preserving, classifying and cataloguing specimens and samples;
(h) keeping detailed logs of work performed;
(i) using computers to develop models and analyse data;
(j) using complex and high-powered equipment to perform work;
(k) participating in the research, development and manufacture of products and processes;
(l) ordering and stocking laboratory supplies;
(m) maintaining relevant databases.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Bacteriology technician
- Biochemistry technician
- Herbarium technician
- Pharmacology technician
- Serology technician
- Tissue culture technician
- Zoology technician

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Forensic science technician – 3119
- Medical laboratory technician – 3212
- Pathology laboratory technician – 3212
- Pharmaceutical technician – 3213

Unit Group 3142

Agricultural Technicians

Agricultural technicians perform tests and experiments, and provide technical and scientific support to agricultural scientists, farmers and farm managers.

Tasks include –
(a) preparing materials and equipment for experiments, tests and analyses;
(b) collecting and preparing specimens such as soils, plant or animal cells, tissues or parts of animal organs for experiments, tests and analyses;
(c) assisting with and performing experiments, tests and analyses applying methods and techniques such as microscopy, histochemistry, chromatography, electrophoresis and spectroscopy;
(d) identifying pathogenic micro-organisms and insects, parasites, fungi and weeds harmful to crops and livestock, and assisting in devising methods of control;
(e) analysing produce to set and maintain standards of quality;
(f) conducting or supervising operational programmes such as fish hatchery, greenhouse and livestock production programmes;
(g) analysing samples of seeds for quality, purity and germination rating;
(h) collecting data and estimating quantities and costs of materials and labour required for projects;
(i) organizing maintenance and repairs of research equipment.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Dairy technician
- Field crop technician
- Herd tester
- Horticultural technician
- Poultry technician

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Artificial inseminator – 3240
- Veterinary technician – 3240

Unit Group 3143

Forestry Technicians

Forestry technicians perform technical and supervisory functions in support of forestry research and forest management, harvesting, resource conservation and environmental protection.

Tasks include –
(a) conducting forest inventories, surveys and field measurements following accepted scientific and operational procedures;
(b) assisting in and performing technical functions in the preparation of forest management and harvest plans using photogrammetric and mapping techniques and computerized information systems;
(c) assisting in planning and supervision of construction of access routes and forest roads;
(d) implementing, supervising and performing technical functions in silvicultural operations involving site preparation, planting, and tending of tree crops;
(e) coordinating activities such as timber scaling, forest fire suppression, disease or insect control or pre-commercial thinning of forest stands;
(f) supervising and performing technical functions in forest harvesting operations;
(g) ensuring adherence to regulations and policies concerning environmental protection, resource utilization, fire safety and accident prevention;
(h) supervising forest tree nursery operations;
(i) providing technical support to forestry research programmes in areas such as tree improvement, seed orchard operations, insect and disease surveys or experimental forestry and forest engineering research;
(j) preparing forest cultivation and cutting plans.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Forestry technician
• Silviculture technician

Minor Group 315
Ship and Aircraft Controllers and Technicians

Ship and aircraft controllers and technicians command and navigate ships and aircraft; perform technical functions to ensure safe and efficient movement and operations; and develop electrical, electromechanical and computerized air control systems.

Tasks performed usually include: controlling the operation of mechanical, electrical and electronic equipment on board ship or on aircraft; commanding and navigating ships or aircraft, directing the movements of ships or aircraft; developing electrical, electromechanical and computerized air control systems.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

3151 Ships’ Engineers
3152 Ships’ Deck Officers and Pilots
3153 Aircraft Pilots and Related Associate Professionals
3154 Air Traffic Controllers
3155 Air Traffic Safety Electronics Technicians

Unit Group 3151
Ships’ Engineers

Ships’ engineers control and participate in the operation, maintenance and repair of mechanical, electrical and electronic equipment and machinery on board ship, or perform related supporting functions on shore.

Tasks include –
(a) controlling and participating in the operation, maintenance and repair of mechanical, electrical and electronic equipment and machinery on board ship;
(b) ordering fuel and other engine-room department stores and maintaining records of operations;
(c) performing technical supervision of the installation, maintenance and repair of ships’ machinery and equipment to ensure compliance with specifications and regulations;
(d) inspecting and conducting maintenance and emergency repairs to engines, machinery and auxiliary equipment;
(e) standing engine room watch, monitoring and noting performance of engines, machinery and auxiliary equipment.

Example of the occupations classified here:
• Ships’ engineer

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Marine engineer – 2144

Unit Group 3152
Ships’ Deck Officers and Pilots

Ships’ deck officers and pilots command and navigate ships and similar vessels, and perform related functions on shore.

Tasks include –
(a) commanding and navigating ship or similar vessel at sea or on inland waterways;
(b) controlling and participating in deck and bridge watch activities;
(c) navigating vessels into and out of ports and through channels, straits and other waters where special knowledge is required;
(d) ensuring safe loading and unloading of cargo and observance of safety regulations and procedures by crew and passengers;
(e) performing technical supervision of maintenance and repair of ships to ensure compliance with specifications and regulations;
(f) applying knowledge of principles and practices relating to ships’ operation and navigation in order to identify and solve problems arising in the course of their work;
(g) ordering ships’ stores, recruiting crew as required and maintaining records of operations;
(h) transmitting and receiving routine and emergency information with shore stations and other ships.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Pilot (ship)
• Ships’ captain
• Skipper (yacht)

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Coastal fishery skipper – 6222
• Trawler skipper – 6223
• Sailor – 8350

Unit Group 3153
Aircraft Pilots and Related Associate Professionals

Aircraft pilots and related associate professionals control the operation of mechanical, electrical and electronic equipment, in order to navigate aircraft for transporting passengers, mail and freight, and perform related pre-flight and in-flight tasks.

Tasks include –
(a) flying and navigating aircraft in accordance with established control and operating procedures;
(b) preparing and submitting flight plans or examining standard flight plans;
(c) controlling the operation of mechanical, electrical and electronic equipment and ensuring that all instruments and controls work properly;
(d) applying knowledge of principles and practices of flying in order to identify and solve problems arising in the course of their work;
(e) examining maintenance records and conducting inspections to ensure that aircraft are mechanically sound, maintenance has been performed and that all equipment is operational;
(f) signing necessary certificates and maintaining official records of flight;
(g) obtaining briefings and clearances before flights and maintaining contact with air traffic or flight control during flight.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Aerial crop sprayer
• Flight engineer
• Flying instructor
• Navigator (flight)
• Pilot (aircraft)

Unit Group 3154
Air Traffic Controllers

Air traffic controllers direct aircraft movements in airspace and on the ground, using radio, radar and lighting systems, and provide information relevant to the operation of aircraft.

Tasks include –
(a) directing and controlling aircraft approaching and leaving airport and their movement on the ground;
(b) directing and controlling aircraft operating in designated airspace sectors;
(c) examining and approving flight plans;
(d) informing flight crew and operations staff about weather conditions, operational facilities, flight plans and air traffic;
(e) applying knowledge of principles and practices of air traffic control in order to identify and solve problems arising in the course of their work;
(f) initiating and organizing emergency, search and rescue services and procedures;
(g) directing activities of all aircraft and service vehicles on or near airport runways;
(h) maintaining radio and telephone contact with adjacent control towers, terminal control units and other control centres, and coordinating the movement of aircraft into adjoining areas.

Example of the occupations classified here:
• Air traffic controller

Unit Group 3155
Air Traffic Safety Electronics Technicians

Air traffic safety electronics technicians perform technical tasks concerning the design, installation, management, operation, maintenance and repair of air traffic control and air navigation systems.

Tasks include –
(a) carrying out technical duties related to the development of electronic and computerized air navigation systems and equipment, and testing prototypes;
(b) providing technical help in the design and layout of specific interface circuitry of air navigation and aircraft detection tracking systems;
(c) preparing and contributing to the preparation of cost estimates and technical and training specifications for air traffic control and safety equipment;
(d) providing or assisting with the technical supervision of construction, installation and operation of ground-based air navigation equipment and its maintenance and repair to ensure that standards and specifications are met;
(e) applying the knowledge and skills of air traffic safety engineering principles and practices in order to identify and solve problems arising in the course of their work;
(f) developing, modifying and debugging system software;
(g) modifying existing ground-based air navigation systems and equipment to adapt them to new air traffic control procedures, in order to improve capability, reliability and integrity, or to facilitate air traffic control procedures and airspace designation;
(h) controlling, monitoring and certifying communication navigation and surveillance air traffic management equipment, and calibrating the ground-based air navigation system to ensure maximum accuracy and safety of flight, take-off and landing operations;
(i) providing technical training and supervising other workers.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Air traffic safety engineer
- Air traffic safety technician

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Aeronautical engineer – 2144
- Electronics engineer – 2152
- Aeromechanic – 7232
- Aircraft maintenance engineer (avionics) – 7421
- Avionics technician – 7421
Sub-major Group 32
Health Associate Professionals

Health associate professionals perform technical and practical tasks to support diagnosis and treatment of illness, disease, injuries and impairments in humans and animals, and to support implementation of health care, treatment and referral plans usually established by medical, veterinary, nursing and other health professionals. Competent performance in most occupations in this sub-major group requires skills at the third ISCO skill level.

Tasks performed by workers in the sub-major group usually include: testing and operating medical imaging equipment and administering radiation therapy; performing clinical tests on specimens of bodily fluids and tissues; preparing medications and other pharmaceutical compounds under the guidance of pharmacists; designing, fitting, servicing and repairing medical and dental devices and appliances; providing nursing and personal care and midwifery support services; using herbal and other therapies based on theories, beliefs and experiences originating in specific cultures.

Occupations in this sub-major group are classified into the following minor groups:

- 321 Medical and Pharmaceutical Technicians
- 322 Nursing and Midwifery Associate Professionals
- 323 Traditional and Complementary Medicine Associate Professionals
- 324 Veterinary Technicians and Assistants
- 325 Other Health Associate Professionals

Minor Group 321
Medical and Pharmaceutical Technicians

Medical and pharmaceutical technicians perform technical tasks to assist in diagnosis and treatment of illness, disease, injuries and impairments.

Tasks performed usually include: testing and operating radiographic, ultrasound and other medical imaging equipment; administering radiopharmaceuticals or radiation to patients to detect or treat diseases; performing clinical tests on specimens of bodily fluids and tissues; preparing medications and other pharmaceutical compounds under the guidance of pharmacists; designing, fitting, servicing and repairing medical and dental devices and appliances.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

- 3211 Medical Imaging and Therapeutic Equipment Technicians
- 3212 Medical and Pathology Laboratory Technicians
- 3213 Pharmaceutical Technicians and Assistants
- 3214 Medical and Dental Prosthetic Technicians

Unit Group 3211
Medical Imaging and Therapeutic Equipment Technicians

Medical imaging and therapeutic equipment technicians test and operate radiographic, ultrasound and other medical imaging equipment to produce images of body structures for the diagnosis and treatment of injury, disease and other impairments. They may administer radiation treatments to patients under the supervision of a radiologist or other health professional.

Tasks include –
(a) operating or overseeing operation of radiologic, ultrasound and magnetic imaging equipment to produce images of the body for diagnostic purposes;
(b) explaining procedures, observing and positioning patients, and using protection devices to ensure safety and comfort during examination, scan or treatment;
(c) positioning imaging or treatment equipment, monitoring video displays, and adjusting settings and controls according to technical specifications;
(d) reviewing and evaluating developed X-rays, videotape or computer-generated information to determine if images are satisfactory for diagnostic purposes, and recording results of procedures;
(e) monitoring patients’ conditions and reactions, and reporting abnormal signs to a medical practitioner;
(f) measuring and recording radiation dosage or radiopharmaceuticals received and used for patients, following prescriptions issued by a medical practitioner;
(g) administering, detecting and mapping radiopharmaceuticals or radiation in patients’ bodies, using radioisotope, camera or other equipment for diagnosing and treating diseases;
(h) recording and disposing of radioactive materials and storing radiopharmaceuticals, following radiation safety procedures.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Diagnostic medical radiographer
- Magnetic resonance imaging technologist
- Mammographer
- Medical radiation therapist
- Nuclear medicine technologist
- Radiographer
- Sonographer

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Medical physicist – 2111
- Radiologist – 2212
- Radiation protection expert – 2263
- Medical imaging assistant – 5329

Unit Group 3212
Medical and Pathology Laboratory Technicians

Medical and pathology laboratory technicians perform clinical tests on specimens of bodily fluids and tissues in order to obtain information about the health of a patient or cause of death.

Tasks include –
(a) conducting chemical analysis of body fluids, including blood, urine and spinal fluid, to determine presence of normal and abnormal components;
(b) operating, calibrating and maintaining equipment used in quantitative and qualitative analysis, such as spectrophotometers, calorimeters, flame photometers and computer-controlled analysers;
(c) entering data from analysis of laboratory tests and clinical results into record-keeping systems, and reporting results to medical practitioners and other health professionals;
(d) analysing samples of biological material for chemical content or reaction;
(e) setting up, cleaning and maintaining laboratory equipment;
(f) analysing laboratory findings to check the accuracy of the results;
(g) establishing and monitoring programmes to ensure the accuracy of laboratory results, and developing, standardizing, evaluating and modifying procedures, techniques and tests used in the analysis of specimens;
(h) obtaining specimens and cultivating, isolating and identifying microorganisms for analysis;
(i) examining cells stained with dye to locate abnormalities;
(j) inoculating fertilized eggs, broths or other bacteriological media with organisms.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Blood-bank technician
- Cytology technician
- Medical laboratory technician
- Pathology laboratory technician

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Pathologist – 2212
- Forensic science technician – 3119
- Veterinary technician – 3240
- Phlebotomist – 5329

Unit Group 3213
Pharmaceutical Technicians and Assistants

Pharmaceutical technicians and assistants perform a variety of tasks associated with dispensing medicinal products under the guidance of a pharmacist or other health professional.

Tasks include –
(a) preparing medications and other pharmaceutical compounds under the guidance of a pharmacist or other health professional;
(b) dispensing medicines and drugs to clients and giving written and oral instructions on their use, as prescribed by medical doctors, veterinarians or other health professionals;
(c) receiving prescriptions or refill requests from health professionals and verifying that information is complete and accurate according to medical record-keeping standards;
(d) maintaining proper storage and security conditions for drugs;
(e) filling and labelling containers with prescribed medications;
(f) assisting clients by answering questions, locating items or referring them to a pharmacist for medication information;
(g) pricing and filing prescriptions that have been filled and establishing and maintaining patient records, including lists of medications taken by individual patients;
(h) ordering, labelling and counting stocks of medications, chemicals and supplies, and entering inventory data into record-keeping systems;
(i) cleaning and preparing equipment and containers used to prepare and dispense medicines and pharmaceutical compounds.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Dispensing technician
• Pharmaceutical assistant
• Pharmaceutical technician

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Pharmacist – 2262
• Pharmacology technician – 3141
• Pharmacy aide – 5329

Unit Group 3214
Medical and Dental Prosthetic Technicians

Medical and dental prosthetic technicians design, fit, service and repair medical and dental devices and appliances following prescriptions or instructions established by a health professional. They may service a wide range of support instruments to correct physical medical or dental problems, such as neck braces, orthopaedic splints, artificial limbs, hearing aids, arch supports, dentures, and dental crowns and bridges.

Tasks include –
(a) examining, interviewing and measuring patients in order to determine their appliance needs, and to identify factors that could affect appliance fit;
(b) conferring with medical and dental practitioners in order to formulate specifications and prescriptions for devices and appliances;
(c) interpreting prescriptions or specifications to determine the type of product or device to be fabricated, and the materials and tools that will be required;
(d) making or receiving casts or impressions of patients’ torsos, limbs, mouths or teeth for use as fabrication patterns;
(e) designing and making orthotic and prosthetic devices using materials such as thermoplastic and thermosetting materials, metal alloys and leather, and hand and power tools;
(f) fitting appliances and devices to patients, testing and evaluating them, and making adjustments for proper fit, function and comfort;
(g) repairing, modifying and maintaining medical and dental prosthetic and supportive devices, according to specifications;
(h) bending, forming and shaping fabric or material so that it conforms to prescribed contours needed to fabricate structural components;
(i) fabricating full and partial dentures and constructing mouth guards, crowns, metal clasps, inlays, bridgework and other aids;
(j) instructing patients in the use and care of prosthetic or orthotic devices.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Dental mechanic
• Dental technician
• Denturist
• Orthopaedic appliance maker
• Orthotic technician
• Orthotist
• Prosthetic technician
• Prosthetist

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Dental aide – 5329
• Surgical instrument maker – 7311

Note
Occupations included in this unit normally require some medical, dental and anatomical and engineering knowledge obtained through formal training. Technicians who construct and repair precision medical and surgical instruments are not included here.

Minor Group 322
Nursing and Midwifery Associate Professionals

Nursing and midwifery associate professionals provide basic nursing and personal care for people who are physically or mentally ill, disabled or infirm, and for others in need of care due to potential risks to health including before, during and after childbirth. They generally work under the supervision of, and in support of, implementation of health care, treatment and referral plans established by medical, nursing, midwifery and other health professionals.
Tasks performed usually include: providing nursing and personal care, treatment and advice to patients according to care plans established by health professionals; assisting professional nurses, midwives and medical doctors in administering medication and treatments; cleaning wounds and applying surgical dressings; providing advice to individuals, families and communities on topics related to health, contraception, pregnancy and childbirth; assessing progress during pregnancy and childbirth, providing or assisting in delivery care and recognizing signs and symptoms requiring referral to a health professional; providing care and support to women and newborns following childbirth.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

3221 Nursing Associate Professionals

3222 Midwifery Associate Professionals

Note

The distinctions between nursing and midwifery professionals and associate professionals should be made on the basis of the nature of the work performed in relation to the tasks specified in this definition and in the relevant unit group definitions. The qualifications held by individuals or that predominate in the country are not the main factor in making this distinction, as training arrangements for nurses and midwives vary widely between countries and have varied over time within countries.

Unit Group 3221

Nursing Associate Professionals

Nursing associate professionals provide basic nursing and personal care for people in need of such care due to effects of ageing, illness, injury or other physical or mental impairment. They generally work under the supervision of, and in support of, implementation of health care, treatment and referral plans established by medical, nursing and other health professionals.

Tasks include—

(a) providing nursing and personal care and treatment and health advice to patients according to care plans established by health professionals;

(b) administering medications and other treatments to patients, monitoring patients’ condition and responses to treatment, and referring patients and their families to a health professional for specialized care as needed;

(c) cleaning wounds and applying surgical dressings;

(d) updating information on patients’ condition and treatments received in record-keeping systems;

(e) assisting in planning and managing the care of individual patients;

(f) assisting in giving first-aid treatment in emergencies.

Examples of the occupations classified here:

- Assistant nurse
- Associate professional nurse
- Enrolled nurse
- Practical nurse

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:

- Clinical nurse consultant – 2221
- Professional nurse – 2221
- Specialist nurse – 2221
- Professional midwife – 2222
- Associate professional midwife – 3222
- Nursing aide (clinic or hospital) – 5321
- Nursing aide (home) – 5322

Note

The distinction between professional and associate professional nurses should be made on the basis of the nature of the work performed in relation to the tasks specified in this definition. The qualifications held by individuals or that predominate in the country are not the main factor in making this distinction, as training arrangements for nurses vary widely between countries and have varied over time within countries.

Unit Group 3222

Midwifery Associate Professionals

Midwifery associate professionals provide basic health care and advice before, during and after pregnancy and childbirth. They implement care, treatment and referral plans usually established by medical, midwifery and other health professionals.

Tasks include—

(a) providing advice to women, families and communities on health, nutrition, hygiene, exercise, birth and emergency plans, breastfeeding, infant care, family planning and contraception, lifestyle and other topics related to pregnancy and childbirth;

(b) assessing progress during pregnancy and childbirth, and recognizing signs and symptoms requiring referral to a health professional;
Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Assistant midwife
- Traditional midwife

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Clinical nurse consultant – 2221
- Professional nurse – 2221
- Specialist nurse – 2221

Notes
This unit group includes occupations for which competent performance requires knowledge and skills in routine and emergency midwifery care acquired through formal or informal training. The criteria for inclusion of individuals in this unit group should be based on the nature of the work performed in relation to the tasks specified in this definition, and not the qualifications held by individuals or that predominate in the country. Traditional and lay midwives, who provide basic pregnancy and birthing care and advice based primarily on experience and knowledge acquired informally through the traditions and practices of the communities where they originated, are classified here.

Birth assistants, who provide emotional support and general care and advice to women and families during pregnancy and labour, are classified in Minor Group 532: Personal Care Workers in Health Services.

Minor Group 323
Traditional and Complementary Medicine Associate Professionals

Traditional and complementary medicine associate professionals prevent, care for and treat human physical and mental illnesses, disorders and injuries using herbal and other therapies based on theories, beliefs and experiences originating in specific cultures. They administer treatments using traditional techniques and medicaments, either acting independently or according to therapeutic care plans established by a traditional medicine or other health professional.

Tasks performed usually include: examining patients and interviewing them and their families to determine their health status and the nature of physical or mental disorders or illnesses or other ailments; recommending and providing care and treatment for illnesses and other ailments using traditional techniques and medicaments, such as physical manipulation and exercises, blood-letting using natural vessels, and preparations using herbs, plants, insects and animal extracts; administering treatments such as acupuncture and ayurvedic, homeopathic and herbal medicine according to therapeutic care plans and procedures usually developed by a traditional medicine or other health professional; providing care and treatment for physical injuries such as setting and healing fractured and dislocated bones using traditional methods of physical manipulation and herbal therapies; advising individuals, families and the community on health, nutrition, hygiene, lifestyle and other issues to maintain or improve health and well-being; referring patients to, and exchanging information with, other health care providers to ensure comprehensive and continuing care.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit group:

3230 Traditional and Complementary Medicine Associate Professionals

Unit Group 3230
Traditional and Complementary Medicine Associate Professionals

Traditional and complementary medicine associate professionals prevent, care for and treat human physical and mental illnesses, disorders and injuries using herbal and other therapies based on theories, beliefs and experiences originating in specific cultures. They administer treatments using traditional techniques and medicaments, either acting independently or according to therapeutic care plans established by a traditional medicine or other health professional.

Tasks include –
(a) examining patients and interviewing them and their families to determine their health status and the nature of physical or mental disorders or illnesses or other ailments;
(b) recommending and providing care and treatment for illnesses and other ailments using traditional techniques and medicaments, such as physical manipulation and exercises, blood-letting using natural vessels, and preparations using herbs, plants, insects and animal extracts;
(c) administering treatments such as acupuncture and ayurvedic, homeopathic and herbal medicine according to therapeutic care plans and procedures usually developed by a traditional medicine or other health professional;
(d) providing care and treatment for physical injuries such as setting and healing fractured and dislocated bones using traditional methods of physical manipulation and herbal therapies;
(e) advising individuals, families and the community on health, nutrition, hygiene, lifestyle and other issues to maintain or improve health and well-being;
(f) referring patients to, and exchanging information with, other health care providers to ensure comprehensive and continuing care.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Acupuncture technician
- Ayurvedic technician
- Bonesetter
- Herbalist
- Homeopathy technician
- Scraping and cupping therapist
- Village healer
- Witch doctor

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Acupuncturist – 2230
- Ayurvedic practitioner – 2230
- Chinese herbal medicine practitioner – 2230
- Homeopath – 2230
- Naturopath – 2230
- Chiropractor – 2269
- Osteopath – 2269
- Traditional midwife – 3222
- Acupressure therapist – 3255
- Hydrotherapist – 3255
- Faith healer – 3413

Notes
Occupations in traditional and complementary medicine for which competent performance requires an extensive understanding of the benefits and applications of traditional and complementary therapies, developed as the result of extended formal study of these techniques as well as human anatomy and elements of modern medicine, are classified in Unit Group 2230: Traditional and Complementary Medicine Professionals. Those occupations whose practice requires a less extensive understanding, based on relatively short periods of formal or informal education and training, or informally through the traditions and practices of the communities where they originated, are included in Unit Group 3230: Traditional and Complementary Medicine Associate Professionals. Practitioners working in the singular application of approaches to herbal medicines, spiritual therapies or manual therapeutic techniques are excluded from Unit Group 2230.

Faith healers who treat human ailments through spiritual therapies, without using herbal therapies or other medicaments or physical treatments, are included in Unit Group 3413: Religious Associate Professionals.

Occupations that provide therapy using traditional forms of massage and the application of pressure, such as acupressure and shiatsu therapists, are classified in Unit Group 3255: Physiotherapy Technicians and Assistants.

Traditional and lay midwives, who provide basic pregnancy and birthing care and advice based primarily on experience and knowledge acquired informally through the traditions and practices of the communities where they originated, are classified in Unit Group 3222: Midwifery Associate Professionals.

Minor Group 324
Veterinary Technicians and Assistants

Veterinary technicians and assistants carry out advisory, diagnostic, preventive and curative veterinary tasks more limited in scope and complexity than those carried out by veterinarians. They care for animals under treatment and in temporary residence at veterinary facilities and assist veterinarians to perform procedures and operations.

Tasks performed usually include: advising communities and individuals on the treatment of animals and their diseases and injuries; conducting examinations of animals to make diagnoses or refer more difficult cases to veterinarians when needed; treating ill or injured animals, especially for common diseases and disorders; cleaning and sterilizing examination tables and instruments and preparing materials used in the examination and treatment of animals; carrying out technical tasks connected with artificial insemination of animals; getting animals ready for examination or treatment and restraining or holding them during treatment; assisting veterinarians to administer anaesthetics and oxygen during treatment; placing animals in cages for recovery from operations and monitoring their condition.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit group:

3240 Veterinary Technicians and Assistants
Unit Group 3240

Veterinary Technicians and Assistants

Veterinary technicians and assistants carry out advisory, diagnostic, preventive and curative veterinary tasks more limited in scope and complexity than those carried out by, and with the guidance of, veterinarians. They care for animals under treatment and in temporary residence at veterinary facilities, perform routine procedures and assist veterinarians to perform procedures and operations.

Tasks include –
(a) advising communities and individuals on the treatment of animals and their diseases and injuries;
(b) conducting examinations of animals to make diagnoses or refer more difficult cases to veterinarians when needed;
(c) treating ill or injured animals, especially for common diseases and disorders;

(f) getting animals ready for examination or treatment and restraining or holding them during treatment;
(g) assisting veterinarians to administer anaesthetics and oxygen during treatment;
(h) placing animals in cages for recovery from operations and monitoring their condition;
(i) producing radiographs, collecting samples and performing other laboratory tests to assist in diagnosis of animal health problems;
(j) performing routine animal dental procedures and assisting veterinarians with animal dentistry.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Artificial inseminator
• Veterinary assistant
• Veterinary nurse
• Veterinary vaccinator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Veterinarian – 2250
• Animal attendant – 5164
• Veterinary aide – 5164

Minor Group 325

Other Health Associate Professionals

Other health associate professionals perform technical tasks and provide support services in dentistry, medical records administration, community health, the correction of reduced visual acuity, physiotherapy, environmental health, emergency medical treatment and other activities to support and promote human health.

Tasks performed usually include: providing basic care services for the prevention and treatment of diseases and disorders of the teeth and mouth; advising communities and individuals on hygiene, diet and other preventive measures to reduce potential risks to health; compiling and maintaining patients' medical records to document condition and treatment and to provide data for research, billing, cost control and care improvement; assisting families to develop the necessary skills and resources to improve their health status; providing advice and education on sanitation and hygiene to limit the spread of infectious diseases; fitting and dispensing optical lenses; investigating the implementation of rules and regulations relating to environmental and occupational factors that may potentially affect human health; massaging the soft tissues of the body; showing patients to examination rooms and preparing them for examination; attending and responding to accidents and emergencies and to requests for medical assistance.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

3251 Dental Assistants and Therapists
3252 Medical Records and Health Information Technicians
3253 Community Health Workers
3254 Dispensing Opticians
3255 Physiotherapy Technicians and Assistants
3256 Medical Assistants
3257 Environmental and Occupational Health Inspectors and Associates
3258 Ambulance Workers
3259 Health Associate Professionals Not Elsewhere Classified
Unit Group 3251

Dental Assistants and Therapists

Dental assistants and therapists provide basic dental care services for the prevention and treatment of diseases and disorders of the teeth and mouth, according to care plans and procedures established by a dentist or other oral health professional.

Tasks include –
(a) advising communities and individuals on dental hygiene, diet and other preventive measures to reduce potential risks to oral health;
(b) conducting visual and physical examinations of patients’ mouths, teeth and related structures to assess oral health status;
(c) identifying cases of patients with poor oral health or oral disease requiring referral to a dentist or other health professional;
(d) assisting dentists during complex dental procedures;
(e) providing fluoride treatments, cleaning and removing deposits from teeth, preparing cavities and placing fillings, administering local anaesthesia, and performing other types of basic or routine clinical dental procedures;
(f) preparing, cleaning and sterilizing dental instruments, equipment and materials used in the examination and treatment of patients;
(g) getting patients ready for examination or treatment, including explaining procedures and correct positioning;
(h) taking impressions of the mouth and dental radiographs to support diagnosis and fitting of dental prosthetics.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Dental assistant
• Dental hygienist
• Dental therapist

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Dentist – 2261
• Dental mechanic – 3214

Unit Group 3252

Medical Records and Health Information Technicians

Medical records and health information technicians develop, maintain and implement health records processing, storage and retrieval systems in medical facilities and other health care settings to meet the legal, professional, ethical and administrative record-keeping requirements of health services delivery.

Tasks include –
(a) planning, developing, maintaining and operating a variety of health record indexes and storage and retrieval systems to collect, classify, store and analyse information;
(b) transcribing, compiling and processing patient medical records, admission and discharge documents and other medical reports into record-keeping systems to provide data for patient monitoring and referral, epidemiological monitoring, research, billing, cost control and care improvement;
(c) reviewing records for completeness, accuracy and compliance with regulations;
(d) translating narrative descriptions and numeric information from medical records and other documents on health services delivery into codes associated with standard classification systems;
(e) protecting the security of medical records to ensure that confidentiality is maintained, and releasing information to authorized persons and agencies in accordance with regulations;
(f) supervising clerical and administrative workers involved in the maintenance of medical records.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Clinical coder
• Disease registry technician
• Health information clerk
• Medical records analyst
• Medical records clerk
• Medical records technician
• Medical records unit supervisor

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Medical secretary – 3344
• Data entry clerk – 4132
• Filing clerk – 4415

Note
Occupations included in this unit group normally require knowledge of medical terminology, legal aspects of health information, health data standards and computer- or paper-based data management as obtained through formal education and/or on-the-job training.
Unit Group 3253

Community Health Workers

Community health workers provide health education, referral and follow-up, case management, basic preventive health care and home visiting services to specific communities. They provide support and assistance to individuals and families in navigating the health and social services system.

Tasks include –
(a) providing information to families and communities on a range of health issues including nutrition, hygiene, infant and child care, immunizations, family planning, risk factors and prevention of common infectious diseases, poisoning prevention, first aid for treatment of simple and common ailments, substance abuse, domestic violence and other topics;
(b) visiting families in their homes to provide information on the health, social and other services available and support them in gaining access to these services;
(c) visiting families who do not usually access medical establishments to monitor on a regular basis certain conditions such as pregnancy, child growth and development, and environmental sanitation;
(d) distributing to households medical supplies for the prevention and treatment of endemic diseases such as malaria, pneumonia and diarrhoeal diseases, and instructing family and community members in the use of these products;
(e) conducting outreach efforts to groups who do not usually access medical establishments with information and basic medical supplies for prevention and management of certain health conditions for which they are most at risk, such as HIV/AIDS and other communicable diseases;
(f) collecting data from households and communities who do not usually access medical establishments for purposes of patient monitoring and referral and reporting to meet health regulations.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Community health aide
- Community health promoter
- Community health worker
- Village health worker

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Traditional midwife – 3222
- Village healer – 3230
- Home care aide – 5322

Note

Occupations included in this unit group normally require formal or informal training and supervision recognized by the health and social services authorities. Providers of routine personal care and traditional medicine practitioners are not included here.

Unit Group 3254

Dispensing Opticians

Dispensing opticians design, fit and dispense optical lenses based on a prescription from an ophthalmologist or optometrist for the correction of reduced visual acuity. They service corrective eyeglasses, contact lenses, low-vision aids and other optical devices.

Tasks include –
(a) examining and taking facial and eye measurements of clients for fitting of eyeglasses and other optical devices;
(b) providing advice to clients on selection and maintenance of eyeglasses and frames, types of contact lenses and other optical devices for performance, safety, comfort and lifestyle;
(c) interpreting optical prescriptions and preparing work orders for optical laboratories for grinding and mounting of lenses in frames, preparation of contact lenses and other required work;
(d) verifying exactness of finished optical appliances and devices to the original prescription and fit of clients.

SKILLED AGRICULTURAL, FORESTRY AND FISHERY WORKERS

Skilled agricultural, forestry and fishery workers grow and harvest field or tree and shrub crops; gather wild fruits and plants; breed, tend or hunt animals; produce a variety of animal husbandry products; cultivate, conserve and exploit forests; breed or catch fish; and cultivate or gather other forms of aquatic life in order to provide food, shelter and income for themselves and their households. Competent performance in most occupations in this major group requires skills at the second ISCO skill level.

Tasks performed by skilled agricultural, forestry and fishery workers usually include: preparing the soil; sowing, planting, spraying, fertilizing and harvesting field crops; growing fruit and other tree and shrub crops; growing garden vegetables and horticultural products; gathering wild fruits and plants; breeding, raising, tending or hunting animals mainly to obtain meat, milk, hair, fur, skin or sericultural, apiarian or other products; cultivating, conserving and exploiting forests; breeding or catching fish; cultivating or gathering other forms of aquatic life; storing and carrying out some basic processing of their produce; selling their products to purchasers, marketing organizations or at markets. Supervision of other workers may be included.

Occupations in this major group are classified into the following sub-major groups:

- 61 Market-oriented Skilled Agricultural Workers
- 62 Market-oriented Skilled Forestry, Fishery and Hunting Workers
- 63 Subsistence Farmers, Fishers, Hunters and Gatherers
Sub-major Group 61

Market-oriented Skilled Agricultural Workers

Market-oriented skilled agricultural workers plan, organize and perform farming operations to grow and harvest field or tree and shrub crops; and to produce a variety of animals and animal products for sale or delivery on a regular basis to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets. Competent performance in most occupations in this sub-major group requires skills at the second ISCO skill level.

Tasks performed by workers in this sub-major group usually include: preparing the soil; sowing, planting, spraying, fertilizing and harvesting field crops; growing fruit and other tree and shrub crops; growing garden vegetables and horticultural products; raising, breeding and tending animals mainly to obtain meat, milk, hair, fur, skin or sericultural, apiarian or other products; storing and carrying out some processing of produce; selling their products to purchasers, marketing organizations or at markets. Supervision of other workers may be included.

Occupations in this sub-major group are classified into the following minor groups:

- 611 Market Gardeners and Crop Growers
- 612 Animal Producers
- 613 Mixed Crop and Animal Producers

Note

Jobs should be classified in Sub-major Group 63: Subsistence Farmers, Fishers, Hunters and Gatherers when goods (mostly food) are produced mainly for own consumption or for consumption by other members of the worker’s household. If a large surplus is produced, and more goods are sold than consumed, but the main aim of production was own consumption, the jobs should nevertheless be classified in Sub-major Group 63. Jobs should only be classified in Sub-major Groups 61: Market-oriented Skilled Agricultural Workers or 62: Market-oriented Skilled Forestry, Fishery and Hunting Workers if the main aim of the activity is to produce goods for the market.

Minor Group 611

Market Gardeners and Crop Growers

Market gardeners and crop growers plan, organize and perform operations to grow and harvest field crops; to grow fruit and other tree and shrub crops; to grow garden vegetables and medicinal and other plants; and to produce horticultural and horticultural nurseries products for sale or delivery on a regular basis to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets.

Tasks performed usually include: monitoring market activity and conditions, determining types and quantities of crops to be grown, and planning and coordinating production accordingly; purchasing seeds, bulbs and fertilizer; investing in land and land improvements; preparing land and sowing, planting, cultivating and harvesting various crops; tending working animals and maintaining farm buildings, machinery and equipment; producing saplings, bulbs and seeds; storing and carrying out some processing of produce; delivering or marketing farm products. Supervision of other workers may be included.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

- 6111 Field Crop and Vegetable Growers
- 6112 Tree and Shrub Crop Growers
- 6113 Gardeners; Horticultural and Nursery Growers
- 6114 Mixed Crop Growers

Unit Group 6111

Field Crop and Vegetable Growers

Field crop and vegetable growers plan, organize and perform farming operations to grow and harvest various types of field crop such as wheat and other cereals, rice, beetroot, sugar-cane, groundnuts, tobacco, reed or other field crops, and potatoes, cabbages or other field vegetables, for sale or delivery on a regular basis to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets.

Tasks include –
(a) monitoring market activity and conditions, determining types and quantities of crops to be grown, and planning and coordinating production accordingly;
(b) preparing soil by hand or machine, and spreading fertilizers and manure;
(c) selecting and sowing seeds, and planting seedlings;
(d) maintaining crops by cultivating soil, by transplanting, pruning or thinning plants, and by setting up and operating irrigation equipment;
(e) controlling weeds, pests and diseases by applying herbicides and pesticides;
(f) harvesting crops and destroying diseased or superfluous crops;
(g) inspecting, cleaning, grading, packaging, storing and loading crops for sale or delivery to market;
(h) tending working animals and maintaining farm buildings, structures, equipment and water supply systems;
(i) storing and carrying out some processing of produce;
(j) promoting and marketing products, arranging the sale, purchase and transportation of produce and supplies and maintaining and evaluating records of farm activities and transactions;
(k) training and supervising workers in crop production, maintenance duties and health and safety precautions, and hiring and discharging workers and contractors.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Cereal farmer
- Cotton farmer
- Potato farmer
- Rice farmer
- Skilled farm worker (field crops)
- Sugar-cane grower

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Agricultural production manager – 1311
- Crop farm labourer – 9211

Note
Growers of vegetables using intensive cultivation techniques are classified in Unit Group 6113: Gardeners; Horticultural and Nursery Growers.

Unit Group 6112
Tree and Shrub Crop Growers

Tree and shrub crop growers plan, organize and perform farming operations to grow and harvest trees and shrubs such as fruit and nut trees, tea and coffee bushes, grape vines, berry-bearing bushes, cocoa trees and rubber trees, and to collect sap, for sale or delivery on a regular basis to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets.

Tasks include –
(a) monitoring market activity and conditions, determining types and quantities of crops to be grown, and planning and coordinating production accordingly;
(b) preparing soil by hand or machine, and spreading fertilizers and manure;
(c) selecting and sowing seeds, and planting seedlings;
(d) maintaining crops by cultivating soil, by transplanting, pruning or thinning trees and shrubs, and by setting up and operating irrigation equipment;
(e) controlling weeds, pests and diseases by applying herbicides and pesticides;
(f) tending trees or bushes, collecting sap and harvesting crops;
(g) inspecting, cleaning, grading, packaging, storing and loading crops for sale or delivery to market;
(h) tending working animals and maintaining farm buildings, structures, equipment and water supply systems;
(i) storing and carrying out some processing of produce;
(j) promoting and marketing products, arranging the sale, purchase and transportation of produce and supplies, and maintaining and evaluating records of farm activities and transactions;
(k) training and supervising workers in crop production, maintenance duties and health and safety precautions, and hiring and discharging workers and contractors.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Fruit farmer
- Rubber farmer
- Rubber tapper
- Tea grower
- Viticulturist

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Plantation manager – 1311
- Fruit picker – 9211
Unit Group 6113

Gardeners; Horticultural and Nursery Growers

Gardeners and horticultural and nursery growers plan, organize and perform operations to cultivate and maintain trees, shrubs, flowers and other plants in parks and private gardens, and to produce saplings, bulbs and seeds or grow vegetables and flowers, by intensive cultivation techniques, for sale or delivery on a regular basis to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets.

Tasks include—

(a) monitoring market activity and conditions determining kinds and amounts of vegetables and horticultural and nursery products to be grown, and planning and coordinating production accordingly;

(b) preparing land by conditioning soil, levelling ground and installing and operating irrigation and drainage systems;

(c) planting trees, hedges, garden plants and grass;

(d) pruning and trimming trees, shrubs and hedges, installing plant supports and protection, and rolling, mowing, aerating and edging lawns;

(e) constructing features and facilities within gardens, such as paths or paved areas, walls, rockeries, garden beds, ponds and water features, sheds and fences;

(f) checking the health of plants and trees, identifying and treating weeds, pests and diseases, and applying mulch and fertilizers;

(g) producing saplings, bulbs and seeds and raising plants from seeds or cuttings;

(h) harvesting crops and inspecting, cleaning, grading, packaging, storing and loading products for sale or delivery to market;

(i) maintaining buildings, greenhouses and other structures, equipment and water supply systems;

(j) storing and carrying out some processing of produce;

(k) promoting and marketing products, arranging the sale, purchase and transportation of produce and supplies, and maintaining and evaluating records of activities and transactions;

(l) training and supervising workers in production, maintenance duties, and health and safety precautions, and hiring and discharging workers and contractors.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Horticulturist
- Landscape gardener
- Market gardener
- Mushroom cultivator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Horticultural scientist – 2132
- Garden labourer – 9214
- Horticultural labourer – 9214

Note
Growers of berry-bearing bushes and fruit trees in orchards are classified in Unit Group 6112: Tree and Shrub Crop Growers unless this is done in combination with general market gardening or horticultural cultivation. Growers of vegetables in fields not using intensive cultivation techniques are classified in Unit Group 6111: Field Crop and Vegetable Growers.

Unit Group 6114

Mixed Crop Growers

Mixed crop growers plan, organize and perform farming operations to grow and harvest specific combinations of field crops, field vegetables, tree and shrub crops, and garden, horticultural and nursery products, for sale or delivery to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets.

Tasks include—

(a) monitoring market activity and conditions, determining types and quantities of crops to be grown, and planning and coordinating production accordingly;

(b) preparing soil by hand or machine, and spreading fertilizers and manure;

(c) selecting and sowing seeds, and planting seedlings;

(d) maintaining crops by cultivating soil, by transplanting, pruning or thinning crops, trees and shrubs, and by setting up and operating irrigation equipment;

(e) growing flowers and vegetables by intensive cultivation;

(f) producing saplings, bulbs and seeds;

(j) promoting and marketing products, arranging the sale, purchase and transportation of produce and supplies, and maintaining and evaluating records of activities and transactions;

(k) training and supervising workers in production, maintenance duties and health and safety precautions, and hiring and discharging workers and contractors.
Examples of the occupations classified here:

- Mixed crop farmer
- Skilled farm worker (mixed crops)

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:

- Agricultural production manager – 1311
- Plantation manager – 1311
- Crop farm labourer – 9211
- Fruit picker – 9211

Minor Group 612

Animal Producers

Animal producers plan, organize and perform farming operations to breed and raise domesticated animals, poultry, insects and non-domesticated animals for the production of meat, dairy products, honey, skins, textiles and other products, or for use as working, sporting or recreational animals, for sale or delivery to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets.

Tasks performed usually include: monitoring market activity and conditions, determining kinds and amounts of products to produce and planning and coordinating production accordingly; raising, feeding and tending animals; preparing animals or animal products for market; monitoring and examining animals to detect illness, injury or disease, and to check physical condition such as rate of weight gain; performing duties related to animal reproduction such as breeding, artificial insemination and helping with animal births; renting or investing in, and maintaining and cleaning, buildings, machinery, equipment and structures; storing and carrying out some processing of produce; promoting and marketing products, arranging the sale, purchase and transportation of stock, produce and supplies, and maintaining and evaluating records of activities and transactions; training and supervising workers in animal care procedures, maintenance duties and health and safety precautions, and hiring and discharging workers and contractors.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

6121 Livestock and Dairy Producers
6122 Poultry Producers
6123 Apiarists and Sericulturists
6129 Animal Producers Not Elsewhere Classified

Unit Group 6121

Livestock and Dairy Producers

Livestock and dairy producers plan, organize and perform farming operations to breed and raise domesticated animals (excluding poultry), such as cattle, sheep, pigs, goats, horses and camels, for the production of meat, milk and other dairy products, skins and wool or for use as working, sporting or recreational animals, for sale or delivery to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets.

Tasks include –

(a) monitoring market activity and conditions, determining kinds and amounts of stock to produce, and planning and coordinating production accordingly;
(b) cultivating pastures and providing and monitoring fodder and water supplies to maintain appropriate nutritional levels and condition of livestock;
(c) monitoring and examining animals to detect illness, injury or disease, and to check physical condition such as rate of weight gain;
(d) grooming, marking, clipping, trimming, drenching and/or castrating animals, and shearing coats to collect hair or wool;
(e) herding livestock to pastures for grazing or to scales, sheds, vehicles or other enclosures;
(f) milking animals by hand or using milking machines;
(g) mixing feed, additives and medicines in prescribed portions and distributing or hand-feeding to animals for consumption;
(h) performing duties related to livestock reproduction, such as breeding, artificial insemination and helping with animal births;
(i) maintaining and cleaning farm buildings, machinery, equipment and structures;
(j) slaughtering and skinning animals and preparing them for market;
(k) storing and carrying out some processing of animal and dairy produce;
(l) promoting and marketing products, arranging the sale, purchase and transportation of livestock, produce and supplies, and maintaining and evaluating records of farm activities and transactions;
(m) training and supervising workers in animal care procedures, maintenance duties and health and safety precautions, and hiring and discharging workers and contractors.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Cattle farmer
- Dairy farmer
- Dog breeder
- Drover
- Goat farmer
- Horse breeder
- Shearer
- Sheep farmer
- Shepherd
- Stockman/woman

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Agricultural production manager – 1311
- Ranch manager – 1311

Note
Workers who produce a combination of domestic livestock and other animals such as poultry, insects and non-domesticated animals should be classified according to their predominant activity. Those who produce and store hay and other fodder for later consumption, primarily by livestock for which they are responsible, are classified in Unit Group 6121: Livestock and Dairy Producers.

Unit Group 6123

Apiarists and Sericulturists

Apiarists and sericulturists plan, organize and perform operations to breed, raise and tend insects such as honey bees, silkworms and other species to produce honey, beeswax, silk and other products for sale or delivery to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets. Tasks include —
(a) monitoring market activity and conditions, determining kinds and amounts of insect products to produce, and planning and coordinating production accordingly;
(b) purchasing insects and growing or purchasing feed and other supplies;
(c) breeding, raising and tending insects and collecting their products;
(d) renting or investing in, and maintaining and cleaning, buildings, machinery, equipment and structures;
(e) storing and carrying out some processing of produce;
(f) arranging the sale, purchase and transportation of stock, produce and supplies, and maintaining and evaluating records of farming activities;
(g) training and supervising workers in production procedures, maintenance duties and health and safety precautions, and hiring and discharging workers and contractors.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Apiarist
- Sericulturist

Unit Group 6129
Animal Producers Not Elsewhere Classified

This unit group covers market-oriented animal producers not classified elsewhere in Minor Group 612: Animal Producers. For instance, the group includes those engaged in breeding, raising and tending non-domesticated mammals, game and other birds (except poultry), snails, snakes and other reptiles, as well as various insects and animals used for laboratory tests, for sale or delivery on a regular basis to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations, zoos and circuses, or at markets.

In such cases tasks would include –
(a) monitoring market activity and conditions, determining kinds and amounts of products to produce, and planning and coordinating production accordingly;
(b) raising, feeding and tending animals;
(c) monitoring and examining animals to detect illness, injury or disease, and to check physical condition such as rate of weight gain;
(d) performing duties related to animal reproduction, such as breeding, artificial insemination and helping with animal births;
(e) renting or investing in, and maintaining and cleaning, buildings, machinery, equipment and structures;
(f) slaughtering and skinning animals and preparing animal products for market;
(g) storing and carrying out some processing of produce;
(h) promoting and marketing products, arranging the sale, purchase and transportation of stock, produce and supplies, and maintaining and evaluating records of activities and transactions;
(i) training and supervising workers in animal care procedures, maintenance duties and health and safety precautions.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Crocodile farmer
- Fur farmer (non-domesticated animals)
- Game bird breeder
- Ostrich farmer
- Snail breeder

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Pet groomer – 5164
- Zoo keeper – 5164
- Game warden – 5419
- Poultry breeder – 6122

Minor Group 613
Mixed Crop and Animal Producers

Mixed crop and animal producers plan, organize and perform farming operations to grow and harvest field, tree and various other crops, as well as to breed, raise and tend animals and to produce a variety of animal husbandry products, for sale or delivery to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets.

Tasks performed usually include: monitoring market activity and conditions, determining kinds and amounts of crops to be grown and animals to be raised, and planning and coordinating production accordingly; purchasing seeds, fertilizer and other supplies; performing operations such as land preparation and sowing, planting, cultivating and harvesting crops; producing or buying fodder and other food supplies; breeding, raising and tending animals; killing and skinning animals, and preparing animals or animal products for market; renting or investing in, and maintaining and cleaning, farm buildings, machinery, equipment and structures; storing and carrying out some processing of produce; promoting and marketing products, arranging the sale, purchase and transportation of livestock, produce and supplies, and maintaining and evaluating records of farm activities and transactions; training and supervising workers in animal care procedures, maintenance duties and health and safety precautions, and hiring and discharging workers and contractors.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit group:

6130 Mixed Crop and Animal Producers
Unit Group 6130
Mixed Crop and Animal Producers

Mixed crop and animal producers plan, organize and perform farming operations to grow and harvest field, tree and various other crops, as well as to breed, raise and tend animals and to produce a variety of animal husbandry products, for sale or delivery to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets.

Tasks include –
(a) monitoring market activity and conditions, determining kinds and amounts of crops to be grown and animals to be raised, and planning and coordinating production accordingly;
(b) purchasing seeds, fertilizer and other supplies;
(c) performing operations such as land preparation and sowing, planting, cultivating and harvesting crops;
(d) producing or buying fodder and other food supplies;
(e) breeding, raising and tending animals;
(f) killing and skinning animals, and preparing animals or animal products for market;
(g) renting or investing in, and maintaining and cleaning, farm buildings, machinery, equipment and structures;
(h) storing and carrying out some processing of produce;
(i) promoting and marketing products, arranging the sale, purchase and transportation

(j) training and supervising workers in animal care procedures, maintenance duties and health and safety precautions, and hiring and discharging workers and contractors.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Farmer (mixed farming)
- Skilled farm worker (mixed farming)

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Agricultural production manager – 1311
- Plantation manager – 1311
- Mixed farm labourer – 9213

Notes
Farmers and other skilled agricultural workers whose tasks predominantly involve either raising animals or growing crops, but also involve some incidental activity in crop growing or tending animals respectively, should not be included in Unit Group 6130: Mixed Crop and Animal Producers. For example, a farmer who raises cattle for the market but also spends a small amount of time growing garden vegetables should be classified in Unit Group 6121: Livestock and Dairy Producers. Similarly, a wheat farmer who keeps a small number of chickens and other farmyard animals should be classified in Unit Group 6111: Field Crop and Vegetable Growers. Workers on mixed farms who specialize in either crop or animal production for the market should be classified in the relevant unit group in Minor Groups 611: Market Gardeners and Crop Growers or 612: Animal Producers as appropriate.
Sub-major Group 62

Market-oriented Skilled Forestry, Fishery and Hunting Workers

Market-oriented skilled forestry, fishery and hunting workers plan, organize and perform operations to cultivate, conserve and exploit natural and plantation forests; breed and raise fish; harvest and catch fish; and hunt and trap animals, for sale or delivery on a regular basis to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets. Competent performance in most occupations in this sub-major group requires skills at the second ISCO skill level.

Tasks performed by workers in this sub-major group usually include: renting or investing in equipment and machinery and purchasing supplies; planning and undertaking forestry, aquaculture, fishery and hunting operations; maintaining buildings, tanks, machinery and other equipment; delivering or marketing products; supervising and training other workers.

Occupations in this sub-major group are classified into the following minor groups:

621 Forestry and Related Workers

622 Fishery Workers, Hunters and Trappers

Note

Jobs should be classified in Sub-major Group 63: Subsistence Farmers, Fishers, Hunters and Gatherers when goods (mostly food) are produced mainly for own consumption or for consumption by other members of the worker's household. If a large surplus is produced, and more goods are sold than consumed, but the main aim of production was own consumption, the jobs should nevertheless be classified in Sub-major Group 63. Jobs should only be classified in Sub-major Groups 61: Market-oriented Skilled Agricultural Workers or 62: Market-oriented Skilled Forestry, Fishery and Hunting Workers if the main aim of the activity is to produce goods for the market.

Minor Group 621

Forestry and Related Workers

Forestry and related workers plan, organize and perform operations to cultivate, conserve and exploit natural and plantation forests.

Tasks performed usually include: assessing sites for reforestation, selecting seedlings and planting trees using manual planting tools, and establishing and caring for forest stands; locating trees to be felled and estimating volume of timber; operating chainsaw and other power saws to thin young forest stands, trim, top and fell trees and saw them into logs; shaping rough wooden products from logs at a felling site; stacking logs and loading them in chutes or floating them down rivers; keeping watch to detect forest fires, participating in firefighting operations, completing firefighting reports and maintaining firefighting equipment; controlling weeds and undergrowth in regenerating forest stands, using manual tools and chemicals; operating and maintaining a skidder, bulldozer or other prime mover to pull a variety of scarification or site preparation equipment over areas to be regenerated; collecting seed cones, pruning trees, assisting in planting surveys and marking trees for subsequent operations; training and supervising other workers in forestry procedures, including forestry labourers and plant operators.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit group:

6210 Forestry and Related Workers

Unit Group 6210

Forestry and Related Workers

Forestry and related workers plan, organize and perform operations to cultivate, conserve and exploit natural and plantation forests.

Tasks include —
(a) assessing sites for reforestation, selecting seedlings and planting trees using manual planting tools and establishing and caring for forest stands;
(b) locating trees to be felled and estimating volume of timber;
(c) operating chainsaw and other power saws to thin young forest stands, trim, top and fell trees and saw them into logs;
(d) shaping rough wooden products from logs at felling site;
(e) stacking logs and loading them in chutes or floating them down rivers;
(f) keeping watch to detect forest fires, participating in fire fighting operations, completing fire fighting reports and maintaining fire fighting equipment;
(g) controlling weeds and undergrowth in regenerating forest stands using manual tools and chemicals;
(h) operating and maintaining a skidder, bulldozer or other prime mover to pull a variety of scarification or site preparation equipment over areas to be regenerated;
(i) collecting seed cones, pruning trees, assisting in planting surveys and marking trees for subsequent operations;

(j) training and supervising other workers in forestry procedures, including forestry labourers and plant operators.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Charcoal burner
- Logger
- Logging climber
- Skilled forestry worker
- Timber cruiser
- Tree feller

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Silviculturist – 2132
- Forestry technician – 3143
- Tree fellar operator – 8341
- Forestry labourer – 9215

Minor Group 622
Fishery Workers, Hunters and Trappers

Fishery workers, hunters and trappers breed and raise fish, harvest and catch fish, and hunt and trap animals, for sale or delivery on a regular basis to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets.

Tasks performed usually include: breeding, raising and cultivating fish, mussels, oysters and other forms of aquatic life as cash crops or for release into freshwater or saltwater; monitoring environments to ensure maintenance of optimum conditions for aquatic life; cleaning, freezing, icing or salting catch on-or offshore, and preparing fish and other products for shipment; renting or investing in and maintaining buildings, tanks, machinery, fishing vessels and other equipment; preparing and repairing nets and other fishing gear and equipment; operating fishing vessels to, from and at fishing grounds; baiting, setting, operating and hauling in fishing gear; setting traps to catch mammals, birds or reptiles; delivering or marketing products; supervising and training other workers.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

6221 Aquaculture Workers
6222 Inland and Coastal Waters Fishery Workers
6223 Deep-sea Fishery Workers
6224 Hunters and Trappers

Unit Group 6221
Aquaculture Workers

Aquaculture workers breed and raise fish and cultivate mussels, oysters and other forms of aquatic life, for sale or delivery on a regular basis to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets.

Tasks include –
(a) breeding, raising and cultivating fish, mussels, oysters and other forms of aquatic life as cash crops or for release into freshwater or saltwater;
(b) collecting and recording growth, production and environmental data;
(c) conducting and supervising stock examinations in order to identify diseases or parasites;
(d) monitoring environments to ensure maintenance of optimum conditions for aquatic life;
(e) directing and monitoring trapping and spawning of fish, egg incubation and fry rearing, applying knowledge of management and fish culturing techniques;
(f) cleaning, freezing, icing or salting catch on-or offshore, and preparing fish and other products for shipment;
(g) maintaining buildings, tanks, machinery, boats and other equipment;
(h) delivering or marketing products;
(i) renting or investing in buildings, equipment and machinery, and purchasing food and other supplies;
(j) supervising and training aquaculture and fish hatchery support workers.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Algae cultivator
- Fish farmer
- Oyster farmer
- Pearl cultivator
- Seafood farmer
- Skilled fish farm worker
- Skilled seafood farm worker

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Aquaculture production manager – 1312
- Aquaculture labourer – 9216

Unit Group 6222

Inland and Coastal Waters Fishery Workers

Inland and coastal waters fishery workers, alone or as members of fishing-vessel crews, catch fish or gather other forms of aquatic life in inland or coastal waters for sale or delivery on a regular basis to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets.

Tasks include –
(a) preparing and repairing nets and other fishing gear and equipment;
(b) selecting areas for fishing, plotting courses and computing navigational positions using compass, charts and other aids;
(c) operating fishing vessels to, from and at fishing grounds;
(d) baiting, setting, operating and hauling in fishing gear by hand or using hoisting equipment;
(e) gathering various forms of aquatic life from shores and shallow waters;
(f) maintaining engine fishing gear and other on-board equipment;
(g) keeping records of transactions, fishing activities and weather and sea conditions, and estimating costs and budgets;
(h) sorting and storing catch in holds with salt and ice;
(i) removing catches from fishing equipment, measuring them to ensure compliance with legal size and returning undesirable or illegal catches to the water;
(j) directing fishing operations, and supervising fishing crew members.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Coastal fishery skipper
- Fisher (coastal waters)
- Fisher (inland waters)

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Fishing operations manager – 1312
- Deep-sea fisher – 6223
- Oyster diver – 7541
- Fishery labourer – 9216

Unit Group 6223

Deep-sea Fishery Workers

Deep-sea fishery workers, as skippers or members of fishing-vessel crews, catch deep-sea fish for sale or delivery to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets.

Tasks include –
(a) preparing and repairing nets and other fishing gear and equipment;
(b) commanding and operating fishing vessels to, from and at deep-sea fishing grounds;
(c) determining areas for fishing, plotting courses and computing navigational positions using compass, charts, tables and other aids;
(d) steering vessels and operating navigational instruments and electronic fishing aids;
(e) directing fishing operations and supervising crew activities;
(f) recording fishing progress and activities, as well as weather and sea conditions, on the ship’s log;
(g) baiting, setting and hauling in fishing gear;
(h) cleaning, freezing, icing or salting catch on-or offshore;
(i) selecting and training vessel crews.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Deep-sea fisher
- Trawler skipper

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Fishing operations manager – 1312
- Coastal fishery skipper – 6222

Unit Group 6224

Hunters and Trappers

Hunters and trappers catch and kill mammals, birds or reptiles mainly for meat, skin, feathers and other products for sale or delivery on a regular basis to wholesale buyers, marketing organizations or at markets.
Tasks include—
(a) setting traps to catch mammals, birds or reptiles;
(b) killing trapped or free mammals, birds or reptiles with firearms or other weapons;
(c) skinning and otherwise treating killed mammals, birds or reptiles to obtain desired products for sale or delivery;
(d) delivering or selling trapped live mammals, birds or reptiles;
(e) repairing and maintaining equipment.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Fur trapper
• Seal hunter
Sub-major Group 63

Subsistence Farmers, Fishers, Hunters and Gatherers

Subsistence farmers, fishers, hunters and gatherers grow and harvest field or tree and shrub crops, vegetables and fruit; tend or hunt animals; and catch fish and gather various forms of aquatic life in order to provide food, shelter and, in some cases, a minimum of cash income for themselves and their households. Competent performance in most occupations in this sub-major group requires skills at the second ISCO skill level.

Tasks performed by workers in this sub-major group usually include: preparing the soil; sowing, planting, tending and harvesting field crops; growing vegetables, fruit and other tree and shrub crops; gathering wild fruits and medicinal and other plants; breeding, tending and feeding animals and poultry mainly to obtain meat, eggs, milk, hair, skin or other products; hunting or trapping animals; catching fish and gathering other forms of aquatic life; fetching water and gathering firewood; storing produce for later use and carrying out some processing of produce; building and maintaining houses and other shelters; making tools, clothes and utensils for use by the household; selling or bartering some products at local markets.

Occupations in this sub-major group are classified into the following minor groups:

631 Subsistence Crop Farmers
632 Subsistence Livestock Farmers
633 Subsistence Mixed Crop and Livestock Farmers
634 Subsistence Fishers, Hunters, Trappers and Gatherers

Notes

Jobs should be classified in Sub-major Group 63: Subsistence Farmers, Fishers, Hunters and Gatherers when goods (mostly food) are produced mainly for own consumption or for consumption by other members of the worker’s household. If a large surplus is produced, and more goods are sold than consumed, but the main aim of production was for own consumption, the jobs should nevertheless be classified in Sub-major Group 63. Jobs should only be classified in Sub-major Groups 61: Market-oriented Skilled Agricultural Workers or 62: Market-oriented Skilled Forestry, Fishery and Hunting Workers if the main aim of the activity is to produce goods for the market.

Jobs are also classified in Sub-major Group 63 when goods are produced only for own consumption or for consumption by members of the worker’s household, and no cash income or bartering is involved.

Minor Group 631

Subsistence Crop Farmers

Subsistence crop farmers grow and harvest field or tree and shrub crops, vegetables and fruit, in order to provide food, shelter and, in some cases, a minimum of cash income for themselves and their households.

Tasks performed usually include: preparing the soil and sowing, planting, tending and harvesting field crops; growing vegetables, fruit and other tree and shrub crops; fetching water and gathering firewood; storing for later use and carrying out some processing of produce; building and maintaining houses and other shelters; making tools, clothes and utensils for use by the household; selling or bartering some products at local markets.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit group:

6310 Subsistence Crop Farmers
(e) building and maintaining houses and other shelters;
(f) making tools, clothes and utensils for use by the household;
(g) selling or bartering some products at local markets.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Subsistence crop farmer
- Subsistence gardener
- Subsistence vegetable grower

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Crop farm labourer – 9211
- Firewood collector – 9624
- Water collector – 9624

Note
Workers in a subsistence setting whose main tasks are fetching water and gathering firewood are classified in Unit Group 9624: Water and Firewood Collectors. Workers in subsistence agriculture who perform a limited range of simple and routine tasks, usually under the direction of others, are classified in the relevant unit group in Sub-major Group 92: Agricultural, Forestry and Fishery Labourers.

Minor Group 632

Subsistence Livestock Farmers

Subsistence livestock farmers breed, raise and tend livestock in order to provide food, shelter and, in some cases, a minimum of cash income for themselves and their households.

Tasks performed usually include: cultivating pastures or managing grazing lands, and monitoring feed and water supplies needed to maintain condition of livestock; monitoring and examining animals to detect illness, injury or disease, and to check physical condition; grooming and marking animals and shearing coats to collect hair or wool; herding or leading livestock to pastures, grazing land and water supplies; raising, tending, feeding and milking animals or draining blood from them; breeding animals and helping with animal births; slaughtering and skinning animals and preparing them and their products for consumption or sale; carrying out some processing of animal products; building and maintaining houses and other shelters; making tools, clothes and utensils for use by the household; fetching water and gathering firewood; buying, bartering and selling animals and some products.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit group:

Major Group 7

CRAFT AND RELATED TRADES WORKERS

Craft and related trades workers apply specific technical and practical knowledge and skills to construct and maintain buildings; form metal; erect metal structures; set machine tools or make, fit, maintain and repair machinery, equipment or tools; carry out printing work; and produce or process foodstuffs, textiles and wooden, metal and other articles, including handicraft goods. Competent performance in most occupations in this major group requires skills at the second ISCO skill level.

The work is carried out by hand and by hand-powered and other tools which are used to reduce the amount of physical effort and time required for specific tasks, as well as to improve the quality of the products. The tasks call for an understanding of all stages of the production process, the materials and tools used, and the nature and purpose of the final product.

Tasks performed by craft and related trades workers usually include: constructing, maintaining and repairing buildings and other structures; casting, welding and shaping metal; installing and erecting heavy metal structures, tackle and related equipment; making machinery, tools, equipment and other metal articles; setting for operators, or setting and operating various machine tools; fitting, maintaining and repairing industrial machinery, engines, vehicles, electrical and electronic instruments and other equipment; making precision instruments, jewellery, household and other precious metal articles, pottery, glass and related products; producing handicrafts; executing printing work; producing and processing foodstuffs and various articles made of wood, textiles, leather and related materials. Supervision of other workers may be included. Self-employed craft and related trades workers, who operate their own businesses either independently or with assistance from a small number of others, may also perform a range of tasks associated with management of the business, account and record keeping and client service, although such tasks would not normally comprise the major component of the work.

Occupations in this major group are classified into the following sub-major groups:

71 Building and Related Trades Workers (excluding Electricians)
72 Metal, Machinery and Related Trades Workers
73 Handicraft and Printing Workers
74 Electrical and Electronics Trades Workers
75 Food Processing, Woodworking, Garment and Other Craft and Related Trades Workers
Sub-major Group 71

Building and Related Trades Workers (excluding Electricians)

Building and related trades workers construct, maintain and repair buildings; erect and repair foundations, walls and structures of brick, stone and similar materials; shape and finish stone for building and other purposes. Competent performance in most occupations in this sub-major group requires skills at the second ISCO skill level.

The work is carried out by hand and by hand-powered and other tools which are used to reduce the amount of physical effort and time required for specific tasks, as well as to improve the quality of the products. The tasks call for an understanding of the work organization, the materials and tools used, and the nature and purpose of the final product.

Tasks performed by workers in this sub-major group usually include: constructing, maintaining and repairing buildings and other structures, using traditional and/or modern building techniques; constructing and repairing foundations, walls and structures of brick, stone and similar materials; breaking quarried stone into slabs or blocks; cutting, shaping and finishing stone for building, ornamental, monumental and other purposes; erecting reinforced concrete frameworks and structures as well as finishing and repairing cement surfaces; cutting, shaping, assembling and maintaining wooden structures and fittings; performing miscellaneous construction and building maintenance tasks. Supervision of other workers may be included.

Occupations in this sub-major group are classified into the following minor groups:

- 711 Building Frame and Related Trades Workers
- 712 Building Finishers and Related Trades Workers
- 713 Painters, Building Structure Cleaners and Related Trades Workers

Minor Group 711

Building Frame and Related Trades Workers

Building frame and related trades workers construct, maintain and repair buildings; erect and repair foundations, walls and structures of brick, stone and similar materials; and shape and finish stone for building and other purposes; and perform miscellaneous construction and building maintenance tasks.

Tasks performed usually include: constructing, maintaining and repairing buildings and other structures by using traditional and/or modern building techniques; constructing and repairing foundations, walls and structures of brick, stone and similar materials; breaking quarried stone into slabs or blocks; cutting, shaping and finishing stone for building, ornamental, monumental and other purposes; erecting reinforced concrete frameworks and structures as well as finishing and repairing cement surfaces; cutting, shaping, assembling and maintaining wooden structures and fittings; performing miscellaneous construction and building maintenance tasks. Supervision of other workers may be included.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

- 7111 House Builders
- 7112 Bricklayers and Related Workers
- 7113 Stonemasons, Stone Cutters, Splitters and Carvers
- 7114 Concrete Placers, Concrete Finishers and Related Workers
- 7115 Carpenters and Joiners
- 7119 Building Frame and Related Trades Workers Not Elsewhere Classified
Unit Group 7111

House Builders

House builders erect, maintain and repair houses and similar small buildings using either traditional or modern techniques and materials.

Tasks include –
(a) preparing ground for erecting building or other structures;
(b) erecting structures to support roofs, and building and covering walls with appropriate materials;
(c) fixing rafters to roofs and covering with roofing material;
(d) levelling floors to make them smooth and serviceable;
(e) maintaining and repairing existing structures;
(f) arranging for specialized work such as brick-laying, painting, plumbing and electrical wiring to be done by subcontractors;
(g) coordinating and supervising the activities of subcontractors, labourers and other workers.

Example of the occupations classified here:
• House builder

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Construction project manager – 1323
• Project builder – 1323
• Construction supervisor – 3123

Unit Group 7112

Bricklayers and Related Workers

Bricklayers and related workers lay bricks, pre-cut stones and other types of building blocks in mortar to construct and repair walls, partitions, arches and other structures.

Tasks include –
(a) laying stone, brick and similar building blocks to construct or repair walls, partitions, fireplaces and other structures such as smokestacks, furnaces, converters, kilns and ovens, piers and abutments;
(b) laying footpaths, kerbs and pavements;
(c) laying bricks or other masonry to build patios, garden walls and other decorative installations.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Block layer
• Bricklayer
• Chimney builder
• Refractory bricklayer

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Stonemason – 7113

Unit Group 7113

Stonemasons, Stone Cutters, Splitters and Carvers

Stonemasons, stone cutters, splitters and carvers cut and shape hard and soft stone blocks and slabs for the construction and maintenance of stone structures and monumental masonry, and carve designs and figures in stone.

Tasks include –
(a) driving wedges into quarried stone to break it into slabs or blocks;
(b) selecting and grading slabs and blocks of granite, marble and other stone;
(c) cutting, shaping and finishing building and monumental stone such as granite or marble using hand tools or hand-held power tools;
(d) making patterns and marking shapes on stone for subsequent sawing, planing, drilling and other dressing and cutting operations;
(e) cutting and carving characters, figures or designs on stone blocks used for monuments or memorials;
(f) setting stone in the erection of monuments and memorials;
(g) repairing and replacing stonework on old buildings, churches and monuments.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Granite cutter
• Stone carver
• Stone cutter
• Stone polisher (hand or hand-powered tools)

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Wall and floor tile setters – 7122
• Machine operator (stone cutting or processing) – 8112

Unit Group 7114

Concrete Placers, Concrete Finishers and Related Workers

Concrete placers, concrete finishers and related workers erect reinforced concrete frameworks and structures, make forms for moulding concrete, reinforce concrete surfaces, cement openings in walls or casings for wells, finish and repair concrete surfaces and carry out terrazzo work.

Tasks include –
(a) constructing and repairing reinforced concrete floors, walls, tanks, silos and other concrete structures;
(b) making shuttering or assembling prefabricated forms for moulding concrete;
(c) cementing openings in walls or casings for wells;
(d) finishing and smoothing surfaces of concrete structures;
(e) applying a durable smooth surfacing composed of cement, sand pigment and marble particles to floors, known as a terrazzo finish.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Cement finisher
• Concrete placer
• Terrazzo worker

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Concrete finishing machine operator – 8114
• Road surface laying machinery operator – 8342

Unit Group 7115
Carpenters and Joiners

Carpenters and joiners cut, shape, assemble, erect, maintain and repair various types of structures and fittings made from wood and other materials.

Tasks include –
(a) making, altering and repairing structural and other woodwork at a workbench or on a construction site;
(b) constructing, erecting and installing heavy-framed wooden structures on building sites;
(c) fitting, assembling and altering internal and external fixtures of buildings, such as walls, doors, door and window frames, facings and panelling;
(d) making, repairing and fitting scenic equipment for theatrical performances and motion picture or television productions;
(e) constructing, assembling, altering and repairing wooden fixtures and fittings in train coaches, aircraft, ships, boats, floats and other vehicles.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Carpenter
• Door installer
• Finish carpenter
• Framer
• Joiner
• Shipwright (wood)

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Cabinet-maker – 7522
• Wheelwright – 7522

Unit Group 7119
Building Frame and Related Trades Workers Not Elsewhere Classified

This unit group covers building frame and related trades workers not classified elsewhere in Minor Group 711: Building Frame and Related Trades Workers. For instance, the unit group includes steeplejacks, scaffolders and demolition workers.

In such cases tasks would include –
(a) climbing and performing miscellaneous construction and building maintenance work on tall structures such as towers, chimneys and spires;
(b) erecting temporary metal or wooden scaffolding on building sites;
(c) demolishing buildings and other structures.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Building wrecker
• Prefabricated building assembler
• Scaffolder
• Skilled demolition worker
• Steeplejack

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Construction labourer (building work) – 9313
• Demolition labourer – 9313

Minor Group 712
Building Finishers and Related Trades Workers

Building finishers and related trades workers cover, apply or install, maintain and repair roofs, floors, walls, insulation systems, glass in windows or other frames, as well as plumbing, piping and electrical systems in buildings and other structures.

Tasks performed usually include: covering roof frameworks with one or more kinds of material; installing parquet and other kinds of flooring, or covering floors and walls with tiles or mosaic panels; applying plaster to walls and ceilings; applying insulating material to walls, floors and ceilings; cutting, fitting and setting glass in windows and similar openings; installing plumbing and pipeline systems; installing electrical wiring and related equipment. Supervision of other workers may be included.
Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

- 7121 Roofers
- 7122 Floor Layers and Tile Setters
- 7123 Plasterers
- 7124 Insulation Workers
- 7125 Glaziers
- 7126 Plumbers and Pipe Fitters
- 7127 Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Mechanics

Unit Group 7121

Roofers

Roofers build and repair roofs on all types of buildings, using one or more kinds of material.

Tasks include –

- (a) studying drawings, specifications and construction sites to determine materials required;
- (b) covering roof frameworks with slate and prefabricated tiles to cover pitched roofs;
- (c) laying a waterproof shield and fixing metallic or synthetic materials to a building’s frame;
- (d) sizing and cutting roofing materials to fit around edges, corners and protuberances such as chimneys;
- (e) using natural materials such as thatching to provide roof coverings;
- (f) creating temporary structures such as scaffolding and ladders.

Examples of the occupations classified here:

- Asphalt roofer
- Metal roofer
- Roof fixer
- Roof tile roofer
- Slate roofer
- Thatcher

Note

Installers of metal roofing are classified in Unit Group 7121: Roofers. Workers who make sheet metal products for adaptation and installation by roofers are classified in Unit Group 7123: Sheet Metal Workers.

Unit Group 7123

Plasterers

Plasterers install, maintain and repair plasterboard in buildings, and apply decorative and protective coverings of plaster, cement and similar material to the interiors and exteriors of structures.

Tasks include –

- (a) applying one or more coats of plaster to interior walls and ceilings of buildings to produce a finished surface;
- (b) measuring, marking and installing ornamental plaster panels, and casting and trimming ornamental plaster cornices;
- (c) measuring, marking and cutting plasterboard, lifting and positioning panels and securing them to walls, ceilings and battens;
- (d) covering joints and nail holes with wet plaster and sealing compounds, and smoothing them using wet brushes and sandpaper;
- (e) applying protective and decorative coverings of cement, plaster and similar materials to exterior building surfaces;
- (f) making and installing decorative plaster fixtures of fibrous plaster;
- (g) applying and finishing acoustic, insulating and fireproofing materials bonded with plaster, plastic cement and similar materials.

Unit Group 7122

Floor Layers and Tile Setters

Floor layers and tile setters install, maintain and repair flooring, and cover floors, walls and other surfaces with carpets, tiles or mosaic panels for decorative or other purposes.

Tasks include –

- (a) preparing floor areas for covering with a variety of materials;
- (b) assembling carpet, tiles or other materials and laying them on floors according to design and other specifications;
- (c) preparing wall areas for covering with tiles or other materials for decorative or other purposes such as acoustic insulation;
- (d) setting tiles and constructing and laying mosaic panels to walls, floors and other surfaces.

Examples of the occupations classified here:

- Carpet layer
- Marble setter
- Parquetry worker
- Tile setter
Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Dry wall plasterer
- Fibrous plasterer
- Ornamental plasterer
- Plasterer
- Solid plasterer
- Stucco plasterer

Unit Group 7124
Insulation Workers

Insulation workers apply and repair insulating materials to buildings, boilers, pipes or refrigeration and air conditioning equipment.

Tasks include –
(a) cutting insulation material by size and shape;
(b) applying slabs and sheets of insulating or sound-absorbing materials to walls, floors and ceilings of buildings;
(c) blowing and packing insulating or sound-absorbing materials into cavities between walls, floors and ceilings of buildings with power-driven machines;
(d) examining plans, specifications and work sites to determine the type, quality and quantity of insulation material required;
(e) applying insulating materials to exposed surfaces of equipment such as boilers, pipes and tanks;
(f) insulating refrigeration and air conditioning equipment.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Acoustic insulation worker
- Boiler and pipe insulation worker
- Insulation installer
- Insulation worker
- Refrigeration and air conditioning equipment insulation worker

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Autoglazier
- Glazier
- Roofing glazier
- Vehicle glazier

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Glass cutter – 7315
- Glass finisher – 7315

Unit Group 7126
Plumbers and Pipe Fitters

Plumbers and pipe fitters assemble, install, repair and maintain pipe systems, drains, gutters, ducts and related fittings and fixtures for water, gas, drainage, sewerage, heating, cooling and ventilation systems, and for hydraulic and pneumatic equipment.

Tasks include –
(a) examining blueprints, drawings and specifications to determine the layout of plumbing and ventilation systems and materials required;
(b) measuring, cutting, threading, bending, jointing, assembling, installing, maintaining and repairing pipes, fittings and fixtures of drainage, heating, ventilation, water supply and sewerage systems;
(c) installing gas appliances, dishwashers and water heaters, sinks and toilets using hand and power tools;
(d) laying clay, concrete or cast-iron pipes in ditches to form sewers, drains or water mains, or for other purposes;
(e) inspecting, examining and testing installed systems and pipes, using pressure gauge, hydrostatic testing, observation or other methods.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Drain technician
- Gas fitter
- Pipe fitter
- Pipe layer
- Plumber
- Ventilation pipe fitter

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Air conditioning and refrigeration mechanics – 7127

Note
Installers of metal drains, gutters and ducts are classified in Unit Group 7126: Plumbers and Pipe Fitters. Workers who make sheet metal products for adaptation and installation plumbers are classified in Unit Group 7213: Sheet Metal Workers.
Unit Group 7127

Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Mechanics

Air conditioning and refrigeration mechanics assemble, install, maintain and repair air conditioning and refrigeration systems and equipment.

Tasks include –
(a) interpreting blueprints, drawings and other specifications;
(b) assembling, installing and repairing components such as compressors, motors, condensers, evaporators, switches and gauges for air conditioning and refrigeration systems;
(c) connecting piping and equipment by bolting, riveting, welding or brazing;
(d) testing systems, diagnosing faults and performing routine maintenance or servicing.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Air conditioning equipment mechanic
- Refrigeration mechanic

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Plumber and pipe fitter – 7126
- Ventilation pipe fitter – 7126

Minor Group 713

Painters, Building Structure Cleaners and Related Trades Workers

Painters, building structure cleaners and related trades workers prepare surfaces and apply paint and similar materials to buildings and other structures, vehicles or various manufactured articles. They cover interior walls and ceilings with wallpaper, and clean chimneys and exterior surfaces of buildings and other structures.

Tasks performed usually include: preparing surfaces and applying paint and similar materials to buildings and other structures; applying paint or varnish to vehicles or various manufactured articles, usually with a hand-spraying device; covering interior walls and ceilings with wallpaper, silk or other fabrics; cleaning chimneys; cleaning exterior surfaces of buildings and other structures. Supervision of other workers may be included.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:
- 7131 Painters and Related Workers
- 7132 Spray Painters and Varnishers
- 7133 Building Structure Cleaners

Unit Group 7131

Painters and Related Workers

Painters and related workers prepare surfaces of buildings and other structures for painting, apply protective and decorative coats of paint or similar materials, or cover interior walls and ceilings of buildings with wallpaper or other finishes.

Tasks include –
(a) cleaning and preparing walls and other surfaces of buildings for painting or papering;
(b) selecting and preparing paints to required colours by mixing pigments and additives;
(c) applying or spraying paint, varnish and similar materials to surfaces, fixtures and fittings of buildings;
(d) measuring and hanging wallpaper or other fabrics on interior walls and ceilings;
(e) applying paints, varnishes and stains to surfaces using brushes, rollers and sprays.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Building painter
- Paperhanger

Unit Group 7132

Spray Painters and Varnishers

Spray painters and varnishers operate spray painting and varnishing equipment to apply protective coatings to manufactured items or structures. Tasks include –
(a) preparing surfaces to be coated using a variety of methods to remove grease, dirt and rust;
(b) painting cars, buses, trucks and other vehicles, and applying varnish and other protective coatings;
(c) applying paint as well as protective coatings of enamel or varnish on metal, wooden and other manufactured products, usually with a hand-spraying device.
Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Manufactured articles painter
- Varnisher
- Vehicle painter

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Building painter – 7131
- Decorative painter – 7316
- Signwriter – 7316
- Wood treater – 7521
- Metal coating machine operator – 8122

Unit Group 7133
Building Structure Cleaners

Building structure cleaners clean exterior surfaces of buildings and other structures, and remove soot from chimneys.

Tasks include –
(a) Cleaning exterior surfaces of stone, brick, metal or similar materials by means of chemicals, or a jet of steam or sand applied under high pressure;
(b) Removing soot from flues, chimneys and connecting pipes;
(c) Removing asbestos, mould and fire-damaged surfaces from buildings.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Building exteriors cleaner
- Chimney sweep
- Sandblaster (building exteriors)

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Graffiti cleaner – 9129
- Water blaster – 9129
Sub-major Group 72

Metal, Machinery and Related Trades Workers

Metal, machinery and related trades workers cast, weld, forge and, by other methods, form metal; erect, maintain and repair heavy metal structures; engage in machine-tool setting as well as in fitting, maintaining and repairing machinery including engines and vehicles; or they produce tools and various non-precious metal articles. Competent performance in most occupations in this sub-major group requires skills at the second ISCO skill level.

The work is carried out by hand and by hand-powered and other tools which are used to reduce the amount of physical effort and time required for specific tasks, as well as to improve the quality of the products. The tasks call for an understanding of the work organization, materials and tools used, and the nature and purpose of the final product.

Tasks performed by workers in this sub-major group usually include: making moulds and cores for casting metal; casting, welding and shaping metal; installing, erecting, maintaining and repairing heavy metal structures, tackle and related equipment; forging and forming steel and other non-precious metals to make and repair machinery, tools, equipment and other articles; setting for operators or setting and operating various machine tools; fitting, maintaining and repairing industrial machinery, including engines and vehicles. Supervision of other workers may be included.

Occupations in this sub-major group are classified into the following minor groups:

- 721 Sheet and Structural Metal Workers, Moulders and Welders, and Related Workers
- 722 Blacksmiths, Toolmakers and Related Trades Workers
- 723 Machinery Mechanics and Repairers

Minor Group 721

Sheet and Structural Metal Workers, Moulders and Welders, and Related Workers

Sheet and structural metal workers, moulders and welders, and related workers, make moulds and cores for casting metal, weld and cut metal parts, make and repair articles of sheet metal, and install, erect, maintain and repair heavy metal structures, tackle, cable cars and related equipment.

Tasks performed usually include: making moulds and cores for casting metal; casting, welding and shaping metal parts; making and repairing articles of sheet metal such as sheet steel, copper, tin or brass; installing, erecting, maintaining and repairing heavy metal structures as well as tackle, cable cars and related equipment.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

- 7211 Metal Moulders and Coremakers
- 7212 Welders and Flame Cutters
- 7213 Sheet Metal Workers
- 7214 Structural Metal Preparers and Erectors
- 7215 Riggers and Cable Splicers

Unit Group 7211

Metal Moulders and Coremakers

Metal moulders and coremakers make moulds and cores for casting metal.

Tasks include –

(a) making moulds by hand or using auxiliary machines on a bench for small metal castings, on the foundry floor, or in a pit for large castings;

(b) making cores for use in metal moulds;

(c) cleaning and smoothing moulds and core boxes, and repairing surface imperfections;

(d) moving and positioning work pieces such as mould sections, patterns and bottom boards, using cranes, or signalling others to move work pieces;

(e) positioning patterns inside mould sections and clamping sections together;
(f) cutting spouts, runner holes and sprue holes into moulds;
(g) lifting upper mould sections from lower sections and removing moulded patterns.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Coremaker
- Metal casting moulder

Unit Group 7212

Welders and Flame Cutters

Welders and flame cutters weld and cut metal parts using gas flame, electric arc and other sources of heat to melt and cut, or to melt and fuse metal.

Tasks include –
(a) welding metal parts using gas flame, or an electric arc, thermite compound or other methods;
(b) operating resistance-welding machines;
(c) using blowtorches to make and repair lead linings, pipes, floors and other lead fixtures;
(d) brazing metal parts together;
(e) cutting metal pieces using gas flame or an electric arc;
(f) joining metal parts by hand soldering;
(g) monitoring the fitting, burning and welding processes to avoid overheating of parts or warping, shrinking, distortion or expansion of material;
(h) examining work pieces for defects and measuring work pieces with straight edges or templates to ensure conformity with specifications.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Brazier
- Flame cutter
- Welder

Unit Group 7213

Sheet Metal Workers

Sheet metal workers make, install and repair articles and parts of articles made out of sheet metal such as sheet steel, copper, tin, brass, aluminium, zinc or galvanized iron.

Tasks include –
(a) marking sheet metal for cutting and shaping;
(b) making and repairing household utensils and other articles in tin, copper and light alloys, or ornamental articles and fittings;
(c) making and repairing boilers, tanks, vats and similar containers;
(d) installing and repairing sheet metal parts of vehicles and aircraft;
(e) converting blueprints into shop drawings to be followed in the construction and assembly of sheet metal products;
(f) determining project requirements, including scope, assembly sequences and required methods and materials, according to blueprints, drawings and written or verbal instructions;
(g) inspecting product quality and installation to ensure conformity with specifications.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Erector, structural metal
- Preparer, structural metal
- Riveter

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Rivet production machine operator – 7223

Unit Group 7214

Structural Metal Preparers and Erectors

Structural metal preparers and erectors assemble, erect and dismantle structural metal frames of buildings and other structures.

Tasks include –
(a) marking metal framework as a guide when drilling, cutting and shaping metal stock for use in buildings, ships and other structures;
(b) drilling, cutting and shaping structural steel in a workshop;
(c) erecting steel framework for buildings, bridges and other constructions;
(d) assembling and erecting the framework and other metal parts of ships’ structures;
(e) shaping and fitting structural steel plates of ships under construction or repair;
(f) riveting structural metal members by hand, machine or pneumatic riveter.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Erector, structural metal
- Preparer, structural metal
- Riveter

Note
Installers of metal roofing are classified in Unit Group 7121: Roofers. Installers of metal drains, gutters and ducts are classified in Unit Group 7126: Plumbers and Pipe Fitters. Workers who make sheet metal products for adaptation and installation by roofers and plumbers are classified in Unit Group 7213: Sheet Metal Workers.
Unit Group 7215

Riggers and Cable Splicers

Riggers and cable splicers assemble rigging gear to move and position equipment and structural components, or install and maintain cables, ropes and wires on construction sites, buildings or other structures.

Tasks include –
(a) estimating the size, shape and weight of objects to be moved and deciding on the type of equipment to move them;
(b) installing and repairing cables, ropes, wires, pulleys and other tackle;
(c) joining, repairing and fitting attachments to wires, ropes and cables;
(d) working as member of a crew erecting and repairing derricks for drilling water, gas and oil wells;
(e) lifting and mounting scenery, lighting and other equipment in theatres and on film sets;
(f) installing and maintaining communication towers, aerial cableways, funicular railways, ski lifts and similar infrastructure.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Cable and rope splicer
- Rigger
- Ship rigger
- Theatrical rigger
- Tower rigger

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Cable splicing machine operator – 8189
- Crane, hoist and related plant operators – 8343

Minor Group 722

Blacksmiths, Toolmakers and Related Trades Workers

Blacksmiths, toolmakers and related trades workers hammer and forge bars, rods or ingots of iron, steel and other metals to make and repair various kinds of tools, equipment and other articles; set machine tools for operators, or set and operate various machine tools; and polish and sharpen surfaces.

Tasks performed usually include: hammering and forging iron, steel and other metals to make and repair various kinds of tools, equipment and other articles; setting machine tools for operators, or setting and operating various machine tools working to fine tolerances; polishing and sharpening metal surfaces and tools.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:
- 7221 Blacksmiths, Hammersmiths and Forging Press Workers
- 7222 Toolmakers and Related Workers
- 7223 Metal Working Machine Tool Setters and Operators
- 7224 Metal Polishers, Wheel Grinders and Tool Sharpeners

Unit Group 7221

Blacksmiths, Hammersmiths and Forging Press Workers

Blacksmiths, hammersmiths and forging press workers hammer and forge bars, rods, ingots and plates of iron, steel or other metals, and draw wire to make and repair various kinds of tools, metal articles, pieces of equipment, and agricultural and related implements.

Tasks include –
(a) heating metal in forge furnaces and manufacturing and repairing articles by drawing, bending, cutting, hammering metal on an anvil, punching, shearing, joining and hardening or tempering;
(b) shaping heated metal into forgings on power hammers equipped with open dies;
(c) operating closed-die drop hammers to forge metal articles;
(d) operating a power-press machine equipped with closed dies to forge metal articles;
(e) drawing wire;
(f) reading work orders or blueprints to determine specified tolerances and sequences of operations for machine setup;
(g) measuring and inspecting machine parts to ensure conformity with product specifications.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Blacksmith
- Drop hammer worker
• Forging press worker
• Hammersmith

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Casting machine operator – 7223
• Machine tool operator – 7223

Unit Group 7222
Toolmakers and Related Workers
Toolmakers and related workers make and repair custom-made and specialized tools, sports guns, locks, dies, patterns, machinery components and other metal articles using hand and machine tools to work metal to fine tolerances.

Tasks include –
(a) reading and interpreting engineering drawings and specifications of tools, dies, prototypes or models;
(b) preparing templates and sketches, and determining work processes;
(c) visualizing and computing dimensions, sizes, shapes and tolerances of assemblies, based on specifications;
(d) positioning, securing and measuring metal stock or castings to lay out for machining;
(e) setting up, operating and maintaining conventional and computer numerically controlled machine tools to cut, turn, mill, plane, drill, bore, grind or otherwise shape work pieces to prescribed dimensions and finish;
(f) fitting and assembling parts to make and repair jigs, fixtures and gauges;
(g) repairing and modifying sports guns and other small arms;
(h) making, fitting, assembling, repairing and installing lock parts and locks;
(i) making and repairing metal patterns for preparation of foundry moulds;
(j) laying out lines and reference points on metal stock to guide other workers who cut, turn, mill, grind or otherwise shape metal;
(k) verifying dimensions, alignments and clearances of finished parts for conformity with specifications, using precision measuring instruments and testing completed items for proper operation.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Die maker
• Gunsmith
• Jig maker
• Locksmith
• Patternmaker
• Toolmaker

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Tool production machine operator – 7223

Unit Group 7223
Metal Working Machine Tool Setters and Operators
Metal working machine tool setters and operators set and/or operate various machine tools, working to fine tolerances.

Tasks include –
(a) setting one or more types of machine tool for production of metal articles in standardized series;
(b) operating and monitoring metal working machines such as lathes and milling, planing, boring, drilling, grinding or honing machines, including multipurpose numerically controlled metal working machines;
(c) performing similar tasks when machining plastics and other metal substitutes;
(d) observing machine operations to detect work piece defects or machine malfunctions, and adjusting machines as necessary;
(e) inspecting work pieces for defects, and measuring work pieces to determine accuracy of machine operation, using rules, templates or other measuring instruments;
(f) changing worn machine accessories such as cutting tools and brushes, using hand tools.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Boring machine operator
• Casting machine operator
• Machine tool operator
• Machine tool setter
• Machine tool setter-operator
• Metal turner
• Rivet production machine operator
• Tool production machine operator

Unit Group 7224
Metal Polishers, Wheel Grinders and Tool Sharpeners
Metal polishers, wheel grinders and tool sharpeners polish and grind metal surfaces and sharpen tools.

Tasks include –
(a) operating fixed or portable buffing and polishing machines;
(b) sharpening cutting tools and instruments using grinding wheels or mechanically operated grinding machines;
(c) repairing, adjusting and sharpening saw blades and metal teeth of cylinders in textile carding machines;
(d) dressing grinding wheels according to specifications;
(e) monitoring machine operations to determine whether adjustments are necessary, and stopping machines when problems occur;
(f) inspecting, feeling and measuring work pieces to ensure that surfaces and dimensions meet specifications;
(g) selecting and mounting grinding wheels on machines according to specifications, using hand tools and applying knowledge of abrasives and grinding procedures.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Knife sharpener
- Metal finisher
- Metal polisher
- Tool grinder

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Metal finishing machine operator – 8122
- Metal polishing machine operator – 8122

Minor Group 723
Machinery Mechanics and Repairers

Machinery mechanics and repairers fit, install, maintain and repair engines, vehicles, agricultural or industrial machinery and similar mechanical equipment.

Tasks performed usually include: fitting, installing, maintaining and repairing engines, vehicles, agricultural or industrial machinery and similar mechanical equipment.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:
- 7231 Motor Vehicle Mechanics and Repairers
- 7232 Aircraft Engine Mechanics and Repairers
- 7233 Agricultural and Industrial Machinery Mechanics and Repairers
- 7234 Bicycle and Related Repairers

Note
Occupations are classified in Major Group 8: Plant and Machine Operators and Assemblers if the tasks call mainly for experience with and an understanding of the machinery operated and monitored. Occupations are classified in Major Group 9: Elementary Occupations if the tasks are of a simple and routine nature, mainly entail the use of hand-held tools, some physical effort, little or no previous experience and understanding of the work and limited initiative or judgement.

Unit Group 7231
Motor Vehicle Mechanics and Repairers

Motor vehicle mechanics and repairers fit, install, maintain, service and repair engines and the mechanical and related equipment of passenger cars, delivery trucks, motorcycles and other motor vehicles.

Tasks include –
(a) detecting and diagnosing faults in engines and parts;
(b) fitting, examining, testing and servicing motor vehicle and motorcycle engines;
(c) replacing engine components or complete engines;
(d) fitting, examining, adjusting, dismantling, rebuilding and replacing defective parts of motor vehicles;
(e) installing or adjusting motors and brakes, and adjusting steering or other parts of motor vehicles;
(f) installing, adjusting, servicing and replacing mechatronics components of motor vehicles;
(g) performing scheduled maintenance services, such as oil changes, lubrications and engine tune-ups, to achieve smoother running of vehicles and ensure compliance with pollution regulations;
(h) reassembling engines and parts after being repaired.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Automotive brakes systems service technician
- Diesel fitter (road transport)
- Engine fitter (motor vehicle)
- Garage mechanic
- Moped repairer
- Motorcycle mechanic
- Motorized rickshaw mechanic
- Motor vehicle engine and fuel systems service technician
Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Bicycle repairer – 7234
- Automotive electrician – 7412
- Electrical mechanic – 7412
- Motor vehicle engine assembler – 8211

Unit Group 7232

Aircraft Engine Mechanics and Repairers

Aircraft engine mechanics and repairers fit, service, repair and overhaul aircraft engines and assemblies, such as airframes and hydraulic and pneumatic systems.

Tasks include –

(a) fitting, examining, testing and servicing aircraft engines;
(b) replacing engine components or complete engines;
(c) examining and inspecting airframes and aircraft components, including landing gear, hydraulic systems and de-icers to detect wear, cracks, breaks, leaks or other problems;
(d) maintaining, repairing, overhauling, modifying and testing aircraft structural, mechanical and hydraulic systems;
(e) reading and interpreting manuals, service bulletins and other specifications to determine the feasibility and method of repairing or replacing malfunctioning or damaged components;
(f) maintaining, repairing and rebuilding aircraft structures, functional components and parts such as wings and fuselage, rigging, hydraulic units, oxygen systems, fuel systems, electrical systems, gaskets and seals;
(g) inspecting completed work to certify that maintenance meets standards and the aircraft is ready for operation;
(h) maintaining repair logs, documenting all preventive and corrective aircraft maintenance;
(i) installing and testing electrical and electronic components, assemblies and systems in aircraft;
(j) connecting components to assemblies such as radio systems, instruments, magnetos, inverters and in-flight refuelling systems.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Aeromechanic
- Aircraft engine fitter
- Aircraft maintenance engineer (airframes)
- Aircraft maintenance engineer (engines)
- Aircraft maintenance supervisor
- Aircraft mechanic
- Aircraft restorer
- Aircraft service technician
- Airframe and power plant mechanic
- Airframe mechanic
- Aviation maintenance technician
- Helicopter mechanic
- Jet engine mechanic
- Pneumatic systems mechanic (aircraft)
- Powerplant mechanic (aircraft)
- Rocket engine component mechanic

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Aeronautical engineer – 2144
- Aircraft maintenance engineer (avionics) – 7421
- Avionics technician – 7421
- Aircraft engine assembler – 8211

Unit Group 7233

Agricultural and Industrial Machinery Mechanics and Repairers

Agricultural and industrial machinery mechanics and repairers fit, install, examine, service and repair engines, agricultural and industrial machinery and mechanical equipment, except motor vehicles, aircraft and electric motors.

Tasks include –

(a) fitting, installing, examining, servicing and repairing engines, machinery and mechanical equipment;
(b) oiling and greasing stationary engines and machinery;
(c) inspecting and testing new machinery and mechanical equipment for conformity with standards and specifications;
(d) disassembling machinery and equipment to remove parts and make repairs;
(e) examining parts for defects such as breakage and excessive wear;
(f) operating newly repaired machinery and equipment to verify the adequacy of repairs;
(g) recording repairs and maintenance performed.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Construction machinery mechanic
- Construction machinery repairer
- Farm machinery repairer
- Mining machinery fitter
- Mining machinery repairer
- Stationary engine fitter
- Stationary engine repairer
- Train engine fitter
- Train engine repairer

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Air conditioning equipment mechanic – 7127
- Electrical mechanic – 7412
- Mechanical machinery assembler – 8211

Unit Group 7234

Bicycle and Related Repairers

Bicycle and related repairers fit, maintain, service and repair the mechanical and related equipment of bicycles, rickshaws, baby carriages, wheelchairs and similar non-motorized transport equipment.

Tasks include –

(a) examining, servicing and repairing bicycles and other non-motorized transport equipment;
(b) cleaning and lubricating bearings and other moving parts;
(c) replacing and repairing components and accessories such as brakes, gears, driving chain mechanisms, wheels and handlebars;
(d) changing tyres and controlling air pressure;
(e) spray-painting frames;
(f) assembling new bicycles, wheelchairs and similar non-motorized equipment.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Bicycle mechanic
- Bicycle repairer
- Perambulator repairer
- Wheelchair repairer

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Moped repairer – 7231
- Motorized rickshaw mechanic – 7231
Sub-major Group 73

Handicraft and Printing Workers

Handicraft and printing workers combine artistic and manual skills to design, produce, maintain and decorate precision instruments, musical instruments, jewellery and other precious metals, pottery, porcelain and glassware, items made of wood or textile, leather or related materials, and printed products such as books, newspapers and magazines. They apply traditional and/or recently developed techniques to carve, mould, assemble, weave and decorate various articles; to compose and set type prior to printing; to set up and operate printing presses; to bind and finish printed products; and to prepare stencils and operate screen printing equipment. Competent performance in most occupations in this sub-major group requires skills at the second ISCO skill level.

The work may be carried out by hand or involve the use of hand tools and hand-held power tools, and in some cases the set-up and operation of machinery and machine tools. The tasks call for an understanding of the work organization, materials and tools used, and the nature and purpose of the final product.

Tasks performed by workers in this sub-major group usually include: making and repairing nautical, meteorological, optical and other precision instruments and equipment; making and repairing musical instruments; making jewellery and precious metalware; making pottery, porcelain ware, ceramics and glassware; painting and decorating various articles; producing handicraft articles in wood or textile, leather and related materials; performing printing or book-binding tasks. Supervision of other workers may be included.

Occupations in this sub-major group are classified into the following minor groups:

- 731 Handicraft Workers
- 732 Printing Trades Workers

Minor Group 731

Handicraft Workers

Handicraft workers combine artistic and manual skills to design, make, repair, adjust, maintain and decorate precision instruments, musical instruments, jewellery and other precious metals, pottery and porcelain ware. They apply traditional and/or recently developed techniques to carve, mould, assemble, weave and decorate various glass, ceramic, textile, straw, stone, wood and leather articles.

Tasks performed usually include: making, calibrating, repairing, maintaining and installing musical and precision instruments; fabricating, adjusting, repairing or appraising jewellery, ceremonial or religious items, gold, silver, other precious metals or gems; cutting, filing, polishing and setting precious and semi-precious stones including gems and diamonds, and engraving designs on jewellery and precious metal articles; preparing pottery, porcelain ware, sanitary ware, bricks, tiles and abrasive wheels by hand or by machine; blowing, moulding, pressing, cutting, trimming, grinding and polishing glass, or shaping molten glass according to patterns; decorating articles made of wood, metal, textiles, glass, ceramics and other materials, and planning, laying out and painting letters, figures, monograms and designs to make signs; applying traditional techniques such as seasoning or impregnation to prepare wood, straw, rattan, reed, stone, clay, shells and other materials, and carving, moulding, assembling, weaving or painting and decorating various articles for personal or household use or for decorative purposes; preparing materials to make wicker furniture, brushes and brooms, and weaving various kinds of baskets; applying traditional techniques and patterns to produce woven fabrics, knitted, embroidered and other garments and household articles.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

- 7311 Precision-instrument Makers and Repairers
- 7312 Musical Instrument Makers and Tuners
7313 Jewellery and Precious Metal Workers
7314 Potters and Related Workers
7315 Glass Makers, Cutters, Grinders and Finishers
7316 Signwriters, Decorative Painters, Engravers and Etchers
7317 Handicraft Workers in Wood, Basketry and Related Materials
7318 Handicraft Workers in Textile, Leather and Related Materials
7319 Handicraft Workers Not Elsewhere Classified

Unit Group 7311
Precision-instrument Makers and Repairers

Precision-instrument makers and repairers make, calibrate, repair, maintain, adjust and install mechanical watches and clocks, and nautical, meteorological, optical and other precision instruments and equipment, and set them for correct performance.

Tasks include –
(a) repairing, cleaning and adjusting mechanisms of timing instruments such as watches and clocks;
(b) adjusting timing regulators, using calipers, watch-rate recorders and tweezers;
(c) cleaning, rinsing and drying timepiece parts, using solutions and ultrasonic or mechanical watch-cleaning machines;
(d) testing timepiece accuracy and performance, using meters and other electronic instruments;
(e) testing accuracy of meters, gauges, indicators or other recording or controlling instruments to locate defective components and for conformity with standards;
(f) calibrating instruments or scales, using hand tools and computer or electronic devices;
(g) inspecting components, connections and drive mechanisms to detect defects;
(h) assembling instruments and devices such as barometers, control valves, gyroscopes, hygrometers, speedometers, tachometers and thermostats;
(i) testing, calibrating and adjusting electronic, mercurial, aneroid and other types of meteorological instruments for compliance with printed specifications and schematic diagrams, using voltmeters, oscilloscopes, tube testers and other test instruments;
(j) adjusting and repairing masts, supporting structures, clearance lights, control panels, control cabling and wiring, and other electrical and mechanical devices;
(k) repairing and setting optical instruments such as microscopes, telescopes, theodolites and sextants;
(l) checking whether assembled units conform to specifications and ensuring stipulated performance and sensitivity by standard tests.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Instrument/meteorological maker
- Photographic equipment repairer
- Surgical instrument maker
- Watchmaker

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Orthopaedic appliance maker – 3214
- Locksmith – 7222
- Machine tool operator – 7223
- Watch assembler – 8212

Unit Group 7312
Musical Instrument Makers and Tuners

Musical instrument makers and tuners make, assemble, repair, adjust and restore musical instruments and tune them to the required pitch with hand or power tools. They usually specialize in one type of instrument, such as stringed instruments, brass instruments, reed instruments, pianos or percussion instruments.

Tasks include –
(a) fabricating and assembling musical instruments and instrument parts of wood, ebonite, metal, leather and other materials;
(b) repairing or replacing musical instrument parts and components such as strings, bridges, felts and keys, using hand and power tools;
(c) playing and inspecting instruments to evaluate their sound quality and to locate any defects;
(d) adjusting string tensions to achieve proper tone or pitch of stringed instruments;
(e) adjusting lips, reeds or toe holes of organ pipes, using hand tools, to regulate airflow and loudness of sound;
(f) tuning and servicing pipe organs by adjusting pitch of organ pipes to conform with pitch of the tuning fork and adjusting pitch of other pipes with reference to pitch of tuned pipes;
(g) installing new drumheads in percussion instruments;
(h) tuning accordions by aurally comparing pitch of reeds with master reeds and filing reeds to obtain standard pitch;
(i) aligning pads and keys on reed or wind instruments;
(j) tuning percussion instruments to required pitch by tightening or loosening cords holding leather pieces fixed atop or at both ends of the instrument;
(k) assembling and installing new pipe organs and pianos in buildings.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Brass instrument repairer
- Piano tuner
- Stringed instrument maker
- Woodwind instrument maker

(i) engraving or embossing letters, designs or decorative lines on jewellery and precious metal ware;
(j) grinding, drilling and finishing jewel bearings for use in precision instruments such as compasses and chronometers;
(k) examining assembled or finished products to ensure conformity with specifications, using magnifying glasses or precision measuring instruments.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Enameller (jewellery)
- Gem setter
- Goldsmith
- Jeweller
- Silversmith

Unit Group 7313
Jewellery and Precious Metal Workers

Jewellery and precious metal workers design, fabricate, adjust, repair or appraise jewellery, ceremonial or religious items, gold, silver, other precious metals or gems. They cut, file, polish and set precious and semi-precious stones including gems and diamonds, and engrave designs on jewellery and precious metal articles. They cut and polish diamonds for industrial purposes.

Tasks include –
(a) casting jewellery and other non-ferrous metal articles by hand;
(b) creating new jewellery designs and modifying existing designs, using computers as necessary;
(c) cutting designs in moulds or other materials to be used as models in the fabrication of metal and jewellery products;
(d) altering existing jewellery mountings in order to reposition jewels or to adjust mountings;
(e) repairing, reshaping and restyling old jewellery or precious metal ware following designs or instructions;
(f) making complete jewellery articles such as rings, necklaces, bangles, brooches and bracelets from materials such as gold, silver, platinum and precious or semi-precious stones;
(g) examining gem surfaces and internal structures, using polariscopes, refractometers, microscopes and other optical instruments to differentiate between stones, to identify rare specimens, or to detect flaws, defects or peculiarities affecting gem values;
(h) cutting and polishing gems and setting them in jewellery articles;
(i) grinding, drilling and finishing jewel bearings for use in precision instruments such as compasses and chronometers;
(j) examining assembled or finished products to ensure conformity with specifications, using magnifying glasses or precision measuring instruments.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Enameller (jewellery)
- Gem setter
- Goldsmith
- Jeweller
- Silversmith

Unit Group 7314
Potters and Related Workers

Potters and related workers prepare pottery, porcelain ware, sanitary ware, bricks, tiles and abrasive wheels by hand or by machine.

Tasks include –
(a) making articles of pottery and porcelain;
(b) making clay or plaster-of-paris moulds;
(c) reading technical drawings to know the customer’s requirements;
(d) forming articles on the potter’s wheel by pressing thumbs into centres of revolving clay to form hollows, and pressing on the inside and outside of emerging clay cylinders with hands and fingers, gradually raising and shaping clay to desired forms and sizes;
(e) adjusting wheel speeds according to the feel of the clay as pieces enlarge and walls become thinner;
(f) operating jigger machines to form ceramic ware such as bowls, cups, plates and saucers;
(g) adjusting and setting controls of pug mills that mix, extrude, cut and deposit clay charges in or over moulds as specified;
(h) smoothening surfaces of finished pieces, using rubber scrapers and wet sponges;
(i) forming abrasive wheels by moulding and pressing an abrasive mixture by hand or by machine;
(j) examining finished ware for defects and verifying accuracy of shapes and sizes of objects, using callipers and templates;
(k) preparing work for sale or exhibition, and maintaining relationships with retail, pottery, art and resource networks that can facilitate sale or exhibition of work.
Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Abrasive wheel moulder
- Brick and tile moulder
- Potter
- Pottery and porcelain caster
- Pottery and porcelain modeller

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Ceramic artist – 2651
- Kiln operator (brick and tile) – 8181
- Kiln operator (pottery and porcelain) – 8181

Unit Group 7315
Glass Makers, Cutters, Grinders and Finishers

Glass makers, cutters, grinders and finishers blow, mould, press, cut, trim, grind and polish glass, and shape molten glass according to patterns.

Tasks include –
(a) heating glass to pliable stage using gas flames or ovens, and rotating glass to heat it uniformly;
(b) blowing and bending glass tubing into specified shapes to form scientific apparatus such as flasks, retorts and pipettes;
(c) grinding and polishing glass objects or parts to correct defects or to prepare surfaces for further finishing and smoothing and polishing rough edges, using belt sanders or polishing wheels;
(d) examining glass stock and finished products and marking or discarding items with defects such as spots, stains, scars, snaps, chips, scratches or unacceptable shapes or finishes;
(e) reading work orders to determine dimensions, cutting locations and quantities to cut;
(f) observing gauges, computer printouts and video monitors to verify specified processing conditions and make adjustments as necessary;
(g) positioning patterns or drawings on glass, measuring dimensions, and marking cutting lines, using glass cutting tools and cutting glass along marked outlines or around pattern;
(h) setting up, operating and adjusting computerized or robotic glass cutting equipment;
(i) inspecting, weighing and measuring products to verify conformity with specifications, using instruments such as micrometers, calipers, magnifiers and rulers;
(j) regulating oven temperatures according to glass types to be processed;
(k) transferring patterns for individual stained glass parts from full size drawings to pattern paper, using stylus to trace drawings;
(l) spraying silver solution on glass to provide mirrored surface, using spray guns;
(m) laying out cutting and grinding optical and other glass to specified dimensions and weight for moulding into lens blanks and for use as watch crystals.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Glass blower
- Glass cutter
- Glass finisher
- Glass grinder

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Glass production furnace operator – 8181

Unit Group 7316
Signwriters, Decorative Painters, Engravers and Etchers

Signwriters, decorative painters, engravers and etchers decorate articles made of wood, metal, textiles, glass, ceramics and other materials. They plan, lay out and paint letters, figures, monograms and designs to make signs and engrave and etch ornamental and floral designs on glass and other articles.

Tasks include –
(a) painting decorative freehand designs on objects such as pottery, glass, cigarette cases or lampshades;
(b) transferring decorative or ornamental designs onto articles from paper transfers;
(c) integrating and developing visual elements, such as line, space, mass, colour and perspective, in order to produce desired effects such as the illustration of ideas, emotions or moods;
(d) laying out and painting in one or more languages letters, figures, monograms and designs to make signs;
(e) sketching or tracing designs or lettering onto work pieces or pattern materials to prepare patterns or stencils;
(f) designing patterns or lettering to paint work pieces such as signs, glassware, pottery or zinc plates;
(g) using software and routing equipment to produce three-dimensional carved images for application onto larger signage as well as engraved and inlaid signs;
(h) designing and producing normal flat cut lettering, or lettering that is shadowed with applied vinyl, or lettering that is ready cut for application;
(i) writing, painting or printing signs or show cards used for display or other purposes;
(j) cutting out letters and signs for display purposes from wallboard or cardboard, by hand or machines such as electrically powered jigsaws or bandsaws;
(k) examining sketches, diagrams, samples, blueprints or photographs to decide how designs are to be etched, cut or engraved onto work pieces;
(l) measuring and computing dimensions of lettering, designs or patterns to be engraved;
(m) engraving and printing patterns, ornamental designs, etchings, trademarks, figures or lettering onto flat or curved surfaces of a wide variety of metal, glass, plastic or ceramic items;
(n) etching decorative designs, calibration markings and other figures on glass articles.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Decorative painter
- Glass enameller
- Glass engraver
- Glass etcher
- Signwriter

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Building painter – 7131
- Manufactured articles painter – 7132
- Vehicle painter – 7132
- Ceramics painting machine operator – 8181
- Glass painting machine operator – 8181

Unit Group 7317
Handicraft Workers in Wood, Basketry and Related Materials

Handicraft workers in wood, basketry and related materials apply traditional techniques such as seasoning or impregnating to prepare wood, straw, rattan, reeds, clay, shells and other materials, and carve, mould, assemble, weave or paint and decorate various articles for personal or household use or for decorative purposes. Basketry weavers, brush makers and related workers select and prepare materials such as bristles, nylon, fibres and wire, and setting them in brush base; (k) selecting and preparing materials such as broom corn, bass, whisker and fibre, and fastening them to broom handles.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Basket maker
- Brush maker
- Reed weaving handicraft worker
- Wicker furniture maker
- Wooden articles handicraft worker

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Machine operator (wood products) – 7523

Unit Group 7318
Handicraft Workers in Textile, Leather and Related Materials

Handicraft workers in textile, leather and related materials apply traditional techniques and patterns to produce woven fabrics, knitted, embroidered, woven and other garments and articles for household use, as well as traditional footwear, handbags, belts and other accessories.

Tasks include –
(a) spinning and dyeing with natural dyestuffs, wool, cotton and other fibres;
(b) lace-making, and weaving, knitting or embroidering various garments and articles for household use;
(c) preparing and dyeing hides with natural dyestuffs and making traditional footwear or handbags, belts and other accessories;
(d) spinning and winding yarn by hand;
(e) drawing warp threads into looms by hand;
(f) weaving plain or figured cloth, tapestry, lace, carpets or other fabrics on hand looms;
(g) making carpets by using a knotting technique;
(h) knitting garments and other articles on hand-operated machines or by hand;
(i) crocheting or making braid by hand;
(j) making nets by hand;
(k) grading and classifying natural textile fibres;
(l) washing wool fibres;
(m) cleaning and fluffing textile fibres;
(n) forming fibres into sliver, combing them, combining sliver into sliver laps or forming sliver into rove.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Carpets handicraft worker
- Carpet weaver
- Cloth weaver
- Knitter
- Leather handicraft worker
- Loom threader
- Textile fibre comber
- Textile fibre drawer
- Textile fibre rover
- Textiles handicraft worker

- Weaving machine operator – 8152

Unit Group 7319
Handicraft Workers Not Elsewhere Classified

This unit group covers handicraft workers who perform traditional handicrafts not classified elsewhere. For instance, the group includes traditional handicraft workers in non-precious metals and stone.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Candle-maker (handicraft)
- Metal toymaker
- Stone articles handicraft worker

Minor Group 732
Printing Trades Workers

Printing trades workers compose and set type prior to printing, set up and operate printing presses, bind and finish printed products, and prepare stencils and operate screen printing equipment.

Tasks performed usually include: operating graphic cameras and other photographic equipment to reproduce camera-ready copy onto films, plates and digital output devices; operating computer screen-based equipment for scanning, colour separation and correction, retouching and other processes used to transfer copy to film and produce film for plate, cylinder and digital output productions; setting up, operating and monitoring machines used in typesetting, photographing copy, printing and cutting, folding, collating and binding printed material; performing routine finishing operations and machine maintenance; preparing stencils and operating screen printing equipment.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:
- 7321 Pre-press Technicians
- 7322 Printers
- 7323 Print Finishing and Binding Workers

Unit Group 7321
Pre-press Technicians

Pre-press technicians proof, format, set and compose text and graphics into a form suitable for use in various printing processes and representation in other visual media.

Tasks include –
(a) operating graphic cameras and other photographic equipment to reproduce camera-ready copy onto films, plates and digital output devices;
(b) using computer applications to generate images, text, layouts and impositions for print and other visual media displays;
(c) operating plate-making equipment to reproduce images from film to printing plates, digital output devices and presses;
(d) operating computer screen-based equipment for scanning, colour separation, colour correction, masking, creative design, combining, imposing, retouching, and other processes used to transfer copy to film and produce film for plate, digital output and cylinder productions;
(e) carrying out digital and chemical proofing from digital systems, and negative and positive films;
(f) evaluating printed proofs, checking and correcting them for quality;
(g) preparing printed proofs, checking and correcting them for quality;
(h) preparing plates, blankets and impression cylinders on small offset lithographic printing presses;

Electrical and Electronics Trades Workers

Electrical and electronics trades workers install, fit and maintain electrical wiring systems and machinery and other electrical apparatus, electrical transmission and supply lines and cables, and electronic and telecommunications equipment and systems. Competent performance in most occupations in this sub-major group requires skills at the second ISCO skill level.

The work is carried out by hand and by hand-powered and other tools which are used to reduce the amount of physical effort and time required for specific tasks, as well as to improve the quality of the products. The tasks call for an understanding of the work organization, materials and tools used, and the nature and purpose of the final product.

Tasks performed by workers in this sub-major group usually include: installing, maintaining, fitting and adjusting electrical and electronic wiring systems, machinery and equipment; examining blueprints, wiring diagrams and specifications to determine sequences and methods of operation; inspecting and testing electrical and electronic systems, equipment, cables and machinery to identify hazards, defects and the need for adjustment or repair; installing, maintaining and repairing electrical and telecommunications transmission lines; joining electrical, telecommunications and data cables; maintaining, troubleshooting, fitting, adjusting, testing and repairing electronic equipment such as commercial and office machines, electronic instruments and control systems, computers, and telecommunications and data transmission equipment.

Occupations in this sub-major group are classified into the following minor groups:

- 741 Electrical Equipment Installers and Repairers
- 742 Electronics and Telecommunications Installers and Repairers

Minor Group 741

Electrical Equipment Installers and Repairers

Electrical equipment installers and repairers install, fit and maintain electrical wiring systems and related equipment, electrical machinery and other electrical apparatus and electrical transmission and supply lines and cables.

Tasks performed usually include: installing, maintaining, fitting and adjusting electrical wiring systems, machinery and equipment; examining blueprints, wiring diagrams and specifications to determine sequences and methods of operation; inspecting and testing electrical systems, equipment, cables and machinery to identify hazards, defects and the need for adjustment or repair; installing, maintaining and repairing electrical transmission lines; joining electrical cables.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

- 7411 Building and Related Electricians
- 7412 Electrical Mechanics and Fitters
- 7413 Electrical Line Installers and Repairers

Unit Group 7411

Building and Related Electricians

Building and related electricians install, maintain and repair electrical wiring systems and related equipment and fixtures.

Tasks include –

(a) installing, maintaining and repairing electrical wiring systems and related equipment in various buildings such as schools, hospitals, commercial establishments, residential buildings and other structures;

(b) examining blueprints, wiring diagrams and specifications to determine sequences and methods of operation;

(c) planning layout and installation of electrical wiring, equipment and fixtures, based on job specifications and relevant standards;

(d) inspecting electrical systems, equipment and components to identify hazards, defects and the need for adjustment or repair;

(e) selecting, cutting and connecting wire and cable to terminals and connectors;
(f) measuring and laying out installation reference points;
(g) positioning and installing electrical switchboards;
(h) testing continuity of circuits.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Building repairs electrician
- Electrician

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Electrical fitter – 7412
- Electrical mechanic – 7412
- Electrical line installer – 7413

Unit Group 7412

Electrical Mechanics and Fitters

Electrical mechanics and fitters fit, adjust, install and repair electrical machinery and other electrical apparatus and equipment in buildings, factories, motor vehicles, workshops or other places.

Tasks include –
(a) fitting, adjusting and repairing various kinds of electrical machinery and motors, generators, switchgear and control apparatus, instruments or electrical parts of elevators and related equipment;
(b) fitting, adjusting and repairing electrical parts in domestic appliances, industrial machines and other appliances;
(c) inspecting and testing manufactured electrical products;
(d) installing, testing, connecting, commissioning, maintaining and modifying electrical equipment, wiring and control systems;
(e) designing, installing, maintaining, servicing and repairing electric and hydraulic passenger and freight lifts, escalators, moving walkways and other lift equipment;
(f) connecting electrical systems to the power supply;
(g) replacing and repairing defective parts.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Armature builder
- Automotive electrician
- Electrical generator fitter
- Electrical mechanic
- Lift mechanic

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Electronics mechanic – 7421
- Electrical equipment assembler – 8212

Electrical Line Installers and Repairers

Electrical line installers and repairers install, repair and join electrical transmission and supply cables and related equipment.

Tasks include –
(a) installing and repairing overhead and underground electrical power and electrical traction lines;
(b) making joints in overhead and underground cables;
(c) adhering to safety practices and procedures, such as checking equipment regularly and erecting barriers around work areas;
(d) opening switches or attaching grounding devices to remove electrical hazards from disturbed or fallen lines or to facilitate repairs;
(e) climbing poles or using truck-mounted buckets to access equipment;
(f) identifying defective sectionalizing devices, circuit breakers, fuses, voltage regulators, transformers, switches, relays or wiring, using wiring diagrams and electrical-testing instruments.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Electric cable jointer
- Electric power line worker

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Data and telecommunications cabler – 7422
- Telecommunications line worker – 7422

Electronics and Telecommunications Installers and Repairers

Electronics and telecommunications installers and repairers fit, maintain, adjust and repair electronic equipment such as commercial and office machines, electronic instruments and control systems; install, repair and maintain telecommunications equipment, data transmission equipment, cables and antennae; and repair, fit and maintain computers.

Tasks performed usually include: examining and testing machines, equipment, instruments and control systems to diagnose faults; adjusting, repairing and replacing worn and defective parts and wiring, and maintaining machines, equipment and instruments; installing electronic instruments and control systems; fitting and adjusting electronic equipment; maintaining, troubleshooting, fitting, adjusting, testing and repairing computers, data transmission equipment and computer peripherals; installing, maintaining, repairing and diagnosing malfunctions of microwave, telemetry, multiplexing, satellite and other radio and electromagnetic wave communications systems; providing technical advice and information, and monitoring the performance of complex telecommunications networks and equipment; installing, joining and repairing cabling for computer, radio, telephone and television transmission; installing, maintaining and repairing antennae used in communications.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

7421 Electronics Mechanics and Servicers
7422 Information and Communications Technology Installers and Servicers

Unit Group 7421
Electronics Mechanics and Servicers

Electronics mechanics and servicers fit, maintain, adjust and repair electronic equipment such as commercial and office machines and electronic instruments and control systems.

Tasks include –
(a) examining and testing machines, instruments, components, control systems and other electronic equipment to identify faults;
(b) adjusting, repairing and replacing worn and defective parts and wiring, and maintaining machines, equipment and instruments;
(c) reassembling, test operating and adjusting equipment;
(d) installing electronic instruments and control systems;
(e) coordinating work with that of engineers, technicians and other maintenance personnel;
(f) interpreting test data to diagnose malfunctions and systemic performance problems;
(g) installing, adjusting, repairing or replacing electrical and electronic components, assemblies and systems, using hand tools, power tools or soldering irons;
(h) connecting components to assemblies such as radio systems, instruments, magnetos, inverters and in-flight refuelling systems;
(i) keeping records of maintenance and repair work.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Aircraft maintenance engineer (avionics)
- Automated teller machines mechanic
- Avionics technician
- Electronic equipment servicer
- Electronics mechanic
- Photocopy machine technician

Wood Treaters, Cabinet-makers and Related Trades Workers

Wood treaters, cabinet-makers and related trades workers preserve and treat wood; make, decorate and repair wooden furniture, vehicles and other wooden products and components; and set up, operate and tend wood seasoning and preserving equipment and woodworking equipment, machines and machine tools.

Tasks performed usually include: operating and tending treating and other equipment to dry lumber and other wood products, and to treat chemically and impregnate wood products with preservatives; setting and operating woodworking machines to cut, shape and form parts and components; studying plans, verifying dimensions of articles to be made, fitting parts together to form complete units and checking the quality and fit of pieces to ensure adherence to specifications; setting and adjusting various kinds of machines for operation by others; setting up, programming, operating and monitoring several types of woodworking machines to fabricate, repair or refinish wooden parts for furniture, fixtures and other wood products; and reading and interpreting specifications or following verbal instructions.
Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

7521 Wood Treaters

7522 Cabinet-makers and Related Workers

7523 Woodworking Machine Tool Setters and Operators

Unit Group 7521

Wood Treaters

Wood treaters season, preserve and treat wood and lumber manually or using wood treatment equipment such as kilns and tanks.

Tasks include—

(a) operating and tending kilns, treating tanks and other equipment to dry lumber, prepare and season wood and other wood products, and to impregnate wood products with preservatives;

(b) monitoring equipment operation, gauges and panel lights in order to detect deviations from standards and to ensure that processes are operating according to specifications;

(c) operating valves to admit treating solution into treatment vessels, maintain specified heat, vacuum and hydraulic pressure and levels of solution during each phase of the treatment cycle;

(d) activating vacuum and hydraulic pressure pumps that remove air and steam from retorts and force treating solution into pores of wood to accelerate the treatment process;

(e) assisting in maintaining processing equipment and machines as required;

(f) cleaning, lubricating and adjusting equipment;

(g) transporting materials and products to and from work areas manually or using carts, handtrucks or hoists;

(h) completing and maintaining production reports.

Examples of the occupations classified here:

- Dry kiln operator
- Lumber kiln operator
- Timber treating tank operator
- Veneer dryer tender
- Wood seasoner
- Wood treater

Unit Group 7523

Woodworking Machine Tool Setters and Operators

Woodworking machine tool setters and operators set up, operate and monitor automatic or semi-automatic woodworking machines such as precision sawing, shaping, planing, boring, turning and woodcarving machines to fabricate or repair wooden parts for furniture, fixtures and other wooden products.

Tasks include –

(a) setting up, programming, operating and monitoring several types of woodworking machines for sawing, shaping, boring, drilling, planing, pressing, turning, sanding or carving to fabricate or repair wooden parts for furniture, fixtures and other wooden products;
(b) operating preset special-purpose woodworking machines to fabricate wooden products such as coat hangers, mop handles, clothespins and other products;
(c) selecting knives, saws, blades, cutter heads, cams, bits or belts according to work piece, machine functions and product specifications;
(d) installing and adjusting blades, cutter heads, boring-bits and sanding-belts, and using hand tools and rules;
(e) setting and adjusting various kinds of woodworking machines for operation by others;
(f) reading and interpreting specifications or following verbal instructions.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Carving machine operator (wood)
- Furniture production machine operator
- Precision woodworking sawyer
- Wood products machine operator
- Wood turner
- Woodworking lathe operator
- Woodworking machine setter
- Woodworking machine setter-operator
- Woodworking machine set-up operator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Wood and related products assemblers – 8219

Garment and Related Trades Workers

Garment and related trades workers fit, alter and repair tailored clothing; design and make textile and fur garments and leather or fur products; repair, renovate and decorate garments, gloves and other textile products; create patterns for garments; install, repair and replace upholstery of furniture, fixtures, orthopaedic appliances and furnishings of automobiles; trim, scrape, tan, buff and dye animal hides, pelts or skins; and modify and repair footwear and leather articles.

Tasks performed usually include: fitting, altering and repairing tailored clothing; designing and making made-to-measure clothing from textile fabrics, light leather and other materials, or making hats or wigs; making garment style changes; creating precision master patterns for production of garments and other textile, leather or fur products; sewing together, joining, darning, repairing, renovating and decorating garments, gloves and other products of textile, fur, light leather and other materials; fabricating and assembling sails, awnings and tarpaulins; installing, repairing and replacing upholstery of furniture, fixtures, orthopaedic appliances, seats, panels and other furnishings of automobiles, railway coaches, aircraft, ships and similar items; trimming, scraping, cleaning, tanning, buffing and dyeing animal hides, pelts or skins to produce leather stock and finished furs for making garments and other products; making, modifying and repairing standard, custom-made or orthopaedic footwear and natural or synthetic leather articles.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:
- 7531 Tailors, Dressmakers, Furriers and Hatters
- 7532 Garment and Related Patternmakers and Cutters
- 7533 Sewing, Embroidery and Related Workers
- 7534 Upholsterers and Related Workers
- 7535 Pelt Dressers, Tanners and Fellmongers
- 7536 Shoemakers and Related Workers
Unit Group 7531
Tailors, Dressmakers, Furriers and Hatters

Tailors, dressmakers, furriers and hatters fabricate, fit, alter and repair tailored or hand-made clothing. They produce made-to-measure clothing such as suits, overcoats and dresses from textile fabrics, light leather, fur and other material, or make hats or wigs according to customers’ and clothing manufacturers’ specifications.

Tasks include –
(a) making overcoats, suits, skirts, shirts, blouses, lingerie, corsetry, hats, wigs and similar garments, often to clients’ individual requirements;
(b) selecting textile fabrics, leather or fur pelts, matching the desired size, colour, texture and quality of the garment; cutting to shape them to garment pattern and arranging them on the pattern according to the design of the garment;
(c) making garment style changes, such as tapering trouser legs or narrowing lapels, and adding or removing padding;
(d) selecting and modifying commercial patterns to customers’ and clothing manufacturers’ specifications and fit;
(e) fitting, altering and repairing tailored clothing, dresses, coats and other made-to-measure garments according to customers’ requests;
(f) making and caring for costumes used in theatrical, television and motion picture productions;
(g) folding, twisting and draping material such as satin or silk, or sewing ribbon or cloth in the form of artificial flowers or bows around crown and brim to shape and decorate hats;
(h) sewing and fastening together materials and hair strands to make wigs;
(i) blending shades of hair to give a natural appearance to wigs, arranging woven hair in specified positions and sewing hair together to form hairpieces;
(j) making, altering, restyling and repairing fur garments and other fur articles;
(k) reclaiming furs or skins from old coats, gluing fabric to the interior of fur coats and trimming fur garments.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Dressmaker
- Fur grader
- Furrier
- Hatter
- Milliner
- Tailor

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Textiles handcraft worker – 7318
- Sewing machine operator – 8153

Unit Group 7532
Garment and Related Patternmakers and Cutters

Garment and related patternmakers and cutters create precision master patterns for the production of garments and other textile, leather or fur products. They mark, cut, shape and trim textiles, light leather and other materials according to blueprints or specifications in the manufacture of garments, hats and caps, gloves and miscellaneous products.

Tasks include –
(a) creating a master pattern for each size within a range of garment sizes, using charts, drafting instruments, computers and/or grading devices;
(b) creating the blueprint or pattern pieces for a particular apparel design with the aid of a computer;
(c) calculating dimensions of patterns according to sizes, considering stretching of material;
(d) drawing details on outlined parts to indicate where parts are to be joined, as well as the positions of pleats, pockets, buttonholes on garments, decorative stitching on shoe parts or eyelets on canvas products, using computers or drafting instruments;
(e) positioning templates or measuring materials to locate specified points of cuts or to obtain maximum yields, and marking fabric accordingly;
(f) laying out the master pattern on fabric and cutting sample patterns;
(g) testing patterns by making and fitting sample garments;
(h) placing patterns on top of layers of fabric and cutting fabric following patterns, using electric or manual knives, cutters or computer numerically controlled cutting devices;
(i) cutting fabric or fur pelts to make parts for garments and other fur articles;
(j) trimming excess material or cutting threads off finished products, such as cutting loose ends of a finished product;
(k) positioning leather on the cutting bed of machines, maximizing usage according to skin grain, skin flaws and skin stretch;
(l) performing patternmaking, marking and cutting tasks in the manufacture of other products such as soft furnishings and canvas goods.
Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Fur patternmaker
- Garment cutter
- Garment patternmaker
- Glove cutter

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Textile patternmaking machine operator – 8159

Unit Group 7533
Sewing, Embroidery and Related Workers

Sewing, embroidery and related workers sew together, repair, renovate and decorate garments, gloves and other products of textile, fur, light leather and other materials and fabricate tents, sails, awnings and tarpaulins. They work mainly by hand, using a needle and thread, but may perform some tasks using a sewing machine.

Tasks include –
(a) repairing defective or damaged portions of cloths or garments by hand, using matching thread and needle;
(b) removing stitches from garments to be altered, using rippers or razor blades;
(c) selecting thread according to specifications or colour of parts, or dyeing thread to match colour and shade of cloth to be darned;
(d) patching holes, sewing tears and ripped seams, or darning defects in items, using needle and thread;
(e) pulling knots to the wrong sides of garments, using hooks;
(f) trimming ends with scissors to make mended portions look uniform with the pattern of cloth;
(g) sewing ornamental designs by hand over stamped, printed or stencilled patterns on fabric, using needle and coloured thread;
(h) embroidering ornamental designs on cloth by hand or machine, using needle and coloured thread;
(i) softening leather or shoe material with water to prepare it for sewing;
(j) sewing or gluing decorative trimmings to articles such as hats, caps or other millinery;
(k) hand-sewing umbrella covers to frames, tacking cover to ribs along seams, sewing corners to tips of ribs and sewing ties to outside of cover to hold umbrella when folded;
(l) fabricating and assembling thick cloth, canvas and similar materials into sails, awnings, tarpaulins and tents.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Embroiderer
- Sewer
- Umbrella maker

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Textiles handicraft worker – 7318
- Dressmaker – 7531
- Sewing machine operator – 8153

Unit Group 7534
Upholsterers and Related Workers

Upholsterers and related workers install, repair and replace upholstery of furniture, fixtures, orthopaedic appliances, seats, panels, convertible and vinyl tops and other furnishings of automobiles, railway coaches, aircraft, ships and similar items with fabric, leather, rexin or other upholstery material. They also make and repair cushions, quilts and mattresses.

Tasks include –
(a) discussing upholstery fabric, colour and style with customers and providing cost estimates for upholstering furniture or other items;
(b) making upholstery patterns from sketches, customer descriptions or blueprints;
(c) laying out, measuring and cutting upholstery materials following patterns, templates, sketches or design specifications;
(d) installing, arranging and securing springs, padding and covering material to furniture frames;
(e) sewing upholstery materials by hand to seam cushions and joining sections of covering materials;
(f) sewing rips or tears in material, or creating tufting, using needle and thread;
(g) tacking, gluing or sewing ornamental trims, buckles, braids, buttons and other accessories to covers or frames on upholstered items;
(h) laying out, cutting, fabricating and installing upholstery in aircraft, motor vehicles, railway cars, boats and ships;
(i) repairing raw hide coverings of artificial limbs;
(j) renovating antique furniture using a variety of tools including ripping chisels, magnetic hammers and long needles;
(k) collaborating with interior designers to decorate rooms and coordinate furnishing fabrics;
(l) making quilts, cushions and mattresses.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Furniture upholsterer
- Mattress maker
- Orthopaedic upholsterer
- Vehicle upholsterer
Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Sewing machine operator – 8153

Pelt Dressers, Tanners and Fellmongers

Pelt dressers, tanners and fellmongers trim, scrape, clean, tan, buff and dye animal hides, pelts or skins to produce leather stock and finished furs for making garments and other products.

Tasks include –
(a) sorting and grading pelts, hides and skins according to colour, shading, size and density;
(b) scraping particles of flesh, fat or protective tissue from skins or pelts to clean and soften them;
(c) removing hair from skin or hides soaked in lime water;
(d) preparing hides by curing them with salt;
(e) removing long, coarse hair from pelts and trimming underlying hair to even length;
(f) tanning and dressing pelts to improve lustre and beauty or to restore the natural appearance of pelts;
(g) preparing bark and myrobalan liquor for treating hides or skins;
(h) treating hides and skins in tanning solution to convert them into leather;
(i) tinting or dyeing furs to enhance natural shades of fur;
(j) removing wrinkles and setting grains on wet hides or skins;
(k) dressing and applying dyes and stains to leather;
(l) stretching and smoothing dressed pelts;
(m) seasoning leather by applying chemical solution or oil evenly onto the surface by hand brush and allowing it to dry in open air.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Fellmonger
- Pelt grader
- Tanner

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Tanning machine operator – 8155

Unit Group 7536

Shoemakers and Related Workers

Shoemakers and related workers make, modify and repair standard, custom or orthopaedic footwear and natural or synthetic leather articles such as luggage, handbags and belts (except for leather garments, hats and gloves), or participate in the manufacture of shoes and related goods. They decorate, reinforce or finish shoes, luggage, handbags and belts.

Tasks include –
(a) making, modifying and repairing standard footwear to meet individual requirements;
(b) making, modifying and repairing orthopaedic or therapeutic footwear according to doctors’ prescriptions, or modifying existing footwear for people with foot problems and special needs;
(c) repairing belts, luggage, purses and similar products;
(d) taking plaster casts of deformed legs or feet to prepare drawings;
(e) preparing inserts, heel pads and lifts from casts of customers’ feet;
(f) studying drawings and other specifications to make footwear according to customers’ needs;
(g) studying work orders and/or shoe part tags to obtain information about workloads, specifications and the types of materials to be used;
(h) checking the texture, colour and strength of leather to ensure that it is adequate for a particular purpose;
(i) cutting out, shaping and padding parts for making leather articles;
(j) sewing rips or patching holes to repair articles such as purses, belts, shoes and luggage;
(k) removing and examining shoes, shoe parts and designs to verify conformity with specifications, such as proper embedding of stitches in channels;
(l) attaching accessories or ornamentation to decorate or protect products;
(m) making and repairing articles such as saddles and harnesses for animals, luggage, handbags, briefcases, leather bags, belts and other accessories.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Cobbler
- Orthopaedic shoemaker
- Saddler
- Shoemaker

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Furrier – 7531
- Hatter – 7531
- Shoe production machine operator – 8156
Minor Group 754
Other Craft and Related Workers

Other craft and related workers work under the surface of water, using underwater breathing apparatus; position, assemble and detonate explosives; inspect and test raw materials and manufactured components and products; and remove unwanted organisms to prevent damage to crops and buildings and other structures. This group includes other trade and craft occupations not classified elsewhere in Major Group 7: Craft and Related Trades Workers.

Tasks performed usually include: ensuring safety precautions; performing various underwater tasks; loading explosives into blast holes; mixing chemicals according to instructions; operating and monitoring equipment for spraying pests and weeds.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

- 7541 Underwater Divers
- 7542 Shotfiring and Blasters
- 7543 Product Graders and Testers (excluding Foods and Beverages)
- 7544 Fumigators and Other Pest and Weed Controllers
- 7549 Craft and Related Workers Not Elsewhere Classified

Unit Group 7541
Underwater Divers

Underwater divers work under the surface of water, with or without the aid of underwater breathing apparatus, to inspect, install, repair and remove equipment and structures, conduct tests or experiments, rig explosives, photograph structures or marine life, collect various forms of aquatic life for commercial or research purposes, and find and recover missing items and persons.

Tasks include –
(a) taking safety precautions, such as monitoring dive lengths and depths, and registering with authorities before diving expeditions begin;
(b) checking and maintaining diving equipment such as helmets, masks, air tanks, diving suits, harnesses and gauges;
(c) descending into water with the aid of diver helpers, using scuba gear or diving suits;
(d) working under water to lay and repair bridges, piers and harbour-wall foundations;
(e) inspecting for suspected damage and making minor repairs to ships’ hulls and underwater installations;
(f) reporting on the condition of wrecked ships;
(g) removing underwater obstructions;
(h) drilling holes for underwater blasting;
(i) performing various underwater tasks connected with salvage work or recovering dead bodies;
(j) gathering shellfish, sponges and other aquatic life forms;
(k) communicating with workers on the surface while under water, using signal lines or telephones;
(l) obtaining information about diving tasks and environmental conditions.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Oyster diver
- Salvage frogman
- Sponge diver
- Underwater worker

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Subsistence diver – 6340

Unit Group 7542
Shotfiring and Blasters

Shotfiring and blasters position, assemble and detonate explosives at mining, quarrying and demolition sites.

Tasks include –
(a) ensuring that workplace safety and explosives handling, storage and transport procedures and regulations are followed;
(b) planning and giving instructions for the layout, depth and diameter of blast holes;
(c) checking depth and cleanliness of blast holes;
(d) determining quantity and type of explosives to be used;
(e) loading explosives into blast holes;
(f) assembling, or directing other workers to assemble, primer charges using detonators and explosive cartridges, and attaching electrical wires, fuses and detonating cords to primers;
(g) connecting wires, fuses and detonator cords into series, testing electrical circuits and repairing malfunctions, and connecting series to blasting machines;
(h) covering charges, filling blast holes with rock dust, sand and other materials, and tamping material to compact charges;
(i) ensuring that all explosives are detonated, and reporting and attending to misfires;
(j) declaring blast areas safe before and after detonation of explosives;
(k) compiling and maintaining records about usage of explosives in compliance with laws and regulations.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Blaster
- Powderman
- Powder monkey
- Shotfirer

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Mining supervisor – 3121
- Driller (mining) – 8111
- Driller (oil or gas well) – 8113
- Mining labourer – 9311
- Quarry labourer – 9311

Unit Group 7543
Product Graders and Testers
(excluding Foods and Beverages)

Product graders and testers (excluding foods and beverages) inspect, test, sort, sample and weigh raw materials, manufactured components and non-comestible goods produced or sold, to ensure compliance with quality standards, to identify defects, wear and deviations from specifications, and to grade and classify them according to their quality.

Tasks include –
(a) inspecting and testing products, parts and materials for conformity with specifications and standards;
(b) grading and classifying natural textile fibres for spinning and winding;
(c) discarding or rejecting products, materials and equipment not meeting specifications;
(d) analysing and interpreting blueprints, data, manuals and other materials to determine specifications, inspection and testing procedures;
(e) notifying supervisors and other personnel of production problems, and assisting in identifying and correcting these problems;
(f) recording inspection or test data such as weights, temperatures, grades or moisture content, and quantities inspected or graded;
(g) marking items with details such as grade and acceptance or rejection status;
(h) measuring dimensions of products using instruments such as rulers, callipers, gauges or micrometers;
(i) analysing test data and making computations as necessary to determine test results.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Product grader
- Quality inspector
- Wool classer

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Product safety inspector – 3257
- Food grader – 7515
- Fur grader – 7531
- Pelt grader – 7535

Unit Group 7544
Fumigators and Other Pest and Weed Controllers

Fumigators and other pest and weed controllers use chemicals to remove harmful insects, small animals, wild plants and other unwanted organisms, to prevent damage to crops and to buildings and other structures and their surroundings, and to prevent health risks.

Tasks include –
(a) operating and monitoring equipment for spraying pests and weeds;
(b) mixing chemicals according to instructions;
(c) covering areas to specified depths with pesticides, applying knowledge of weather conditions, droplet sizes, elevation-to-distance ratios, and obstructions;
(d) spraying or releasing chemical solutions or toxic gases, and setting traps to kill pests and vermin, such as mice, termites and roaches;
(e) lifting, pushing and swinging nozzles, hoses and tubes in order to direct spray over designated areas;
(f) filling sprayer tanks with water and chemicals;
(g) cleaning and servicing machinery to ensure operating efficiency.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Fumigator
- Pest controller
- Weed controller

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Aerial crop sprayer – 3153

Unit Group 7549
Craft and Related Workers
Not Elsewhere Classified

This group covers craft and trade occupations not classified elsewhere in Major Group 7: Craft and Related Trades Workers. For instance, the group includes those who mould, slice, grind and polish optical lenses and those who arrange flowers for display.

In such cases tasks would include –
(a) heating, moulding and pressing optical glass to make lens blanks;

(b) grinding and polishing lens blanks.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Flower arranger
- Optical lens finisher
- Optical lens moulder
Major Group 8

PLANT AND MACHINE OPERATORS AND ASSEMBLERS

Plant and machine operators and assemblers operate and monitor industrial and agricultural machinery and equipment on the spot or by remote control; drive and operate trains, motor vehicles and mobile machinery and equipment; or assemble products from component parts according to strict specifications and procedures. Competent performance in most occupations in this major group requires skills at the second ISCO skill level.

The work mainly calls for experience with and an understanding of industrial and agricultural machinery and equipment, as well as an ability to cope with machine-paced operations and to adapt to technological innovations.

Tasks performed by plant and machine operators and assemblers usually include: operating and monitoring mining or other industrial machinery and equipment for processing metal, minerals, glass, ceramics, wood, paper or chemicals; operating and monitoring machinery and equipment used to produce articles made of metal, minerals, chemicals, rubber, plastics, wood, paper, textiles, fur or leather, and which process foodstuffs and related products; driving and operating trains and motor vehicles; driving, operating and monitoring mobile industrial and agricultural machinery and equipment; and assembling products from component parts according to strict specifications and procedures. Supervision of other workers may be included.

Occupations in this major group are classified into the following sub-major groups:

- 81 Stationary Plant and Machine Operators
- 82 Assemblers
- 83 Drivers and Mobile Plant Operators

Note

Operators of machinery that involves automated control of multiple processes or functions are included in Minor Group 313: Process Control Technicians.
Sub-major Group 81

Stationary Plant and Machine Operators

Stationary plant and machine operators monitor and operate stationary industrial plant, machinery and equipment, or for which mobility is not an integral part of operation. Competent performance in most occupations in this sub-major group requires skills at the second ISCO skill level.

The work mainly calls for experience with and an understanding of the industrial plant, machinery or equipment being operated and monitored. Ability to cope with machine-paced operations and to adapt to innovations in machinery and equipment are often required.

Tasks performed by workers in this sub-major group usually include: setting up, operating and monitoring a variety of stationary plant and machinery; detecting malfunctions and taking corrective action; examining outputs for defects and conformity with specifications and adjusting machine settings accordingly; performing maintenance, repairs and cleaning; recording data and maintaining production records. Supervision of other workers may be included.

Occupations in this sub-major group are classified into the following minor groups:

811 Mining and Mineral Processing Plant Operators
812 Metal Processing and Finishing Plant Operators
813 Chemical and Photographic Products Plant and Machine Operators
814 Rubber, Plastic and Paper Products Machine Operators
815 Textile, Fur and Leather Products Machine Operators
816 Food and Related Products Machine Operators
817 Wood Processing and Papermaking Plant Operators
818 Other Stationary Plant and Machine Operators

Note
Operators of machinery that involves automated control of multiple processes or functions are included in Minor Group 313: Process Control Technicians.

Minor Group 811

Mining and Mineral Processing Plant Operators

Mining and mineral processing plant operators monitor and operate plant and machinery and operate hand tools to extract rocks and minerals from the earth, process minerals and stone, drill wells and bores, and manufacture and finish cement and stone products.

Tasks performed usually include: setting up, operating and monitoring a variety of mining and mineral processing plant and machinery such as drilling rigs and auxiliary machines and equipment, continuous mining machinery, and cutting, crushing, grinding, pumping and mixing plant and machinery; operating washing, separating, extracting and combining equipment to remove waste and recover minerals; operating plant and machinery to make cement, concrete, artificial stone, and precast concrete and stone products; monitoring the performance of a variety of plant and machinery, detecting malfunctions and taking corrective action; performing plant and machinery maintenance, repairs and cleaning; and maintaining production records.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

8111 Miners and Quarriers
8112 Mineral and Stone Processing Plant Operators
8113 Well Drillers and Borers and Related Workers
8114 Cement, Stone and Other Mineral Products Machine Operators

Note
Mining supervisors are classified in Unit Group 3121: Mining Supervisors.
Unit Group 8111
Miners and Quarriers

Miners and quarriers operate plant, machinery and hand tools to extract rocks, mineral ores and other deposits from underground and surface mines and quarries.

Tasks include –
(a) positioning, operating and monitoring the performance of a variety of underground and surface mining equipment including continuous mining, cutting and channelling plant;
(b) setting up and operating drilling equipment in underground and surface mines and quarries;
(c) operating machinery and using hand or power tools to remove loosened rock, ore, coal and other deposits;
(d) preparing, fitting and installing supports in underground workings including rock bolts;
(e) operating machinery to open new shafts, drives, air vents and rises;
(f) operating auxiliary plant such as pumps to expel air, water and mud;
(g) performing minor maintenance and repairs and lubricating and cleaning plant, machines and tools;
(h) completing records detailing operations completed during shifts;
(i) collecting mineral samples for laboratory analysis.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Bogger operator
• Continuous miner operator
• Dragline operator (mining)
• Driller (mining)
• Jumbo operator
• Miner
• Mining plant operator
• Quarrier
• Roof bolter (mining)

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Mining supervisor – 3121
• Blaster – 7542
• Shotfirer – 7542
• Driller (oil or gas well) – 8113
• Mining labourer – 9311
• Quarry labourer – 9311

to recover refined products for immediate use or further processing.

Tasks include –
(a) setting up and operating stationary plant and machinery which grind, crush, cut, saw and slice rocks, minerals and stones according to the specifications for the job;
(b) positioning blocks and slabs of stone onto machines for sawing, cutting and further working;
(c) monitoring and maintaining the flow of unprocessed rocks, minerals and stones from conveyors into machines;
(d) operating washing, separating, leaching, precipitating, filtering, extracting and combining equipment to remove waste material and recover minerals;
(e) combining mineral ores with solvents to facilitate further processing;
(f) separating metal and mineral concentrates from ore and alluvial deposits by thickening, flotation, gravity separation, filtration, or magnetic and electrostatic separation;
(g) observing meters, gauges and control panels, adjusting valves and controls to ensure the safe and efficient operation of equipment, detecting malfunctions and assisting with plant and machinery maintenance and repair;
(h) examining processed materials visually or with hands to ensure compliance with established standards and job specifications, and collecting samples for testing in laboratories;
(i) recording information about processing completed during shifts, such as quantities, types and dimensions of materials produced;
(j) sorting, stacking and moving processed minerals and stone for packaging, further processing or shipping.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Coal washer
• Crusher operator (mineral or stone processing)
• Flotation worker (mineral processing)
• Gold precipitator
• Machine operator (stone cutting or processing)
• Milling machine operator (minerals)

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Stone cutter (hand or hand-powered tools) – 7113
• Stonemason – 7113
• Stone polisher (hand or hand-powered tools) – 7113
• Stone splitter (hand or hand-powered tools) – 7113
• Machine operator (cast stone production) – 8114
• Stone polishing machine operator – 8114

Unit Group 8112
Mineral and Stone Processing Plant Operators

Mineral and stone processing plant operators monitor and operate machinery and equipment for processing rocks, minerals and stone
Unit Group 8113

Well Drillers and Borers and Related Workers

Well drillers and borers and related workers position, assemble and operate drilling machinery and related equipment to sink wells, extract rock samples, liquids and gases, or for a variety of other purposes.

Tasks include –
(a) dismantling, moving and assembling drilling rigs and auxiliary equipment;
(b) assembling and dismantling pipes, casings and drill heads, and replacing dysfunctional equipment;
(c) operating controls to lower and raise drill pipes and casings in and out of wells, regulate pressure in the well and control the speed of tools;
(d) preparing drilling fluid and checking the operation of pumps to ensure adequate circulation of fluid in drill pipes and wells;
(e) monitoring gauges and other indicators, listening to equipment to detect malfunctions and unusual well conditions, and determining the need to change drilling or equipment;
(f) maintaining, adjusting, repairing and cleaning drilling rigs, hoisting and other machinery;
(g) maintaining records of drilling and servicing operations;
(h) operating machines and tools to extract dust, cuttings and lost and broken drilling equipment from holes and wells;
(i) closing and sealing wells no longer in use;
(j) supervising and training crew members.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Bore sinker
- Boring equipment operator
- Derrickman
- Derrick operator
- Developmental driller
- Directional driller
- Driller (oil or gas well)
- Drilling plant operator
- Drilling rig operator
- Power-tong operator
- Toolpusher
- Tourpusher

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Blaster – 7542
- Miner – 8111
- Quarry operator – 8111

Unit Group 8114

Cement, Stone and Other Mineral Products Machine Operators

Cement, stone and other mineral products machine operators monitor and operate machines for manufacturing and finishing precast concrete, bitumen and stone products, and making cast stone for building purposes.

Tasks include –
(a) operating extrusion, moulding, mixing, pumping, compacting, grinding and cutting machinery to manufacture and finish precast concrete and stone products;
(b) operating plant to produce cement, lime and clinker, including loading and unloading ingredients and operating continuous feed equipment such as pumps and conveyors;
(c) operating plant and machines which weigh and mix sand, gravel, cement, water and other ingredients to make concrete;
(d) operating plant and machinery which assemble and fill moulds with concrete and artificial stone mixtures, remove castings from moulds and finish surfaces of precast products;
(e) cutting, grinding, drilling, sandblasting and polishing concrete products and stone blocks, slabs and products to the specifications for the job;
(f) checking production plans and specifications to determine and select materials, ingredients, procedures, components, settings and adjustments for extrusion, moulding, mixing and compacting machines;
(g) monitoring plant and machines during operation by observing instruments such as temperature and pressure gauges, adjusting controls and reporting malfunctions as necessary;
(h) collecting and examining samples of mixtures and finished products for conformity with specifications and adjusting machine settings accordingly;
(i) checking and maintaining production records, including information about quantities, dimensions and types of materials and goods produced;
(j) arranging and assisting with plant and machinery maintenance and repair.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Cast-concrete products machine operator
- Cast-stone products machine operator
- Concrete finishing machine operator
- Concrete production machine operator
- Industrial production machine operator
- Industrial diamond polishing machine operator
- Stone polishing machine operator
Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Stone polisher (hand or hand-powered tools) – 7113
- Stone processing machine operator – 8112
- Extruding clay press operator – 8181
- Kiln operator (brick, pottery or tiles) – 8181

Note
Examples of products produced by operators of plant and machines in this unit group include: mixed concrete for use in civil engineering and construction projects, flagstones, concrete bricks and tiles, fencing posts, moulded pipe sections and trench liners, concrete railway sleepers, walling and partition slabs, building components, cable conduits, fume and dust extraction conduits, abrasive wheels and outdoor furniture.

Minor Group 812

Metal Processing and Finishing Plant Operators

Metal processing and finishing plant operators monitor and operate single-function process control machinery and equipment to control the conversion, processing and finishing of mineral ores and metals.

Tasks performed usually include: setting up, preparing and adjusting metal and ore processing and finishing machinery; coordinating and monitoring the operation of a particular aspect of metal processing production and finishing; verifying equipment for malfunctions, monitoring gauges, carrying out routine operating tests and arranging for maintenance; checking, testing and analysing sample products; recording data and writing production logs.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

8121 Metal Processing Plant Operators
8122 Metal Finishing, Plating and Coating Machine Operators

Unit Group 8121

Metal Processing Plant Operators

Metal processing plant operators monitor, operate, adjust and maintain single-function process machinery and equipment to process and convert mineral ores and refine, harden, roll and extrude metals.

Tasks include –
(a) setting up, preparing and adjusting mineral ore and metal processing machinery to carry out one step in the overall mineral ore or metal processing operation;
(b) operating single-function machinery to grind, separate, filter, mix, treat, cast, roll, refine or otherwise process metals and mineral ores;
(c) observing gauges, meters, computer printouts, video monitors and products to ensure the correct operation of machines and verify specified processing conditions;
(d) adjusting equipment, valves, pumps, controls and process equipment;
(e) controlling the preparation, measuring and feeding of raw materials and processing agents into the plant;
(f) controlling process start-up and shut-down, troubleshooting and monitoring outside process equipment;
(g) verifying equipment for malfunctions, carrying out routine operating tests and arranging for maintenance;
(h) analysing sample products, performing tests, recording data and writing production logs.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Ladle pourer
- Metal extrusion plant operator
- Metal heat treating operator
- Steel roller

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Blast furnace operator – 3135
- Central control caster – 3135
- Rolling mill control operator – 3135
- Metal coating machine operator – 8122

Unit Group 8122

Metal Finishing, Plating and Coating Machine Operators

Metal finishing, plating and coating machine operators monitor and operate equipment which finishes, plates and coats metal articles or parts in order to give them improved resistance to corrosion and abrasion, for decorative purposes, or to impart electrical or magnetic properties.
Tasks include –
(a) operating and monitoring equipment which cleans metal articles in preparation for electroplating, galvanizing, enamelling or similar processes;
(b) operating and monitoring electroplating equipment;
(c) operating and monitoring hot-dip equipment used to coat iron and steel products;
(d) operating and monitoring machines which automatically coat wire with non-ferrous metal;
(e) operating and monitoring equipment used to spray molten metal or other substances onto metal products to provide a protective or decorative coating or to build up worn or damaged surfaces;
(f) operating and monitoring equipment used to impart a rust-resistant finish to metal articles by treating them with chemicals and heating them;
(g) checking proper thickness of plating using micrometers, callipers or other devices, recording data and writing production logs;
(h) preparing and mixing metallizing solutions according to formulas or specifications.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Metal coating machine operator
• Metal finishing machine operator
• Metal plating machine operator
• Metal polishing machine operator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Metal production process controller – 3135
• Vehicle painter – 7132

Minor Group 813
Chemical and Photographic Products Plant and Machine Operators

Chemical and photographic products plant and machine operators monitor and operate machines which process a variety of chemicals and other ingredients to produce pharmaceuticals, toiletries, explosives and photographic or other chemical products.
Tasks performed usually include: operating and monitoring machines and equipment which blend, mix, package and otherwise process chemicals and chemical products to give them the desired properties for further industrial production, or to make finished products. Supervision of other workers may be included.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

Unit Group 8131
Chemical Products Plant and Machine Operators

Chemical products plant and machine operators monitor and operate units and machinery to blend, mix, process and package a wide range of chemical products.
Tasks include –
(a) setting up, starting, controlling, adjusting and stopping machines and plant;
(b) monitoring reaction processes and transfers of products in conformity with safety procedures;
(c) monitoring meters, gauges and electronic instrumentation on one or more chemical or formulation units, such as mixers, kettles, blenders, dryers, or tabletting, encapsulation, granulation and coating machines;
(d) measuring, weighing and loading chemical ingredients following formulation cards;
(e) making samples and performing routine chemical and physical tests of products and recording production data;
(f) cleaning and performing minor repairs to machines and plant.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Candle production machine operator
• Explosive products machine operator
• Pharmaceutical and toiletry products machine operator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Chemical processing plant controller – 3133
• Petroleum and natural gas refining plant operator – 3134
Unit Group 8132
Photographic Products Machine Operators

Photographic products machine operators operate and monitor equipment which makes photographic film and paper, and which processes exposed photographic film and makes prints.

Tasks include—
(a) operating and monitoring equipment which makes photographic film and paper;
(b) operating, monitoring and testing photographic processing and printing equipment, and maintaining operational standards;
(c) preparing exposed film for different processing batches in dark rooms and dark chambers;
(d) inspecting images, films and prints, and adjusting settings on printmaking equipment to produce the required colour, brightness, contrast, number, size and type of prints;
(e) adjusting settings and running automatic developing equipment;
(f) operating equipment to transfer film to videotape or other electronic media;
(g) performing photographic processing-related tasks;
(h) operating automatic equipment (in retail establishments) to develop colour negatives, prints and slides.

Examples of occupations classified here:
- Colour developer (film)
- Darkroom technician
- Developing machine operator (photography)
- Enlarging machine operator
- Photograph enlarger
- Photographic film machine operator
- Photographic film printer
- Photographic processor
- Photograph printer

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Photographer – 3431
- Photolithographer – 7321

Minor Group 814
Rubber, Plastic and Paper Products Machine Operators

Rubber, plastic and paper products machine operators monitor and operate machines which knead and blend rubber and rubber compounds and produce various components and products from natural and synthetic rubber and plastics, or produce different paper products from paper, paperboard, cardboard and similar materials.

Tasks performed usually include: operating and monitoring machines which knead and blend rubber and rubber compounds and produce various components and products from natural and synthetic rubber and plastics; operating and monitoring machines which produce various paper products; examining outputs for defects and conformity to specifications and adjusting machine settings accordingly.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

8141 Rubber Products Machine Operators
8142 Plastic Products Machine Operators
8143 Paper Products Machine Operators

Unit Group 8141
Rubber Products Machine Operators

Rubber products machine operators monitor and operate machines which knead and blend rubber and rubber compounds and produce various components and products from natural and synthetic rubber, such as moulded footwear, domestic articles, insulating materials, industrial accessories or tyres.

Tasks include—
(a) operating and monitoring machines which knead, mix and blend rubber and rubber compounds for further processing;
(b) operating and monitoring machines which produce sheets of rubber or rubberized fabric by a rolling process;
(c) operating and monitoring machines which extrude compounded rubber or shape vulcanized rubber by moulding;
(d) operating and monitoring machines which build up tyres on a form, vulcanize tyres and mould or rebuild used tyres;
(e) examining outputs for defects and conformity to specifications;
(f) locating defects and repairing worn and faulty tyres by vulcanizing or other processes.
Examples of the occupations classified here:

- Latex worker
- Rubber extruding machine operator
- Rubber milling machine operator
- Rubber moulder
- Rubber products machine operator
- Tyre maker
- Tyre reparer
- Vulcanizer

Examples of the occupations classified here:

- Laminated press operator (plastics)
- Optic fibre drawer
- Plastic boat builder
- Plastic bottle blowing machine operator
- Plastic cable making machine operator
- Plastic extrusion machine operator
- Plastic moulder
- Plastic products machine operator

Unit Group 8142

Plastic Products Machine Operators

Plastic products machine operators monitor and operate machines which knead and blend compounds to obtain plastic materials and which make various plastic components and articles.

Tasks include –

(a) operating and monitoring machines which knead and blend compounds to obtain plastic materials;
(b) operating and monitoring machines which shape plastic materials by moulding, extrusion, blowing, cutting and other means;
(c) operating and monitoring machines which laminate plastics and plastic-impregnated materials or produce fibreglass;
(d) encasing uncoated wire, cord, cable and optic fibre in plastic;
(e) examining outputs for defects and conformity to specifications;
(f) recycling waste plastic materials;
(g) making artificial eyes and contact lens discs, and making and repairing spectacle frames and plastic parts of orthopaedic appliances.

Examples of the occupations classified here:

- Laminated press operator (plastics)
- Optic fibre drawer
- Plastic boat builder
- Plastic bottle blowing machine operator
- Plastic cable making machine operator
- Plastic extrusion machine operator
- Plastic moulder
- Plastic products machine operator

Unit Group 8143

Paper Products Machine Operators

Paper products machine operators monitor and operate machines which produce boxes, envelopes, bags and other goods from paper, paperboard, cardboard and similar materials.

Tasks include –

(a) operating and monitoring machines which glue paper to cardboard, cut it to the required length or cut and crease cardboard or paperboard to form box blanks;
(b) operating and monitoring pressing machines which form drinking cups or other containers from paper, paperboard or cardboard;
(c) operating and monitoring machines which cut, fold and glue paper to make envelopes and paper bags, or which form bags from other similar material.

Examples of the occupations classified here:

- Machine operator (cardboard products)
- Machine operator (envelope and paper bag production)
- Machine operator (paper box production)
- Paper products machine operator
- Papier maché moulder

Minor Group 815

Textile, Fur and Leather Products Machine Operators

Textile, fur and leather products machine operators monitor and operate various types of machines which prepare, process and treat fibres, yarn, thread, leather or fur; produce, modify and repair footwear and garments; and manufacture or dry clean textiles, fur or light leather articles.

Tasks performed usually include: operating and monitoring weaving and knitting machines which process yarn or thread into woven, non-woven and knitted products; operating and monitoring machines which prepare fibres, and spin, double, twist and wind yarn and thread from natural textile fibres; operating and monitoring sewing machines to make, repair, darn and renovate textile, fur, synthetic or leather garments or embroider ornamental designs on garments or other materials; operating and monitoring machines which bleach, shrink, dye and otherwise treat fibres, yarn and cloth, or which dry clean garments, fur, rugs and carpets; operating and monitoring various machines which prepare leather or treat fur- or wool-bearing pelts; operating and monitoring machines which produce, modify and repair standard, custom or orthopaedic footwear and leather articles such as luggage, briefcases and handbags.
Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

8151 Fibre Preparing, Spinning and Winding Machine Operators
8152 Weaving and Knitting Machine Operators
8153 Sewing Machine Operators
8154 Bleaching, Dyeing and Fabric Cleaning Machine Operators
8155 Fur and Leather Preparing Machine Operators
8156 Shoemaking and Related Machine Operators
8157 Laundry Machine Operators
8159 Textile, Fur and Leather Products Machine Operators Not Elsewhere Classified

Unit Group 8151
Fibre Preparing, Spinning and Winding Machine Operators

Fibre preparing, spinning and winding machine operators monitor and operate machines which prepare fibres, and spin, double, twist and wind yarn and thread from natural textile fibres. They twist two or more strands of yarn to prepare single stronger, smoother, uniform and heavier strands, and treat textiles to make them stiff and water resistant.

Tasks include –
(a) operating and monitoring machines for tearing woollen rags into fibre;
(b) operating and monitoring machines for cleaning and turning woollen yarn waste into fluffed wool;
(c) operating and monitoring machines which combine textile fibres into uniform blends;
(d) operating and monitoring machines which clean and fluff textile fibres, transform them into sliver, comb them into sliver for first drawing, combine slivers into sliver lap or sliver laps into ribbon lap;
(e) operating draw frames (machines) having numbers of drawing sets, each set combining several slivers into one of nearly the same weight and thickness as any of the original slivers;
(f) operating and monitoring machines which spin thread and yarn from roving, wind two or more threads onto a bobbin, twist two or more strands of yarn or thread into single strands of yarn to increase strength, smoothness and/or uniformity of yarn, or wind yarn or thread from one package to another;
(g) operating and monitoring spinning frames that draw out and twist roving or sliver into yarn;
(h) operating and monitoring machines for drawing slivers received from drawing machines into loosely twisted strands;
(i) preparing sizing for use in stiffening and finishing cloth and yarn by mixing ingredients such as starch, tallow, resins and soaps with water and boiling mixture for specified times in steam;
(j) treating textiles with chemicals to make them water resistant;
(k) cleaning rollers and cylinders of carding machines to remove wool waste;
(l) operating and resurfacing metal drawing machines with new rubber or leather covers.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Fibre combing machine operator
- Fibre preparing machine operator
- Thread and yarn spinning machine operator
- Thread and yarn twisting machine operator
- Thread and yarn winding machine operator

Unit Group 8152
Weaving and Knitting Machine Operators

Weaving and knitting machine operators set up, operate and monitor weaving and knitting machines which process yarn or thread into woven, non-woven and knitted products such as cloth, lace, carpets, industrial fabric, hosiery and knitted garments, or to quilt and embroider fabric.

Tasks include –
(a) setting up and operating batteries of automatic, link-type knitting machines to knit garments of specified pattern and design;
(b) threading yarn, thread and fabric through guides, needles and rollers of machines for weaving, knitting or other processing;
(c) tending automatic looms that simultaneously weave pile yarn, filling yarn and warp yarn material to produce carpets and rugs with various coloured designs;
(d) operating and monitoring looms on which yarn or twist is intersected and knotted at regular intervals to form mesh;
(e) operating and monitoring large automatic multi-needle machines to embroider material or to sew lengths of several layers of material to make yard goods, quilts or mattress coverings;
(f) tending circular knitting machines with automatic pattern controls that knit seamless hose;
(g) operating and monitoring knitting machines to knit hosiery to shape of foot and leg;
(h) operating and monitoring machines for knitting heels and toes of socks into ribs or tops cut from circular fabric;
(i) operating and monitoring machines which seam openings in toes of socks;
(j) operating and monitoring crochet machines to knit lace, trimming, etc. of desired patterns or design;
(k) examining looms to determine causes of loom stoppage, such as warp filling, harness breaks or mechanical defects;
(l) repairing or replacing worn or defective needles and other components;
(m) cleaning, oiling and lubricating machines, using air hoses, cleaning solutions, rags, oil cans and/or grease guns.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Carpet weaving machine operator
- Knitting machine operator
- Net production machine operator
- Weaving machine operator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Carpet weaver – 7318
- Cloth weaver – 7318
- Knitter – 7318

Unit Group 8153

Sewing Machine Operators

Sewing machine operators monitor and operate sewing machines to make, repair, darn and renovate textile, fur, synthetic or leather garments, or embroider ornamental designs on garments or other materials. They operate buttonhole making and eyelet holing machines to cut holes, stitch around holes, stitch buttons and fix eyelets to garments.

Tasks include –
(a) operating or tending sewing machines to perform garment sewing operations such as joining, reinforcing, seaming or decorating garments or garment parts;
(b) attaching buttons, hooks, zippers, fasteners or other accessories to fabric, using feeding hoppers or clamp holders;
(c) tending semiautomatic sewing machines with multiple-sewing heads controlled by pattern chains that embroider various designs on garments;
(d) operating machines such as single or double needle sergers and flat-bed felling machines to automatically join, reinforce or decorate material or articles;
(e) operating fur sewing machines to join fur pelt strips to required size and shape and join pelts into garment sections or shells;
(f) operating stitching machines to sew leather parts together for leather garments, handbags, gloves or similar items;
(g) monitoring machine operations to detect problems such as defective stitching, breaks in thread or machine malfunctions;
(h) performing equipment maintenance tasks such as replacing needles.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Embroidery machine operator
- Sewing machine operator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Textiles handicraft worker – 7318
- Furrier – 7313
- Tailor – 7313
- Embroiderer – 7333
- Sewer – 7333

Unit Group 8154

Bleaching, Dyeing and Fabric Cleaning Machine Operators

Bleaching, dyeing and fabric cleaning machine operators operate and monitor machines that bleach, shrink, dye and otherwise treat fibres, yarn or cloth.

Tasks include –
(a) starting and controlling machines and equipment to bleach, dye or otherwise process and finish fabric, yarn, thread and/or other textile goods;
(b) tending machines that shrink woven or knitted cloth to predetermined size or strengthen the weave by interlocking the fibres;
(c) tending a variety of automatic machines that comb and polish furs;
(d) operating and monitoring machines that treat silk to give it body and weight;
(e) operating and monitoring machines that impregnate textiles with chemicals to render them waterproof;
(f) dyeing articles to change or restore their colours;

(g) operating and monitoring machines that stretch or impart lustre or other type of finish to textiles;

(h) tending and regulating equipment that fumigates and removes foreign matter from furs;

(i) operating machines that comb, dry and polish furs, and clean, sterilize and fluff feathers and blankets;

(j) keying in processing instructions to programme electronic equipment;

(k) observing display screens, control panels, equipment and cloth entering or exiting processes to determine if equipment is operating correctly;

(l) cleaning machine filters and lubricating equipment.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Fabric bleaching machine operator
- Textile dyeing machine operator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Textile printer – 7322
- Laundry machine operator – 8157
- Hand launderer – 9121
- Hand presser – 9121

Unit Group 8156

Fur and Leather Preparing Machine Operators

Fur and leather preparing machine operators monitor and operate various machines that prepare leather or treat fur- or wool-bearing pelts. They trim, scrape, clean, tan, buff and dye animal hides, pelts or skins to produce leather stock and finished furs.

Tasks include –

(a) operating and monitoring machines which remove flesh and fat from hides or pelts to clean and soften them prior to processing;

(b) operating and monitoring machines which remove long coarse hair from fur pelts, trim hair to even length and dye, stretch and smooth dressed pelts;

(c) operating and monitoring machines to remove epidermis hair roots, pigment cells and lime salts from the grain side of skin;

(d) operating and monitoring machines to reduce thickness of hide or skin to uniform size;

(e) operating and monitoring machines to polish or roughen hides or skins to specified finishes;

(f) operating and monitoring machines which separate residual wool from skins, or flesh and hair from hides;

(g) operating and monitoring machines in which hides are split edgeways to form two or more pieces or to give uniform thickness;

(h) operating and monitoring machines which treat hides and skins in solutions to convert them into leather;

(i) treating surfaces of leather with oil and operating glazing machines to give glossy finishes to leather;

(j) operating and monitoring machines which apply dyes and stains to leather;

(k) maintaining and repairing vats and other machinery.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Hide dehairing machine operator
- Leather staining machine operator
- Tanning machine operator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Pelt dresser – 7535
- Tanner – 7535

Unit Group 8157

Shoemaking and Related Machine Operators

Shoemaking and related machine operators monitor and operate machines which produce and repair standard or special footwear, handbags and other accessories, mainly made of leather.

Tasks include –

(a) operating and monitoring machines which mark patterns and cut shoe parts;

(b) operating and monitoring machines which sew shoe parts together, or edge, polish or apply ornaments and perform finishing tasks;

(c) operating and monitoring machines which produce luggage, handbags, belts and other accessories, as well as other items such as saddles, collars or harnesses.

Example of the occupations classified here:
- Machine operator (footwear production)

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Handicraft worker (leather) – 7318
- Cobbler – 7536

Unit Group 8157

Laundry Machine Operators

Laundry machine operators operate laundry, dry-cleaning, pressing and fabric treatment machines in laundries and dry-cleaning establishments.
Tasks include –
(a) sorting articles for cleaning according to the type, colour, fabric and cleaning treatment required;
(b) placing sorted articles into receptacles and onto conveyor belts for moving to repair and cleaning areas;
(c) checking and removing stains from garments, replacing buttons and making minor repairs;
(d) loading and unloading washing machines, dryers and extractors;
(e) adding cleaning agents and starches to articles;
(f) smoothing articles and guiding them through cleaning and pressing machines;
(g) stopping and starting machines to untangle, straighten and remove articles;
(h) placing articles on shelves and hanging articles for delivery and collection;
(i) packaging articles and preparing orders for dispatch.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Dry-cleaning machine operator
• Laundry machine operator
• Pressing machine operator (laundry)

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Hand launderer – 9121
• Hand presser – 9121

Unit Group 8159
Textile, Fur and Leather Products Machine Operators Not Elsewhere Classified

This unit group covers textile, fur and leather products machine operators not classified elsewhere in Minor Group 815: Textile, Fur and Leather Products Machine Operators. For instance, the group includes those engaged in operating and monitoring machines which make hats, tents, mattresses or miscellaneous articles such as braids or other trimmings.

In such cases tasks would include –
(a) operating and monitoring machines which form and make hats out of textiles, fur or leather;
(b) operating and monitoring machines which make miscellaneous articles such as braids or other trimmings;
(c) operating and monitoring machines which fold cloth into measured length;
(d) operating and monitoring machines which wind thread, twine or yarn into balls preparatory to shipping or further processing;
(e) operating and monitoring machines to measure size of pieces of leather.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Braid making machine operator
• Hat making machine operator
• Tent making machine operator
• Textile patternmaking machine operator

Minor Group 816
Food and Related Products Machine Operators

Food and related products machine operators set, operate and attend machinery used to slaughter animals and trim meat from carcases, and to bake, freeze, heat, crush, mix, blend and otherwise process foodstuffs, beverages and tobacco leaves.

Tasks performed usually include: operating and monitoring machinery used to restrain, stun and slaughter animals, and to trim carcases into standard meat and fish cuts; setting, operating and attending machinery and ovens to mix, bake and otherwise prepare bread and flour confectionery products; operating machinery to crush, mix, malt, cook and ferment grains and fruits to produce beer, wines, malt liquors, vinegar, yeast and related products; attending equipment to make jam, toffee, cheese, processed cheese, margarine, syrup, ice, pasta, icecream, sausages, chocolate, maize starch, edible fats and dextrin; operating equipment to cool, heat, dry, roast, Blanch, pasteurize, smoke, sterilize, freeze, evaporate and concentrate foodstuffs and liquids used in food processing; mixing, pulping, grinding, blending and separating foodstuffs and liquids with churning, pressing, sieving, grinding and filtering equipment; processing tobacco leaves by machine to make cigarettes, cigars and pipe and other tobacco products.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit group:

8160 Food and Related Products Machine Operators
Unit Group 8160

Food and Related Products Machine Operators

Food and related products machine operators set, operate and attend machinery used to slaughter animals and trim meat from carcasses, and bake, freeze, heat, crush, mix, blend and otherwise process foodstuffs, beverages and tobacco leaves.

Tasks include –

(a) operating and monitoring machinery used to restrain, stun and slaughter animals and to trim carcasses into standard meat and fish cuts;
(b) setting, operating and attending machinery and ovens to mix, bake and otherwise prepare bread and flour confectionery products;
(c) operating machinery to crush, mix, malt, cook and ferment grains and fruits to produce beer, wines, malt liquors, vinegar, yeast and related products;
(d) attending equipment to make jam, toffee, cheese, processed cheese, margarine, syrup, ice, pasta, ice cream, sausages, chocolate, maize starch, edible fats and dextrin;
(e) operating equipment to cool, heat, dry, roast, blanch, pasteurize, smoke, sterilize, freeze, evaporate and concentrate foodstuffs and liquids used in food processing;
(f) mixing, pulping, grinding, blending and separating foodstuffs and liquids with churning, pressing, sieving, grinding and filtering equipment;
(g) processing tobacco leaves by machine to make cigarettes, cigars and pipe and other tobacco products.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Bakery products machine operator
- Bread production machine operator
- Chocolate production machine operator
- Cigarette production machine operator
- Cigar production machine operator
- Dairy products machine operator
- Fish processing machine operator
- Meat processing machine operator
- Milk processing machine operator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Bottling machine operator – 8183

Minor Group 817

Wood Processing and Papermaking Plant Operators

Wood processing and papermaking plant operators monitor, operate and control machinery to saw wood, cut veneer, make plywood, produce pulp and paper and to otherwise prepare wood, pulp and paper for further use.

Tasks performed usually include: examining logs and rough lumber to determine size, condition, quality and other characteristics to decide best lumber cuts to carry out, or operating automated equipment to convey logs through laser scanners which determine the most productive and profitable cutting patterns; sorting, stacking and placing logs and wood billets onto conveyors and lathes from trucks for processing into chips, veneers and pulp; operating and monitoring screening equipment, bleaching equipment, digesters, mixing tanks, washers and other pulp processing machinery and equipment to carry out one or more cellulose processing steps; operating and monitoring papermaking and finishing process machinery and equipment to dry, calender, laminate, coat, slit, trim, wind or carry out other papermaking and finishing process steps; observing equipment and machinery panel indicators, gauges, level indicators and other equipment instruments to detect machinery and equipment malfunctions and ensure process steps are carried out according to specifications; operating and monitoring plywood core-laying machines and hot-plate plywood presses and machines which cut veneer; transporting processed wood products to work areas.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

8171 Pulp and Papermaking Plant Operators
8172 Wood Processing Plant Operators
Unit Group 8171
Pulp and Papermaking Plant Operators

Pulp and papermaking plant operators monitor and operate equipment to process wood, pulp and other cellulose materials in the production of pulp and to produce coat and finish paper.

Tasks include –
(a) operating and monitoring screening and bleaching equipment, digesters, mixing tanks, washers and other pulp processing machinery and equipment to carry out one or more cellulose processing steps;
(b) operating and monitoring papermaking and finishing process machinery and equipment to dry, calender, laminate, coat, slit, trim, wind or carry out other papermaking and finishing process steps;
(c) controlling start-up and shut-down of machinery and equipment, and observing equipment and machinery panel indicators, gauges and other equipment to detect machinery and equipment malfunctions and ensure that process steps are carried out according to specifications;
(d) communicating with process control operators to make process adjustments and to start up or shut down machinery and equipment as required;
(e) analysing instrument readings and production test samples and making adjustments to the production process and equipment as required;
(f) mounting, positioning and threading paper rolls using a hoist;
(g) inspecting paper visually for wrinkles, holes, discoloration, streaks or other defects, and taking corrective action;
(h) completing and maintaining production reports.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Calender operator (pulp and paper)
• Pulp and paper grinder operator
• Repulper operator
• Sheeter operator (pulp and paper)

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Paper pulp refinery operator – 3139

Unit Group 8172
Wood Processing Plant Operators

Wood processing plant operators monitor, operate and control lumber mill equipment for sawing timber logs into rough lumber, cutting veneer, making plywood and particle board, and otherwise preparing wood for further use.

Tasks include –
(a) examining logs and rough lumber to determine size, condition, quality and other characteristics to decide best lumber cuts to carry out, or operating automated equipment to convey logs through laser scanners which determine the most productive and profitable cutting patterns;
(b) operating and monitoring log in-feed and conveyor systems;
(c) operating and monitoring head saws, resaws and multiblade saws to saw logs, cants, flitches, slabs or wings and remove rough edges from sawn timber into dressed lumber of various sizes, and to saw or split shingles and shakes;
(d) operating and monitoring plywood core-laying machines and hot-plate plywood presses and machines which cut veneer;
(e) cleaning and lubricating sawmill equipment.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Circular saw operator
• Log cut-off operator
• Plywood press-operator
• Sawmill operator
• Sawmill planer operator
• Sawmill trimmer operator
• Veneer lathe operator
• Wood processing plant Sawyer

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Timber treating tank operator – 7521
• Veneer dryer tender – 7521
• Woodworking machine operator – 7523

Minor Group 818
Other Stationary Plant and Machine Operators

This unit group includes stationary plant and machine operators not classified elsewhere in Sub-major Group 81: Stationary Plant and Machine Operators. The group includes, for instance, operators of machines which make silicon chips and splice cables and ropes.
Tasks performed usually include: monitoring kilns, furnaces and other machinery and equipment used in the manufacture of glass, ceramics, porcelain, tiles or bricks; operating machines to anneal, harden or decorate glass and ceramics; maintaining and operating stationary steam engines, boilers, turbines and auxiliary equipment; operating and monitoring machines which weigh, pack and label products, or fill containers with products.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

- 8181 Glass and Ceramics Plant Operators
- 8182 Steam Engine and Boiler Operators
- 8183 Packing, Bottling and Labelling Machine Operators
- 8189 Stationary Plant and Machine Operators Not Elsewhere Classified

Unit Group 8181

Glass and Ceramics Plant Operators

Glass and ceramics plant operators monitor and operate kilns, furnaces and other machinery and equipment used in the manufacture of glass, ceramics, porcelain, tiles or bricks. They operate machines to anneal, harden or decorate glass and ceramics.

Tasks include –

1. (a) operating and monitoring glass-making furnaces to make glass by melting and fusing pre-mixed ingredients;
2. (b) tending hot- or cold-end spray equipment used to coat glassware with surface hardener;
3. (c) operating and maintaining machines that press or blow molten glass into moulds to form or shape containers such as bottles, jars and drinking glasses;
4. (d) operating hand presses to mould glass into required shape;
5. (e) operating drawing kilns to process molten glass into continuous sheets of flat glass;
6. (f) operating and monitoring floating-glass production plants;
7. (g) operating and maintaining finishing machines to grind, drill, sand, bevel, decorate, wash or polish glass or glass products;
8. (h) setting and operating press machines to mould ceramic articles from moist clay;
9. (i) operating machines to mix clay with water to knead it into a suitable plastic condition or semi-liquid form for making ceramic products;
10. (j) operating and monitoring kilns which bake pottery, porcelain ware, bricks and tiles;
11. (k) operating and monitoring machines for making glaze or abrasives;
12. (l) operating and monitoring machines which extrude molten glass to form fibreglass filaments;
13. (m) observing finished products to identify splits, cracks, breaks, colour and other imperfections.

Examples of the occupations classified here:

- Brick kiln operator
- Ceramics painting machine operator
- Clay mixing machine operator
- Extruding clay press operator
- Furnace operator (glass production)
- Glass blowing machine operator
- Glass mixing machine operator
- Glass production furnace operator
- Pottery kiln operator
- Tile kiln operator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:

- Brick and tile moulder – 7314
- Glass blower – 7315
- Glass cutter – 7315

Unit Group 8182

Steam Engine and Boiler Operators

Steam engine and boiler operators maintain and operate various types of steam engines, boilers, turbines and auxiliary equipment to provide power and other utility services for commercial, industrial and institutional buildings, at work sites and aboard ships or self-propelled vessels.

Tasks include –

1. (a) operating, cleaning, lubricating and monitoring steam engines, boilers and auxiliary equipment such as pumps, compressors and air-conditioning equipment to supply and maintain steam and power for buildings, marine vessels or pneumatic tools;
2. (b) analysing and recording instrument readings, troubleshooting and performing minor repairs to prevent equipment or system failure;
3. (c) monitoring and inspecting performance of equipment for efficient operation and ensuring that boiler water, chemicals and fuel are maintained at required levels;
(d) firing coal furnaces by hand or with stokers and gas- or oil-fed boilers, using automatic gas feeds or oil pumps;
(e) testing boiler water quality or arranging for testing, adjusting and taking necessary corrective action, such as adding chemicals to prevent corrosion and harmful deposits;
(f) monitoring ship’s engine, machinery and equipment indicators, recording variables and reporting abnormalities to the ship’s engine officer on watch;
(g) operating and maintaining off-loading liquid pumps and valves.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Boiler tender
- Ships’ boiler operator
- Stationary engineer
- Steam engine operator
- Stoker

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Ships’ engineer – 3151
- Stationary engine fitter – 7233

Unit Group 8183
Packing, Bottling and Labelling Machine Operators

Packing, bottling and labelling machine operators monitor and operate machines which weigh, pack and label various products or fill different containers with products.

Tasks include –
(a) operating and monitoring machines that weigh, wrap, seal and pack various products;
(b) operating and monitoring machines that fill and seal tubes, bottles, cans, boxes, bags and other containers with products such as food, beverages, paints, oils and lotions;
(c) operating and monitoring machines that, by gluing or other methods, label products, packages and various containers.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Bottle filler
- Canning machine operator
- Labelling machine operator
- Packing machine operator
- Wrapping machine operator

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Hand packer – 9321

Unit Group 8189
Stationary Plant and Machine Operators
Not Elsewhere Classified

This unit group includes stationary plant and machine operators not classified elsewhere in Sub-major Group 81: Stationary Plant and Machine Operators. The group includes, for instance, operators of machines which make silicon chips and splice cables and ropes.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Cable and rope splicing machine operator
- Silicon chip production machine operator

Assemblers

Assemblers assemble prefabricated parts or components to form subassemblies, products and equipment, according to procedures strictly laid down. The products worked on may be moved from one worker to the next along assembly lines. Competent performance in most occupations in this sub-major group requires skills at the second ISCO skill level.

Tasks performed by workers in this sub-major group usually include: assembling components into various types of product and equipment, according to strictly laid down procedures; reviewing work orders, specifications, diagrams and drawings to determine materials needed and assembly instructions; recording production and operational data on specified forms; inspecting and testing completed components and assemblies, wiring installations and circuits; rejecting faulty assemblies and components.

Occupations in this sub-major group are classified into the following minor group:

821 Assemblers

Minor Group 821

Assemblers

Assemblers assemble prefabricated parts or components to form subassemblies, products and equipment, according to procedures strictly laid down. The products worked on may be moved from one worker to the next along assembly lines.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

8211 Mechanical Machinery Assemblers
8212 Electrical and Electronic Equipment Assemblers
8219 Assemblers Not Elsewhere Classified

Unit Group 8211

Mechanical Machinery Assemblers

Mechanical machinery assemblers assemble, according to procedures strictly laid down, component parts of mechanical machinery such as engines, motor vehicles, turbines and aircraft.

Tasks include –
(a) assembling and installing prefabricated parts or components to form subassemblies, mechanical machinery, engines and finished motor vehicles;
(b) reviewing work orders, specifications, diagrams and drawings to determine materials needed and assembly instructions;
(c) recording production and operational data on specified forms;
(d) inspecting and testing completed components and assemblies;
(e) rejecting faulty assemblies and components.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Aircraft assembler
- Bench fitter (trucks)
- Engine assembler
- Engine installer
- Gearbox assembler
- Turbine assembler
- Vehicle assembler

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Motor vehicle mechanic – 7231
- Electromechanical equipment assembler – 8212
- Bicycle assembler – 8219
Unit Group 8212

Electrical and Electronic Equipment Assemblers

Electrical and electronic equipment assemblers assemble or modify, according to procedures strictly laid down, components of electrical, electromechanical and electronic equipment.

Tasks include –
(a) assembling component parts and electrical and electronic systems and positioning, aligning and fastening units to assemblies, subassemblies or frames using hand or power tools and soldering and micro-welding equipment;
(b) reviewing work orders, specifications, diagrams and drawings to determine materials needed and assembly instructions;
(c) recording production and operational data on specified forms;
(d) operating wire-coiling machines to wind wire coils used in electrical equipment and components such as registers, transformers, armature wires, electric motors and generators;
(e) inspecting and testing completed components and assemblies, wiring installations and circuits, and rejecting faulty assembly components.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Armature assembler
- Electrical equipment assembler
- Electromechanical equipment assembler
- Electronic equipment assembler
- Etcher (printed circuit board)
- Telephone assembler
- Television assembler
- Watch assembler

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
- Precision-instrument maker – 7311
- Electronics mechanic and servicer – 7421

Unit Group 8219

Assemblers Not Elsewhere Classified

Assemblers not elsewhere classified assemble, according to procedures strictly laid down, various products that do not include electronic, electrical or mechanical components.

Tasks include –
(a) assembling component parts and positioning, aligning and fastening units to assemblies, subassemblies or frames using hand or power tools and soldering and micro-welding equipment;
(b) reviewing work orders, specifications, diagrams and drawings to determine materials needed and assembly instructions;
(c) recording production and operational data on specified forms;
(d) inspecting and testing components and completed assemblies;
(e) rejecting faulty products.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
- Ammunition assembler
- Bicycle assembler
- Box builder
- Door assembler
- Eyeglass frame assembler
- Furniture finisher (wood)
- Jewellery assembler
- Knife assembler
- Leather products assembler
- Luggage finisher
- Metal products assembler (except mechanical)
- Paperboard products assembler
- Pen and pencil assembler
- Plastic products assembler
- Plastic toy assembler
- Rubber products assembler
- Sun-blinds assembler
- Textile products assembler
- Thermos bottle assembler
- Wood products assembler

Drivers and Mobile Plant Operators

Drivers and mobile plant operators drive and tend trains and motor vehicles, or drive, operate and monitor industrial and agricultural machinery and equipment, or execute deck duties on board ship and other water-borne craft. Competent performance in most occupations in this sub-major group requires skills at the second ISCO skill level.

Tasks performed by workers in this sub-major group usually include: driving and tending trains and motor vehicles; driving, operating and monitoring mobile industrial and agricultural machinery and equipment; carrying out deck duties on board ship and other water-borne craft.

Occupations in this sub-major group are classified into the following minor groups:

831 Locomotive Engine Drivers and Related Workers
832 Car, Van and Motorcycle Drivers
833 Heavy Truck and Bus Drivers
834 Mobile Plant Operators
835 Ships’ Deck Crews and Related Workers

Minor Group 831

Locomotive Engine Drivers and Related Workers

Locomotive engine drivers and related workers drive, or assist in driving, locomotive engines to transport passengers and freight; take charge of and safeguard railway freight trains during runs; control the movement of railway traffic by operating signals; switch rolling stock and make up trains in railway yards; and make up trains for hauling in mines and control their movement.

Tasks performed usually include: driving or assisting in driving railway engines; operating railway signals; switching rolling stock and making up trains in railway yards; making up trains in mines and controlling their movement.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:

8311 Locomotive Engine Drivers
8312 Railway Brake, Signal and Switch Operators

Unit Group 8311

Locomotive Engine Drivers

Locomotive engine drivers drive, or assist in driving, locomotive engines to transport passengers and freight.

Tasks include –
(a) driving or assisting in driving a steam, electric or diesel-electric locomotive engine;
(b) driving an underground or elevated passenger train;
(c) driving a locomotive to haul carriages underground or on the surface of a mine or quarry;
(d) watching for track hazards and observing signals and indicator gauges;
(e) operating communications systems to communicate with train crews and traffic controllers to ensure safe operation and scheduling of trains.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Locomotive driver
• Metropolitan railway driver
• Train driver

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Tram driver – 8331

Note
Drivers of vehicles that operate on fixed rail systems that are separated from public roadways are classified in Unit Group 8311: Locomotive Engine Drivers. Drivers of vehicles for passenger transportation on fixed rails that are incorporated in the public roadway are classified in Unit Group 8331: Bus and Tram Drivers.
Unit Group 8312
Railway Brake, Signal and Switch Operators

Railway brakers, signallers and shunters take charge of and safeguard railway freight trains during runs, control the movement of railway traffic by operating signals, switch rolling stock and make up trains in railway yards, and make up trains for hauling in mines and control their movement.

Tasks include –
(a) taking charge of and safeguarding freight trains during runs;
(b) controlling the flow of railway traffic over sections of line by operating signals and switches from control panels or signal boxes;
(c) switching and coupling rolling stock in railway yards and sidings in accordance with orders about loading, unloading and make-up of trains;
(d) making up trains for hauling by locomotive or cable and directing their movement along haulage ways in a mine or quarry;
(e) checking train systems and equipment such as air-conditioning and heating systems, brakes and brake hoses prior to train run.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Braker (railway)
• Shunter (railway)
• Signaller (railway)

Minor Group 832
Car, Van and Motorcycle Drivers

Car, van and motorcycle drivers drive and tend motorcycles, motorized tricycles, cars or vans to transport passengers, materials or goods.

Tasks performed usually include: driving and tending motorcycles, motorized tricycles, cars or vans in order to transport materials, goods or passengers.

Occupations in this minor group are classified into the following unit groups:
  8321 Motorcycle Drivers
  8322 Car, Taxi and Van Drivers

Unit Group 8321
Motorcycle Drivers

Motorcycle drivers drive and tend motorcycles or motorized tricycles equipped to transport materials, goods or passengers.

Tasks include –
(a) driving and tending motorcycles or motorized tricycles to transport materials, goods and passengers;
(b) observing traffic rules and signals;
(c) cleaning and washing vehicles as well as performing maintenance and minor repairs;
(d) keeping a record of journeys;
(e) delivering messages.

Examples of the occupations classified here:
• Dispatch rider
• Driver (motorized rickshaw)
• Driver (motorized tricycle)
• Motorcyclist

Some related occupations classified elsewhere:
• Driver (pedal vehicle) – 9331

Unit Group 8322
Car, Taxi and Van Drivers

Car, taxi and van drivers drive and tend motorcars and vans to transport passengers, mail or goods.

Tasks include –
(a) driving and tending passenger vans, cars or taxis;
(b) driving and tending cars, vans or small trucks to deliver mail or goods;
(c) assisting passengers with handling of luggage;
(d) collecting fares, payments for deliveries, or documents certifying deliveries;

ARMED FORCES OCCUPATIONS

Armed forces occupations include all jobs held by members of the armed forces. Members of the armed forces are those personnel who are currently serving in the armed forces, including auxiliary services, whether on a voluntary or compulsory basis, and who are not free to accept civilian employment and are subject to military discipline. Included are regular members of the army, navy, air force and other military services, as well as conscripts enrolled for military training or other service for a specified period.

Occupations in this major group are classified into the following sub-major groups:

01 Commissioned Armed Forces Officers
02 Non-commissioned Armed Forces Officers
03 Armed Forces Occupations, Other Ranks

Excluded from this group are:
- jobs held by persons in civilian employment of government establishments concerned with defence issues;
- police (other than military police);
- customs inspectors and members of border or other armed civilian services.

Note

Many jobs performed by members of the armed forces are similar, in terms of the nature of the work performed, to civilian occupations such as medical doctors, radio operators, cooks, secretaries and heavy truck drivers. Conceptually, it may be appropriate, therefore, to classify such jobs in the armed forces with similar civilian jobs. This approach is adopted in several national occupation classifications. Typically such classifications also identify a number of military-specific occupational groups. In many countries, however, it is not possible to produce information about the nature of the work performed by members of the armed forces. In adapting ISCO-08 for national purposes countries may wish, therefore, to consider what approach best suits their circumstances and user needs. For purposes of international comparability, however, where data pertaining to members of the armed forces are reported and classified by occupation, they should be included, where possible, in ISCO-08 Major Group 0: Armed Forces Occupations.

CORRESPONDENCE TABLE: ISCO-88 TO ISCO-08

This table shows the corresponding ISCO-08 codes and titles for each ISCO-88 unit group. The letter “p” is used to indicate that only part of the ISCO-08 group corresponds with the ISCO-88 group. Comments are provided where the specific occupations involved in a particular partial correspondence may not be self-evident, or where other clarification may be necessary.
