² In the course of 2006–07, some US$4.6 million of surplus funds has been used on initiatives that can be specifically classified against the strategic objectives. A further US$4.4 million was for initiatives that, while clearly strategic in nature, are so cross-cutting as to make specific attribution impossible. Pro-rating these would also tend to distort the expenditure specific to each strategic objective. Consequently the "additional strategic use of surplus funds" is shown separately. It comprises expenditure on the investment in management capacities (expenditure in technical programmes and regions), statistics and external communications, and US$1.2 million of expenditure on crisis and emergency response and on regional services, all of which were cross-cutting in nature. Expenditure on crisis, regional services (other than as noted) and gender equality has been classified according to the strategic objectives.
