

ILO Voluntary Funding Update

ILO development cooperation

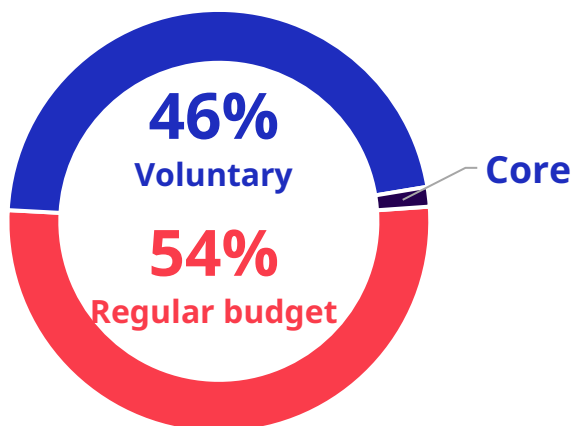

Strategy

- The 2018 International Labour Conference resolution on effective development cooperation established the road map for the ILO Development Cooperation Strategy for 2020-25 and its Implementation Plan. The Strategy and its Implementation Plan detail how the ILO will promote better services, partnerships, resources and results for sustainable impact on people's lives.

Priorities

- The ILO will continue to focus its work on human centered solutions to global challenges and the promotion of social justice. ILO will build an expanded role for development cooperation, around thematic priorities such as (1) transitions from the informal to the formal economy; (2) just transitions towards environmentally sustainable economies and societies; (3) decent work in trade and investments, with a focus on supply chains; and (4) decent work in crisis and post-crisis situations.

Resource mobilisation highlights

- Global needs for Official Development Assistance (ODA) increased significantly, including for sustainable development purposes. While total increased slightly by .6% in 2021, this increase was mainly directed to humanitarian assistance and health related activities.
- The United Nations (UN), the European Commission and the United States were the three largest contributors
- The ILO's reinforced position within a reformed UN, has led to increases in contributions from multiple UN funds, including the MPTF COVID-19 Response and Recovery Fund, the Joint SDG Fund, and Peacebuilding Fund as well as significant increases in contributions from UNICEF and IFAD
- Social protection and working to end child labour and forced labour were among the most funded areas of work in 2021

Funding modalities at the ILO:

To enable the ILO and its funding partners to better meet their UN Funding Compact commitments, the Organization facilitates lightly earmarked and pooled contributions to ILO policy outcomes, thematic priorities and Decent Work Country Programmes (DWCPs).

Predictable, unearmarked and lightly earmarked funding provides the flexibility to respond more effectively and efficiently to the needs of government, workers' and employer's organizations in ILO Member States.
