ALBANIA	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> World Day activities will be implemented by the State Agency for the Protection of the Rights of Children and will include: An awareness raising campaign involving students aged 10-16 years, teacher and local organizations and communities. Campaign materials will be produced on the World Day theme and distributed widely in schools and communities in all regions. The campaign will also involve other civil society organizations and UNICEF. The second initiative is the signing of an inter-Ministerial Agreement between the Ministry of Social Welfare and Youth and the Ministry of Education and Sports in order to establish a reporting procedure of cases of children working on the street to the child protection public system as compulsory. This agreement is planned to be signed by high level representatives of the Ministries in a public ceremony. A massive media coverage plan is being prepared, including TV, radio, and social media ads. 	Maria do Carmo Gomes gomesm@ilo.org

ITALY	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> In the build-up to the World Day Against Child Labour, a series of concerts and events to raise awareness about child labour is being organised in cities across Italy. On 12 June, to mark the World Day and as part of the events planned around EXPO2015 "Feeding the Planet, Energy for Life", a major concert of school and youth orchestras will take place at Castello Sforzesco (the site of the first EXPO in 1906) after the opening conference in the morning. This full day event, linked to the global Music Against Child Labour Initiative, is being organised by the Milano Classica orchestra together with the association "Carnevalspettacolo", with the support of the Municipality of Milan in collaboration with the Ministry of Education and the ILO. "Today Say NO to Child Labour" by Maria Olivero will be performed by different groups, the Suzuki Orchestra and by Sonohra. A Conference in San Pellegrino Terme (Bergamo) organised by the association "Tavola della pace della Valle Brembana", in collaboration with the ILO, the Municipality of San Pellegrino, the "Accademia Carrara di Belle Arti di Bergamo", and a number of other partners, will take place on 14 June to mark the WDAFL. A game about child labour "Sulle ali dell'oca", created by students of the Arts Academy, will be built as a permanent structure on the ground in a park in San Pellegrino Terme shaped as "Il Terzo Paradiso" of Michelangelo Pistoletto. It will be inaugurated on the same day together with two graffiti. There will also be exhibit of photos by Edoardo Gianotti from the ILO publication "The Sky above the Children." A puppetry convention will take place in Bergamo on 13 June, at which a new puppet theatre play on child labour will be launched. 	Jane Colombini colombini@ilo.org
