The ILO and corporate social responsibility (CSR) in Qatar

Labour rights are increasingly becoming an important indicator of responsible business conduct, and a determining factor in whether companies will gain an edge in procurement processes. The 2022 Qatar CSR Report finds that a large number of companies in Qatar promote social responsibility through initiatives and practices oriented to worker welfare. These practices are likely to result in improved employment relationships and enhanced corporate reputations, among other benefits.

The Ministry of Labour and the International Labour Organization (ILO) in Qatar have actively supported labour rights in the areas of social dialogue, fair recruitment, diversity, equality, and inclusion.

If you are looking to bolster your company’s social impact through improved labour practices, please consult the following tools, guidance, and publications, or contact us at tayah@ilo.org to discuss further.
