TRAFFICKING

Coaching returned victims/survivors of trafficking toward gainful careers: a manual for coaches

This manual is intended for service providers, social workers, case managers, and all who help victims/survivors of trafficking to facilitate their economic recovery and reintegration, preferably in conjunctions with psychosocial processes. It contains basic principles, concepts, strategies, practical tips and tools on coaching as they are used to help victims/survivors of trafficking become economically and socially empowered.

Rays of hope: emerging good practices in the provision of economic and social reintegration programmes for victims/survivors of trafficking

In this book chronicle the emerging good practices of the partner organizations of the ILO in running the ILO-HSF Project. The Project sought to address the social and economic needs of victims/survivors of trafficking upon their return.

Catalogue of skills and livelihood training programmes and other support services

This catalogue seeks to provide trafficked persons with wider options to address their economic difficulties upon return. It is also intended to assist service providers in facilitating the economic and reintegration of trafficked persons based on their individual needs and aspirations and ensuring that they receive the appropriate skills, vocational and enterprise development training programmes that are linked to market demand.
