Communicating CHANGE: behavior change communication (BCC) strategy for CHANGE, e-learning modules and reference CD

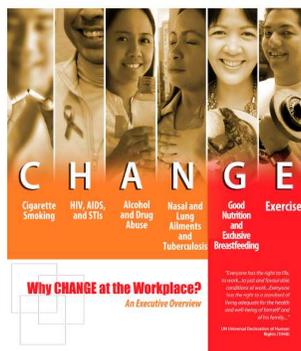

International
Labour
Organization

While it may seem simple and easy to encourage workers and employers to adopt healthier lifestyles, CHANGE implementers must keep in mind that risky behaviors and unhealthy practices are deeply rooted in personal traits, routines, even customs and traditions.

Instituting CHANGE in the workplace

International
Labour
Organization

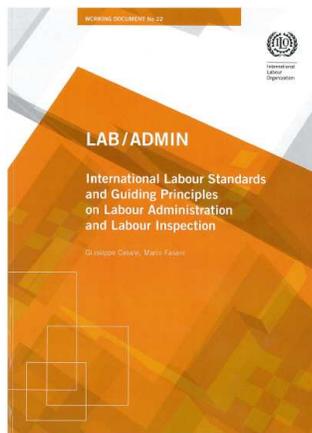

The workplace is an ideal setting to carry out health promotion programmes. Recognizing the inter-relatedness of unhealthy habits and risky behaviors, the enterprise response must use a comprehensive approach to achieve positive results.

LABOUR ADMINISTRATION

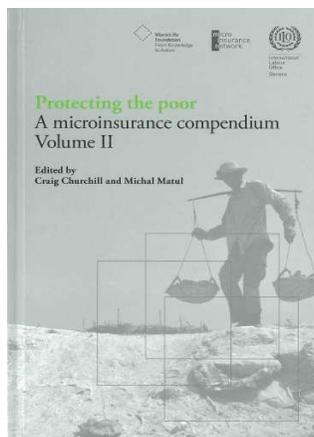

A comparative overview of terms and notions on employee participation

The book is intended to provide a wide-ranging and rational overview of the different systems of workers' participation in decision-making in enterprises. This comparative overview also seeks to provide useful considerations to give readers a better understanding of a subject that is notable for its conceptual and regulatory complexity, especially in these recent times, characterized by the economic and financial crisis.
