DECENT WORK

Asia and the Pacific: advancing decent work amidst deepening inequalities

The study supports the argument of the trade union movement that the exclusion of humanity is due to the nature of the unequal globalization processes taking place under the dominant neo-liberal model of global and regional integration.

SURVEILLANCE

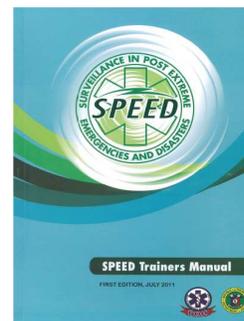

Surveillance in post extreme emergencies and disasters: operations manual for managers

This operations manual for managers is specifically designed for health emergency managers at all levels and agencies of the health sector.

It may serve as a guide in harnessing surveillance in post extreme emergencies and disasters (SPEED) as a very powerful tool capable of providing virtually real-time and accurate information to decision makers.

Publishers: Department of Health and World Health Organization

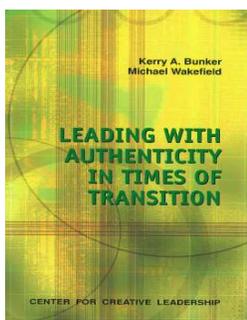

Surveillance in post extreme emergencies and disasters: trainers manual

This training manual serves as a guide for trainers in the training on the SPEED system. It was developed to ensure a standard of orientation on SPEED. The manual has undergone a process of testing, feedback and revision as a result of a series of orientations and consultations with technical managers of the World Health Organization, Philippines and the Health Emergency Management Staff of the Department of Health.
