Practical guide on teleworking during the COVID-19 pandemic and beyond: A practical guide

The purpose of the Guide is to provide practical and actionable recommendations for effective teleworking that are applicable to a broad range of actors; to support policymakers in updating existing policies; and to provide a flexible framework through which both private enterprises and public sector organizations can develop or update their own teleworking policies and practices.

Organizing matters: Two logics of trade union representation

This book investigates the tensions and potential complementarities in an extensive qualitative case study of trade union organizing and recruitment. It demonstrates the interplay between two distinct logics of labour's collective action: workers coming together at their place of work, entrusting the union to represent their interests and social bargaining in the labour's interests from the top down.

What drives CSR?

An empirical analysis on the labour dimensions of CSR

Authors / Bruno Dante Abrata, Guillaume Delaunay

What drives CSR? An empirical analysis on the labour dimensions of CSR

Relying on the data provided by an ESG rating agency, this paper aims at bringing more understanding on the diversity of firms' behaviours in terms of labour related CSR and filling a gap on the potential role of labour market institutions, including workers' collective rights, to contribute to an effective CSR policy.

More and better jobs through socially responsible labour and business practices in the electronics sector of Viet Nam

The report seeks to contribute to the question of how enterprises can generate more and better jobs through socially responsible labour and business practices in the Vietnamese electronics sector, taking into account the evolving transnational production system as Viet Nam is further integrated in the global economy. Electronics has become the largest export-oriented industry in Viet Nam and is primarily led by major multinational enterprises (MNEs) producing in Viet Nam.
