The protection we want: Social outlook for Asia and the Pacific

The COVID-19 pandemic has highlighted the need for well-functioning social protection systems in the region as never before. This UN report reveals that despite their rapid socio-economic ascent, most countries in the Asia-Pacific region have weak social protection systems riddled with gaps.

Extending social security to workers in the informal economy: Lessons from international experience

For most workers in the informal economy, the lack of social protection is a challenge not only in their daily struggles to make ends meet but in their aspirations to obtain decent work, rights and dignity. For the societies in which they live, the lack of social protection coverage weakens social justice and undermines inclusive growth and the realization of human rights.

Human cost of disasters: An overview of the last 20 years, 2000-2019

While the report focuses primarily on the staggering rise in climate-related disasters over the last 20 years, it is also a commentary on the need to strengthen disaster risk governance for the entire range of natural hazards and man-made hazards including related environmental, technological and biological hazards and risks.
