Social Dialogue – what is it?

SD includes

• All types of negotiations, consultations and exchange of information
• Between or among representatives of governments, employers and workers
• On issues of common interest related to economic or social policies

SD and tripartism cover:

• negotiation, consultation and information exchange between and among the different actors;
• collective bargaining;
• dispute prevention and resolution; and
• other instruments of social dialogue, including all forms of management-labour cooperation, corporate social responsibility and international framework agreements.
SD and the ILO

• SD is central to the functioning of the ILO itself
• Embedded in practically all of the ILO C&R and the Decent Work Agenda. Many provisions of C&R explicitly require consultations with the social partners a means to achieve social and economic progress and...

SD is...

an end in itself (gives people a voice and a stake at their societies and workplace)
SD as a tool for advancing SDGs

SD is an essential tool for advancing the 2030 Sustainable Development Agenda, whose implementation requires active engagement of the tripartite actors.

It is particularly relevant to the following Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs)

Goal 8 “Decent work and economic growth”
- 8.6 Youth employment
- 8.7 Elimination of child labour and forced labour
- 8.8 Safety and health at work

Goal 16 “Peace, justice and strong institutions”
- 16.3 Rule of law and strong institutions
- 16.6 Effective, accountable and transparent institutions at all levels
- 16.7 Responsive, inclusive, participatory and representative decision-making at all levels.

Social dialogue is also relevant to other SDGs:
- Goal 1 “End of poverty”,
- Goal 5 “Gender equality”
- Goal 10 “Reduced inequalities”
2008 ILO Declaration on Social Justice for a Fair Globalization, ILO Decent Work Agenda

- Four strategic objectives
- One cannot be achieved without the others

Gender Equality: a crosscutting objective

- Guaranteeing rights at work
- Extending social protection
- Reinforcing tripartism and social dialogue
- Creating jobs

Social Dialogue and Tripartism in the heart of the ILO

- ILO is the only UN agency based on the principle of tripartism.
- ILO was found in 1919, in the wake of a destructive war, to pursue a vision based on the premise that universal, lasting peace can be established only if it is based on social justice. The first specialized agency of the UN in 1946.
- Tripartite structure gives an equal voice to workers, employers and governments to freely and openly exchange their ideas and experiences and promote lasting mechanisms of dialogue and consensus building.
- International labour standards are created and supervised through a tripartite structure. This ensures that they have broad support from all ILO constituents.
International Labour Organization: Tripartism & International Labour Standards (ILS)

• Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work, 1998: 8 core conventions, including
  • Conventions on Freedom of Association and Collective Bargaining (C.87, C.98)

• Declaration on Social Justice for a Fair Globalization, 2008: 4 governance (priority) conventions
  • C. 144 on Tripartite Consultation (International Labour Standards)
  • Employment policies (C. 122)
  • Labour inspection (C. 81 and C. 129 (agriculture))

• Technical conventions (177) and recommendations (204)

SD contributes to promotion of sound governance and inclusive growth

Main goal of SD - to promote consensus building and democratic involvement among main stakeholders in the world of work

- SD has potential to:
  - Resolve major economic and social issues;
  - Advance social and industrial piece and stability,
  - Boost economic performance and social progress;
  - Promote and consolidate representative democracy.

- It’s a powerful tool for dealing with labour market changes - promoting employment, fair market distribution, combating poverty and enhancing productivity; achieving the balance between social economic growth and social equity

- SD and sound industrial relations are key instruments to crisis management: can contribute to economic recovery both in developed and developing countries
SD at the enterprise level:

• SD helps to prevent and resolve disputes in a manner that sustains social peace at the workplace
• Promote workers rights and enterprise suitability
• Manage enterprise restructuring in a socially responsible and effective manner
ILO Resolution concerning tripartism and social dialogue, 2002

invited the governments of member States to ensure that the necessary preconditions exist for social dialogue, including

- respect for the fundamental principles and the right to freedom of association and collective bargaining,
- sound industrial relations environment,
- respect for the role of social partners.
Levels of Social Dialogue

- International
- National
- Sector / Branch
- Regional / Local
- Enterprise
Preconditions for successful tripartite SD at the national level

1. the existence of the necessary democratic space and freedom of association and collective bargaining to allow the social partners to organise and express themselves freely;

2. the social partners should themselves be strong and representative workers’ and employers’ organisations, with appropriate competence and the capacity to (ensure that their members) comply with the commitments;

3. the existence of sufficient political will and a sense of responsibility among all the parties to engage in social dialogue;

4. an adequate level of institutionalisation, including funding and well-defined legal mandates, which ensures continuity of operation during political change;

5. the availability of experience in building trust, as well as negotiation and cooperation skills;

6. accurate information and sound information exchange.

Preconditions for successful SD at the workplace level

1. effective information and consultation;
2. conducive regulatory framework and dispute settlement system;
3. labour inspectorate;
4. the necessary negotiation structures and the basic rights of workers’ representatives; and
5. proven skills and training.
Additional preconditions for Social Dialogue to contribute to broader sustainable development issues

SD may contribute to SDGs that go beyond the pure labour agenda, both through workplace and national tripartite dialogue.

1. Actors in SD need to enjoy sufficient social legitimacy to engage in these topics. It’s more of a political and ideological matter.

2. The issues under consideration need to be “within the reach” of tripartite SD structures, not just in formal terms, but also in practice (experience, relative influence, adequately embeddedness in the respective networks, etc).

3. Actors in SD need to have the skills and expertise to be able to engage credibly and effectively in the broader socio-economic issues of sustainable development.
Challenges to SD and changes of the world of work

Challenges for effective and successful SD are not in place:
- E and W are prevented from exercising their rights to FoA, CB and SD;
- The institutions for SD either do not exist or do not function effectively;
- The labour administration, EO, WO don’t have sufficient capacity and resources;
- Lack of political will to involve the social partners in policy making;
- Widening income inequality and declining wage share in GDP in many countries;
- Changing nature of work and employment relationship;
- Low level of formal-job creation and income insecurity;
- Decline of forms of SD;
- Doubt about effectiveness of the outcomes of SD, etc.

World of work:
- Technological change (automation and digitalization)
- Climate change
- Demography movement
To address these challenges:

- supporting the establishment of free and independent organizations;
- helping to put in place the appropriate mechanisms for social dialogue;
- strengthening the capacity of employers’ organizations and trade unions, as well as of labour administration;
- channelling cooperation funds not only through the State but also directly through the social partners;
- Your suggestions...
How can the ILO help promote Social Dialogue and Tripartism?

LEGAL FRAMEWORK
(ADVISORY SERVICES)
- Building strong and functional institutions and processes for social dialogue
- Support Labour law reform
- Building Dispute resolution mechanisms
- Promote the ratification and implementation of international labour standards

INSTITUTIONAL SUPPORT
(CAPACITY-BUILDING)
- Reinforcing the capacities of workers’ and employers’ organizations
- Support labour administrations and tripartite institutions

(KNOWLEDGE SHARING)
- Research
- Sharing of good practice
- Comparative Law
- Knowledge bases

TRAINING
(ITC-ILO and other opportunities)
- National Tripartite Social Dialogue
- Negotiation skills
- Conciliation & mediation skills
- Labour Court Judges
Convention No. 144 on Tripartite Consultations (International Labour Standards)

- Effective tripartite consultations on the ILO normative activities
  - Consultations (not information, not bargaining) on international labour standards
  - Employers’ and workers’ representatives freely chosen by their representative organisations
  - Employers and workers represented on an equal footing
  - Undertaken at appropriate intervals fixed by agreement, but at least once a year

- The competent authority (government)
  - Administrative support
  - Financing training of participants, if necessary
  - Annual reporting, if appropriate
Convention No. 144 on Tripartite Consultations
(International Labour Standards)

Topics: mandatory
• Government replies concerning items on the agenda of the International Labour Conference
• Submission of ILS to the national competent authorities for their consideration
• Re-examination of unratified Conventions, or Recommendations
• Reports on ratified and unratified Conventions to the Committee of Experts
• Proposals for the denunciation of ratified Conventions

Recommendation No. 152: others
✓ Legislative and other measures to give effect to Conventions or Recommendations
✓ ILO technical cooperation activities
✓ Reports on unratified Conventions
✓ Resolutions and conclusions of ILO conferences and meetings
✓ Promotion of better knowledge of ILO activities
✓ Any other issue

Gender Equality and Social Dialogue

• Quantitative aspect
  • <15% women in national councils (on average)
  • Quotas
  • Formal commitments

• Qualitative aspect
  • Topics for discussion: discrimination at hiring and at work, prohibited jobs for women, night work, equal pay for work of equal value, working time, teleworking, moral and sexual harassment, protection of maternity, paternity leave, workers with family responsibilities

• Specific commissions on gender equality
Why to ratify C.144?

Convention No. 144 is –
• not difficult to ratify due to its inherent flexibility;
• already widely ratified in virtually all regions.

In addition, ratification and implementation of Convention No. 144 –
• result in more informed and representative decisions, since the views of those concerned are reflected;
• promote a culture of tripartism and social dialogue and can lead to greater trust and social dialogue on wider economic and social issues, including in times of economic crises and heightened social tensions as stated in the Global Jobs Pact;
• result in better ownership of decisions, which could lead to their improved implementation;
• promote good governance;
• promote improved implementation of other Conventions and Recommendations;
• help in addressing issues of implementation of Conventions and principles, and can minimize the need to raise these issues before ILO supervisory bodies;
• demonstrate the Government’s commitment to the basic values of the ILO.
Ratification of C.144

Ratified – 146 countries (of 187) – 78%

In the Pacific:

1. Kiribati
2. Marshall Islands
3. Palau
4. PNG
5. Solomon Islands
6. Tonga
7. Tuvalu
8. Vanuatu

Ratified:
1. Fiji - 18 May 1998
2. Cook Islands - 15 Aug 2018
3. Samoa - 05 Dec 2018
What can employers’ and workers’ organizations do to promote ratification and effective implementation?

- Raise awareness: organize meetings of officials and affiliates of the organization to discuss the potential benefits of ratification and implementation, as well as coordinate promotional action.

- Lobby: write letters, distribute this booklet and organize meetings with government officials, parliamentarians, members of political parties, and officials of the Ministry of Labour, proposing ratification and describing the likely benefits of ratification, including for the effective functioning of tripartism.

- Involve the media: inform and mobilize the media so that they get involved in the action for ratification. Through articles, interviews and other means, make the potential benefits of ratification and implementation more widely known.

- Propose concrete consultations: tripartite consultations, which demonstrate that employers’ and workers’ organizations are worth consulting, can prepare the ground for ratification of Convention No. 144.

- Coordinate action: where appropriate, organize joint action between employers’ and workers’ organizations.
