► The ILO Development Cooperation Strategy, 2020-25

The ILO Centenary Declaration is taken forward by the ILO's Strategic Plan and its associated Programmes and Budget. Together, they establish the Organization's strategic objectives for a human-centred recovery from the COVID-19 pandemic. The ILO's development cooperation is a key means of action for delivering decent work priorities, especially at the country level.

The ILO's development cooperation contributes to achieving the SDGs and supports the UN reform as well as the efforts of ILO member States to counter the impact of the COVID-19 pandemic and realize decent work for all.

Development cooperation is a key means of ILO action for delivering decent work outcomes.

The ILO applies the Effective Development Cooperation principles : country ownership, focus on results, inclusive partnerships, and transparency and mutual accountability as promoted by the Global Partnership on Effective Development Cooperation.

The ILO's development cooperation has four strategic areas:

1 - Services to constituents

- ▶ Meet the needs and demands of governments, workers and employers – ILO constituents
- ▶ Support ILO constituents to deliver decent work in their countries, including through peer to peer exchanges facilitated by South-South and Triangular Cooperation (SSTC)
- ▶ Facilitate ILO constituents' engagement with UN programming and partnerships

2 - Partnerships for policy coherence

- ▶ Convene policy dialogues on decent work issues
- ▶ Promote the normative, tripartite and social dialogue mandate as global development priorities
- ▶ Drive policy and financing coherence through multi-stakeholder partnerships

Building multi-stakeholder partnerships – Alliance 8.7

Through Alliance 8.7, an inclusive global partnership committed to achieving SDG target 8.7, ILO works with partners to protect millions of vulnerable children, families and communities. Recently, 22 countries became Pathfinder Countries and committed domestic resources to achieving SDG target 8.7.
