EFFORTS AND PROGRESS MADE IN REALIZING THE PRINCIPLE AND RIGHT	Ratification	Ratification status	Japan ratified the Equal Remuneration Convention, 1951 (No. 100) (C.100) in 1967. However, it has not yet ratified the Discrimination (Employment and Occupation) Convention, 1958 (No. 111) (C.111).
		Ratification intention	Under consideration for C.111. 2017 AR: The Government of Japan held discussions on ratifying ILO Convention No.111 at tripartite consultation meeting on March 3, 2017. In addition, the Government exchanged of views with social partners requesting ratification of C111. Further study is needed, however, concerning the consistency between C111 and national laws and regulations. 2015 AR: According to the Government: discussions were held on the ratification of C.111 at tripartite consultation meetings and there was an exchange of views with social partners requesting ratification of C.111.

			However, the Government believes that further study is needed concerning the consistency between C.111 and current national laws and regulations. JTUC-RENGO regrets the grave situation where no positive progress for ratification of C.111 has been made over the years. Tripartite consultation on this matter did take place in April 2015 at the "ILO Roundtable" set up based on C.144, but it considers the consultations be far from effective. The Government, referring to a cabinet decision in 1953, stipulates that no convention could be ratified unless all the potentially conflicting domestic laws are amended and argues that for this reason, Japan is unable to ratify C.111. Concern is raised that Japan will never actually ratify C.111 in this light. 2013-2014 ARs: The Government reiterated that there was no change regarding ratification status. JTUC-RENGO expressed its disappointment at the situation where no progress has been made towards ratification of C.111. It strongly urged the Government to take positive and concrete actions to ratify this Convention as soon as possible and to collect information on how countries which have ratified C. 111 ensure consistency between their domestic laws and the Convention, and to promote research and study among the ministries and agencies concerned. 2009-2012 ARs: According to the Government: No change. According to the JTUC-RENGO: The Government should ratify C.111. In this regard, the JTUC-RENGO believes it is necessary for the Government to strengthen its efforts to promote Diet Members' understanding of the importance of ratification of core C.111 so as to activate discussion at the Diet toward ratification of this Convention (for instance, the Government can make thorough explanation about the purport and background of the Convention, and importance of ratifying core Conventions, etc.). 2000-2006 ARs: According to the Government: Further study is needed in view of, for instance, the relations between the provisions of C.111 and national Acts and regulations. 2000 AR: According to the JTUC-RENGO: The Government should ratify C.111 as soon as possible. 2001 AR: According to NIKKEIREN: Japan should ratify C.111. Tripartite consultations should be established in order to assess difficulties and obstacles as regards the ratification of this Convention and appropriate measures in order to address them.
	Recognition of the principle and right (prospect(s), means of action, basic legal provisions)	Constitution	YES. Under the 1947 Constitution (article 14, paragraph 1), "...All of the people are equal under the law and there shall be no discrimination in political, economic or social

			relations because of race, creed, sex, social status or family origin. (Excerpt.)". Discriminatory measures in contravention of the constitutional provisions in national Acts and/or regulations are prohibited, and in fact, no such Acts or regulations and/or administrative measures exist. The Constitution (article 22) guarantees free choice of occupation to all individuals.
		Policy/Legislation and/or Regulations	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Policy: 2008 AR: According to the Government: In order to promote equal opportunity between men and women, the Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare submitted to the diet at its 164th session a revised Bill of Equal Employment Opportunity Act and related legislation, which included provisions such as prohibition of discrimination against both men and women, and prohibition of indirect discrimination. The Bill was approved in June 2006 and entered in force in April 2007. • Legislation: 2017 AR: The Government reported that the Act on Proper Technical Intern Training and Protection of Technical Intern Trainees (hereinafter the "Technical Training Act") was enacted in November, 2016. The purpose of this Act is to protect the technical intern trainees. 2015 AR: According to the Government: The Ordinance for Enforcement of the Equal Employment Opportunity Act was amended in December 2013 to promote the reduction of disparity between men and women in employment. With the amendment, the scope of what is considered indirect discrimination has broadened. These provisions took effect in July 2014. A Bill on the Partial Revision of the Act on Improvement of Employment Management for Part-time Workers was submitted to the 186th Diet and passed in April 2014. It aims to expand the scope of part-time workers deemed equivalent to ordinary workers against whom discriminatory treatment is to be prohibited and to introduce a new measure that obliges employers to explain the details of measures they take to improve employment management to newly hired part-time workers. In March 2015, 'Guidelines for employers to treat properly, on matters set forth in the provisions relating to the prohibition of discrimination against people with disabilities (Guidelines on anti-discrimination against people with disabilities)', and 'Guidelines for employers on measures to ensure equal opportunities or treatment for people with disabilities in employment, and eliminate the barriers so that people with disabilities can use their abilities effectively (Reasonable accommodation guidelines)' were formulated, based upon the Amendment of the Law for Employment Promotion of Disabled Persons.

		When formulating these guidelines, the Government consulted the Subcommittee on Employment of Persons with Disabilities of the Labour Policy Council in which members of the public, worker representatives, employer representatives and representatives of people with disabilities considered important matters on employment policy of disabled persons. According to JTUC-RENGO: No progress has been seen in amending domestic laws towards ratification of C.111 as of August 2015. 2014 AR: According to the Government: The Human Rights Commission Bill to establish a new human rights institution to handle human rights infringements including discrimination in respect of employment and occupation was submitted to the Diet in November 2012 but was scrapped due to the dissolution of the House of Representatives on 16 November 2012. Appropriate consideration as to what human rights remedy system ought to be is underway in the light of discussions made so far. The Act for Promotion of Employment of Persons with Disabilities was amended in June 2013 and new provisions include: the discrimination against persons with disabilities in the field of employment shall be prohibited and the measures to remove various obstacles for them in the workplace shall be taken (obligation to provide reasonable accommodation). These provisions are to be enforced as of April 2016. 2012 AR: According to the Government: The Basic Act for Persons with Disabilities was amended in 2011. It contains new provisions to prohibit discrimination against persons with disabilities and removes various existing obstacles encouraging equal rights and benefits for persons with disabilities. 2011 AR: According to the Government: A Bill on new human rights remedy system is under review in order to realize more effective relief for victims of human rights infringements which include discrimination in respect of employment and occupation. 2001 and 2006 ARs: According to the Government: The Equal Employment Opportunity Act was revised in June 1997 and entered into force in April 1999. Major revisions include: (i) prohibiting discrimination against women workers; (ii) introducing a monitoring and control system for enterprises; (iii) improving a mediation system at the workplace; (iv) abolishing restrictions on overtime and holiday work and night work to women workers; and (v) assisting employers in addressing various issues, including sexual harassment at workplaces.

June is considered as the "One Month Campaign on Equal Employment Opportunity between Men and Women".
CHALLENGES IN REALIZING THE PRINCIPLE AND RIGHT	According to the social partners	Employers' organizations	NIL.
		Workers' organizations	2013 AR: According to the JTUC-RENGO: Given that the Government's indication that some domestic laws should be amended and new laws be enacted before C.111 is ratified, the JTUC insists that the Government immediately take necessary actions as follows: (i) list the laws and the practices which must be amended, and; (ii) collect good examples how other countries ensured consistency with this Convention.

		2010-2012 ARs: The JTUC-RENGO reiterated its appeal to the Government to ratify C.111, and regretted that no progress was made in this regard. It believed that it would be necessary for the Government to promote Diet Members' understanding of the importance of a core Convention such as C.111 so as to activate discussion at the Diet toward ratification of this instrument (for instance, the Government could make thorough explanation of the purport and background of the Convention, the importance of ratifying core Conventions, etc.).
		2009 AR: According to the JTUC-RENGO: The Government expressed its view to the workers' and employers' organizations that enactment of the Fundamental Human Rights Protection Bill at the Diet is one of the prerequisites for the ratification of C.111. The Fundamental Human Rights Protection Bill aiming to ensure full-range human rights protection was introduced to the Diet, however, the Bill failed to pass the Diet and was abandoned in 2003 since the Bill did not guarantee independence of the monitor and relief organization, and the parties in opposition could not support. Thereafter, there has been no progress to realize the Bill at the Diet and prospects are gloomy. The amendment Bill for the Part-Time Work Act passed through the Diet in 2007. Although the revised Act prohibits discriminatory treatment to part-time workers, it seems only 1-5 per cent out of whole part-time workers who can enjoy the amendment, because the Act sets strict conditions for applicable scope of part-time workers. Therefore, necessity of amendment of the Act to realize equal treatment for whole part-time workers still remains. 2008 AR: According to the ITUC (late observation under the 2007 AR): Sexual harassment in the workplace remains problematic throughout the country. The new version of the Equal Opportunity Act provides for enforcement of further penalties for sexual harassment at the workplace from April 2007. The ITUC also states that although persons with disabilities are not generally subject to overt discrimination in employment they face limited access of same in practice. 2007 AR: According to the JTUC-RENGO: The Equal Employment Opportunity Act was revised in 2006. However, its amendment was insufficient in terms of prohibition of indirect discrimination. Amendment of the Act for achieving gender equality and equal treatment between full-time and part-time workers has not been realized so far. The Government should revise the labour legislation in order to achieve gender equality and equal treatment between full-time and part-time workers. 2006 AR: According to the JTUC-RENGO: The Government should revise the labour legislations in order to achieve gender equality

		and equal treatment between full-time and part-time workers. According to the ICFTU: (i) women are under-represented in managerial track; (ii) persistent discrimination based on retirement age especially against women; (iii) persisting sexual harassment at workplace; (iv) discrimination on grounds of social origin in recruitment; (v) discrimination against foreign residents in national and local public services; (vi) disabled people are under-represented in private companies. 2005 AR: According to the JTUC-RENGO: (i) no improvement in wage disparities between men and women; (ii) lack of labour legislation review. 2003 AR: According to the ICFTU: (i) discretionary choice given to the employer at recruitment; (ii) persisting discrimination against women workers; (iii) lack of penalty and sanction measures to address sexual harassment at workplace; (iv) persisting discrimination against migrant workers; (v) increasing vulnerability of disabled people in the labour market. 2002 AR: According to the JTUC-RENGO: (i) persisting discrimination in employment and occupation; (ii) lack of understanding of C.111.
		2001 AR: According to the ICFTU: (i) persisting discrimination against women workers; (ii) higher concentration of women in temporary jobs and increasing female unemployment, especially young women; (iii) managerial-track jobs as a male domain in most companies; (iv) lack of effective prohibition of discrimination; (v) lack of effective sanction measures as regard sexual harassment at workplace; (vi) Japanese nationality as a requirement for employment in national and local public services and the private sector; (vii) migrants workers subject to abuses.

	According to the Government	2009 AR: According to the Government: Part-Time Work Act was revised in 2007 so as to correct unreasonable treatment against workers with part-time employment contract. In response to the ITUC’s observations recorded under the 2008 AR, the Government indicated the following: The revised Equal Employment Opportunity Act between Men and Women provides that employers shall establish necessary measures in terms of employment management to give advice to workers and cope with problems of worker, and take other necessary measures so that workers they employ do not suffer disadvantages in their working conditions by reason of workers’ responses to sexual harassment in the workplace, or so that their working environments are not harmed by sexual harassment utterance. For this revision, it clearly states that employers have an obligation to take a certain action in their employment management, and sexual harassment to men was also added as this law’s object. Such measures as advice, guidance and recommendation can be taken by prefecture Labour Bureau for employers’ violating the provisions of the Act. Furthermore, the public announcement system about the name of the company is applied to sexual harassment. When the employer does not obey the recommendation, the company’s name will be disclosed to the public as a counter-measure under the Act. Both employees and employers became able to use the mediation procedure made by Prefectural Labor Bureau. These actions will surely work more effectively to prevent sexual harassment. Regarding prohibition of employment discrimination against Persons With Disabilities, the Basic Act for Persons with Disabilities (Act No. 84 of 1970) stipulates in its section 4, paragraphs 1, that “No one shall be allowed to discriminate against persons with disabilities or violate their rights and benefits on the basis of disability”. In addition, the Act for Employment Promotion, etc. of Persons With Disabilities (LEPPD) (Act No. 123 of 1960) stipulates employers’ obligation to maintain appropriate employment management (section 5). The Basic Policy on Measures of Employment for Persons with Disabilities elaborates on this stipulation: employers must ensure appropriate management with due consideration to factors such as recruitment, assignment and treatment of implementation of education and training for, and ensuring the health and safety of, persons with disabilities thereby employers must accordingly endeavour to realize a workplace where persons with disabilities can work along with non-disabled persons with a sense of fulfilment in life, according to their aptitude and capabilities, as well as to improve the quality of their working lives (Part 3 of the Basic Policy). There are various other measures to secure opportunities of open employment for persons with disabilities. For example, Public Employment Security Offices may refuse a job advertisement which requires, on no reasonable ground, the condition that the applicant does not have disabilities (section 10), LEPPD). The Government also provides guidance and advice to, and collects levies from, employers who do not meet the statutory employment rate of persons with disabilities. Meanwhile, the UN Convention on the Rights of Persons With Disabilities adopted in 2006 prohibits discrimination on the basis of disability (article 27-1(a)). The Government is currently making efforts to ratify the Convention at an early date.
		2007 AR: According to the Government: The Equal Employment Opportunity Act (Act No. 113 of 1972) was revised in 2006 with a view to promoting further equal opportunity and treatment between men and women in employment. In response to the JTUC-RENGO’s, the Government indicated the following: In order to promote equal opportunity between men and women, the Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare submitted to the diet at its 164th Session a revised Bill of Equal Employment Opportunity Act and related laws, which included provisions such as prohibition of

		discrimination against both men and women, and prohibition of indirect discrimination. The Bill was approved in June 2006. With regard to the structure of the provision prohibiting indirect discrimination, the Bill stipulates that the ministerial ordinance of the Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare should specify 3 kinds of cases, and that these would be considered illegal when there are no legitimate reasons. It was decided to adopt this structure on the grounds that the Labour Policy Council, consisting of intellectuals, representatives of employers and employees (all employees' members are representatives of JTUC-RENGO or its affiliated groups), concluded that it would be appropriate to adopt a legal framework in which these 3 cases activities would be considered indirect discrimination, and that the scope of prohibition could be revised to include other cases if needed, taking the trend of judgments of the court into consideration. Therefore, the JTUC-RENGO's observation that the amendment was insufficient misses the point, because the amendment covers sufficient matters, and it was based on the tripartite consensus. Additionally, in July 2006 the Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare started a discussion on a policy concerning part-time work in the Equal Employment Subcommittee of the Labour Policy Council, consisting of intellectuals, representatives of employers and employees, and it is scheduled to compile a final conclusion at the end of this year. The Ministry of Health, Labour and Welfare intends to take appropriate action based on the conclusion. 2005 AR: In response to the JTUC-RENGO's observations, the Government made the following comments: (i) a panel has been held in relation to the PR; (ii) the Minister of Health, Labour and Welfare will take appropriate measures as a follow up of discussions initiated by the Equal Employment Subcommittee of the Labour Policy Council since September 2004; (iii) it is necessary to reach an agreement on the issue of strengthening regulations to ensure equal treatment in working conditions for part-time workers and to implement adequate measures based on a national consensus. 2000-2001 ARs: In its response to the JTUC-RENGO's comments, the Government made the following observations: (i) comments made by the JTUC-RENGO on ratified Conventions should not be reflected in the compilation of the annual report; (ii) the follow-up should not lead to the establishment of new supervisory machinery and to the duplication of the reporting system on non-ratified Conventions already established in the Constitution.
TECHNICAL COOPERATION	Request	2015 – 2017 AR: The Government and JTUC-RENGO expressed the need for ILO's technical cooperation on providing information of good examples of how countries which have ratified C.111 ensured consistency between their domestic laws and the Convention. 2014 AR: According to JTUC-RENGO: ILO technical assistance is needed for information on good examples of how other countries that ratified C.111 ensure consistency with their domestic laws. It would appreciate ILO's observations on specific domestic legal provisions which seem to be in conflict with C.111. 2009 and 2012 ARs: According to the JTUC-RENGO: ILO technical cooperation is needed in order to ensure consistency between C.111 and national laws. Also, if ILO expert(s) could visit Japan and illustrate the importance of ratification of this Convention to the members of Diet, the situation toward ratification will be very much improved.
	Offer	ILO (technical assistance in the labour law review process).
EXPERT-ADVISERS' OBSERVATIONS/ RECOMMENDATIONS	2008 AR: The ILO Declaration Expert-Advisers (IDEAs) noted the intentions expressed by most governments, including the Government of Japan, to ratify or consider ratification of conventions Nos. 100 and/or 111. They encouraged the governments to accelerate this process so as to make an important step forward towards universal ratification. Given that many countries have requested ILO

	technical cooperation in the ratification process (on the content of Conventions Nos. 100 and 111, labour law review, ratification process, etc.), the IDEAs requested the Office to strengthen its assistance this regard (cf. paragraphs 66 and 67 of the 2008 Annual Review Introduction – ILO: GB.301/3)
GOVERNING BODY OBSERVATIONS/ RECOMMENDATIONS	2015 AR: At its March 2014 Session, the Governing Body invited the Director-General to: (a) take into account its guidance on key issues and priorities with regard to assisting member States in their efforts to respect, promote and realize fundamental principles and rights at work; and (b) take account of this goal in the Office’s resource mobilization initiatives. 2013 AR: At its November 2012 Session, the Governing Body requested the Director-General to take full account of the ILO Plan of Action on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work (2012-2016) and allocate the necessary resources for its implementation. This plan of action is anchored in the universal nature of the fundamental principles and rights at work (FPRW), their inseparable, interrelated and mutually reinforcing qualities and the reaffirmation of their particular importance, both as human rights and enabling conditions. It reflects an integrated approach, which addresses both the linkages among the categories of FPRW and between them, and the other ILO strategic objectives in order to enhance their synergy, efficiency and impact. In this regard, freedom of association and the effective recognition of the right to collective bargaining are particularly emphasized as enabling rights for the achievement of all these strategic objectives. 2011 AR: At its March 2010 Session, the Governing Body decided that the recurrent item on the agenda of the 101st Session (2012) of the International Labour Conference should address the ILO strategic objective of promoting and realizing fundamental principles and rights. 2009 AR: During its March 2009 Session, the Governing Body included the review of the follow-up to the 1998 ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work on the agenda of the 99th Session (2010) of the International Labour Conference.
INTERNATIONAL LABOUR CONFERENCE RESOLUTION	2013 AR: In June 2012, following the recurrent item discussion on fundamental principles and rights at work, under the ILO declaration on Social Justice for a Fair Globalization, 2008 and the ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work and its Follow-up, 1998, the International Labour Conference adopted the Resolution concerning the recurrent discussion on fundamental principles and rights at work. This resolution includes a framework for action for the effective and universal respect, promotion and realization of the FPRW for the period 2012-16. It calls for the Director- General to prepare a plan of action incorporating the priorities laid out in this framework for action for the consideration of the Governing Body at its 316th Session in November 2012. 2011 AR: Following a tripartite debate at the Committee on the 1998 Declaration, the 99th Session (2010) of the International Labour Conference adopted a resolution on the follow-up to the ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work on 15 June 2010. The text appended to this resolution supersedes the Annex to the ILO Declaration on Fundamental Principles and Rights at Work, and is entitled “Annex to the 1998 Declaration (Revised)”. In particular, the resolution “[notes] the progress achieved by Members in respecting, promoting and realizing fundamental principles and rights at work and the need to support this progress by maintaining a follow-up procedure.
